

BBH Luxembourg Funds - BBH Core Select

Monthly Fund Update / February 2018

For Professional / Non-Retail Use Only

In February 2018, BBH Luxembourg Funds - Core Select Class I ("Core Select" or "the Fund") declined by -5.50%, which compared to a loss of -3.69% for the S&P 500 Index. Our top contributor in the month was Sabre, while our largest detractor was Comcast.

Sabre's 4Q17 results, which were reported in February, featured slightly better-than-expected revenues and profitability. Global travel activity – the key driver for both of Sabre's businesses – remained strong in the quarter. An additional positive development was the management team's introduction of several new reporting disclosures that enhance the transparency of operating results. One example is an increased emphasis on operating income and returns on invested capital, rather than adjusted pro forma figures. We expect Sabre to create long-term value through continued revenue growth, margin expansion, and improved asset utilization.

Comcast shares declined during February as investor concerns regarding cord-cutting continued to impact the cable sector, even as the company's execution remained solid. Adding to the negative sentiment was Comcast's announcement of a bid to acquire Sky PLC. The offer represents a 16% premium to 21st Century Fox's (Fox) existing bid to acquire the 61% of Sky it does not already own. Sky is a leading satellite-based pay-TV platform in Europe, with 23 million direct customer relationships across the UK, Italy, and Germany. Sky is also a leader in content production and aggregation through its owned studios and networks. The company has built advanced technology and over-the-top (OTT) platforms and, in contrast to its U.S. satellite counterparts, it offers broadband and telephony services through wholesale arrangements with BT Openreach. Our initial assessment of the quality of the asset and the potential strategic benefits suggest this could be a good acquisition for Comcast at the current price. However, the potential for Fox or Disney (Disney is in the process of acquiring the majority of Fox's assets, including Sky) to submit higher bids creates some uncertainty around the ultimate takeout valuation. We will monitor the situation as it evolves, but we currently view the situation positively.
