The Sub-Fund may also hold part of its assets in liquid investments or cash for liquidity purposes. • The Sub-Fund may use or invest in FDIs for purposes of hedging existing positions in a portfolio, efficient portfolio management or a combination of both purposes.

Market and Credit Risks
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • You are exposed to market risks in the Asia Pacific markets. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> o Prices of the securities may be affected by changes in economic conditions, interest rates and the market's perception of the securities, which in turn may affect the value of your investment.
Liquidity Risks
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The Sub-Fund is not listed and you can redeem only on Dealing Days. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> o There is no secondary market for the Sub-Fund. All realisation forms should be submitted to the Managers' authorised agents or distributors.
Product-Specific Risks
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • You are exposed to real estate risk. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> o The real estate investments of the REITs, companies or other entities ("real estate entities") which the Sub-Fund invests in are subject to varying degrees of risk. Yields depend on the amount of income and capital appreciation generated by the relevant properties, which may be adversely affected by factors such as applicable laws, interest rates, and the availability of financing. Interest or dividend payments may be adversely affected by (a) inability to generate sufficient income; (b) borrower and tenant default; (c) economic climate. o Real estate investments are relatively illiquid and the ability of real estate entities to vary their portfolios promptly in response to changes in economic or other conditions is limited. o Real estate investments are subject to risks specific to the type of property e.g.: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> (a) retail properties are affected by the overall health of the local economy and may be adversely affected by alternative forms of retailing, bankruptcy, decline in drawing power, changes in consumer demand and spending patterns; (b) office properties generally involve significant amounts for capital improvements, tenant improvements and reletting costs. Properties that cannot accommodate the needs of modern businesses may become functionally obsolete and thus non-competitive; and (c) hotel properties tend to be more sensitive to adverse economic conditions and competition due to shorter rental periods. They also involve high levels of continuing capital expenditures, are dependent on business travellers and tourism, and are affected by fuel costs and other travel expenses. Other types of properties, including healthcare properties, multifamily properties, community centres and self-storage properties, also involve specific risks.

- You are exposed to foreign exchange/currency risk
 - o Investments by the Sub-Fund may be denominated in a wide range of currencies, some of which may not be freely convertible. The NAV of the Sub-Fund's deposited property as expressed in SGD will fluctuate in accordance with the changes in the foreign exchange rate between SGD and the currencies in which the Sub-Fund's investments are denominated.
 - o Where a Class is not denominated in SGD, changes in the exchange rate between SGD and the Class currency may adversely affect the Units of such Class, as expressed in the Class currency.
- You are exposed to the risk of investing in a regional fund.
 - o While investments in a regional fund such as the Sub-Fund may present greater opportunities and potential for capital appreciation, such fund may also be subject to higher risks as it may be less diversified than a global portfolio.
- You are exposed to political and/or regulatory risk.
 - o Investments by the Sub-Fund may be adversely affected by uncertainties such as international political developments, changes in government policies, changes in taxation, restrictions on foreign investment and currency repatriation, currency fluctuations and other developments in the laws and regulations of countries in which investment may be made.
- You are exposed to derivatives and portfolio management risk.
 - o FDIs such as futures and options may be used. In the case of futures, margin deposits may be held by a broker with whom the Sub-Fund has an open position. In the case of options, premiums may be paid to a counterparty upon execution. If a broker or counterparty becomes bankrupt, such margin deposits or option premium (as the case may be) may be lost in addition to any unrealised gains.
- You are exposed to risks relating to distributions.
 - o Dividend/interest income of the Sub-Fund may be adversely affected by (amongst others) investee entities suffering unexpected losses and/or paying lower than expected dividends. Where distributable income and/or capital gains are insufficient, distributions may be made out of capital, which may amount to a reduction of part of your original investment and may result in reduced future returns to you. Payment of distributions (whether out of capital or otherwise) may have the effect of lowering the Sub-Fund's NAV.

You should be aware that the Sub-Fund may be exposed to other risks of an exceptional nature from time to time.
