- Historical data, such as is used in calculating the synthetic indicator, may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the Share Class.
- The risk category shown is not a target or a guarantee and may change over time.
- The lowest risk category does not mean a risk-free investment.
- This Compartment is likely to use leverage and invests in fixed income assets that are mainly issued or guaranteed by national or local governments in developed or emerging countries or by supra-national organisations, which is why it is in this risk category.
- This value is affected by various factors, including:
  - This asset class is subject to political and economic risks which may have a significant impact on the Compartment's performance and volatility.
  - Because of our investment approach, the Compartment may be exposed to interest rate risk and to currency risk.
- The Compartment's performance should benefit from the yield and the currency appreciation potential offered by this asset class.
- The Share Class is also exposed to the following risks that are not explained by the synthetic risk indicator:
  - Credit risk: given the investment approach, the Compartment is exposed to credit risk.
  - Liquidity risk: when market conditions are unusual or a market is characterised by particularly low volumes, the Compartment may encounter difficulties in valuing and/or trading some of its assets, particularly to satisfy large redemption requests.
  -Operational risk: the Compartment is subject to the risk of material losses resulting from human error or system failures or incorrect valuation of the underlying securities.
  - Counterparty risk: the use of derivatives in the form of contracts with counterparties may lead to significant losses if a counterparty defaults and cannot honour its liabilities.
