Investment Manager's report

Man GLG Global Equity - Semi-Annual Report commentary

Man GLG Global Equity underperformed the MSCI All Country World benchmark in the first half of calendar 2016. This was driven roughly equally by regional allocation and stock selection. Regional allocation was dragged down by a substantial underweight to the United States equity market and a corresponding overweight in Europe. Stock selection was weak in Europe and to a lesser extent in the US, but positive in Japan and Rest of World.

Ryanair de-rated after two years of strong stock performance as the market absorbed the risk of terrorism negatively impacting demand at the same time as Western Europe short haul capacity was anticipated to increase at an accelerating rate.

Nokia was hurt by the settlement of its arbitration with Samsung over intellectual property compensation, which came in at a royalty rate lower than the whisper number investors had hoped for. The implied rate was 30-40bp, compared to hopes for closer to 45-50bp. Although this disappointment implied a lower run-rate for patent portfolio earnings in the short-term, there are still a number of outstanding negotiations with other patent licensees (including Apple) which offer upside potential.

Bayer unexpectedly bid for Monsanto within a month of the new CEO Werner Baumann taking control of the company. The market generally acknowledged the strategic rationale in combining the Crop Science businesses of the two companies, which would have a world-leading 27% global market share post completion - but factored in the fact that Bayer's offer was a very full price leaving the combination only meeting its cost of capital after five or more years.

Man GLG Global Convertibles – Semi-Annual Report commentary

Markets started 2016 very much on the back foot as risk assets tumbled from day one with sentiment impacted by the continuing oil price slide, China worries and broader global growth concerns. After an inflection point in mid-February, a relief rally built strength into March with markets boosted by a rally in oil prices and accommodative central banks. Adding to the dovish Fed, in Europe, Mario Draghi delivered a positive surprise and announced further easing and expanded asset purchases. Now set to include corporate bonds, it marked the ECB's first foray into the private unsecured market. Risk assets broadly continued to grind upwards until June and the event that defined H1 as the UK voted to leave the EU. Risk assets suffered amid the political and economic uncertainty triggered by the unexpected result, which sparked a considerable sell-off in risk assets and the subsequent flight to safety resulted in tumbling government bond yields. Credit markets were more varied at the end of the period with higher beta credit and financials underperforming in general in this environment.

Global convertibles held up well in what was an often volatile first half of the year, with valuations also supported by positive supply and demand technicals during the period. Primary convertible markets had a stuttering start amid heightened volatility and persistently low interest rates; however the pace ramped up considerably into the end of the period. By the end of June issuance stood at USD 38bn globally, just below the level seen in the same period of 2013, which ended as the heaviest primary year since 2007. Two clear primary trends in H1 were the continuation of US mandatory issuance, which accounted for nearly half of the supply, as it did overall in 2015. The resurgence of IG issuance in Europe has also been notable, with a number of very high quality names coming to market. The increase in supply was however offset by an ongoing outflow dynamic from long-only funds and by elevated levels of paper taken out through buy backs, maturities and redemptions over the period.

Stock selection in the fund remains very strong and regional attribution was also positive over the period with our overweight U.S performing well. Our sector positioning detracted slightly over the first half of the year with our underweight to consumer cyclicals outperforming but our overweight financials detracting over the period. The interest rate hedges detracted over the period as government bonds rallied and the equity hedges also detracted slightly.

On a relative single name basis China Culiangwang Beverages which is held by the fund but is not in the index outperformed as the bonds appreciated in value markedly towards the end of the first quarter as they approached maturity. Golden Star Resources, another non-index name, also contributed meaningfully with its bonds rallying hard as the company completed an equity raise as part of ongoing progress towards an improved balance sheet. An overweight in Vereit performed well too as it its equity rose on interest rate expectations and in anticipation of a positive ratings migration. On the downside SunEdison which is held by the fund and not the index was the largest detractor with its equity falling as the company was forced to file for bankruptcy despite a number of attempts to improve its liquidity situation. Cobalt International Energy, held by the fund and not the index, detracted too as its equity fell after the Angolan government approved changes to its oil industry which is likely to further delay the deal completion. Another non-index name Zions Bancorporation also detracted with its equity falling as dovish Fed rhetoric reduced expectations of U.S rate hikes.

Man GLG European Equity – Semi-Annual Report commentary

Man GLG European Equity underperformed the MSCI Europe benchmark in the first half of calendar 2016. This was driven by both stock and sector selection. Sector allocation was heavily underweight Materials (zero weight) and Energy (underweight), both of which benefited from a decline in the external value of the US dollar and a (possibly temporary) reversal of five years of sector underperformance. The main negative contributors to stock selection were:

Unicredit and Banca Popolare di Milano were sold off as the market factored need for more capital to dilute existing equity holders. This was a significant surprise as both banks had passed the European Central Bank's Asset Quality Review of October 2014, and both had increased core Tier One capital ratios since that test.

Ryanair de-rated after two years of strong stock performance as the market absorbed the risk of terrorism negatively impacting demand at the same time as Western Europe short haul capacity was anticipated to increase at an accelerating rate.

Metro, the continental European cash and carry and consumer electronic goods retailer was hurt by a faster than expected decline in its large and highly-profitable Russian business on the back of Western sanctions and persistent oil price weakness. Russia represented around a third of Metro's EBIT, but despite a cost-cutting programme, the significant Russian rouble depreciation in Q1 was a substantial headwind to earnings.

Performance and market

The Tokyo stock market has had a difficult first half of 2016, with TOPIX falling about 18.5% (all figures total return, in yen). With one of the main goals of Abe's economic policy: the eradication of deflation, looking a distant hope, doubts have inevitably risen over the success of the economic experiment being conducted. Believers in the magic of the Abe administration's package of economic and reform measures cite the impact of energy and commodity price weakness in restraining domestic prices – a reasonable observation – but insufficient to offset the sceptical view which foreign investors in particular have gravitated towards. The notable 'achievement' of so-called Abenomics that of a weaker yen, had been unravelling over the course of the year (in fact since mid-2015) as its status as a safe haven returned in the face of global uncertainty. But yen buying further increased following the UK rejection of continued EU membership. The yen remains substantially more competitive than at the time Abe came to power, but has regained more than half of its losses against the US dollar since it reached its lowest.

Eyes are now directed towards possible new measures to inject life into the domestic economy. These range from further negative interest rates, to more fiscal stimulus and more asset purchases by the Bank of Japan. Given that negative interest rates, which were introduced late in January, have so far produced neutral results at best, it is by no means clear that any further measures will prove effective. Indeed, it is possible, and likely, that unhelpful effects upon consumer and corporate confidence will develop. The upper house election victory may provide the Abe government with an excuse to pursue its desire to refashion Japan's military stance via a change in the constitution, which might distract the government from economic reform temporarily. But it appears that further policy stimulus measures of a fiscal and monetary nature will be introduced.

Fund performance

At this point last year it was noted that style factors had turned positive for the Fund over the year to date. That commentary point was followed shortly afterwards by renewed jitters over global activity and associated market volatility in subsequent months, which saw a rise in popularity of 'safer', high price to book stocks. The Fund focus is upon Value (low price to book) by definition, so that performance suffered as a consequence. For the second half of 2015 the Fund's target universe – the Large Cap Value component of the Tokyo stock market - underperformed the broad market. This trend continued into 2016 and accelerated following the introduction of negative interest rates. In the face of such headwinds, there was little that could be done. Russell Nomura large Cap Value underperformed TOPIX by around 10% over the half-year to the end of June, while the Fund, being invested in the deeper value parts of Large Cap Value, underperformed the market a little more.

While the style effects are dominant, these can also be broken down into Tokyo Stock Exchange sector effects, as below.

Contribution breakdown.

Significant negative performance effects were twofold. Firstly, financials are a significant component of Large Cap Value and the fund is over-represented in the financial segments where valuations are now at long term lows, after sharp underperformance. Secondly, the Fund is under-represented in defensive and some domestic sectors: Information & Communication, Foods, Pharmaceuticals, Construction, Retail trade and Land Transport all fall into one of these categories, all performed relatively well and hence were a drag on Fund performance as a consequence of it having little or no exposure.

On the positive side, over-representation in the Wholesale Trade and Precisions sectors were helpful to performance as stocks in these sectors recovered from depressed levels. Similarly positive were below market positions in Electric Power & Gas, Machinery and Chemicals. The positive impacts however, were heavily outweighed by the negative style and sector effects mentioned over the period.

Outlook

The contrarian, value style of the Fund is dependent for its success upon the re-emergence of the long-standing historical tendency of low price to book companies to perform well in Japan. The period since 2009 has been the longest recorded period in living memory for which the reverse has occurred, with high price to book companies outperforming. As a consequence, the valuation stretch between high and lowly valued companies in Japan has rarely, if ever, been greater. The potential for reversion is therefore great, in the view of the managers of the Fund. However, it is impossible to predict when the historical norm will be re-established.

Man GLG MENA Equity - Semi-Annual Report commentary

For the period January 1st to June 30th 2016, the GLG MENA Equity fund closed down -5.89% compared with the S&P Pan Arab Composite that closed down -1.04%. UAE closed up approximately 8.07%, the Saudi Tadawul All share Index closed down -6.48%, Qatar closed down -2.53% and Kuwait closed down -8.80%. Egypt closed down -5.06%.

Brent crude closed 17.24% higher for the period at US$49.71 per barrel.

While the drop in the price of brent crude oil since June 2014 (when the price was US$ 111.05 per barrel), has been significant, GCC countries have strong balance sheets, low levels of debt to GDP, healthy credit ratings and significant room to manoeuvre. Qatar has taken a step further and reaffirmed its spending plans of USD 200bn on infrastructure over the next 5 years.

MENA markets have been volatile over the past six months reflecting the underlying fluctuations in the price of crude oil. Hence we saw a big drop in January followed by a gradual rebound as oil bounced off the lows earlier in the year below $30 a barrel.

The volatility in crude oil prices were again due to concerns about over-supply in the market caused by increased US onshore production of tight oil, OPEC's continued stance of maintaining its current historically high levels of production and Iran re-entering the world economy and thereby contributing to the over-supply.

For the period the largest gains were due to our positions in Qatar Fuel, Aldar Properties and Emirates NBD Bank. The largest losers for the period were Al Tayyar Travel, Gulf Marine Services and Al Rajhi Bank. Sector wise the outperformers were Real Estate, Transportation and Materials. While, Consumer services, Energy and diversified financials detracted from performance. Our country positioning in UAE and Qatar contributed positively to performance while our positioning in Saudi and Kuwait detracted from performance relative to the index.

We continue to keep a close eye on the political environment and stability in the wider region. We view any further significant sell off over the summer, particularly in Saudi Arabia and the UAE as a buying opportunity. Our favourite markets continue to be Saudi Arabia and the UAE very selectively. We keep Egypt under review given the pressures on the currency and current account.

All National performance data, other than Saudi Arabia, refer to MSCI price indices and are in USD.

Man GLG Global Emerging Markets Local Currency Rates - Semi-Annual Report commentary

Market

Emerging Market Debt in June was led by heterogeneous themes. We started the month looking at US interest rates, with players worried that a July FOMC rate increase could be back in the agenda. From there attention gradually turned over to the UK's referendum on EU membership, which the results caught almost everyone by surprise. The combination of expectations of little change to fundamentals and some potential policy support from central banks kept the negative fall-out contained and created a favourable environment for EM, as EM bond yields stand out in an environment of increasing volumes of negative yielding government bonds. EM local bonds segment outperformed the hard currency space by returning 5.89% last month, as measured by the JPMorgan Government Bond Index Emerging Market Global Diversified (JPM GBI-EM GD), FX return contributing 3.45%, and price return with 1.85% and interest return with 0.53%. The index is up by 14.02% for the first half of the year. Oil prices have remained resilient, with the WTI closing June at USD 48.33 from USD 49.1 at the close of previous month. Volatility, as measured by VIX index, picked on the aftermath of the Brexit referendum at 25.76, and since then as subsidised to close the month at 15.63.

Fund Activity

The Fund Managers have a positive view on Emerging Markets local debt and currencies, given:

- 1. The higher carry offered by local EM. This can be illustrated by looking at JPM EM indexes, with the yield on JPM GBI-EM GD at 6.33%, 74bps higher than JPM EMBIG, for duration shorter in 2.07 years and average credit rating 1 to 3 notches higher.
- 2. FX valuations, that despite year to date rally still are at historical low levels.
- 3. EM current account improvements in most EM countries.
- 4. Cleaner market-position as most of the strategic flows that had to leave the asset class already did so between 2014 and early 2016.

The fund closed the month underweight duration in 0.95 years (4.06 years versus benchmark 5.00 years). The fund is underweight in low yielding eastern European countries (Hungary, Poland and Romania), low yielding Asia (Thailand and Malaysia), Mexico (where we expect more interest rates hikes than what is priced by the market). The fund is long duration in Russia, where the Central Bank is hawkish and targeting 4% inflation, considerably lower than current inflation, and Turkey, where inflation is dropping and opening room for monetary policy easing.

The fund is overweight in currencies that look attractively valued by historical standards and have good carry, such as ARS, CLP, COP, MXN, ZAR, RUB and HUF.

Contribution Breakdown

Man GLG Global Emerging Markets Local Currency rates returned 6.36% in June, outperforming the benchmark by 48bps, as the profit from the overweight currency positions more than offset by negative contribution by the underweight in local duration exposure. The return was boosted by the recent market retracement with EMFX outperforming the broad USD. As a result, the fund's overweight exposure to currencies, such as the Colombian peso, Brazilian real, South African rand, Malaysian ringgit and Russia rubble bolstered performance.

- Brazil and Turkey were the largest individual contributors to the fund's relative outperformance in June, as a result of security selection on both and country selection on the former.
- The funds overweight in Mexico and Hungary were the major detractors from relative performance.
- The overweight to local rates in Russia and Turkey and underweight in Malaysia and Thailand contributed to relative performance.
- The underweight to local rates in Colombia, South Africa and Mexico detracted from the fund performance.
- The exposure to the Hungarian forint hurt relative performance as these currencies underperformed other EM currencies in the awake of the Brexit vote and the closer ties of these economies to Europe.
- The off the benchmark long position in the Argentina detracted from relative returns as ARP depreciated by 7.88% against the USD.

Outlook

EM countries current accounts have largely improved amid the sharp currency adjustments since 2013. Oil prices also have recovered and are forecast to remain stable in 2016H2, supporting growth and reducing credit risk in many EM countries. The current external backdrop favours search for yield and more accommodating CBs in the developed world and in EM. In this context, we believe that local markets present the best opportunities within the set of EM debt, given:

Market

Emerging Market Debt in June was led by heterogeneous themes. We started the month looking at US interest rates, with players worried that a July FOMC rate increase could be back in the agenda. From there attention gradually turned over to the UK's referendum on EU membership, which the results caught almost everyone by surprise. The combination of expectations of little change to fundamentals and some potential policy support from central banks kept the negative fall-out contained and created a favourable environment for EM, as EM bond yields stand out in an environment of increasing volumes of negative yielding government bonds. EM hard currency debt, as measured by the JPMorgan Emerging Market Bond Index Global (JPM EMBIG), was up 10.90% in the first half of 2016 and was up 3.32% since the fund was launched in June 3rd, 2016. With regards to the monthly return, the decrease in US Treasury rates contributed with 2.49%, while the 17bps index spread decrease to 407bps contributed with 1.21%.

Oil prices have remained resilient, with the WTI closing June at USD 48.33 from USD 49.1 at the close of previous month. Volatility, as measured by VIX index, picked on the aftermath of the Brexit referendum at 25.76, and since then as subsidised to close the month at 15.63.

Fund Activity

In light, of the current low level of USD interest rates, we see little additional support for EM hard currency denominated coming from interest rate movements. On the other hand, the deteriorating credit quality of some of the countries that comprise EM external debt benchmarks is yet to be fully reflected in the level of EM spreads. As a result, the strategy at the close of June, was underweight duration in 1.08 years (5.44 years versus benchmark 6.52 years) and underweight credit duration in 1.25 years (5.67 years versus benchmark 6.92 years). Positioning wise, within the mid-Beta countries (less sensitive to US rates changes) the largest overweight were in South Africa, Turkey and Brazil, as they are the ones more attractively value within their peers segment. In the low beta countries (more sensitive to US rates changes) the fund was overweight Mexico and underweight Chile, Uruguay, Peru and the Philippines, as we believe the first more attractively priced relative to peers. The strategy closed the month with exposure to Argentina (1.8%), Mexico (5%), South Africa (5.1%) and Russia (2%) via FX, as we believe it is a more efficient way to express our positive view in these countries currencies (these are the only FX exposures in the strategy) given more favourable market positioning, attractive valuation and fundamentals in currencies. In the frontier markets the strategy is positioned (market weight) in the short term curve of countries where risk adjusted valuations are attractive (Nigeria, Pakistan, Argentina, Dominican Republic). We avoid altogether those countries usually energy-exporting nations with fixed or heavily managed currency regimes – whose currencies were not allowed to depreciate as much as required in order for their balance of payments to adjust to external condition of the post commodity cycle.

Contribution Breakdown

The strategy was up by 3.15% in June (net of fees), marginally underperforming the benchmark that returned 3.32% in the same period. Regarding the overall gross return, EM External debt contributed 3.04%, EM local currencies contributed 0.4%, while the first day initial trading costs and P&L contributed -0.22%. If it had not been for this last impact, the fund would have had outperformed the benchmark in 0.12% (gross of fees) for which we would highlight the following:

- Exposure to South Africa, Russian Federation and Mexico were the largest contributors to relative performance.
- In the frontier markets the overweight position in Argentina detracted from relative performance as a result of security selection (reflecting the fact that the fund is positioned in the short end of the curve) and of the off benchmark FX exposure to Argentine peso.
- The overweight in Brazil, Turkey and Colombia (the three countries outperformed the benchmark) failed to contributed to relative performance as positive country selection was offset by security selection, reflecting the fund strategy to be in the short end of the curve.
- The underweights in Chile and Philippines contributed to relative performance, while the underweights in Peru, China, Kazakhstan detracted from Fund relative performance.

Outlook

EM countries current accounts have largely improved amid the sharp currency adjustments since 2013. Oil prices also have recovered and are forecast to remain stable in 2016H2, supporting growth and reducing credit risk in many EM countries. The current external backdrop favours search for yield and more accommodating CBs in the developed world and in EM. However, UST 10yr yields that closed June at 1.47% seem to be already pricing a very dovish Fed, implying that upside of EM external debt markets via yield compression may be limited. Also, EM spread tightening, may not be enough to offset a potential increase in US yields.

For all the sub-funds past performance is not indicative of future results. The value of an investment and any income derived from it can go down as well as up and investors may not get back their original amount invested. Alternative investments can involve significant additional risks.

Man Numeric Emerging Markets Equity – Semi-Annual Report commentary

Market Overview and Performance

After a tumultuous first quarter, in which equity markets fell sharply then subsequently rebounded, global equity markets stabilized in the second quarter. That is until the results of the June 23rd UK referendum to remain in, or withdraw from, the 28-nation European Union (aka Brexit) were known. The market's initial response to the referendum results highlighted how surprising the outcome was and reflected a classic flight to safety. Despite the Brexit induced volatility, the emerging equity markets remained on track for solid gains in the year's first half. Economic data released throughout the first and second quarter suggested a continuation of weak, albeit positive growth globally with little inflationary pressure. The price of oil, which briefly fell below $30 per barrel early in the first quarter, rallied sharply and stabilized thereafter which helped Russian stocks advance. Central Banks were active early in the year; The Bank of Japan instituted negative interest rates and the European Central Bank implemented another round of quantitative easing which included unprecedented steps to stimulate economic growth. Meanwhile, the US Federal Reserve, which seemed intent on raising interest rates several times in 2016, softened its stance and held steady. Amid the market volatility and economic uncertainty, and despite historically low or, in some cases, negative yields, investors continued to favor bonds, which led to a flattening of yield curves. For the year-to-date, the performance of emerging markets equities was superior to all broad market indices followed by the US equity market. Markets in Latin America and Southeast Asia as well as South Africa were bright spots while Greece, Poland, and China were among the few markets to fall this period.

Model Performance

Positive model performance for a majority of the model groupings led to the positive relative returns for the period. The Value model was the most significant overall contributor, as both forward-looking and backwards-looking value models produced positive returns. The positive performance of the Quality model also drove portfolio returns, producing positive returns in five out of the six months to begin the year. Despite the Estrend model's sharply negative performance during the market inflection early in the year, the model finished in positive territory. The Composite Momentum model delivered negative returns for the period, as Style Momentum was the biggest detractor with multiple shifts in investor preferences, as the model struggled in the February through May timeframe.

Contribution Breakdown

Positive stock selection across sectors helped the fund outperform for the six-month period ending June 30, 2016. Selection within Utilities, Financials and Consumer Staples all added value while poor stock selection in Energy and Industrials held back relative performance. Sector allocation was also positive for the period. An overweight to the strongly performing Energy and Materials sectors and an underweight to the declining Health Care sectors contributed favorably to performance. An underweight to the defensive and robust Consumer Staples sector was the primary detractor.

Stock selection among countries detracted from performance slightly while the country allocation results were favorable. Stock selection was positive in South Korea, India, China, and Russia whereas selection in Thailand, Taiwan, and Brazil detracted from performance. The fund's country allocation strategy benefitted performance as a result of overweight allocations to Brazil, Thailand and Turkey. The country allocation results were hurt by underweights to South Africa and Indonesia as well as an overweight to China.

At the security level, the Fund's top three contributors were in the Brazilian Utilities and Financials sectors. Three of the Fund's primary detractors were in the Consumer Discretionary sector in Hong Kong, Korea, and India. The fund was also hurt by its position in a Taiwan-based company in the Materials sector.

Performance and Market

After a tumultuous first quarter, in which equity markets fell sharply then subsequently rebounded, global equity markets stabilized in the second quarter. For the year-to-date, the performance of emerging markets equities was superior to all broad market indices followed by the US equity market. Latin America and Southeast Asia have been bright spots in Emerging Markets while in the US, value stocks are ahead of growth stocks and small cap stocks are trailing large caps. The Japanese and European markets, especially financial stocks, are squarely in negative territory for the period. For the six month period ending June 30, 2016 the Man Numeric US Large Cap Equity Fund (the "Fund") returned 0.47% net-of-fees and underperformed its benchmark, the S&P 500 Index, by 3.84%.

Model Performance

The Fund's negative performance for the period was driven by weak model performance overall, as three of the four major model groupings produced negative returns. Underperformance was largely driven by the poor performance of the Value model, as the model suite delivered negative returns during four of the six months to begin the year. The Quality model also failed to produce positive returns, while the Informed Investor model was the worst performing model of the group. Despite a sharp decline during the market inflection in February, the Trend Following models delivered positive performance for the overall period.

Contribution Breakdown

The equity markets proved challenging for the strategy in the first half of 2016, most notably in the volatile energy sector, which rebound sharply during the first quarter's market reversal. Stock selection detracted from performance, principally due to weakness in the Energy, Health Care, Industrials, and Financials sectors. The portfolio generated positive stock selection in the defensive Consumer Staples sector. Sector allocation also struggled for this period despite only modest weight differences vs. the strategy's benchmark. An underweight exposure to the Energy sector hurt performance as did a small overweight to the lagging Health Care and poorly performing Financials sectors. An overweight allocation to the robust Utilities and Consumer Staples sectors benefitted performance.

From an individual stock standpoint, the Fund's holding in a large Energy company was the lead detractor followed by two holdings in the insurance and consumer finance industries within Financials. Positions in a large Health Care and Information Technology company also detracted from performance. Three Consumer Staples stocks were among the most significant contributors. The portfolio also benefitted from its holdings in an upstream Energy company and a software company within Information Technology as well as several holdings in the Financials and Health Care sectors.

After a tumultuous first quarter, in which equity markets fell sharply then subsequently rebounded, global equity markets stabilized in the second quarter. The Japanese and European markets, especially financial stocks, are squarely in negative territory for the period. For the six month period ending June 30, 2016 the Man Numeric Global Core Equity Fund (the "Fund") returned -2.26% net-of-fees and underperformed its benchmark, the MSCI Global Index, by 0.66%.

Model Performance

The Fund's underperformance was largely driven by the Value models. The Value models delivered negative returns in four of the six months to begin the year. Despite a sharp market inflection during the first quarter, the Trend Following model suite ended with positive performance for the period. Both the Quality and Informed Investor models also produced positive returns. From a regional perspective, negative model performance in the US was the largest driver of relative returns.

Contribution Breakdown

The equity markets proved challenging for the strategy in the first half of 2016, most notably in the volatile energy sector, which rebound sharply during the first quarter's market reversal. Stock selection detracted from performance, principally due to weakness in the Energy, Information Technology, and Health Care sectors. The portfolio generated positive stock selection in the interest rate sensitive Utilities sector and the defensive Telecommunications sector. Sector allocation also struggled for this period despite only modest weight differences vs. the strategy's benchmark. An underweight exposure to the Energy and Materials sectors hurt performance as did a small overweight to the poorly performing Financials sector. An overweight allocation to the robust Telecommunications sector benefitted performance.

From a country perspective, stock selection in the US was the strategies largest detractor followed by weakness in France, the UK and Norway. Stock selection in Japan, Italy, Australia, and Germany contributed favorably to performance. The strategy's country allocation had minimal impact on performance.

From an individual stock standpoint, the Fund's holdings in two Japanese Telecommunications companies were among the most significant contributors. The portfolio also benefitted from US-based holdings in the Industrials, Consumer Staples, and Consumer Discretionary sector. Stocks that detracted the most from performance were all US-based companies spread across the Energy, Financials, Health Care and Information Technology sectors.

For all the sub-funds past performance is not indicative of future results. The value of an investment and any income derived from it can go down as well as up and investors may not get back their original amount invested. Alternative investments can involve significant additional risks.

2. Summary of significant accounting policies

(a) Accounting convention

The unaudited financial statements have been prepared in accordance IAS 34 International Accounting Standard 34: Interim Financial Reporting ("IAS 34") as adopted by the EU. The unaudited financial statements have been prepared using the historical cost basis except for financial assets and liabilities held at fair value through profit or loss which have been measured at fair value.

The unaudited financial statements do not include all the information and disclosures required in the annual financial statements, and should be read in conjunction with the Fund's audited annual financial statements as at 31 December 2015 which have been prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS") as adopted by the European Union. These unaudited interim financial statements have been compiled using accounting policies, methods of computation and presentation which are consistent with the audited annual financial statements for the year ended 31 December 2015, unless otherwise stated.

The preparation of unaudited financial statements in accordance with IFRS requires management to make judgements, estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported and disclosures made in these unaudited financial statements and accompanying notes, including certain valuation assumptions. Uncertainty about these assumptions and estimates could result in outcomes that require a material adjustment to the carrying amount of assets or liabilities in the future.

The combined company balances are expressed in US$, being the presentation currency of the Fund as a whole. For combined company balances in unaudited statement of financial position, the non US$ Portfolios are translated using the exchange rate at the date of unaudited statement of financial position. For combined company balances in unaudited statement of comprehensive income, the non US$ Portfolios are translated at the average exchange rate prevailing during the period. The combined subscriptions and redemptions in the unaudited statement of changes in net assets are also translated at the average rate prevailing during the current period. The translation gain resulting from the preparation of the combined company balances in the unaudited financial statements amounting to US$625,086,527 (30 June 2015: loss of US$101,272,682) has been shown in the combined company column of unaudited statement of comprehensive income. The loss does not have any effect on the individual Portfolios.

(b) Changes in accounting policy and disclosure

The accounting policies adopted in the preparation of the unaudited financial statements are consistent with those followed in the preparation of the Fund's financial statements for the year ended 31 December 2015.

Standards issued but not yet effective:

IFRS 9 - Financial Instruments

In July 2014, the IASB issued the final version of IFRS 9 Financial Instruments which reflects all phases of the financial instruments project and replaces IAS 39 Financial Instruments: Recognition and Measurement and all previous versions of IFRS 9. The standard introduces new requirements for classification and measurement, impairment, and hedge accounting. IFRS 9 is effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2018, with early application permitted. Retrospective application is required but comparative information is not compulsory. Early application of previous versions of IFRS 9 (2009, 2010 and 2013) is permitted if the date of initial application is before 1 February 2015. Management are currently assessing the impact of this standard on the Fund. At present, management believe the adoption of IFRS 9 is unlikely to have a material effect on the classification and measurement of the Fund's financial liabilities.

IFRS 15 Revenue from Contracts with Customers

IFRS 15 was issued in May 2014 and establishes a new five-step model that will apply to revenue arising from contracts with customers. Under IFRS 15 revenue is recognised at an amount that reflects the consideration to which an entity expects to be entitled in exchange for transferring goods or services to a customer. The principles in IFRS 15 provide a more structured approach to measuring and recognising revenue.

The new revenue standard is applicable to all entities and will supersede all current revenue recognition requirements under IFRS. Either a full or modified retrospective application is required for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2018 with early adoption permitted. Management are currently assessing the impact of IFRS 15 and plans to adopt the new standard on the required effective date.

At the date of authorisation of the unaudited financial statements there were a number of other Standards and Interpretations which were in issue but not yet effective. Management anticipate that the adoption of these Standards and Interpretations in future periods will have no material impact on the unaudited financial statements of the Fund.

3. Cash and cash equivalents, balances with brokers/ balances due to brokers

At the period end, amounts disclosed as cash and cash equivalents, balance with brokers and balance due to brokers were held at The Bank of New York Mellon (London Branch), Bank of America Merrill Lynch, Barclays Capital Plc, BNP Paribas, Citibank N.A., Credit Suisse Securities Europe Limited, Goldman Sachs International, HSBC Bank Plc, JP Morgan Clearing Corporation, Morgan Stanley & Co. International Plc, Nomura Holdings, Societe Generale and UBS AG These include amounts transferred as collateral against open derivatives, deposits held at call with banks and, other short term highly liquid investments with original maturities of three months or less.

The portion of balance with brokers represented by collateral at 30 June 2016 was €22,137,467 (31 December 2015: €14,796,090) for Man GLG European Equity, U$$922,935 (31 December 2015: U$$1,690,746) for Man GLG Global Equity, €Nil (31 December 2015: €401,061) for Man Global Sustain Equity, U$$1,051,318 (31 December 2015: U$$1,090,159) for Man GLG Global Convertibles, U$$Nil (31 December 2015: U$$490,022) for Man GLG MENA Equity.

4. Financial assets and liabilities at fair value through profit or loss

Forward currency contracts

As part of its portfolio management techniques, the Fund may use forward currency contracts to economically hedge any non-functional currency exposure (although formal hedge accounting is not used). Forward contracts may also be used for trading purposes. Forward contracts entered into by the Fund represent a firm commitment to buy or sell an underlying asset, or currency at a specified value and point in time based upon an agreed or contracted quantity.

Forward contracts may expose the Fund to the risks associated with the absence of an exchange market on which to close out an open position. The investment manager closely monitors the Fund's exposure under forward contracts as part of the overall management of the Fund's market risk.

Fair value of financial instruments

The Fund classifies fair value measurements using a fair value hierarchy that reflects the significance of the inputs used in determining the measurements in line with IFRS13.

The fair value hierarchy has the following levels:

- Level 1 Quoted market price in an active market for an identical instrument.
- Level 2 Valuation techniques based on observable inputs. This category includes instruments valued using: quoted market prices in active markets for similar instruments; quoted prices for similar instruments in markets that are considered less than active; or other valuation techniques where all significant inputs are directly or indirectly observable from market data.
- Level 3 Valuation techniques using significant unobservable inputs. This category includes all instruments where the valuation technique includes inputs not based on observable data and the unobservable inputs could have a significant impact on the instrument's valuation. This category includes instruments that are valued based on quoted prices for similar instruments where significant unobservable adjustments or assumptions are required to reflect differences between the instruments.

4. Financial assets and liabilities at fair value through profit or loss (continued)

Valuation techniques

Listed or publicly traded investment in equity and debt securities, managed funds and derivatives

When fair values of listed securities and debt securities at the reporting date, as well as publicly traded derivatives, are based on quoted market prices or binding dealer price quotations, without any deduction for transaction costs, the instruments are included within Level 1 of the hierarchy.

Unlisted debt securities and treasury bills

The Fund invests in debt securities, corporate and government bonds and treasury securities. In the absence of a quoted price in an active market, they are valued using observable inputs such as recently executed transaction prices in securities of the issuer or comparable issuers and yield curves. Adjustments are made to the valuations when necessary to recognise differences in the instruments terms. To the extent that the significant inputs are observable, the Fund categorises these investments as Level 2.

Over-the-counter derivatives

The Fund uses widely recognised valuation models for determining fair values of over-the-counter interest rate swaps, currency swaps and forward foreign exchange contracts. The most frequently applied valuation techniques include forward pricing and swap models, using present value calculations. The models incorporate various inputs including both credit and debit valuation adjustments for counterparty and own credit risk, foreign exchange spot and forward rates and interest rate curves. For these financial instruments, significant inputs into models are market observable and are included within Level 2.

Unlisted managed funds

The Fund invests in managed funds, including private equity funds, which are not quoted in an active market and which may be subject to restrictions on redemptions such as lock up periods, redemption gates and side pockets.

The Fund's investment manager considers the valuation techniques and inputs used in valuing these funds as part of its due diligence prior to investing, to ensure they are reasonable and appropriate and therefore the NAV of these funds may be used as an input into measuring their fair value. In measuring this fair value, the NAV of the funds is adjusted, as necessary, to reflect restrictions on redemptions, future commitments, and other specific factors of the fund and fund manager. In measuring fair value, consideration is also paid to any transactions in the shares of the fund. Depending on the nature and level of adjustments needed to the NAV and the level of trading in the Fund, the Fund classifies these funds as either Level 2 or Level 3.

For all other financial instruments, fair value is determined using valuation techniques. Valuation techniques include net present value techniques, comparison to similar instruments for which market observable prices exist, options pricing models and other relevant valuation models.

The following tables summarise the financial instruments at fair value through profit or loss as at 30 June 2016 and 31 December 2015 and the financial instruments measured at fair value in the statement of financial position grouped into the fair value hierarchy:

Short term balances are excluded from the tables as their carrying value at the period end approximates to their fair value.

Investments are reviewed at each financial reporting point to ensure that they are correctly classified between Level 1, 2 and 3 in accordance with the fair value hierarchy outlined above. Where an investment's characteristics change during the period and investments no longer meet the criteria of a given level, they are transferred into a more appropriate level at the end of relevant financial reporting period.

For the period ended 30 June 2016 there were no transfers between level 1 and level 2.

A reconciliation of the movements in level 3 assets/liabilities for the period ended 30 June 2016 and year ended 31 December 2015 is set out below:

During the period, some positions were transferred into and out of Level 3 because either they became illiquid or liquid depending on whether multiple broker quotes were available or not.

All net realised and unrealised gains/(losses) in the tables above are reflected in the accompanying unaudited statement of comprehensive income. Net amount of US$27,102 (31 December 2015: US$892,146) for Man GLG Global Convertibles and of US$42,942 (31 December 2015: US$12,322) for MAN Numeric Emerging Markets Equity relates to those financial instruments held by the Fund at 30 June 2016 and is reflected in gains/(losses) on financial assets at fair value through profit or loss in the unaudited statement of comprehensive income.

The fair value of investments classified within Level 3 is based on unobservable inputs that may be subject to significant variability. Because of the inherent uncertainty of valuation with respect to such investments, the Fund's estimates of fair value may differ significantly from fair values that would have been used observable inputs been available for the valuation of such investments, and the differences could be material.

The table below discloses the valuation technique used in the valuation for Level 3 investments and quantifies the effect of significant unobservable inputs used to value investments that fall in this category. The ranges of these inputs are not representative of the appropriate inputs to use when calculating the fair value of any one Level 3 asset or liability. Accordingly, the ranges of inputs presented below do not represent uncertainty in, or possible ranges of fair value measurements of the Fund's Level 3 assets/liabilities.

Derivative financial instruments

The Fund may trade derivative financial instruments, including futures, forward contracts, currencies, swaps contracts and options whose values are based upon an underlying asset, index, currency or interest rate.

The Fund is subject to both market and credit risk in trading derivative financial instruments. Market risk is the potential for changes in value due to changes in market interest rates, foreign exchange rates, indices and changes in the value of the underlying financial instruments. Credit risk is the possibility that a loss may occur if a counterparty fails to perform according to the terms of the contract. Substantially all derivative contracts are transacted on a margin basis. Such transactions may expose the Fund to significant off-balance sheet risk in the event margin deposits and collateral investments are not sufficient to cover losses incurred.

The Investment Manager manages the risk associated with these transactions by maintaining margin deposits and collateral investments with its brokers in compliance with individual exchange regulations and internal guidelines. The Investment Manager also takes an active role in managing and controlling the Fund's market and counterparty risks and monitoring trading activities and margin levels daily, and, as necessary, deposits additional collateral or reduces positions.

Derivative financial instruments are generally based on notional amounts which are not recorded in the unaudited financial statements. These notional amounts represent the theoretical principal value on which the cash flows of the derivative transactions are based. Unrealised gains or losses, rather than notional amounts, or the exchange-traded derivatives traded by the Fund are included in the unaudited statement of financial position. The net unrealised gains or losses, rather than contract or notional amounts, represent the Fund's approximate future cash flows from trading activities.
