Objectives and Investment Policy

Objectives and Investment Policy

The Sub-Fund aims to generate capital growth over the long term and its portfolio is diversified across different asset classes and investment horizons (length of investment).

It invests mainly in:

- Bank deposits and money market instruments;
- Financial derivatives providing exposure to all asset classes, such as stocks, debt instruments such as bonds, currencies and commodities. These can be from developed or emerging markets.

The Investment Manager applies different investment techniques that use financial derivatives to profit from market movements of the various asset classes. The investment manager may simultaneously bet on an increase in value of one asset class and a decrease in value of another asset class.

What does it mean?

This indicator (SRRI) represents the annualized historical volatility of the Sub-Fund over a 5-year period. Where there are less than 5 years worth of data, missing returns are simulated using an appropriate benchmark. The SRRI may change over time and should not be used as an indicator of future risk or returns. Even the lowest risk classification does not imply that the Sub-Fund is risk-free or that capital is necessarily guaranteed or protected.

Category

The Sub-Fund takes a dynamic approach. This means it invests in various asset classes, taking long and short diversified positions that can be readily bought and sold, depending on our analysis of business cycles.

Are there any other particular risks?

The following risks may be materially relevant but may not always be adequately captured by the synthetic risk indicator and may cause additional loss:

- Counterparty risk: When a fund is backed by a guarantee from a third party, or where its investment exposure is obtained to a material degree through one or more contracts with a counterparty, there could be a material risk that the counterparty to the transactions will fail to honor its contractual obligations. This may result in a financial loss to the Fund.
- Risks linked to the use of derivatives and financial techniques: Derivatives and other financial techniques used substantially to obtain, increase or reduce exposure to assets may be difficult to value, may generate leverage, and may not yield the anticipated results. All of this could be detrimental to fund performance.
- Model Risk: Models may be misspecified, badly implemented or may become inoperative when significant changes take place in the financial markets or in the organization. Such a model could unduly influence portfolio management and expose to losses.

For more details about risk, see section 5 "Risk Factors" of the prospectus.
