Neuberger Berman Diversified Currency Fund

The investment objective of Neuberger Berman Diversified Currency Fund (the "Portfolio") is to generate an absolute return over a medium- to long-term investment horizon with a moderate level of volatility. The Portfolio seeks to achieve this objective by investing primarily in global liquid currencies (including, without limitation, Australian dollars, Canadian dollars, Swiss franc, euro, sterling, Japanese yen, Norwegian krone, New Zealand dollars, Swedish krona and US dollars) using a fundamentally driven, relative approach. The four-stage investment approach is discretionary in nature and is designed to achieve a diversified, highly liquid Portfolio and may, depending on prevailing market conditions, combine fundamental analysis with a more quantitative approach, designed to consider multiple drivers and trading strategies over different time horizons.

Stage one of the process is the construction of the Portfolio and this includes stage two, which is the analysis of fundamental factors that may, on a discretionary basis, include such variables as opportunities for growth, currency stability, yield, monetary policy, capital flows and risk characteristics, over short-, medium- and long-term investment horizons.

Following the analysis and portfolio construction stages, stages three and four of the investment process are trade implementation and risk management, conducted on a pre-trade, post-trade and ongoing basis.

The securities which the Portfolio invests in may be listed on recognised markets globally. The Portfolio may take positions in currencies representing either a long or, using financial derivative instruments ("FDI"), short exposure to the currency with respect to the base currency.

Neuberger Berman US Multi Cap Opportunities Fund

Neuberger Berman China Equity Fund

The investment objective of Neuberger Berman China Equity Fund (the "Portfolio") is to achieve an attractive level of total return (income plus capital appreciation) from the Greater China equity market. The Portfolio seeks to achieve this objective by investing primarily in equity and equity-linked securities which are listed or traded on recognised markets and issued by companies that:

- are incorporated or organised under the laws of, or that have a principal office in, the People's Republic of China ("PRC"), Hong Kong Special Administrative Region ("SAR"), Macau SAR or Taiwan (the "Greater China Region");
- generally derive a majority of their total revenue or profits from (a) goods that are produced or sold, (b) investments made, or (c) services performed, in the Greater China Region; or
- generally hold a majority of their assets in the Greater China Region (each a "Greater China Company").

The Portfolio may also invest in hybrid securities and equity-related securities, such as convertible debentures, convertible preferred stock, debt instruments with warrants attached, including FDI, which are issued by or give exposure to the performance of Greater China Companies.

For the avoidance of doubt, the Portfolio may invest in securities as described herein and which are issued by or giving exposure to Greater China Companies listed or traded on recognised markets located outside of the Greater China Region, including, without limitation, in the United States, the United Kingdom, Singapore and Japan.

The Portfolio invests primarily in mid and large capitalisation companies.

Green Court Capital Management Limited, the Non-Affiliated Sub-Adviser, employs a research intensive, fundamental-driven and bottom-up approach. Ongoing assessments of macroeconomic and market factors augment the stock-picking discipline. The investment approach is discretionary in nature and is designed to consider multiple drivers and investment strategies over different time horizons.

The Portfolio is primarily constructed by taking under and overweight positions to the market benchmark MSCI China Index. Decisions on whether the Portfolio's positions will be under- or overweight relative to the benchmark are primarily driven by valuation, quality of valuation and macroeconomic factors, including such variables as opportunities for growth, competitive advantages and risk characteristics, over short-, medium- and long-term investment horizons but the requirements of the Central Bank in respect of concentration limits as set out in the "Investment Restrictions" section of the Prospectus will supersede these factors where relevant.

Neuberger Berman US Small Cap Fund

The investment objective of Neuberger Berman US Small Cap Fund (the "Portfolio") is to achieve capital growth through the selection of investments applying analysis of company key metrics and macro economic factors. The Portfolio seeks to achieve this objective by investing primarily in equity securities issued by small-capitalisation companies which have their head office or exercise an overriding part of their economic activity in the US and that are listed or traded on recognised markets.

The Portfolio seeks to identify undervalued companies whose current market share and balance sheet are strong and whose financial strength is largely based on existing business lines rather than on projected growth.

Factors in identifying such companies include:

- above-average returns;
- an established market niche;
- circumstances that may make it difficult for new competitors to enter the market;
- an ability to finance their own growth; and
- sound future business prospects.

In addition, although the Portfolio will concentrate its investments in the US or other Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development ("OECD") countries, the Portfolio may also invest in securities of companies located in and governments of emerging market countries, which may involve additional risk, relative to investment in more developed economies.

Neuberger Berman Global Bond Fund

The investment objective of Neuberger Berman Global Bond Fund (the "Portfolio") is to achieve an attractive level of total return (income plus capital appreciation) from global fixed income markets.

The Portfolio seeks to achieve this objective by investing primarily in:

- Investment grade debt securities issued by governments and agencies from OECD countries; and

All securities will be listed, dealt or traded on recognised markets without any particular focus on any one industrial sector.

There are four main differentiating factors that set the Portfolio's approach:

- Diversification through the use of multiple uncorrelated alpha sources
- Active FX management
- Integrated Global Macro Overlay
- Proprietary risk management systems

In addition, Neuberger Berman Europe Limited (the "Investment Manager") conducts analysis of data and seeks to exploit opportunities across multiple time horizons. Central to the investment philosophy is the Investment Manager's qualitative judgement, which is exercised at all stages of the investment process. The investment objective of Neuberger Berman Corporate Hybrid Bond Fund (the "Portfolio") is to achieve an attractive level of total return (income plus capital appreciation).

The Portfolio seeks to achieve its objective by investing primarily in investment grade and sub-investment grade corporate hybrid bonds. The analysis of the strength of a security is specific to the individual security itself, as opposed to having regard to broader themes e.g. the credit rating of the security is analysed relative to its proposed yield. The Portfolio focuses on securities which are listed or traded on recognised markets globally, and not limited by industry or sector. The Portfolio may rotate its exposure to geographic regions and countries and between sectors and issuers, based on economic or regional fundamentals, such as the valuation of each security relative to other similar securities. The Portfolio may have medium levels of volatility due to its investments in subordinated debt and/or below investment grade securities.

Brexit Statement

On 23 June 2016, the United Kingdom held a referendum and voted to leave the European Union. The UK left the EU at 11pm GMT (midnight in Brussels) on 31 January 2020. The post-Brexit transition period will run from 1 February 2020 to 31 December 2020 (the "Transition Period"). During this Transition Period, EU law will continue to apply to the UK. New EU laws adopted during the Transition Period will apply automatically within the UK, or be implemented domestically as needed, even though the UK will have no say in their adoption. The deadline for the UK to request an extension to the Transition Period is 30 June 2020. During this period there may be a significant increase in volatility and disruption in the global financial markets, including the currency markets. Such events may, in turn, contribute to worsening economic conditions and reduced liquidity in some segments of the market, not only in the UK and Europe but also in the rest of the world. Leaving the European Union may also result in significant changes to law and regulation in the UK. Investors should be aware that these and other similar consequences following from the referendum result may adversely affect the value of the shares and the Company's performance.

The recent outbreak of the COVID-19 in many countries, which is a rapidly evolving situation, has, among other things, disrupted global travel and supply chains, and has adversely impacted global commercial activity, the transportation industry and commodity prices in the energy sector. The rapid development and fluidity of this situation precludes any prediction as to its ultimate impact, which may have a continued adverse effect on economic and market conditions and trigger a period of global economic slowdown. The Directors have established processes regarding internal control and risk management systems to ensure its effective oversight of the financial reporting process. These include appointing the Administrator to maintain the accounting records of the Company independently of the Investment Manager and the Depositary. The Administrator is required under the terms of the administration agreement to maintain adequate accounting records on behalf of the Company. To that end the Administrator performs regular reconciliations of its records to those of the Depositary. The Administrator is also contractually obliged to prepare for review and approval by the Directors the annual report including financial statements intended to give a true and fair view and the interim report and unaudited abridged financial statements.

The Directors evaluate and discuss significant accounting and reporting issues as the need arises. From time to time the Directors also examine and evaluate the Administrator's financial accounting and reporting routines and monitor and evaluate the external auditors' performance, qualifications and independence. The Administrator has operating responsibility in respect of its internal controls in relation to the financial reporting process and the Administrator's report to the Directors.

Risk Assessment

The Directors are responsible for assessing the risk of irregularities whether caused by fraud or error in financial reporting and ensuring the processes are in place for the timely identification of internal and external matters with a potential effect on financial reporting. The Directors have also put in place processes to identify changes in accounting rules and recommendations and to ensure that these changes are accurately reflected in the Company's financial statements.

The Investment Manager completes in depth reviews of the Financial Statements to ensure that all of the content included is accurate. Should a discrepancy be identified the Investment Manager would report this to the Board of Directors at the next board meeting, or immediately where the discrepancy is deemed material. Changes in accounting rules and standards are monitored by the Investment Manager and the Company's Administrator; all changes are reported to the Board periodically.

The Investment Manager liaises with the Company's Administrator to ensure that all changes in accounting rules and standards are reflected in the financial statements in a timely manner. The Investment Manager also has regular dialogue with the Company's Auditors.

Control Activities

The Administrator maintains control structures to manage the risks over financial reporting. These control structures include appropriate division of responsibilities and specific control activities aimed at detecting or preventing the risk of significant deficiencies in financial reporting for every significant account in the financial statements and the related notes in the Company's annual report. Examples of control activities exercised by the Administrator include analytical review procedures, reconciliations and automatic controls in IT systems. Prices not available from independent sources are typically valued by the Investment Manager using methods the Directors have approved in the good-faith belief that the resulting valuation will reflect the fair value of the security.

Diversity

With respect to diversity, the Company has no employees and the only individuals engaged directly by it are the Directors and the designated persons. When there is a vacancy on the Board or among the designated persons, the objective is to ensure that the Board is or the designated persons are diversified with an appropriate mix as regards age, gender, race and educational/professional backgrounds, while achieving compliance by all individuals with regulatory requirements and an overall composition with the requisite experience and skills. This was most recently reflected in 2019, in the context of the appointment of Naomi Daly and Alex Duncan as directors.

Information and Communication

The Company's policies and the Directors' instructions with relevance for financial reporting are updated and communicated via appropriate channels, such as e-mail, correspondence, telephone and meetings to ensure that all financial reporting information requirements are met in a complete and accurate manner.

Monitoring

The Directors receive regular presentations and review reports from the Depositary, Investment Manager and Administrator. The Directors also have an annual process to ensure that appropriate measures are taken to consider and address the shortcomings identified and measures recommended by the independent auditors.

Capital Structure

No person has a significant direct or indirect holding of securities in the Company. No person has any special rights of control over the Company's share capital. There are no restrictions on voting rights. With regard to the appointment and replacement of Directors, the Company is governed by its Articles of Association, Irish statute comprising the Companies Act 2014 (as amended) and with the UCITS Regulations and the Listing Rules of Euronext Dublin as applicable to investment funds. The Articles of Association themselves may be amended by special resolution of the Shareholders.

Powers of the Directors

The Directors are responsible for managing the business affairs of the Company in accordance with the Articles of Association. Consequently none of the Directors is an executive Director. The Articles of Association provide that the Directors may exercise all the powers of the Company to borrow money, to mortgage or charge its undertaking, property or any part thereof and may delegate these powers to the Investment Manager.

The Directors may at any time, with prior notification to the Depositary, temporarily suspend the calculation of the Net Asset Value of a particular Portfolio and the issue, valuation, sale, purchase, redemption or conversion of shares and/or the payment of redemption proceeds at any time in any of the following instances:

- a) any period when any recognised market on which a substantial portion of the investments for the time being comprised in the relevant Portfolio are quoted, listed or dealt in is closed otherwise than for ordinary holidays, or during which dealings on any such recognised market are restricted or suspended;
- b) any period when, as a result of political, military, economic or monetary events or other circumstances beyond the control, responsibility and power of the Directors, the disposal or valuation of investments for the time being comprised in the relevant Portfolio cannot, in the opinion of the Directors, be effected or completed normally or without prejudicing the interests of Shareholders;
- c) any breakdown in the means of communication normally employed in determining the value of any investments for the time being comprised in the relevant Portfolio or during any period when for any other reason the value of investments for the time being comprised in the relevant Portfolio cannot, in the opinion of the Directors, be promptly or accurately ascertained;
- d) any period when the Company is unable to repatriate funds for the purposes of making redemption payments or during which the realisation of investments for the time being comprised in the relevant Portfolio, or the transfer or payment of funds involved in connection therewith cannot, in the opinion of the Directors, be effected at normal prices or normal rates of exchange;
- e) any period when, as a result of adverse market conditions, the payment of redemption proceeds may, in the opinion of the Directors, have an adverse impact on the relevant Portfolio or the remaining Shareholders in such Portfolio;
- f) any period after a notice convening a meeting of Shareholders for the purpose of dissolving the Company or terminating a Portfolio has been issued, up to and including the date of such meeting of Shareholders;
- g) any period during which dealings in a collective investment scheme in which the Portfolio has invested a significant portion of its assets are suspended;
- h) any period in which the repurchase of the shares would, in the opinion of the Directors, result in a violation of applicable laws; or
- i) any period when the Directors determine that it is in the best interests of the Shareholders to do so.

Notice of any such suspension shall be published by the Company at its registered office and in such newspapers and through such other media as the Directors may from time to time determine, if in the opinion of the Directors, it is likely to exceed thirty days, and shall be transmitted immediately to the Central Bank, Euronext Dublin and the Shareholders. Shareholders who have requested the issue or redemption of shares of any series or class will have their subscription or redemption request dealt with on the first Dealing Day after the suspension has been lifted unless applications or redemption requests have been withdrawn prior to the lifting of the suspension. Where possible, all reasonable steps will be taken to bring any period of suspension to an end as soon as possible.

Registered shares may be transferred to another beneficial owner free of cash in a form that has been approved by the Directors. The instrument of transfer of a share must be signed by or on behalf of the transferor. The transferor shall be deemed to remain the holder of the share until the name of the transferee is entered on to the Register in respect of such share.

The Directors may decline to register a transfer if they are aware or reasonably believe the transfer would result in the beneficial ownership of shares by a person in contravention of any restrictions on ownership imposed by the Directors or might result in legal, regulatory, pecuniary, taxation or material administrative disadvantage to the relevant Portfolio or Shareholders generally.

Other general meetings may be convened from time to time by the Directors in such manner as provided by Irish law.

Each of the shares entitles the holder to attend and vote at meetings of the Company and of the Portfolio represented by those shares. All votes shall be cast by a poll of Shareholders present in person or by proxy at the relevant Shareholder meeting or by unanimous written resolution of the Shareholders. No class of shares confers on the holder thereof any preferential or pre-emptive rights or any rights to participate in the profits of any other share class or any voting rights in relation to matters relating solely to any other share class.

Any resolution to alter the class rights of the shares requires the approval of three-fourths of the holders of the shares represented or present and voting at a general meeting of the class. Subscriber shares entitle the Shareholders holding them to attend and vote at all general meetings of the Company but do not entitle the holders to participate in the profits or net assets of the Company except for a return of capital on a winding up.

Independent Auditors' Report to the Members of Neuberger Berman Investment Funds Plc

Opinion

We have audited the financial statements of Neuberger Berman Investment Funds plc ('the Company') for the year ended 31 December 2019, which comprise the Aggregate Balance Sheet, Aggregate Profit and Loss Account, the Aggregate Statement of Changes in Net Assets Attributable to Holders of Redeemable Participating Shares and notes to the financial statements, including the summary of significant accounting policies set out in note 1. The financial reporting framework that has been applied in their preparation is Irish Law and Accounting Standards including FRS 102 The Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland (Irish Generally Accepted Accounting Practice). In our opinion the financial statements:

- give a true and fair view of the assets, liabilities and financial position of the Company as at 31 December 2019 and of its aggregate profit for the year then ended;
- have been properly prepared in accordance with Irish Generally Accepted Accounting Practice; and
- have been properly prepared in accordance with the requirements of the Companies Act 2014, the European Communities (Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities) Regulations, 2011, (the "UCITS Regulations") and the Central Bank (Supervision and Enforcement) Act 2013 (Section 48(1)) (Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities) Regulations 2019 (the "Central Bank UCITS Regulations").

Basis for opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with International Standards on Auditing (Ireland) (ISAs (Ireland)) and applicable law. Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements section of our report. We are independent of the Company in accordance with ethical requirements that are relevant to our audit of financial statements in Ireland, including the Ethical Standard as applied to public interest entities issued by the Irish Auditing and Accounting Supervisory Authority (IAASA), and we have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with these requirements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

Conclusions relating to going concern

We have nothing to report in respect of the following matters, in relation to which ISAs (Ireland) require us to report to you where:

- the directors' use of the going concern basis of accounting in the preparation of the financial statements is not appropriate: or
- the directors have not disclosed in the financial statements any identified material uncertainties that may cast significant doubt about the Company's ability to continue to adopt the going concern basis of accounting for a period of at least twelve months from the date when the financial statements are authorised for issue.

Key audit matters

Key audit matters are those matters that, in our professional judgment, were of most significance in our audit of the financial statements of the current period and include the most significant assessed risks of material misstatement (whether or not due to fraud) that we identified, including those which had the greatest effect on: the overall audit strategy, the allocation of resources in the audit; and directing the efforts of the engagement team. These matters were addressed in the context of our audit of the financial statements as a whole, and in forming our opinion thereon, and we do not provide a separate opinion on these matters.

Our application of materiality

We apply the concept of materiality in planning and performing the audit, in evaluating the effect of identified misstatements on the audit and in forming our audit opinion.

Materiality

The magnitude of an omission or misstatement that, individually or in the aggregate, could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of the users of the financial statements. Materiality provides a basis for determining the nature and extent of our audit procedures.

We determined materiality for the Company to be 0.5% (2018: 0.5%) of Net Asset Value. We believe that Net Asset Value is an appropriate measurement basis since the users of the financial statements may focus more on assets or equity than earnings.

During the course of our audit, we reassessed initial materiality and there were no changes in the materiality.

Performance materiality

The application of materiality at the individual account or balance level. It is set at an amount to reduce to an appropriately low level the probability that the aggregate of uncorrected and undetected misstatements exceeds materiality.

On the basis of our risk assessments, together with our assessment of the Company's overall control environment, our judgement was that performance materiality was 75% (2018: 75%) of our planning materiality. We have set performance materiality at this percentage due to our knowledge of the entity and industry, our past history with the entity, effectiveness of the control environment and our assessment of the risks associated with the engagement.

Reporting threshold

An amount below which identified misstatements are considered as being clearly trivial.

We agreed with the Audit Committee that we would report to them all uncorrected audit differences in excess 5% of planning materiality, as well as differences below that threshold that, in our view, warranted reporting on qualitative grounds.

We evaluate any uncorrected misstatements against both the quantitative measures of materiality discussed above and in light of other relevant qualitative considerations in forming our opinion.

An overview of the scope of our audit report

Tailoring the scope

Our assessment of audit risk, our evaluation of materiality and our allocation of performance materiality determine our audit scope for the company. This enables us to form an opinion on the financial statements. We take into account size, risk profile, the organisation of the company and effectiveness of controls, including controls and changes in the business environment when assessing the level of work to be performed. All audit work was performed directly by the audit engagement team.

Other information

The directors are responsible for the other information. The other information comprises the information included in the annual report other than the financial statements and our auditor's report thereon. Our opinion on the financial statements does not cover the other information and, except to the extent otherwise explicitly stated in our report, we do not express any form of assurance conclusion thereon.

In connection with our audit of the financial statements, our responsibility is to read the other information and, in doing so, consider whether the other information is materially inconsistent with the financial statements or our knowledge obtained in the audit or otherwise appears to be materially misstated. If we identify such material inconsistencies or apparent material misstatements, we are required to determine whether there is a material misstatement in the financial statements or a material misstatement of the other information. If, based on the work we have performed, we conclude that there is a material misstatement of this other information, we are required to report that fact.

We have nothing to report in this regard.

Opinions on other matters prescribed by the Companies Act 2014

Based solely on the work undertaken in the course of the audit, we report that:

- in our opinion, the information given in the directors' report is consistent with the financial statements; and
- in our opinion, the directors' report is has been prepared in accordance with the Companies Act 2014.

We have obtained all the information and explanations which we consider necessary for the purposes of our audit.

In our opinion the accounting records of the Company were sufficient to permit the financial statements to be readily and properly audited and the Company statement of financial position is in agreement with the accounting records.

Matters on which we are required to report by exception

Based on the knowledge and understanding of the company and its environment obtained in the course of the audit, we have not identified material misstatements in the directors' report.

The Companies Act 2014 requires us to report to you if, in our opinion, the disclosures of directors' remuneration and transactions required by sections 305 to 312 of the Act are not made. We have nothing to report in this regard.

Respective responsibilities

Responsibilities of directors for the financial statements

As explained more fully in the directors' responsibilities statement set on page 32, the directors are responsible for the preparation of the financial statements and for being satisfied that they give a true and fair view, and for such internal control as they determine is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, the directors are responsible for assessing the Company's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless management either intends to liquidate the Company or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

Auditor's responsibilities for the audit of the financial statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with ISAs (Ireland) will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these financial statements.

The objectives of our audit, in respect to fraud, are; to identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements due to fraud; to obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence regarding the assessed risks of material misstatement due to fraud, through designing and implementing appropriate responses; and to respond appropriately to fraud or suspected fraud identified during the audit. However, the primary responsibility for the prevention and detection of fraud rests with both those charged with governance of the entity and management.

Our approach was as follows:

- We obtained an understanding of the legal and regulatory frameworks that are applicable to the Company and determined that the most significant are Companies Act 2014 and Undertaking for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities pursuant to the provisions of the European Communities (Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities) Regulations, 2011 as amended (the "UCITS Regulations").
- We understood how Neuberger Berman Investment Funds plc is complying with those frameworks by updating our understanding of the adequate system of internal control in place. We also considered the existence of independence service providers, proper segregation of duties and the regulated environment in which the Company operates, which may reduce opportunities for fraud to take place.
- We assessed the susceptibility of the Company's financial statements to material misstatement, including how fraud might occur by management override of controls.
- Based on this understanding we designed our audit procedures to identify non-compliance with such laws and regulations. Our procedures involved inquiries to those charged with governance into possible instances of non-compliance with laws and regulations, review of board meeting minutes during the year and obtaining representation from the management.

A further description of our responsibilities for the audit of the financial statements is located on the IAASA's website at:

Other matters which we are required to address

We were appointed by the Directors in 2000 to audit the financial statements for the year ending 31 December 2001 and subsequent financial periods. The period of total uninterrupted engagement including previous renewals and reappointments of the firm is 20 years.

The non-audit services prohibited by IAASA's Ethical Standard were not provided to the Company and we remain independent of the Company in conducting our audit.

Our audit opinion is consistent with the additional report to the audit committee.

The purpose of our audit work and to whom we owe our responsibilities

Our report is made solely to the Company's members, as a body, in accordance with section 391 of the Companies Act 2014. Our audit work has been undertaken so that we might state to the Company's members those matters we are required to state to them in an auditor's report and for no other purpose. To the fullest extent permitted by law, we do not accept or assume responsibility to anyone other than the Company and the Company's members, as a body, for our audit work, for this report, or for the opinions we have formed.

Independent Auditors' Report to the Directors of Neuberger Berman Investment Funds Plc

The Directors
Neuberger Berman Investment Funds plc

We have audited the accompanying financial statements of Neuberger Berman Investment Funds plc (the "Fund"), which comprise the Aggregate Balance Sheet as of 31 December 2019, the Aggregate Profit and Loss Account, the Aggregate Statement of Changes in Net Assets Attributable to Holders of Redeemable Participating Shares, for the year then ended, and the related notes to the financial statements.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in conformity with accounting standards issued by the Financial Reporting Council and promulgated by the Institute of Chartered Accountants in Ireland (Generally Accepted Accounting Practice in Ireland) including FRS 102 The Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland; this includes the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free of material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the Fund's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Fund's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Opinion

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Neuberger Berman Investment Funds plc at 31 December 2019, and the results of its operations and changes in net assets for the year then ended, in conformity with accounting standards issued by the Financial Reporting Council and promulgated by the Institute of Chartered Accountants in Ireland (Generally Accepted Accounting Practice in Ireland) including FRS 102 The Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland.

Neuberger Berman High Yield Bond Fund

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 13.82%. Over the same period, the ICE BofA US High Yield Constrained Index (USD Total Return) (the "Index") returned 14.41%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown reflect the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

The US high yield market was supported by a number of factors in 2019, including a "dovish pivot" by the US Federal Reserve ("Fed"), as it lowered interest rates three times during the period as well as accommodative policy by the European Central Bank ("ECB"). The backdrop of more accommodative monetary policy was supportive of issuer fundamentals and investor risk sentiment. Later in the year, the Fed and the ECB signaled that rate cuts could be on hold in the near term which may have suggested to market participants that policymakers and economists were less concerned about further deterioration in growth. While there were bouts of volatility in the market during the year driven by political risk (UK, Hong Kong, Argentina and the US), changes in expectations for monetary policy and shifting trade tensions, the global economy was relatively resilient. While the lower growth environment was challenging for some issuers, corporate profits for the majority of issuers often exceeded lowered expectations. While the US-China trade war has not been completely resolved, late in the year there was an announcement of a "phase-one" trade deal, which caused a shift in investor expectations fueling a risk-on rally in December where lower quality high yield saw better returns. For the full year, however, higher quality outperformed lower quality. For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, securities rated BB and B in the Index returned 15.7% and 14.4%, respectively, whereas CCC-rated securities returned 9.1%.

Credit selection was a key factor in the US high yield market in 2019 and avoiding deteriorating credits was additive to investment results. Issuers with unsustainable capital structures in uneconomic parts of retail, energy, commodity- and/or cyclically-exposed businesses and companies facing increased regulatory scrutiny were the underperformers in 2019. Outside of these pockets of idiosyncratic risk, most of the high yield market was supported by constructive fundamentals: low-but-positive revenue growth, earnings that were generally in-line, good interest coverage and only a modest increase in leverage which was driven primarily by a subset of stressed issuers in the high yield universe. Among the higher-quality issuers, fundamentals remain relatively solid. In the US, high yield defaults, overall, remain below their long-term average and are very low outside of commodities and energy. As of December, the US LTM par-weighted default rate was 2.86% and only 1.26% ex-commodities.

The Portfolio lagged its benchmark index over the reporting period. During the year, security selection within Support-Services, Metals & Mining and an underweight to Energy were the most beneficial to performance. In contrast, security selection within Banking, an underweight to Super Retail and Automotive & Auto Parts were the largest detractors. Within our ratings' positioning, security selection within the Portfolio's B rated issuers was the most beneficial to performance and an overweight to BBB and above issuers was the largest detractor.

Spreads in the high yield market have widened in the past few weeks but we believe these wider spreads are likely pricing in a severe temporary stall in global GDP and not a deep, extended recession. Assuming no deep, extended recession, spreads are compensating investors for an above-average rise in default rates from the low levels, with the secularly-challenged, idiosyncratic risk credits impacted by supply disruptions and demand declines in certain industries the most affected. As we continue to be vigilant to the developments of COVID-19, we are finding select opportunities in the high yield universe. That said, our primary goal remains one of avoiding default risk. While uncertainty around the duration and severity of the health crisis as well geopolitical event risk can result in heightened short-term volatility, we believe our portfolio is well positioned. We will continue to look to tactically take advantage of the increased volatility to add to credits with more stable fundamentals and attractive valuations.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 0.99%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the ICE BofA US 3-Month Treasury Bill Index (the "Index"), returned 2.28%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Over the course of 2019, the best performing major currencies were the Canadian dollar and the British pound. The worst performing major currencies were the Swedish krona and euro. The Portfolio generated a positive return for the year. Underweights in the euro and Swiss franc were the best performing positions whilst overweights in the Norwegian krone and Swedish krona were detractors of performance.

The year saw central banks turn dovish leading yields lower globally and the money supply higher. Both economic growth and inflation remained low and stable. This combination led to strong performance across the major asset classes and a continued fall in implied volatility. Such an environment meant many of the major currencies traded in extremely narrow ranges with: US dollar/Japanese yen the narrowest since the 1970s; euro/US dollar the narrowest ever at 6.4%, when the previous narrowest was 11.9%; Australian dollar/US dollar the narrowest since 1991; and US dollar/Canadian dollar since 1996. The tight trading ranges and lack of volatility meant a difficult trading environment.

Whilst measures of implied volatility were suppressed by the macro setting, there was a lot of geopolitical risk with Brexit, US-China trade negotiations and episodes of civil unrest in Hong Kong and Chile amongst other countries. This combination led to low natural volatility but high headline risk.

The European Central Bank appointed a new chair with Christine Lagarde, taking over from Mario Draghi. However, it is yet to be seen if this change will have consequences for policy going forward.

The year ended with a consensus building that monetary policy had run its course and fiscal policy support was needed in the form of infrastructure spending and pro-growth policy to move the global economy out of the low growth and low inflation dynamic it has been trapped in since 2008.

At the beginning of 2020, the currency market, as with other asset classes, ignored fundamental economic data and price action was driven by risk sentiment and investor positioning. We believe this macro environment is likely to continue until investors see a slowdown in the spread of the virus both within countries and in terms of new countries affected or an adequate response from policy makers. With limited room for further monetary policy stimulus, it is likely that governments will need to provide the necessary stimulus through fiscal policy. We continue to monitor the situation and manage portfolio risk and act on tactical opportunities.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 27.20%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the S&P 500 Index (the "Index"), returned 31.49%. The S&P 500 Net Total Return Index returned 30.70%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

The Portfolio generated its second best annual return since inception. Performance was driven by a differentiated set of holdings across sectors and market capitalisations. Superior stock selection within Consumer Discretionary, Consumer Staples, and Materials was beneficial to performance both on an absolute and relative basis. Portfolio positioning benefitted relative performance, primarily due to underweight positions to both Energy and Health Care. The Portfolio also benefitted from having zero exposure to Real Estate and Utilities. Stock selection within Financials, Health Care, and Industrials were the primary detractors from performance. The Portfolio finished the year with an overweight in Financials, Industrials and Materials, an underweight in Energy and Health Care, and had no exposure to Real Estate or Utilities.

Portfolio construction is an important component of our investment process, and we continue to find compelling opportunities across our three investment categories - Special Situation, Opportunistic, and Classic investments. This balanced approach is designed to mitigate risk, while generating alpha through stock selection in various market environments. We continue to find compelling opportunities in each category.

The core of our investment process is an unwavering focus on a company's generation of free cash flow and its use by management. We believe free cash flow is a cleaner measure of value creation than income statement earnings, which may be obfuscated by various accounting methods. Our analysis considers the stability and sources of free cash flow generation, as well as the potential uses of this capital. This investment focus enables us to look across sectors, market capitalisations, and risk profiles to find opportunities, particularly during periods of increased market volatility.

At the time of publishing this letter, the situation regarding the Coronavirus (COVID-19) is fluid, and the magnitude and duration of the impact on the global economy suggests continued volatility in the very near term. While the timing of a recovery and the normalisation of economic activity is uncertain, the sell-off and related volatility is creating an opportunity to drive differentiated performance through stock selection. We continue to apply disciplined fundamental research to help identify high quality business models with free cash flow characteristics trading at attractive valuations. We believe our investment strategy has the ability to create long-term value for clients and effectively navigate the dynamic market environment.

As we evaluate both potential new positions and current portfolio holdings, we will continue to do so with a long term investment perspective in mind. As always, our focus is to grow our clients' assets through the disciplined application of our investment philosophy and process.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return of the USD I Accumulating Class was 30.87%. Over the same period, the FTSE NAREIT All Equity REITs Index (USD Total Return Gross of Fees, Net of Tax), returned 27.23% (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance, and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown reflect the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

For 2019 as a whole, the US stock market rallied sharply and posted its best calendar year since 2013. A "dovish pivot" by the US Federal Reserve ("Fed"), a resilient US economy, generally solid corporate results, and an agreement on the first phase of the trade accord between the US and China supported investor sentiment and triggered periods of robust risk appetite. These positives more than offset concerns over moderating growth overseas, Brexit uncertainties and a number of geopolitical issues. All told, the S&P 500 Index gained 31.49% in 2019. In contrast, the FTSE NAREIT All Equity REITs Index (USD Total Return Gross of Fees, Net of Tax), returned 27.23% over the same period.

During the reporting period, both sector allocation and stock selection contributed to the Portfolio's relative performance. In terms of sector positioning, an overweight to Manufactured Homes and an underweight to Regional Malls contributed the most to results. Conversely, a small cash position was the only meaningful detractor from for returns. From a stock selection perspective, the Portfolio's holdings in the Infrastructure, Diversified and Office sectors contributed the most to performance. In contrast, holdings in the Single Family Homes, Apartment and Free Standing sectors detracted the most from results.

Looking ahead, market uncertainty and volatility has increased, spurred by increasing coronavirus concerns as more countries, including the US, announce additional infections. First half 2020 economic growth is likely to be severely impacted. In a surprise move, the Fed lowered the Fed Funds rate by 50 basis points in early March and by 100 basis points on March 15th. There has also been aggressive monetary easing outside the US, as well as significant fiscal stimulus package in the US to help support the economy (after the reporting period ended). We will be monitoring indicators closely in the weeks and months ahead for signs of economic weakness. A possible extended global economic slowdown triggered by the Covid-19 outbreak, the coming U.S. election, and lingering concerns from US-China trade tension has us re-doubling our effort to position portfolios to better withstand these headwinds. Synchronized global monetary easing should help ease the impact on markets. Stable cash flows anchored by long-term leases, conservative capital structures (lower leverage), and secular demand drivers should allow the US listed real estate market to perform more defensively than the broader market.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 33.76%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the MSCI China (Net) Total Return Index (the "Index"), returned 23.46%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

The China equity markets performed strongly in 2019 for both MSCI China Index and the domestic China A-shares market. In January, the markets rallied due to easing trade tensions, the People's Bank of China ("PBoC")'s announcement of a 100bps cut in reserve requirement ratio ("RRR") and plans to set up central bank bills swap aimed at improving liquidity of banks' perpetual bonds. Investors continued the optimism in February on trade agreement and expectations of additional policy support. A significant increase in retail participation and leverage onshore, coupled with inflows ahead of the MSCI inclusion decision led the onshore market to surge and outperform global indices. Chinese equities retreated in early March primarily because trade headlines turned negative, the US dollar strengthening, decline in global bond yields and concerns over global economic growth. In mid-March, markets gained upward momentum after the conclusion of the National People's Congress and anticipation of launch of the Shanghai Stock Exchange's Science and Technology Innovation Board. Chinese equities continued their strength in early April as March Purchasing Managers Index rebounded stronger than expected, but markets drifted lower later in the month despite better trade activity and financing data. The China equity markets pulled back sharply in May as the US imposed tariffs on another US$200 billion worth of Chinese goods and blacklisted Huawei from procuring components from American firms. China retaliated with 25% tariffs on US $60 billion worth of American goods, put soya buying on hold and considered rare earth export curbs. Towards month-end, the China A-shares market declined further despite the announcement of target RRR cuts and the MSCI rebalancing of A-shares as inclusion factor increased from 5% to 10%. In June, the China equity markets rebounded on improved sentiment from optimism on additional stimulus policy, launch of the STAR Board and anticipation of a trade resolution ahead of the G20 meeting between Presidents Xi and Trump.

In the beginning of July, Chinese equities extended gains as trade talks at the G20 were better than expected and President Trump lifted some exports ban to Huawei, but declined later in the month due to expectations of rate cuts by the US Federal Reserve, liquidity concerns from the STAR Board launch and caution amid ongoing 2Q company results. Despite generally solid 1H company earnings, markets continued to go down in August because of concerns over trade war escalation, collapse in global bond yields, sharp depreciation of the CNY and social unrests in Hong Kong. China equity markets rebounded in September as Sino-US trade talks resumed, the State Council signalled targeted RRR cuts and the State Administration of Foreign Exchange announced the removal of QFII and RQFII quotas, but most of the gains reversed ahead of the China National Day holidays amid ongoing trade tensions, policy easing and continued social unrest in Hong Kong. After the Golden Week holidays in October, both offshore and onshore markets rallied strongly because of solid 3Q earnings results, and investors awaited guidance from the 4th Plenary Session of the 19th Central Committee of the Communist Party of China. Markets extended gains into November as China and the US both stated plans to lift tariffs as part of a phase one trade deal, but corrected sharply later in the month after the US passed a bill in support of the Hong Kong protest movement. In December, Chinese equities rallied strongly as China and the US reached a phase one trade deal which prevented additional US tariffs on US $160 billion worth of Chinese imports from coming into effect and both countries agreeing to scale back existing tariffs. Encouraging China macroeconomic data and expectations of additional fiscal and monetary stimulus from Beijing further lifted investor sentiment which led markets to end the year on a strong note.

In 2019, the Portfolio's main contributors to performance relative to the Index included Communication Services (significant underweight and stock selection, primarily to interactive media & services and diversified telecommunication services), Consumer Staples (significant overweight and stock selection to food & beverage) and Materials (stock selection to construction materials). Main detractors from relative performance included Financials (stock selection to insurance) and Information Technology (significant underweight). The Portfolio's underweight exposure to Chinese companies listed in Hong Kong and overweight exposure to domestic China A-shares contributed to relative performance, whereas the Portfolio's underweight exposure to US ADRs detracted from relative performance. As of 31 December 2019, the Portfolio's largest sector underweight was Communication Services, and also held underweight positions in Information Technology and Utilities. The Portfolio's largest sector overweight was Consumer Staples, and also held overweight positions in Industrials and Consumer Discretionary. The Portfolio's top 10 positions comprised more than 53% of total assets at end of December.

Since 2019 year-end, the ongoing COVID-19 outbreak has roiled global risk assets, and policymakers from both developed and emerging economies have struggled to put into place appropriate domestic remedies and formulate a coordinated global response. Indeed, the world is now a more politically fragmented place than what it was back in 2008 when the Global Financial Crisis presented a similar existential threat to the global economy. Moreover, the crisis currently before us is complicated by differing political considerations, health care infrastructure and social/cultural norms, rather than limited to capital markets which by comparison are far more integrated. As such, the hope for a strong unified stance against the current pandemic is unlikely to materialize in the short-term. Individual countries are largely left to their own devices on how best to contain the viral outbreak within their own borders and manage the resultant economic fallout.

Investment Manager's Report (Continued)

As an investment manager assessing the economic and financial implications, we note that the unprecedented measures implemented by China to contain the COVID-19 outbreak seem to be bearing fruit, whereas it continues to pick up pace in other parts of the world, especially in Europe and North America. Not only has the infection curve within China been flattening out for some time, the number of total cases and deaths outside of China has recently exceeded that of the virus' original epicentre and continues to grow at an alarming rate.

With further escalation of the viral risk abating, the attention of Chinese policymakers has gradually shifted towards reinforcing the economy while continuing to control the outbreak. While the latest statistics point to a significant collapse in economic activity for 1Q 2020, it is not surprising to us given the Lunar New Year holidays and subsequent lockdown measures to contain the virus. In addition, what is more important is the trajectory the economy is headed and the pace of which this is occurring. According to CICC, roughly 80% of China's economy has resumed normal operations, with this figure over 85% if we were to exclude Hubei Province where the outbreak originated. The resumption of economic activity is improving daily and further buttressed by decisive monetary and fiscal stimulus by the Chinese government who have an abundance of options in their policy toolkit. In comparison, the rest of the world is only now beginning to experience the clinical process that China and some other Asian countries have been subject to for the past two months, so the full economic impact of what is expected to be a long and drawn out slowdown remains to be seen.

Interestingly, equity market returns have been much less discriminate. While China equity markets have outperformed its developed market counterparts, they have not gone unscathed amidst broad based de-risking. However, notwithstanding the spectacular cratering of developed market equities, both the S&P 500 and MSCI World indices continue to trade at a premium vis-à-vis China equities. While we cannot claim to have a clear view on the directionality of markets, the disintermediation of economic fundamentals and equity market valuations between China and developed markets point to an increasingly interesting dislocation. We are beginning to observe value emerge within the China equity opportunity set. At the same time, earnings visibility has also improved due to a less uncertain economic outlook in China, and may continue to re-rate upwards as domestic conditions improve.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 18.74%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the MSCI EM Index (USD Net Total Return) (the "Index"), returned 18.42%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Emerging markets ("EM") equities performed well in 2019. After trailing US and developed international equities for much of the year, they closed on a high note. The last few months of global monetary policy easing plus indications that a "phase one" US-China trade deal was imminent boosted risk-on sentiment. This was reflected in an EM equities rally, the US Dollar Index weakening, and flows into EM equity funds turning strongly positive in the final months of the year.

The Index performance was led by Information Technology ("IT"), Consumer Discretionary and Real Estate stocks. All sectors were positive, but Health Care, Materials and Industrials lagged. By country, Russia, Greece and Egypt were top performers, while Argentina, Chile and Poland detracted.

Stock selection was the key driver of the portfolio's outperformance this year. IT holdings contributed most, followed by Financials and Consumer Staples. By country, stocks based in Taiwan and Korea, and our overweight to the top-performing Russian market were positives. Our Consumer Discretionary, Real Estate and Communications names underperformed their peers. By country, Indian, Indonesian and Philippines-based holdings detracted.

With investors optimistic that monetary easing can boost global economic prospects, equity markets all rallied at year-end, with EM leading the way.

Global equity markets are attempting to assess the broader impact of COVID-19: as it spreads across communities, and corporates highlight the impact to their businesses. The impact can be categorized in three broad categories: first, the lost demand to the services sector; second, a postponement of discretionary spending; and third, a potential impact to global supply chains. Each emerging market and developed market are in a various stages of the virus spreading and government policies to tackle the virus. The early March breakdown of key oil supplier talks also added to the market turbulence.

The severity of both the COVID-19 disruption – and the oil price retreat – speaks to the lack of earnings visibility for the remainder of 2020, with the uncertainty also likely contributing to the volatility in equity markets.

In March 2020, emerging market equities were sold off indiscriminately, although countries that are further along in the Coronavirus curve, e.g. China and Taiwan, are outperforming and their economies seem to be getting back to normal. Commodity-sensitive markets like Russia and Brazil continue to be underperformers. On a sector basis, commodity sectors (Energy/Materials) have been the hardest hit during the month. Challenges are likely to persist in these markets, so we remain underweight, which has been helpful on a relative basis. We continue to monitor currencies that have taken a big hit, in particular commodity currencies like the Brazilian real, and Russian ruble.

Easy monetary policy can be helpful in the longer run, but March 2020's dollar funding squeeze is putting further pressure on emerging markets. The portfolio favors domestically-driven names, and the team expect locally-focused companies to recover first given exporters will likely still have to deal with virus-related demand destruction in the developed world. As things recover and liquidity improves, the team believes the portfolio is well positioned to benefit.

The portfolio positioning has not changed radically, but the team is staying in close contact with existing holdings to assess the impact. When the team believe stock prices are dislocated from fundamentals, the team looks to add. The portfolio's large underweight towards China is being reduced, adding to domestically-focused Consumer names as the economy recovers and pent-up demand could drive a second half 2020 recovery. In addition, we are also looking for opportunities in niche tech players, and quality financials with structural growth.

Our quality bias helps the portfolio avoid businesses with significant debt or with short term funding cliffs. Issues in credit markets should therefore be less impactful for our companies.

The team believes that despite short-term disruptions, the quality businesses in the portfolio could gradually return to normal activity. Current valuation makes many of them look very attractive on long-term view. Markets appear to already be discounting a sharp earnings drop, but stimulus combined with pent-up demand could lead to a recovery.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return of the USD I Accumulating Class shares returned 28.89%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the Russell 2000 Index (the "Index"), returned 25.52%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance, and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown reflect the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

For 2019 as a whole, the US stock market rallied sharply and posted its best calendar year since 2013. A "dovish pivot" by the US Federal Reserve ("Fed"), a resilient US economy, generally solid corporate results, and an agreement on the first phase of the trade accord between the US and China supported investor sentiment and triggered periods of robust risk appetite. These positives more than offset concerns over moderating growth overseas, Brexit uncertainties and a number of geopolitical issues. All told, the S&P 500 Index gained 31.49% in 2019. Small-cap stocks underperformed the overall stock market during the year, as the Index rose 25.52%. Within the small-cap universe, the Russell 2000 Growth and Russell 2000 Value Indexes returned 28.48% and 22.39%, respectively.

The Portfolio generated a strong return during the reporting period and outperformed the small-cap market. This was driven by both stock selection and sector allocation.

In terms of stock selection, the Portfolio's holdings in the Consumer Discretionary, Communication Services and Financials sectors were the most additive for relative returns. Within Consumer Discretionary, the Portfolio's holdings in the Specialty Retail and Auto Component industries added the most to performance. Within the Communication Services sector, holdings in the Media industry were up sharply, outperforming the Index's offerings in this sector. Within Financials, the Portfolio's Capital Markets holdings were the most beneficial for results. On the downside, stock selection was negative in the Industrials, Consumer Staples and Health Care sectors. Within the Industrials sector, the Portfolio's positioning the Commercial Services & Supplies industry were drag on results. Within Consumer Staples, the Portfolio's Food Product holdings detracted from results. In terms of the Health Care sector, Biotechnology was negative for performance.

Sector allocation, overall, also contributed to the Portfolio's relative performance during the reporting period. In particular, an overweight to Information Technology and no allocation to Utilities added the most value. In contrast, the underweight to the biotechnology industry, and overweight to the Consumer Staples sector detracted from performance.

Looking ahead, as the coronavirus has introduced risk to global economic growth and led to heightened market volatility, history suggests the panic will eventually pass. We would expect market volatility to remain elevated as the number of coronavirus cases continues to climb globally. Until now, the US economy has been quite strong, driven by low unemployment, healthy corporate profits and tame inflation. While it is very difficult to time the market and call the bottom, we continue to believe that a diversified portfolio of financially strong companies, with strong returns on capital and defensible barriers to entry can weather the storm relatively well. This has been the case, thus far, since the market's peak in mid-February.

As far as recent investment implications go, we are growing even more averse to leverage and favor reducing exposure to oil related equities. We also view this an opportunity to selectively trim names that have held up extraordinarily well or modestly add to names that appear to have been beaten down disproportionately. Please note this is an evolving situation and we continue to closely monitor the market and our portfolio and will make adjustments as we deem necessary or appropriate.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 9.24%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown reflect the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

The US high yield market was supported by a number of factors in 2019, including a "dovish pivot" by the US Federal Reserve ("Fed"), as it lowered interest rates three times during the period as well as accommodative policy by the European Central Bank ("ECB"). The backdrop of more accommodative monetary policy was supportive of issuer fundamentals and investor risk sentiment. Later in the year, the Fed and the ECB signaled that rate cuts could be on hold in the near term which may have suggested to market participants that policymakers and economists were less concerned about further deterioration in growth. While there were bouts of volatility in the market during the year driven by political risk (UK, Hong Kong, Argentina and the US), changes in expectations for monetary policy and shifting trade tensions, the global economy was relatively resilient. While the lower growth environment was challenging for some issuers, corporate profits for the majority of issuers often exceeded lowered expectations. While the US/China trade war has not been completely resolved, late in the year there was an announcement of a "Phase-One" trade deal, which caused a shift in investor expectations fueling a risk-on rally in December where lower quality high yield saw better returns. For the full year, however, higher quality outperformed lower quality. For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, securities rated BB and B in the US high yield index returned 15.7% and 14.4%, respectively, whereas securities rated CCC returned 9.1%.

Credit selection was a key factor in the US high yield market in 2019 and avoiding deteriorating credits contributed to investment results. Issuers with unsustainable capital structures in uneconomic parts of retail, energy, commodity- and/or cyclically-exposed businesses and companies facing increased regulatory scrutiny were the underperformers in 2019. Outside of these pockets of idiosyncratic risk, most of the high yield market was supported by constructive fundamentals: low-but-positive revenue growth, earnings that were generally in-line, good interest coverage and only a modest increase in leverage which was driven primarily by a subset of stressed issuers in the high yield universe. Among the higher-quality issuers, fundamentals remained relatively solid. In the US, high yield defaults, overall, remained below their long-term average and were very low outside of commodities/energy. As of December, over the last 12 months, the US par-weighted default rate was 2.86% and only 1.26% excluding commodities.

During the year, Healthcare, Diversified Financial Services and Media-Cable were the largest contributors to performance while Energy, Paper and Printing & Publishing contributed the least.

Spreads in the high yield market have widened in the past few weeks but we believe these wider spreads are likely pricing in a severe temporary stall in global GDP and not a deep, extended recession. Assuming no deep, extended recession, spreads are compensating investors for an above-average rise in default rates from the low levels, with the secularly-challenged, idiosyncratic risk credits impacted by supply disruptions and demand declines in certain industries the most affected. As we continue to be vigilant to the developments of COVID-19, we are finding select opportunities in the high yield universe. That said, our primary goal remains one of avoiding default risk. While uncertainty around the duration and severity of the health crisis as well geopolitical event risk can result in heightened short-term volatility, we believe our portfolio is well positioned. We will continue to look to tactically take advantage of the increased volatility to add to credits with more stable fundamentals and attractive valuations.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 6.64%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the Bloomberg Barclays Global Aggregate Index (USD Unhedged Total Return), returned 6.84%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Developed market government bond yields rallied aggressively in 2019, as the progress towards monetary policy normalisation seen in 2018 came to a halt in the face of slowing global growth, heightened trade tensions, and persistent concerns surrounding the evolution of Brexit. US yields rallied across the curve in 2019. Yields were similarly lower across the remaining G4 countries (Germany, the UK and Japan). In Europe, rising political uncertainties like Brexit and the tariff trade war weighed on growth. In response the European Central Bank ("ECB") reduced its deposit rate by 10 basis points ("bps") to -50 bps and announced a restart of quantitative easing. In the UK, a "no deal Brexit" was ruled out and the Conservatives strengthened their position in parliament under Boris Johnson in the December election. However, the nature of UK's trading relationship with the eurozone remains in question.

Elsewhere, the Bank of Japan held policy unchanged in 2019, but realised inflation continues to disappoint and the consumption tax hike introduced in October poses a challenge for growth in the coming quarters. Global investment-grade credit spreads rebounded in 2019 after a rocky 2018, driven in large part by increasingly dovish signals from central banks in the first half of the year and by diminishing political risks in the second half. Overall, the best performing major currencies during the year were the Canadian dollar and the British pound. The worst performing major currencies were the Swedish krona and euro.

In terms of the Portfolio's performance, rates positioning detracted from performance during the year. The primary driver of underperformance was our underweight in duration in the US for parts of the year, as we underestimated the US Federal Reserve's willingness to abruptly reverse course on monetary policy, particularly in the face of solid fundamentals. Our overweight in breakeven inflation positioning was a modestly contributor, albeit insufficient to offset losses on duration. Elsewhere, the credit portion of the Portfolio positively contributed to returns. The best performing credits were the bonds of Volkswagen, AroundTown and Discovery Communications, while the worst performers were E.ON, Engie and AT&T. Currency positioning, overall, generated a small negative return for the year. Overweights in the Norwegian krone and Swedish krona detracted from results, whereas underweights in the euro and Swiss franc were the best performing positions.

Coming into 2020, our thesis of a modest slowdown in US growth, stabilization in international developed market growth (led by a global recovery in manufacturing and an attendant rebound in trade), and bouts of elevated volatility ahead of the known unknown (the US election) appeared sound. However, an unknown unknown, COVID-19, has disrupted the chain of events.

We expect a stark slowdown in the US and global growth in the first half of 2020. We are viewing the impact of the virus as a growth shock, analogous to other growth shocks over the past 20 years (9/11 attacks, European crises in 2011 and 2013, and the energy issues of 2015/2016). We do not see a material permanent impact to the global growth trajectory, and while we expect markets to remain volatile, monetary easing and fiscal easing will stabilize the impacts of this growth shock. We would also note that the 'outcome' of this crisis is now a return to approximately 0% policy rates in the US and lower overall government bond yields, which will only heighten investors' need for income, particularly in high quality securities.

Neuberger Berman Emerging Market Debt - Local Currency Fund

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 13.80%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the JPMorgan GBI-EM Global Diversified Index (the "Index"), returned 13.47%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Emerging markets ("EM") debt posted strong gains in 2019 following a down year in 2018. The Index returned 13.47% in USD terms over the full year 2019, driven mostly by strong local bond returns whilst EM currencies appreciated slightly against the USD in aggregate. A sharp drop in US Treasury yields supported EM fixed income as the market started to price in multiple rate cuts by the Federal Reserve ("Fed") for 2019. The ongoing trade negotiations between the US and China contributed to market volatility throughout the year, however, this abated as the countries came to a phase one agreement in mid-December to support a year-end rally. Soft inflation across most emerging countries and the dovish turn by the Fed allowed many EM central banks to cut rates multiple times. As a result, we saw strong local bond performance in various large local markets including Russia, Mexico, Indonesia, Brazil and Turkey. Meanwhile, Argentina was the negative outlier as the Peso sold off heavily following the surprise primary election result in August.

The Portfolio outperformed the Index in 2019, driven by both foreign exchange ("FX") positioning and local duration exposure. Overweights in Mexico, Russia and Indonesia were among the main contributors on the duration side. Frontier market exposures including positions in Egypt, Nigeria, Sri Lanka, Ukraine and Serbia also contributed across FX and rates. Portfolio positioning in the Brazilian Real and in CEE currencies were among other main contributors on the FX side. Meanwhile, short-term sovereign credit exposure in Argentina was the main detractor, followed by Portfolio positioning in Turkey.

As we entered 2020, we had been seeing increasing signs that economic activity is bottoming out following last year's slowdown, on the back of the lagged effects of global monetary policy easing and improved sentiment post the 'Phase 1' trade deal between the US and China. In the coming months though, the fallout from the Covid-19 virus will likely result in a severe short-term dip in global growth due to the substantial demand and supply side disruptions globally. Our base case is for a recovery in economic activity later in the year, assuming containment of the virus and strong policy support from governments and central banks globally.

As for valuations, we believe that EM yields in aggregate are less compelling today after the strong recent tightening, although we continue to find attractive bottom-up opportunities in select local markets. Meanwhile, on the FX side valuations look attractive for most EM currencies.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 15.29%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, JPMorgan EMBI Global Diversified (USD Total Return) (the "Index"), returned 15.04%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Emerging markets debt posted strong gains in 2019 following a down year in 2018. The recovery was driven by spread compression as risk appetite returned to global markets in the first quarter. A sharp drop in US Treasury yields drove gains from March onwards as the market started to price in multiple rate cuts by the US Federal Reserve in 2019. The ongoing trade negotiations between the US and China contributed to market volatility throughout the year, however, this abated as the countries came to a "Phase 1" agreement in mid-December to support a year-end rally. Idiosyncratic country developments, such as in Argentina, Lebanon and Venezuela, did not cause an overall systemic risk for emerging markets ("EM"). Index spreads tightened from 415 basis points to 291 basis points while US Treasury yields ended the year at 1.92% down from 2.68% at the start of the year and up from 1.46% at their bottom in early September. The index yield to maturity ended 2019 at 4.93%, down from 6.86% at year-end 2018.

The best performer was Ukraine, which saw a strong, reform-oriented administration take office following presidential and parliamentary elections amid strengthening growth, the development of the local bond market improving financing opportunities and lower debt ratios. Next in line was Senegal, where the authorities agreed with the International Monetary Fund's new unfunded 3-year plan that will anchor fiscal and governance reforms while growth remains high on the back of investments in the hydrocarbon sector ahead of commercial production in 2020. The worst performer was Venezuela, which remained in a political and economic crisis, while sovereign and the state-owned oil company PDVSA bonds were taken out of the Index as a result of impaired liquidity under US sanctions.

The Portfolio outperformed the Index, driven mainly by security selection and to a lesser extent country allocation. Top down positioning contributed negatively. In country selection, our absence from Lebanon, where widespread protests and political uncertainty complicated concerns over deposit outflows and debt sustainability, and an overweight in Ukraine contributed the most. Our overweight in Argentina, whose bonds and currency took a big hit after the populist win in the August primary and ultimately the presidential election, was the main detractor. In security selection, our positioning in Brazil contributed the most.

As we entered 2020, we had been seeing increasing signs that economic activity is bottoming out following last year's slowdown, on the back of the lagged effects of global monetary policy easing and improved sentiment post the 'Phase 1' trade deal between the US and China. In the coming months though, the fallout from the Covid-19 virus will likely result in a severe short-term dip in global growth due to the substantial demand and supply side disruptions globally. Our base case is for a recovery in economic activity later in the year, assuming containment of the virus and strong policy support from governments and central banks globally.

We see market technicals as challenging due to potential outflows from the asset class, partly offset by net issuance that is expected to remain low in 2020. As for valuations, spreads in EM hard currency sovereigns have become more compelling after the recent widening and continue to provide an attractive risk premium relative to developed market credits in our view.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 13.12%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II). Over the same period, the benchmark index, the JPMorgan CEMBI Diversified (USD Total Return) (the "Index"), returned 13.55%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Emerging markets ("EM") debt posted strong gains in 2019 following a down year in 2018. The recovery was driven by spread compression as risk appetite returned to global markets in the first quarter. A sharp drop in US Treasury yields drove gains from March onwards as the market started to price in multiple rate cuts by the US Federal Reserve for 2019. A more dovish monetary policy stance in developed markets also acted as a tailwind for emerging market assets, especially in local markets where local interest rates moved down. The ongoing trade negotiations between the US and China contributed to market volatility throughout the year, however, this abated as the countries came to a phase one agreement in mid-December to support a year-end rally.

The corporate Index posted a positive return of 13.55% over the course of the year, the second best year of the past decade. Default rates were lower than average with 2019 levels ending the year at 1.5%, another multi-year low. Sector performance was positive with double-digit returns across the board; real estate and metals & mining led the way while financials, utilities, industrials and technology media and telecom ("TMT") lagged the index. From a credit rating perspective, the high yield segment of the index outperformed investment grade.

Performance drivers for the Portfolio included duration positioning and positive security selection across key markets. However, country allocation detracted from performance. The primary detractor during the year was our positioning in Argentina. We entered August with an overweight exposure in both sovereign and corporate Argentine risk. This position materially detracted from relative performance for the year because Argentine bonds sold off in August following the unexpected results of the presidential primary election mid-month. Capital flight and FX pressure forced the government to extreme measures including the re-profiling of short-term local debt and introduction of capital controls resulting in prices falling significantly across the board in both sovereign and corporates.

Aside from Argentina, the primary driver of performance was security selection from positions in Brazil, Mexico and China. In Brazil, political stability and the passage of pension reforms lifted market sentiment. Our position in a leading global metals & mining company was positive as they engaged in effective balance sheet management. Our positions in the financials sector also added value. In Mexico, security selection in the industrials and utilities sectors was positive as they were largely unaffected by the new administration's domestic policies early in the year. In China, our active positioning in the Chinese real estate and financials sectors added value. We also benefitted from our participation in a range of new issues that came to market throughout the year. In contrast, the position in South Africa's Petra Diamonds detracted due to ongoing weakness in diamond prices coupled with the associated write-downs of diamond mines' values that weighed on the company. Security selection in Turkey detracted due to our positions in the financials sector as the subordinated paper outperformed the senior as investor sentiment turned more positive on the country even though earlier the country was impacted by the currency volatility due to the unorthodox policy of the current regime. Our overweight to Mexico and underweights to Zambia and Russia detracted from country allocation. However, the overweight to Brazil was positive while the underweight to Jamaica contributed throughout the year as bonds of its telecom industry performed poorly due to significant deterioration of the company. Finally, the underweight to lower beta investment grade Asian countries was positive as high yielders outperformed during the year.

As we entered 2020, we had been seeing increasing signs that economic activity is bottoming out following last year's slowdown, on the back of the lagged effects of global monetary policy easing and improved sentiment post the 'Phase 1' trade deal between the US and China. In the coming months though, the fallout from the Covid-19 virus will likely result in a severe short term dip in global growth due to the substantial demand and supply side disruptions globally. Our base case is for a recovery in economic activity later in the year, assuming containment of the virus and strong policy support from governments and central banks globally.

Regarding corporate credit fundamentals, we believe leverage metrics have bottomed though we expect default rates to remain at below historical averages in the coming year. From a technical perspective, we see strong new issuance in the corporate space is mitigated by continued asset liability management exercises which reduce overall net issuance. As for valuations, spreads in EM hard currency sovereigns and credits have become more compelling after the recent widening and continue to provide an attractive risk premium relative to developed market credits in our view.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 10.10%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the Bloomberg Barclays US Aggregate Bond Index (USD Total Return), returned 8.72%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

After hiking rates four times in 2018, the Federal Reserve ("Fed") reversed course and cut rates three times in 2019, with numerous other central banks following suit in lowering policy rates. The dovish pivot was in response to slowing global growth, attributed in large part to elevated uncertainty around global trade policy and geopolitical issues such as Brexit. This more accommodative stance helped drive Treasury yields lower and credit spreads tighter, creating a powerful tailwind for US fixed income performance.

During the year, security selection in investment grade credit and the Portfolio's allocations to US and European high yield, emerging markets debt, bank loans and mortgage credit were the largest contributors to relative performance. Conversely, interest rate positioning was the primary detractor from relative performance, as rates rallied while the Portfolio was underweight duration. To a lesser degree, security selection in agency mortgage-backed securities and underweight exposure in investment grade credit weighed on relative performance.

Coming into 2020, our thesis of a modest slowdown in US growth, stabilization in international developed market growth (led by a global recovery in manufacturing and an attendant rebound in trade), and bouts of elevated volatility ahead of the known unknown (the US election) appeared sound. However, an unknown unknown, COVID-19, has disrupted the chain of events.

We expect a stark slowdown in the US and global growth in the first half of 2020. We think this slowdown will take US GDP levels to negative rates, as both consumption and capital spending weakens. We are viewing the impact of the virus as a growth shock, analogous to other growth shocks over the past 20 years (9/11 attacks, European crises in 2011 and 2013, and the energy issues of 2015/2016). We do not see a material permanent impact to the global growth trajectory, and while we expect markets to remain volatile, monetary easing and fiscal easing will stabilize the impacts of this growth shock. We would also note that the 'outcome' of this crisis is now a return to approximately 0% policy rates in the US and lower overall government bond yields, which will only heighten investors' need for income, particularly in high quality securities.

Neuberger Berman Global Bond Absolute Return Fund

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 3.87%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the ICE BofA US 3-Month Treasury Bill Index ("the Index"), returned 2.28%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

In response to slowing global growth – attributed in large part to overhangs from trade policy and Brexit negatively impacting investment spending - global central banks turned more accommodative in 2019. The Federal Reserve ("Fed") cut rates three times after hiking rates four times in 2018, while numerous other central banks also loosened policy in seeking to support growth amid falling inflation expectations. This helped drive developed markets government bond yields lower and global credit spreads tighter over the period, creating a powerful tailwind for fixed income performance.

During the reporting period, the Portfolio's diversified overweight to credit was the primary contributor to performance. Specifically, allocations to European high yield, global investment grade credit, emerging markets ("EM") debt, CLOs and mortgage credit were all notable contributors. Allocation to inflation-linked bonds also contributed but to a more modest degree. Rates positioning overall detracted for the period. Although our long exposure in South African rates was additive, this was more than offset by shorts in US, core European and Swedish rates. Our active foreign exchange strategy also detracted for the period; overweights in Norwegian krone and Swedish krona were the worst performing positions whereas underweights to euro and Swiss franc were the best performing positions.

Coming into 2020, our thesis of a modest slowdown in US growth, stabilization in international developed market growth (led by a global recovery in manufacturing and an attendant rebound in trade), and bouts of elevated volatility ahead of the known unknown (the US election) appeared sound. However, an unknown unknown, COVID-19, has disrupted the chain of events.

We expect a stark slowdown in the US and global growth in the first half of 2020. We are viewing the impact of the virus as a growth shock, analogous to other growth shocks over the past 20 years (9/11 attacks, European crises in 2011 and 2013, and the energy issues of 2015/2016). We do not see a material permanent impact to the global growth trajectory, and while we expect markets to remain volatile, monetary easing and fiscal easing will likely help stabilize the impacts of this growth shock. We would also note that the 'outcome' of this crisis is now a return to approximately 0% policy rates in the US and lower overall government bond yields, which will only heighten investors' need for income, particularly in high quality securities.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class shares was 7.31%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Emerging markets debt posted strong gains in 2019 following a turbulent 2018. The recovery was driven by spread compression as risk appetite returned to global markets in the first quarter. A sharp drop in US Treasury yields drove gains from March onwards as the market started to price in multiple rate cuts by the US Federal Reserve in 2019. The ongoing trade negotiations between the US and China contributed to market volatility throughout the year, however, this abated as the countries came to a "Phase 1" agreement in mid-December to support a year-end rally. Idiosyncratic country developments, such as in Argentina and Lebanon, did not cause an overall systemic risk for emerging markets ("EM") as most countries posted positive returns in 2019.

The Portfolio posted a positive total return for the year, driven by spread tightening on many Portfolio holdings, as well as by lower US Treasury yields and carry. China was the largest contributor to performance, followed by Portfolio exposures to Brazil, Mexico and Turkey. Holdings in Russia and South Africa contributed positively while frontier market exposures including Sri Lanka and Ukraine also added value. Meanwhile Portfolio exposure to Argentina was the main detractor, driven by sovereign bonds which sold off following the outcome of primary presidential elections in August 2019.

As we entered 2020, we had been seeing increasing signs that economic activity is bottoming out following last year's slowdown, on the back of the lagged effects of global monetary policy easing and improved sentiment post the 'Phase 1' trade deal between the US and China. In the coming months though, the fallout from the Covid-19 virus will likely result in a severe short term dip in global growth due to the substantial demand and supply side disruptions globally. Our base case is for a recovery in economic activity later in the year, assuming containment of the virus and strong policy support from governments and central banks globally.

Regarding corporate credit fundamentals, we believe leverage metrics have bottomed though we expect default rates to remain at below historical averages in the coming year. From a technical perspective, we see strong new issuance in the corporate space is mitigated by continued asset liability management exercises which reduce overall net issuance. As for valuations, spreads in EM hard currency sovereigns and credits have become more compelling after the recent widening and continue to provide an attractive risk premium relative to developed market credits in our view.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 8.88%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown reflect the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any). Gains were spread across strategies; positive performance was led by the allocations to long/short equity, global macro/managed strategies and, to a lesser extent, credit and merger arbitrage/event driven strategies.

Equity markets rallied strongly throughout the year, with developed markets generally outperforming emerging markets. Treasury yields declined across the yield curve as US Federal Reserve rate cuts weighed on the short end and broad risk-on sentiment weighed on the long end. The US dollar remained range bound for the most part, strengthening slightly versus both the euro and yen, and weakening slightly versus the British pound. Energy prices were mixed as crude oil prices rose sharply while natural gas prices declined; meanwhile, the gold price increased on the back of lower bond yields and persistent geopolitical risks.

The long/short equity allocation was the largest contributor for the period. Gains from longs outpaced losses from shorts and the managers in aggregate generated positive alpha from both longs and shorts. Gains were spread across sectors and led by Information Technology, Communication Services and Health Care, while the bulk of losses came from equity index hedges.

The global macro/managed futures allocation was the second largest contributor. The managed futures strategy was responsible for the bulk of positive performance in this sleeve, with gains from interest rate positioning outpacing losses from currencies. Smaller gains within the global macro strategy were driven by long US dollar positioning primarily versus the euro. The allocation to credit strategies was a modest contributor. Gains from the asset-backed securities strategy were spread across sectors; positive performance was led by CLO debt and, to a lesser degree, came from commercial mortgage-backed securities (CMBS) and residential mortgage-backed securities ("RMBS"). Gains from the allocation to merger arbitrage/event driven strategies were driven primarily by a number of deals that tightened and/or closed during the period.

Market volatility spiked towards the end of February due to fears related to the coronavirus and its impact on global growth. We believe these factors, in addition to tensions in the Middle East, Brexit and the US Presidential Election, are likely to keep volatility at elevated levels, and we have positioned the Fund accordingly.

The allocation to the four broad strategy buckets are all similarly sized currently (20-25%).

The Portfolio's largest strategy allocation is long/short equity. While correlations between stocks have picked up in recent weeks, we believe fear-driven selling can provide both long and short opportunities as the market prices in the potential impacts on various sectors/subsectors. Additionally, higher volatility has the potential to enable our subadvisers to trade their books more tactically to exploit attractive entry/exit points.

The third second strategy allocation is global macro/managed futures. We believe that the level of market volatility has the potential to rise and that factor has historically been beneficial for these strategies; however, we have trimmed both the systematic currency and managed futures allocations slightly given recent strong performance.

The Portfolio's third largest allocation is to merger arbitrage/event driven strategies. Spreads have widened to more attractive levels in recent weeks and we believe robust deal volume has the potential to offer opportunity.

The fourth largest allocation in the Portfolio is credit strategies. We view this as a defensive allocation given the short duration and seniority of positioning within capital structures.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return of the USD I Accumulating Class was 16.53%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

For 2019 as a whole, the US stock market rallied sharply and posted its best calendar year since 2013. A "dovish pivot" by the US Federal Reserve ("Fed"), a resilient US economy, generally solid corporate results, and an agreement on the first phase of the trade accord between the US and China supported investor sentiment and triggered periods of robust risk appetite. These positives more than offset concerns over moderating growth overseas, Brexit uncertainties and a number of geopolitical issues. All told, the S&P 500 Index gained 31.49% in 2019.

We categorize the Portfolio's investments on the long side into three buckets: Capital Growth, Total Return and Opportunistic. Capital Growth investments demonstrate attractive industry fundamentals, strong competitive positions, growing revenues, and attractive re-investment opportunities. Total Return investments demonstrate sustainable and/or growing streams of income that are underpinned by asset value and which can result in growing cash returns to shareholders (e.g., increased dividends, share repurchases, return of capital). The Total Return bucket also includes fixed income holdings, which today consist mainly of high yield securities. Opportunistic investments are those with identifiable catalysts. This bucket may include companies with management changes, company reorganisations, merger and acquisition activity, "hidden assets", or other market dislocations that have the potential to unlock intrinsic value.

For the reporting period, equity longs outperformed, primarily driven by security selection in the Financials, Information Technology and Utilities sectors. On the long side, the Capital Growth, Total Return (includes fixed income) and Opportunistic buckets were positive for the period. In contrast, individual security shorts and market shorts to hedge the Portfolio detracted from performance, partially driven by the overall rise in the market during the reporting period.

Despite the market's gyrations – due to uncertainty over global growth concerns driven by the abrupt halt in economic activity from the COVID-19 outbreak – the key market debate continues to revolve around the magnitude of the global deceleration of growth – coupled with the permanent loss of corporate cash flows from the slowdown in economic activity and how much this will impede the growth in corporate earnings in the US and elsewhere. We believe that recent volatility and wild oscillations of the stock market (meaningful peak to trough drawdowns) driven by low (and in many cases negative) global interest rates will continue to occur due to the interconnectivity and tight correlations of both the global economy and the credit and equity markets. As market dynamics change this can cause company market values to dislocate from their long-term potential values.

Nevertheless, we are very mindful of the complex world in which we live and invest. We remain mindful that our constructive view on risk assets is not without challenges as we embark on over a decade of economic expansion. Despite positive US and economic data, China and the Eurozone economies remain fragile. Additionally, the current Federal Reserve policy presents the potential for spikes in volatility, as seen during the past few years. Given the vicissitudes of an increasingly global economy, we will also remain flexible in our decisions and open-minded to new ideas across different sectors, asset classes and geographies.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 13.57%. Over the same period, the benchmark Index, the weighted average of 25% JP Morgan EMBI Global Diversified (USD Total Return), 25% of JP Morgan CEMBI Diversified (USD Total Return) and 50% of JP Morgan GBI Emerging Markets Global Diversified (USD Unhedged Total Return) (the "Index"), returned 13.96%.

Emerging markets ("EM") debt posted strong gains in 2019 following a down year in 2018. The recovery was driven by spread compression as risk appetite returned to global markets in the first quarter. A sharp drop in US Treasury yields drove gains from March onwards as the market started to price in multiple rate cuts by the US Federal Reserve for 2019. A more dovish monetary policy stance in developed markets also acted as a tailwind for emerging market assets, especially in local markets where local interest rates moved down. The ongoing trade negotiations between the US and China contributed to market volatility throughout the year, however, this abated as the countries came to a phase one agreement in mid-December to support a year-end rally.

The hard currency sovereign Index returned 15.04% in 2019. The best performer was Ukraine, which saw a strong, reform-oriented administration take office following presidential and parliamentary elections amid strengthening growth, the development of the local bond market improving financing opportunities and lower debt ratios. Next in line was Senegal, where the authorities agreed with the IMF a new unfunded 3-year plan that will anchor fiscal and governance reforms while growth remains high on the back of investments in the hydrocarbon sector ahead of commercial production in 2020. The worst performer was Venezuela which remained in a political and economic crisis, while sovereign and PDVSA bonds were taken out of the Index as a result of impaired liquidity under US sanctions.

The local currency benchmark returned 13.47% in USD terms over the full year 2019, driven mostly by strong local bond returns while EM currencies appreciated slightly against the USD in aggregate. Soft inflation across most emerging countries and a dovish turn by the Fed allowed many emerging markets Central Banks to cut rates multiple times. As a result, we saw strong local bond performance in various large local markets including Russia, Mexico, Indonesia, Brazil and Turkey. Meanwhile, Argentina was the negative outlier as the peso sold off heavily following the surprise primary election result in August.

Corporates edged out local currency and posted a positive return of 13.55% over the course of the year, the second best year of the past decade. Default rates were lower than average with 2019 levels ending the year at 1.5%, another multi-year low. Sector performance was positive with double-digit returns across the board; real estate and metals & mining led the way while financials, utilities, industrials and technology, media and telecom ("TMT") lagged the Index. From a credit rating perspective, the high yield segment of the Index outperformed investment grade.

The Portfolio underperformed the benchmark over the period. Bottom-up positioning across the asset classes was positive. Tactical asset allocation ("TAA") added value with an overweight to hard currency over corporates but cash holdings and underweight in local currency detracted from performance until November. The rotation to local currency from hard currency and the foreign exchange ("FX") overlay implemented at the end of the year reversed the TAA underperformance to a more neutral contribution. The largest contributors to performance from a bottom-up perspective in hard currency included the underweight to Lebanon and Ukraine, where both security selection and an overweight were positive. In corporates, security selection in Brazilian mining and proteins companies was positive. The local currency part of the Portfolio outperformed, driven by both FX positioning and local duration exposure. Overweights in Mexico, Russia and Indonesia were among the main contributors on the duration side. Frontier market exposures including positions in Egypt, Nigeria, Sri Lanka, Ukraine and Serbia also contributed across FX and rates. The largest detractor to the Portfolio was Argentina. We entered August with an overweight exposure to Argentine risk across the Portfolio. This position materially detracted from relative performance for the year because Argentine bonds and FX sold off in August following the unexpected results of the presidential primary election mid-month. Capital flight and FX pressure forced the government to extreme measures including the re-profiling of short-term local debt and introduction of capital controls.

We anticipate emerging markets growth to see a modest pickup in growth in the course of 2020. While emerging markets countries are recovering from a slowdown, the US is expected to somewhat slow, albeit from a relatively higher starting point. Historically, such a growth differential is supportive of emerging markets capital inflows. External and internal credit and debt indicators, such as fiscal and current account balances, remain generally well behaved while inflation continues to track at around historical lows, allowing for continued accommodative monetary policy stance by EM central banks.

Potential risks in 2020 remain mostly geopolitical, with US elections in November added into the mix. Across emerging markets, we will watch elections/referendums in Peru, Chile, and Taiwan, tensions between the US and Iran, and the development of protests in Colombia and Hong Kong. The chances of any trade war re-escalation should be low now, but by no means non-existent given the electoral calendar in the US as well as the possibility of China playing hardball and reasserting certain demands.

As for valuations, we feel that emerging markets yields in aggregate are less compelling today after the strong recent tightening, although we continue to find attractive bottom-up opportunities in select higher yielding sovereign and corporate credits as well as in local rates. Also, spreads in hard currency sovereigns continue to provide an attractive risk premium relative to developed market credits in our view. Meanwhile on the FX side, valuations still look attractive for most EM currencies as the late 2019 rally was modest and they stand to benefit from better growth dynamics.

While we still anticipate hard currency spreads are likely to tighten, especially among higher yielders, its longer duration profile can lead to underperformance relative to local currency bonds when underlying US Treasury yields rise. It is also important to note, however, that notwithstanding the fact nominal local bond yields are effectively trading at historically low levels in the aggregate, the local bond asset class still has room to be supported by inflows, as EM FX should remain strong in the growth rebound scenario. Therefore, we favour EM currency exposure and local duration in higher-yielding countries, while we are selective in hard currency space where we prefer less vulnerable and less correlated high-yield countries with fundamental credit improvement prospects.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the EUR I Accumulating Class was 11.69%. Over the same period, the ICE BofA European Currency Non-Financial High Yield 3% Constrained Index (the "Index")* returned 10.74%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown reflect the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

High yield had a strong total return year in a market environment characterised by an increase in idiosyncratic credit events, on the margin (e.g., increasing credit dispersion), and somewhat of a lessening in macro and geopolitical risk driven by changes in monetary policy and the reduction of uncertainty with Brexit and US/China trade. The European high yield market was supported by a number of factors in 2019, including accommodative policy by the European Central Bank ("ECB") and changes in policy and elections in the US that reduced uncertainty in the region. The backdrop of more accommodative monetary policy from the ECB and the Bank of England was supportive of issuer fundamentals and investor risk sentiment. Later in the year, the ECB signaled that rate cuts could be on hold in the near term which may have suggested to market participants that policymakers and economists were less concerned about further deterioration in growth. While there were bouts of volatility in the market during the year driven by shifting political winds (Brexit, elections, Germany, Hong Kong, China and the US), changes in expectations for monetary policy and flare-ups in trade tension, the European economy was more resilient than anticipated. While the lower growth environment was challenging for many issuers, corporate profits for the majority of high quality issuers often exceeded much lowered anticipations. While the US-China trade war has not been completely resolved, late in the year there was an announcement of a "phase-one" trade deal, which caused a shift in investor expectations fueling a global risk-on rally in December where lower quality high yield saw better returns. For the full year, however, higher quality outperformed lower quality. For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, securities rated BB and B in the ICE BofA Global High Yield Constrained Index returned 14.4% and 13.5%, respectively, whereas CCC-rated securities returned 12.0%.

Credit selection was a key factor in high yield in 2019 and avoiding deteriorating credits was additive to investment results. Issuers with unsustainable capital structures in uneconomic parts of retail, energy, commodity- and/or cyclically-exposed businesses and companies facing increased regulatory scrutiny were the underperformers in 2019. Outside of these pockets of idiosyncratic risk, most of the European high yield issuer were supported by constructive fundamentals: very low-but-positive revenue growth, earnings that were generally in-line (or less bad than feared), good interest coverage and only a modest increase in leverage which was driven primarily by a subset of stressed issuers in the high yield universe. Among the higher-quality issuers, fundamentals remain relatively solid.

In a strong market, the Portfolio saw upside participation and outperformed its benchmark index over the reporting period. During the year, security selection within Support-Services, an underweight to Telecommunications and security selection within Gaming were the most beneficial to performance. In contrast, security selection within Consumer Products, Utilities and Restaurants were the largest detractors.

Developments in recent weeks point to a period of near term challenges to aggregate demand from the coronavirus outbreak. Unusually, we anticipate demand and supply chain disruptions related to Covid-19. Despite the high level of uncertainty of how deep or over what length of time the virus will impact, we do believe this to be a temporary decline in GDP. Expansionary monetary and inventive fiscal policies will likely moderate the economic impact of the closures and social distancing efforts to "flatten the curve" of the virus.

With spread levels now at multi-year wides, we believe valuations are at attractive levels which compensate investors even in an environment with an above-average increase in default rates in European High Yield.

* The performance of certain rated bonds within the Index, as noted above, represent issues that are rated Ba1/BB+ through Ba3/BB and CCC+/Caa1 or lower, based on an average of Moody's, S&P and Fitch, as calculated by ICE BofA.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 27.32%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the MSCI All Country World Index (Net) (the "Index"), returned 26.60%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Global equity markets enjoyed a very strong year despite a backdrop of negative earnings revisions, weakening global growth momentum and trade tensions. Monetary policy grew increasingly accommodative as the year progressed, providing a tailwind, and global economic data appeared to stabilize. Late in the year, the US and China appeared to move closer to the beginnings of a trade deal, calming investor sentiment. The US outperformed developed international markets, but both, along with emerging markets, posted strong results.

Within the All Country World Index, Information Technology ("IT") was the top performer, followed by Consumer Discretionary and Industrials. Energy, Materials, and Utilities, while positive, lagged. Top-performing countries included Argentina, Russia and Greece. Chile, Poland, and Saudi Arabia declined most.

The Portfolio benefited from stock selection, particularly within IT, Financials and Industrials. By country, holdings based in the Netherlands, Switzerland and Canada contributed most. Weaker areas included Energy, Consumer Discretionary and Health Care, and by country, US-based, German and Israeli holdings.

In 2019, our Portfolio delivered strong absolute and relative returns. Many of the names we continued to own, or added to, after the broad market selloff in late 2018 were among top contributors.

As the year progressed, some of these names, along with many other high profitability ("quality") growth stocks, began to look more richly valued. In keeping with our 'quality at a reasonable price' discipline, we realised some profits throughout the year, investing the proceeds into more attractively valued areas of the market.

During the first quarter of 2020, global markets appear to be suffering significantly given that Europe and the US are currently the epicenters of the COV-19 crisis. In our view, the recently announced central bank programs should help ease funding stresses. In addition, fiscal policy action is gathering pace with governments in the largest world economies announcing significant spending programs to support businesses and workers.

Easy US Federal Reserve policy and rising fiscal deficits (post stimulus) could help US Dollar strength abate over time, but the current dollar funding squeeze is putting pressure on some normally stable currencies like British Pound, Aussie Dollar, and Norwegian Kroner. This will likely ease as central banks know how to deal with this as a result of the 2008-2009 global financial crisis (swap lines etc.).

We believe we own quality assets, and despite short-term disruptions, these businesses could gradually get back to normal. Additionally, we believe current valuation makes many of them look very attractive on a long-term view. The markets appear to already be discounting a sharp earnings drop in our view, but stimulus combined with pent-up demand could lead to a recovery later in the year.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 22.90%. Over the same period, the MSCI All Country World Index (ACWI) (USD Net Total Return) returned 26.60%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represents past performance and does not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Global equity markets rallied higher in 2019. The China-US trade dispute was an overhang for most of the year; however, markets finished with a strong fourth quarter rally as the trade dispute pushed toward a resolution, which materially improved investor sentiment. Despite strong equity markets, global economic growth continued to slow as global manufacturing PMI declined over the year. US markets rallied over 30% during 2019; with the help of an accommodative US Federal Reserve, which cut rates for the first time since 2009 in July, September, and again in October. The 10-year US Treasury yield declined sharply mid-year, spending nearly the entire second half of 2019 below 2%, which signaled defensive market sentiment. Non-US developed markets rallied more than 20% on the year. Boris Johnson's landslide victory in the UK general election moved his plan to reach a Brexit agreement by 31 January 2020 closer to realisation. Europe continued to struggle to meet inflation targets despite a stimulus package announced by the European Central Bank.

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, our underperformance versus the benchmark was driven mainly by security selection in the US and Europe ex-UK. The Materials and Financials sectors each did well relative to the benchmark, while security selection in Health Care, Communication Services, Utilities, and Information Technology drove the Portfolio's underperformance. The Portfolio's performance lagged relative to the benchmark due to value, momentum, and low risk equity factors.

Heading into 2020, global markets have experienced acute volatility in the face of COVID-19. We will continue to monitor COVID-19 virus' impact on global financial markets which will inform our investment process as we continue evaluate our portfolio holdings.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return of the USD I Accumulating Class shares was 25.96%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the FTSE EPRA/NAREIT Developed Real Estate Index USD TR (gross of fees, net of tax), returned 22.00%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any.)

The global stock market rallied sharply in 2019. A "dovish pivot" by the US Federal Reserve ("Fed") and monetary policy accommodation by a number of other Central Banks, a resilient US economy, generally solid corporate results, and an agreement on the first phase of the trade accord between the US and China supported investor sentiment and triggered periods of robust risk appetite. These positives more than offset concerns over moderating growth overseas, Brexit uncertainties and a number of geopolitical issues. All told, the global stock market, as measured by the MSCI AC World Index (net), returned 26.60% during the 12 months ended 31 December 2019. In contrast, the FTSE EPRA/NAREIT Developed Real Estate Index USD TR (gross of fees, net of tax), returned 22.00%.

The Portfolio generated a positive return and outperformed its benchmark index during the reporting period. Stock selection, in aggregate, was beneficial for relative results. The Portfolio's holdings in the Specialty, Hotel & Lodging and Industrial & Office and sectors added the most value. Conversely, stock selection in Real Estate Holding & Development, Diversified and Retail sectors were the largest detractors from performance. Country positioning, overall, was also additive to the Portfolio's relative returns. In particular, an overweight to the UK and an underweight to Hong Kong added the most value. In contrast, underweights to Europe Ex-UK and Japan were the largest headwinds from performance.

Looking ahead, market uncertainty and volatility has increased, spurred by increasing coronavirus concerns as more countries, including the U.S., announce additional infections. First half 2020 economic growth is likely to be severely impacted. In a surprise move, the Fed lowered the Fed Funds rate by 50 basis points in early March and by 100 basis points on March 15th. There has also been aggressive monetary easing outside the U.S., as well as significant fiscal stimulus package in the U.S. to help support the economy (after the reporting period ended). We will be monitoring indicators closely in the weeks and months ahead for signs of economic weakness. A possible extended global economic slowdown triggered by the Covid-19 outbreak, the coming U.S. election, and lingering concerns from U.S.-China trade tension has us re-doubling our effort to position portfolios to better withstand these headwinds. Synchronized global monetary easing should help ease the impact on markets. Stable cash flows anchored by long-term leases, conservative capital structures (lower leverage), and secular demand drivers should allow the global listed real estate market to perform more defensively than the broader market.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return of the USD I Accumulating Class was 21.29%. Over the same period, the Russell 2000 Value Index returned 22.39%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown reflect the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

What a difference a year makes. Twelve months ago we lamented how a promising 2018 had been derailed by a tone-deaf Federal Reserve and trade hawks in the White House. Even though there was good reason for the market to recover, we lacked conviction that the Central Bank and Executive Branch would reverse course from actions that were undermining confidence. Today as more constructive interest rate and tariff policies prevail, I get to write about a robust market recovery in 2019. The Federal Reserve, to its credit, acted decisively and while it took longer, the White House struck a tentative trade truce with China. The net result though is a small cap market modestly below where it stood before the selloff began late in the summer of 2018 and significantly behind the performance of the S&P 500 Index.

In our view, low interest rates and the lurking fear of recession have narrowed risk appetites. As we look back on the last five years, growth, quality and larger market capitalisations have handily outperformed value and smaller companies. We believe what lies ahead for investors in 2020 in all likelihood is probably more of the same – a roller coaster of optimism based on low interest rates and secular growth from mega trends followed by bouts of anxiety from geo-political or domestic election concerns. Ten years into an economic expansion, it is hard to imagine a dramatic shift by investors to companies and factors that traditionally outperform earlier in the business cycle.

Given our belief that the headwinds for value investors and smaller company strategies will continue, we thought it might be useful for clients to see how the intrinsic value portfolio has been affected by the divergent returns from growth and value factors, and what has worked and what has not.

As with the broader market, consistent growth was responsible for the Portfolio's best performers while traditional, deep value investments drove most, but not all of the under-performers. Note that even though growth drove returns, all of our outperformers were laggards when initially purchased. New ideas will always come from out of favour and underperforming companies. This remains a cornerstone of our process.

For example, when we first purchased Mellanox it looked like a technology flame-out. A downturn in its high-performance computing customers coincided with an announcement by Intel that it would be introducing a competing chip. What we saw was an innovative and entrepreneurial management team that could compete with Intel, together with a cash-rich balance sheet. Fast forward to 2019, Nvidia has agreed to purchase Mellanox for $125 per share in cash. Mellanox's ability to develop superfast switches will be foundational to Nvidia's long-term strategy of developing semiconductor systems that will power the next generation of super computing and AI applications.

We have often mentioned Ciena as an example of our constructive shareholder engagements but for nearly seven years the shares were range bound and underperforming. The emergence of new cloud computing customers and superb execution by the company in capturing the opportunity with Google, Facebook and Amazon, together with improved investor communications and capital allocation (which we helped the company formulate) lies behind the doubling of the share price.

For many years, Charles River Laboratories' share price was unchanged. Poor performance by acquired companies and a perception of slow growth in its core research models business were the likely culprits. A more disciplined and balanced approach to capital allocation and a broad expansion of the research products and services it provides to academic, biotech and large pharmaceutical companies has resulted in a doubling of earnings. The company now plays a role in the development of over half of every new pharmaceutical product approved by the FDA.

Mercury Computer Systems was a niche provider of hardened computer systems to the defense industry. The stock's price was also stagnant for some time. A new CEO replaced the founder, consolidated several defense electronics companies and dramatically enhanced the company's ability to provide complete electronic subsystems for next generation electronic warfare systems and advanced radar technology.

Avery Dennison owned a declining office products business and was struggling with a large acquisition when we initially invested. For the first three years, we saw little performance but as management streamlined operations, benefited from global e-commerce trends and rolled out a new generation of radio frequency ID tags, earnings grew substantially.

Virtually every one of the top performers is benefitting from vibrant underlying market conditions and translated that strength into consistent earnings growth. In a low interest rate world, with predictable earnings performance comes the added sweetener of multiple expansion. Charles River, Mercury and Avery Dennison now command historically high price earnings multiples.

In reviewing the detractors, a combination of levered balance sheets and competitive underlying business conditions particularly in the engineering & construction and energy services sectors resulted in underperformance. The investment case behind nearly each company was similar – single digit multiple of earnings and rapid deleveraging. Unfortunately, when the business turns south and earnings fail to grow shareholders absorb most, if not all, of the risk of poor execution by management.

Party City has to deal with increasing competition from Wal-Mart, Target and Amazon. A helium shortage and costumes in a bag from Amazon resulted in a $60 MM revenue decline and a $45 MM cash flow shortfall. Babcock & Wilcox and McDermott, because of a lack of growth in their core businesses, committed to fixed price construction projects. Both companies badly underestimated the costs to complete their projects and required dilutive equity injections to forestall bankruptcy. Asset sales will now determine whether shareholders in either company realize any value. In the energy services sector, leverage in excess of four times EBITDA overwhelmed stock prices. In fact, the mere shadow of debt by a related entity has made TETRA Technologies a long-term underperformer even though the debt is non-recourse to the company.

Amneal Pharmaceuticals was the result of a merger between Impax laboratories and Amneal Pharmaceuticals. The industrial logic was that a broader portfolio of generic products could help the combined company compete in a market dominated by a handful of managed care formularies. It has not yet worked. Cutthroat pricing in its generic drug business and market share losses in its branded pharmaceutical lines has resulted in a 30% decline in cash flow. Fortunately, Amneal has few debt covenants and time to get its product pipeline into higher gear.

The takeaway is obvious. If a stock is depressed because the markets the company serves are challenged, balance sheet flexibility is essential. It will provide management with the necessary time to execute their growth or turnaround plans. Equity markets can be unforgiving. If a company's cash flow starts declining and it is leveraged, the stock will swiftly be pronounced dead even with a strong pulse.

As we look into 2020, our challenge is to create a portfolio with new ideas that can blossom into consistent growers and drive returns over the years to come. To this end, over the last five years we have introduced 72 new ideas, 47 over three years and 13 in 2019. Although some have since been acquired or sold, several will have to outperform in order for our strategy to flourish. Of the newer investments, the majority are in the Information Technology (16), Health Care (19), Consumer (16) and Industrials (11) sectors. Given the long-term trends in these sectors, the likelihood of finding some new, consistent growers among this group is encouraging.

It has been a robust three and five year period for investors but not excessive, so we enter 2020 guardedly optimistic. Nevertheless, we live in a fragile, fast changing world where sentiment towards equity markets can swiftly turn negative as we saw in 2018. We remain committed to achieving the best possible outcomes for our clients by staying true to our value philosophy and capturing the ever-present opportunities presented by the significant changes in demographics and technology.

To what degree will world economies be slowed by the coronavirus outbreak?

In terms of the potential long-term economic ramifications resulting from COVID-19, containment is inherently recessionary in nature. If we continue down a path of potentially having long-term containment, we believe this will depress economic activity for the short term and will likely lead to a recession. The question is, How long will it last and is this likely to be V, L or U shaped? It is way too early to give an accurate opinion.

Every negative period comes from a different trigger. We have been running our strategy since 1997, and we have seen many different severe market sell-offs over the last 23 years. Potential tax cuts, targeted financial relief and more fed rate cuts will likely provide significant stimulus. With some new technology and breakthrough on testing and therapies, we believe this will become manageable. The ultimate question is, How severe will the recession be?

Neuberger Berman Asian Debt – Hard Currency Fund

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 13.35%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the JP Morgan Asia Credit Index (JACI) returned 11.34%. Asian credit benchmark spreads tightened 36 basis points over the year; overall total return was further driven by lower US Treasury yields during the same period. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Asian hard currency bonds had a strong year in 2019, the highest return for the asset class since 2012. A key focus for investors had been the significant shift in global central banks' policy bias towards the dovish side. The positive sentiment in the markets, emanating from the easier policy bias, was also supported by de-escalation in US-China trade tensions with the Phase 1 trade deal. Within Asia, markets were supported by healthy profit growth and disciplined balance sheet management which resulted in improving credit fundamentals led by investment grade corporates. Technicals were generally positive as well – healthy demand for bonds kept bonds supported despite the higher than expected primary supply.

From a country perspective, the biggest contributors to performance were positions in China, Philippines, Macau, South Korea and Indonesia. In China and Macau, the Portfolio's corporate exposures outperformed and added to performance. In Indonesia, the Portfolio's overweight, relative to the benchmark, in quasi-sovereigns, which was the best performing sector in Asia, added to performance. In South Korea, the overweight positions in financial subordinated securities contributed to performance, while the underweight sovereign positions in Philippines and South Korea also added to performance as these defensive countries had lagged the rally in Asian credit. On the other hand, the Portfolio's underweight in Pakistan detracted as sovereign bonds has rallied as the country availed of another IMF bailout. The Portfolio's overweight in Thailand and Taiwan, considered to be defensive countries, also detracted from performance. By sector, outperformance was led by the Consumer, Utilities, Metals & Mining and Financials sectors. In the consumer sector, the Portfolio's overweight in Macau gaming credits contributed to performance as the companies continued to generate strong cash flows. In Utilities, our overweight in renewables versus the underweight in state-owned utility companies performed strongly as did our positioning in Financials where outperformance was from our overweight positions in non-bank financials.

Despite the generally solid fundamental picture for Asia Hard Currency at the beginning of 2020, the risk to the outlook centers on the Covid-19 pandemic. In the coming months, the fallout from the Covid-19 virus will likely result in a severe short term dip in global growth due to the substantial demand and supply side disruptions globally. Our base case is for a recovery in economic activity later in the year, assuming containment of the virus and strong policy support from governments and central banks globally.

With this medium term view in mind, our outlook on Asian hard currency bonds is focused on its attractive valuations versus developed markets. The broader trend in sovereign macroeconomic fundamentals still remains on stable footing, and the markets' near term direction will likely be driven by the risks emanating from the external environment. We prefer countries where we see structural reforms providing significant improvements in fundamentals (Indonesia and India), and where IMF has stepped in to provide a liquidity backstop and anchor for policy reforms (Sri Lanka and Mongolia). We maintain an underweight on countries where we see higher concerns on near-term fundamental developments (Malaysia and Pakistan) or where valuations appear expensive (Philippines). The outlook for Asia corporate credit fundamentals is stable, as companies maintain solid metrics and leverage remains stable. Meanwhile valuations in the HY space continue to offer value.

Investment Manager's Report

For the year ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the CNY I Distributing Class was 7.51%. Over the same period, the FTSE Chinese Government and Policy Bank Bond 0-1 Year Select Index CNY, Total Return (the "Index"), returned 2.87%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

In the first 4 months of the year, risk sentiment was very positive, with equities performing very well and 10-year Chinese Government Bond yields breached 3.4%. In May, an unexpected resumption of trade tensions and a slowing of the Chinese and global economy brought global yields lower. The Renminbi ("RMB") weakened both against the USD (breaking the psychological level of 7.00 and a high of nearly 7.20 vs the USD) and a basket of trading partner currencies. In response, the US Federal Reserve cut interest rates by 75bps and many other Central Banks including the Peoples' Bank of China also eased monetary policy. In September, a resumption of US-China trade negotiations coupled with some stabilisation in the Chinese economy lifted sentiment and risk assets recovered into the year end. Credit bonds in general outperformed the sovereigns, as median credit spreads of 3y AAA, AA+ and AA fell by 20bps, 25bps and 37bps respectively. The onshore bond market saw a spike (from very low levels) in defaults in 2018 and this continued in 2019 but did not worsen. Market sentiment and trading was more orderly than 2018, supported by policies to help lower funding costs and targeted measures to encourage lending to privately owned corporates. However, we still note there is a disproportionate number of privately owned company defaults as compared to Stated Owned Enterprises ("SOEs").

In a year with strong equity performance and a narrow ~40bp range in government bonds, convertible bonds was our best performing segment, followed closely by USD and onshore credits while allocations to rates bonds detracted very slightly. We ended 2019 with a constructive view on risk assets and are moderately positioned in convertible bonds, overweight credit and with little interest rate duration. We anticipate defaults in 2020 may not go back to the extremely low levels seen prior to 2018. There is still value to be found in privately owned corporate issuers but we will be cautious in credit selection.

The Coronavirus outbreak was an unexpected event, but we believe it will have a profound impact on global growth as China is a big contributor to growth and is much more integrated into supply chains than before. On the positive side, the number of reported cases in China had drastically reduced. However, the number of cases in other parts of the world began to increase exponentially. We estimate the China GDP growth in 2020 to fall from around 6% towards the 5.0% level, assuming the economy can normalize in 2Q onwards. However, with the virus spreading in many parts of the world, weak external demand could mean China's recovery may not be as swift as initially hoped. The sharp correction in oil prices due to the price war started by Saudi Arabia was an unwelcome shock to markets in the short-term and may also weigh on inflation in months to come.

On a longer-term basis, our view remains positive on China bonds and FX markets on the back of continuation of reforms in the medium term.

Investment Manager's Report

For the period ended 12 April 2019, the total return for the USD I (PF) Accumulating Class was 4.79%. Over the same period, the Bloomberg Barclays U.S. Aggregate Bond Index (the "Index") returned -1.82%. While underperforming the ICE BofA U.S. High Yield Index and outperforming HFRX Fixed Income - Credit Index, which returned 8.58% and 1.53% respectively. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any. Please note that each of the above indices are used as a reference index and are not the official benchmarks of the Portfolio).

In a reversal of performance from the end of 2018, the New Year began with equities and credit rallying strongly across the world. Fears of an escalation in trade tensions between the US and China, potentially higher interest rates and a potential slowdown in global growth have begun to subside for each of these potential pitfalls. In fact these fears have led to a more dovish US Federal Reserve ("Fed") with expectations for a rate cut increasingly being priced in by market participants. A more dovish Fed, combined with the news that quantitative tightening will end in September had supported the full spectrum fixed income asset classes. In some regards the Fed is following in the lead of other central banks as the European Central Bank has kept the deposit rate steady at -0.4% and said it would not raise rates until at least next year and the Bank of England remained on hold, despite rising wage pressures.

The Portfolio performed well in this accommodative backdrop by blending discretionary and systematic processes in order to provide growth with a steady stream of income. Each of the strategies' components performed in line with expectations.

* Portfolio liquidated on 12 April 2019.

Investment Manager's Report

For the period from 1 January 2019 to the Portfolio's close on 24 July 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 8.11%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the MSCI All Country Asia Ex-Japan Index (the "Index"), returned 10.97%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Developing Asian equities performed well this period, in line with broader Emerging Markets equities, but trailing developed markets. Asian markets rebounded from a weak 2018, but volatility was high as investors digested US-China trade war headlines. A late June agreement to keep the trade standoff from escalating boosted all markets, as did the US Federal Reserve's signal of coming rate cuts. Elsewhere, Chinese economic indicators remained subdued. More broadly, lower growth and benign inflation figures provided room for emerging market central banks to loosen monetary policy.

The Consumer Discretionary, Real Estate and Information Technology sectors led the Index. All sectors except Health Care were positive, with Materials and Industrials also underperforming. By country, top performers included Hong Kong, Thailand and Taiwan. Pakistan was a detractor, and Korea and Malaysia trailed the average of the benchmark.

Stock selection was positive for the Portfolio this period, with particular strength in Real Estate. Industrials and Health Care holdings also outperformed. Sector allocation was a minor headwind, and Communication Services and Financials holdings underperformed. By country, holdings in China, Thailand, and Malaysia were additive while Korean and Taiwanese holdings, and an underweight to Hong Kong detracted.

While global political tussles were well publicised this period, many local domestic news items were not. These included incumbents maintaining control in recent Indian and Indonesian elections, spurring hopes for continued reforms.

* Portfolio liquidated on 24 July 2019.

Neuberger Berman Corporate Hybrid Bond Fund

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the EUR I Accumulating Class was 12.17%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the ICE BofA Global Hybrid Non-Financial 5% Constrained Custom Index (EUR Hedged) (the "Index") returned 11.64%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

As we reflect back on 2019, it is our view that the Corporate Hybrid market started the year with the most compelling valuation case since the inception of the strategy. The volatility of the fourth quarter of 2018 - which was driven solely by the macroeconomic backdrop, and ignored the improving fundamentals of many of our issuers - left the asset class with a starting euro-hedged yield of 3.4%. For context, that yield exceeded the Euro IG Credit and Euro High Yield BB indices by 210 basis points ("bps") and 10bps, respectively. The latter is rated two notches lower than the Corporate Hybrid universe at the bond level, and four-to-five notches lower at the issuer level. Additionally, Corporate Hybrids also began the year just 60bps inside of contingent convertible bonds ("CoCos"), a structure that is far weaker and arguably warrants over 200bps of additional spread versus Corporate Hybrid Bonds. We took advantage by adding to many of our highest conviction positions during the end of year 2018 sell-off. Overall, these valuations made little sense to us and left the sector trading well over 100bps wide of fair value.

Even with prospective returns going into 2019 seeming very attractive against that backdrop, we did not fully anticipate just how strong the market would be in 2019. The Portfolio's benchmark, the 'ICE BofA Global Hybrid Non-Financial 5% Constrained Index' returned 11.64% in euros. Our Portfolio delivered an additional 136bps, with a total return of 13.00% before fees. It is encouraging, though not surprising to us, that Corporate Hybrids have once again shown good resilience following a significant risk-off period.

We are pleased to report that positive security selection was the key driver of the Portfolio's outperformance versus the Index. As most of our investors already know, our value philosophy emphasises deep fundamental, bottom-up research with capital subsequently allocated to what we believe are the most undervalued securities in our investment universe. At times, this means our Portfolio's largest positions can be dominated by idiosyncratic, non-consensus issuers. Examples of this have been Volkswagen in the aftermath of 'Diesel Gate', UK Utilities during the Brexit uncertainties and Bayer with their ongoing glyphosate litigation. Unfortunately, non-consensus ideas - by definition - can take months to come to fruition and are impossible to time perfectly in our opinion. This has periodically cost us in terms of performance - as happened in late 2018. However, rigidly sticking to the same process held us in good stead in 2019.

The Portfolio benefitted from security selection within the Energy sector. The key driver behind this was our allocation to US and Canadian midstream issuers such as Enbridge, EPD and TransCanada. This segment of the portfolio particularly underperformed in the final stages of 2018; As the bonds became even further undervalued, we added to our exposure. The rebound, which predominantly occurred in Q1'19, outpaced the broader Corporate Hybrid market as our issuers posted results ahead of expectations. We continue to maintain an allocation to the midstream sector, although our exposure has gradually declined over the course of the year as spreads have compressed.

The Portfolio benefitted from security selection within the Basic Industry sector. BHP Billiton and - more recently - Bayer, have been our largest Basics Industry positions and both have outperformed the broader sector. We had and continue to have a high conviction position in Bayer. After stress-testing the probability-weighted outcomes of the glyphosate litigation, we have concluded that the market has excessively penalised the name. Bayer remains one of our largest holdings and we expect it to add significant value over time.

The Portfolio gained from security selection within the Utility sector. Our two key high conviction UK utility positions in National Grid and SSE were responsible for most of that outperformance. We have been running a significant overweight to UK risk in the Portfolio for quite some time. Our thesis is that these names had been oversold on Brexit/Nationalisation concerns. This has now begun to play out in our favour following the December 2019 election result. On a risk-adjusted basis, our view had been that the market had been assigning too high a probability that a Labour Party-led government, could actually implement their nationalisation plans. With the Conservatives delivering their strongest election result for many decades, we can now say that the UK has firmly rejected Labour's left-wing policies that have been weighing on our UK exposure. We expect further outperformance of these names in 2020.

If we split performance by currency, our significant overweight to US Dollar credit added significantly to our returns. We assess valuations on a fully-swapped out basis and continue to find mispriced bonds in USD. These include the USD hybrids of non-US issuers such as SSE, Enel and EnBW, together with the pipeline issuers we have previously mentioned. From time to time, we also find valuation anomalies in certain Sterling hybrids and we will continue to remain currency agnostic in allocating to the most undervalued opportunities.

We also benefitted from our participation in the new issue market, where new deals typically come at a discount to fair value. Once again, we have seen a collection of first-time issuers enter the market in 2019. Names such as Deutsche Bahn, Heimstaden and Infineon all brought deals. Infineon was a particularly strong performer that added to our returns. 2019 saw gross issuance of ~$30bn equivalent and we expect the market will continue to grow by ~$20-25bn equivalent per year. Overall, the universe continues to diversify by both issuer and sector, which in turn is attracting more investors to the space.

Despite their performance in 2019, Corporate Hybrids are still offering around 3.5 times the yield on the broad Euro Investment Grade Credit index of which they are a part. They are also trading flat to Euro bonds rated BB with similar duration and a ratings differential as previously described.

This still does not make sense to us and points to Corporate Hybrids trading over 50bps wide of fair value on a relative basis. We believe the ongoing search for high quality, positive yield - particularly inside the Eurozone - will continue to benefit Corporate Hybrids. This is a key reason why the asset class continue to be our top idea in global investment grade credit.

The Portfolio remains significantly more diversified than the benchmark, particularly at the single name level. However, following a long term value approach, we continue to allocate a considerable portion of the Portfolio to the utility sector, alongside energy and telecommunications. Our decisions on a bond-by-bond basis are driven by valuations considered in the context of overall low business risk, low peak-to-trough EBITDA level and a favourable regulatory backdrop going into 2020. We still see significant opportunities in UK Utilities and Bayer as previously mentioned. We also continue to hold a sizeable position in Volkswagen. This continues to play out in our favour. Overall, we are confident that our allocations will outperform and deliver an attractive total return over the long term.

Moving into 2020, concerns over the spread of the coronavirus (COVID-19) and its potential impact on global growth dominated financial markets. Outbreak fears quickly replaced trade as the main focus and fueled one of the sharpest equity sell-offs in recent history with European Credit spreads responding in kind, widening by 21bps. Against this backdrop, virtually all risk assets posted negative returns as fears of an impending economic slowdown dominated sentiment. Unsurprisingly, the worst performing areas were energy and cyclical sectors such as autos.

It is worth highlighting that the fund has zero exposure to travel, hotel or leisure companies. Most corporate hybrid issuers we hold are extremely robust with limited fundamental sensitivity to either the economic outlook or oil prices.

Our commitment to having zero exposure to emerging market issuers, as well as only limited exposure to bonds issued by peripheral Eurozone issuers, also continue to protect us.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return of the USD I Accumulating Class was 33.75%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the S&P 500 Index, returned 31.49%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

For 2019 as a whole, the US stock market rallied sharply and posted its best calendar year since 2013. A "dovish pivot" by the US Federal Reserve ("Fed"), a resilient US economy, generally solid corporate results, and an agreement on the first phase of the trade accord between the US and China supported investor sentiment and triggered periods of robust risk appetite. These positives more than offset concerns over moderating growth overseas, Brexit uncertainties and a number of geopolitical issues. All told, the S&P 500 Index gained 31.49% in 2019.

The Portfolio posted a positive absolute return and outperformed its benchmark during the reporting period. Both stock selection and sector allocation contributed to relative results. From a stock selection perspective, holdings in the Financials, Health Care and Consumer Staples sectors were the largest contributors to performance. On the downside, stock selection in the Consumer Discretionary, Materials and Industrials sectors detracted the most from returns.

In terms of sector allocation, underweights to the Health Care and Energy sectors added the most value. In contrast, the Portfolio's cash position and an underweight to the Information Technology sector were the largest detractors from performance.

Despite the market's gyrations – due to uncertainty over global growth concerns driven by the abrupt halt in economic activity from the COVID-19 outbreak – the key market debate continues to revolve around the magnitude of the global deceleration of growth – coupled with the permanent loss of corporate cash flows from the slowdown in economic activity and how much this will impede the growth in corporate earnings in the U.S. and elsewhere. We believe that recent volatility and wild oscillations of the stock market (meaningful peak to trough drawdowns) driven by low (and in many cases negative) global interest rates will continue to occur due to the interconnectivity and tight correlations of both the global economy and the credit and equity markets. As market dynamics change this can cause company market values to dislocate from their long-term potential values.

Nevertheless, we are very mindful of the complex world in which we live and invest. We remain mindful that our constructive view on risk assets is not without challenges as we embark on over a decade of economic expansion. Despite positive US and economic data, China and the Eurozone economies remain fragile. Additionally, the current Federal Reserve policy presents the potential for spikes in volatility, as seen during the past few years. Given the vicissitudes of an increasingly global economy, we will also remain flexible in our decisions and open-minded to new ideas across different sectors, asset classes and geographies.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 14.38%. Over the same period, the ICE BofA Global High Yield Constrained Index (USD Hedged Total Return) (the "Index") returned 14.54%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown reflect the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

The global high yield market was supported by a number of factors in 2019, including a "dovish pivot" by the US Federal Reserve ("Fed"), as it lowered interest rates three times during the period as well as accommodative policy by the European Central Bank ("ECB"). The backdrop of more accommodative monetary policy was supportive of issuer fundamentals and investor risk sentiment. Later in the year, the Fed and the ECB signaled that rate cuts could be on hold in the near term which may have suggested to market participants that policymakers and economists were less concerned about further deterioration in growth. While there were bouts of volatility in the market during the year driven by political risk (UK, Hong Kong, Argentina and the US), changes in expectations for monetary policy and shifting trade tensions, the global economy was relatively resilient. While the lower growth environment was challenging for some issuers, corporate profits for the majority of issuers often exceeded lowered expectations. While the US-China trade war has not been completely resolved, late in the year there was an announcement of a "phase-one" trade deal, which caused a shift in investor expectations fueling a risk-on rally in December where lower quality high yield saw better returns. For the full year, however, higher quality outperformed lower quality. For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, securities rated BB and B in the Index returned 14.4% and 13.5%, respectively, whereas CCC-rated securities returned 12.0%.

Credit selection was a key factor in global high yield in 2019 and avoiding deteriorating credits was additive to investment results. Issuers with unsustainable capital structures in uneconomic parts of retail, energy, commodity- and/or cyclically-exposed businesses and companies facing increased regulatory scrutiny were the underperformers in 2019. Outside of these pockets of idiosyncratic risk, most of the high yield market was supported by constructive fundamentals: low-but-positive revenue growth, earnings that were generally in-line, good interest coverage and only a modest increase in leverage which was driven primarily by a subset of stressed issuers in the high yield universe. Among the higher-quality issuers, fundamentals remain relatively solid. In both the US and Europe, high yield defaults, overall, remain below their long-term averages and are very low outside of commodities and energy. As of December, the US LTM par-weighted default rate was 2.86% and only 1.26% ex-commodities.

The Portfolio lagged its benchmark index over the reporting period. During the year, security selection within Energy, Support-Services and Telecommunications were the most beneficial to performance. In contrast, security selection within Media-Cable, Utilities and an underweight to Banking were the largest detractors. Within our ratings' positioning, security selection within the Portfolio's BB rated issuers was the most beneficial to performance and an overweight to BBB and above issuers was the largest detractor.

Spreads in the high yield market have widened in the past few weeks but we believe these wider spreads are likely pricing in a severe temporary stall in global GDP and not a deep, extended recession. Assuming no deep, extended recession, spreads are compensating investors for an above-average rise in default rates from the low levels, with the secularly-challenged, idiosyncratic risk credits impacted by supply disruptions and demand declines in certain industries the most affected. As we continue to be vigilant to the developments of COVID-19, we are finding select opportunities in the high yield universe. That said, our primary goal remains one of avoiding default risk. While uncertainty around the duration and severity of the health crisis as well geopolitical event risk can result in heightened short-term volatility, we believe our portfolio is well positioned. We will continue to look to tactically take advantage of the increased volatility to add to credits with more stable fundamentals and attractive valuations.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 9.25%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the Bloomberg Barclays Global Aggregate Index hedged in USD, returned 8.22%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

In response to slowing global growth - attributed in large part to overhangs from trade policy and Brexit negatively impacting investment spending - global central banks turned more accommodative in 2019. The Federal Reserve ("Fed") cut rates three times after hiking rates four times in 2018, while numerous other central banks also loosened policy in seeking to support growth amid falling inflation expectations. This helped drive developed markets government bond yields lower and global credit spreads tighter over the period, creating a powerful tailwind for fixed income performance.

During the reporting period, the Portfolio's diversified overweight to credit was a primary reason for relative outperformance. Allocations to European high yield, emerging markets ("EM") debt, and mortgage credit, as well as security selection in global investment grade credit were all key contributors. Allocation to CLOs and US TIPS were lesser contributors. Rates positioning overall detracted over the period. Although overweights in Australian, South African and New Zealand rates were additive, these positives were more than offset by underweights in US and core European rates and short exposure to Sweden. Our active FX strategy also detracted for the period; overweights in Norwegian krone and Swedish krona were the worst performing positions whereas underweights to euro and New Zealand dollar were the best performing positions.

Coming into 2020, our thesis of a modest slowdown in US growth, stabilization in international developed market growth (led by a global recovery in manufacturing and an attendant rebound in trade), and bouts of elevated volatility ahead of the known unknown (the US election) appeared sound. However, an unknown unknown, COVID-19, has disrupted the chain of events.

We expect a stark slowdown in the US and global growth in the first half of 2020. We are viewing the impact of the virus as a growth shock, analogous to other growth shocks over the past 20 years (9/11 attacks, European crises in 2011 and 2013, and the energy issues of 2015/2016). We do not see a material permanent impact to the global growth trajectory, and while we expect markets to remain volatile, monetary easing and fiscal easing will stabilize the impacts of this growth shock. We would also note that the 'outcome' of this crisis is now a return to approximately 0% policy rates in the US and lower overall government bond yields, which will only heighten investors' need for income, particularly in high quality securities.

Investment Manager's Report

For the period from 1 January 2019 through 12 March 2019 (the liquidation date of the USD I Accumulating Class), the total return of the USD I Accumulating Class was 0.55% compared to the benchmark, the ICE BofA US Dollar 3-Month Deposit Offered Rate Constant Maturity Index, which returned 0.59%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

By investing in a portfolio of diversified risk premia, the strategy seeks attractive absolute returns with managed volatility and low correlation to traditional asset classes, as well as better drawdown characteristics during highly volatile periods. The Portfolio is comprised of well-diversified exposure to four styles of risk premia (value, momentum, carry and liquidity) identified across equities, fixed income, currencies and commodities - for a total of 14 risk premia included in the Portfolio. The Portfolio construction for the risk premia is based upon the team's proprietary risk-balancing methodology, which seeks balanced risk from each of the four styles of risk premia, and then balanced risk across premia within each style, so as to achieve better diversification and drawdown management, and ultimately to achieve the Portfolio's investment objectives.

In a reversal of performance from the end of 2018, the New Year began with the majority of asset classes rallying strongly across the world. Fears of an escalation in trade tensions between the US and China, potentially higher interest rates and a potential slowdown in global growth have begun to subside for each of these potential pitfalls. In fact these fears have led to a more dovish fed with expectations for a rate cut increasingly being priced in by market participants. A more dovish Fed, combined with the news that quantitative tightening will end in September, had supported the full spectrum fixed income asset classes. In some regards the fed is following in the lead of other central banks as the European Central Bank has kept the deposit rate steady at -0.4% and said it would not raise rates until at least next year and the Bank of England remained on hold, despite rising wage pressures.

The strategy's performance during the period was balanced with an equal number of premia contributing to performance as there were detracting. Commodity value which went long four commodity markets with the highest ratio of longs to total positions and short the four markets with the lowest positioning was the stand out contributor. Equity Momentum was the premia which detracted the most during the reporting period as global equity markets outperformed following poor performance at the end of last year which had the strategy positions short.

Neuberger Berman Multi-Asset Class Income Fund

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 12.72%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

After a particularly challenging 2018, 2019 proved very strong across all major asset classes: equities, fixed income, commodities, inflation-linked strategies, Real Estate Investment Trusts ("REITS") and hedge funds. The global macroeconomic backdrop remained healthy and the market cycle was extended by another year, becoming the longest growth cycle since 1900. Central banks globally (the US Federal Reserve ("Fed") and the European Central Bank in particular) shifted to a more dovish stance and indicated their willingness to support the economy further via ultra-easy monetary policy, fueling the equity market rally. Job market and confidence indicators remained robust, while geopolitical tensions eased with US-China tensions reducing and the Brexit impasse broken in the UK after an emphatic Conservative election victory.

High equity allocation and pro-risk positioning in tactical strategies in the beginning of the year contributed positively to the Portfolio's performance. The portfolio is naturally tilted towards high-dividend equities that slightly underperformed broad equity indices, but still had a very strong year. Our allocation to REITS also contributed positively both in income and total return terms, and significantly outperformed equity indices in the first 3 quarters of the year. High yield fixed income strategies such as European High Yield and CLOs also performed well, both with positive contributions by their overall respective markets and security selection in the Portfolio. Despite political turmoil in Argentina and Chile, good news on the trade front and the dovish Fed shift boosted confidence in emerging market debt, which also posted strong returns. Diversifying strategies were modestly positive in 2019, with tactical asset allocation and options posting small gains in the beginning of the year and currency overlay being flat.

As we enter 2020, the balance of economic and market risks has changed drastically as the Coronavirus outbreak has created significant economic and social disruption, which will likely lead to the next global recession. With the pandemic spreading rapidly across the globe, governments have been forced to expand quarantine measures, with several countries essentially in complete lockdown. The unique circumstances have created extreme market volatility, with equities posting their worst drawdown since 2008, crude oil dropping to multi-year lows, credit markets suffering and even Treasury securities experiencing pricing and liquidity challenges. Despite the exceptional fiscal and monetary measures taken by authorities globally, we expect the level of uncertainty around the path of the coronavirus and its impact on GDP growth and corporate earnings to remain high for an extended period, accompanied by elevated market volatility. This is a challenging environment, where correlations are rising across assets and diversification is not as beneficial as in more normal periods. Amid this volatility, the multi-asset class portfolio management team continues to focus on risk management, and are closely evaluating the path of the virus and its impact on the economy. The team has increased cash levels in the portfolio and is monitoring the elevated level of overall market volatility, scarce liquidity in credit markets, and the lack of a bottoming process in equity markets. They are looking for evidence of normalization in these areas as key indicators to increase risk and potentially deploy capital into asset classes that provide opportunities after the selloff.

Diversifying and hedging strategies remain a key component of the investment process and their allocation was increased during 2019. We believe they will continue to play a crucial role in a market environment of increased volatility and provide uncorrelated returns if traditional asset classes face challenges.

Finally, we continue to believe that a multi-dimensional approach to yield is prudent, and during 2019, we expanded our income sources and diversification within the Portfolio. Our multi-asset class approach avoids concentration of Portfolio risk in equity, duration or spread risk and attempts to diversify across asset classes to achieve a high and sustainable income level in a risk managed framework.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 15.09%. Over the same period, the Blended Benchmark (85% CBOE S&P 500 PutWrite Index and 15% CBOE Russell 2000 PutWrite Index) returned 13.66%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown reflect the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Historically speaking, 2019 was not a particularly exceptional year in volatility terms even though only three years in the past 30 have seen higher S&P 500 calendar year returns while implied volatility levels and implied volatility premiums were around median levels. In our opinion, what made it seem so exceptional was how few investors anticipated the spectacular returns. Given the persistent outflows from equity mutual Portfolios and exchange traded Portfolios in 2019, participation in market gains in 2019 may not have been as wide spread as most investors might perceive.

In 2019, the portfolio benefited from increased index implied volatility premiums, strong equity market returns led by the 31.5% return of the S&P 500 and reasonable short-term US Treasury rates. Somewhat surprisingly, the CBOE S&P 500 Volatility Index ("VIX") averaged 15.4 for the year which was slightly lower than its 2018 average of 16.6. Yet, the implied volatility premium earned in 2019 was markedly higher. Thus, year-over-year, the average 30-day realised volatility level of the S&P 500 Index was materially lower. Comparatively, the S&P 500's average 30-day realised volatility for 2019 was approximately 11.4 while 2018's average was 15.0. This lower realised volatility environment in 2019 yielded an attractive average S&P 500 implied volatility premium of 4.2 versus the 2018 average of just about 1.0.

On the year, the Portfolio produced an attractive 15.09%, outperforming its benchmark return of 13.66% but, as expected, underperformed the blended S&P 500 Index/Russell 2000 Index return of 30.6%. Average option notional exposure over the month remained consistent with our strategic targets of 85% S&P 500 Index and 15% Russell 2000 Index.

Year-to-date, the Portfolio's S&P 500 Index put writing strategy was the largest contributor to performance as it produced an attractive 15.80%, outperforming the 13.51% return of the PUT but lagging the S&P 500 Index's 31.5%. During the year, the VIX level fell -11.6 points from 25.4 at the start of the year, averaging 15.4 for the period. Meanwhile, volatility on the S&P 500 Index has realised at 12.5 well below its historical average, leading to a positive average implied volatility premium of 3.0 on the year.

The Portfolio's Russell 2000 Index put writing strategy also positively contributed to performance for the year and rallied approximately 14.48%, matching the 14.50% return of the CBOE Russell 2000 PutWrite Index ("PUTR") but lacked the beta exposure to keep pace with the Russell 2000 Index's 25.5%. During 2019, the RVX level fell -12.5 points from 28.5 at the start of the year, averaging 18.6 for the period. Meanwhile, volatility on the Russell 2000 Index has realised at 16.1, leading to a positive average implied volatility premium of 2.6 on the year.

Year-to-date, the collateral Portfolio has posted a gain of 2.45%, as 2-Year US Treasury Yields fell -92bps. The Portfolio outperformed the ICE BofA 0-3 Month US T-Bill Index return of 2.21% but failed to keep pace with the longer duration exposure of the ICE BofA 1-3 Year US Treasury Index which returned of 3.55% on the year.

After years of waiting for risk to build in the system, 2020 looks to be a year in which any number of anticipated and unanticipated risks, like strategic assassinations of military leaders or global pandemics, could, and have, come to weigh on the markets. Having managed through one of the worst equity sell-offs in modern times and the 2nd largest increase in implied volatility levels on record (only 1987 was higher), elevated option premium levels offer a substantial opportunity to either recoup losses as a recovery takes hold or mitigate additional losses in the event the market continue to decline. With rates at zero or negative, credit spreads widening based on the growing possibility of real default risk and other strategies failing to navigate the volatility, monetizing equity volatility is one of the more liquid and direct ways to profit from the current fear in the markets. Importantly, the longer VIX remains in a historically high range—in 2008/09 VIX was above 50 for 56 days and has been above 50 for 14 days in 2020—the more insulated our strategies become from any additional deterioration in equity markets. With the VIX futures curve elevated above 30 out into the 3rd quarter of this year, option markets are expecting high levels of equity volatility to continue on into the 2020 election. Regardless of what we think, a lot happens in 365 days and the markets will continue to surprise investors in 2020, so we will just have to wait and see.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 12.42%. Over the same period, the Blended Benchmark<sup>1</sup> (the "Index") returned 12.61%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown reflect the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Historically speaking, 2019 was not a particularly exceptional year in volatility terms even though only three years in the past 30 have seen higher S&P 500 calendar year returns while implied volatility levels and implied volatility premiums were around median levels. In our opinion, what made it seem so exceptional was how few investors anticipated the spectacular returns. Given the persistent outflows from equity mutual fund portfolios and exchange-traded portfolios in 2019, participation in market gains in 2019 may not have been as wide spread as most investors might perceive.

For the year, the MSCI All Country World Index ("MSCI ACWI") at 27.30%, outperforming the 12.61% return of the Index. Meanwhile, the Blended PutWrite Index<sup>2</sup> returned 8.83%. In 2019, the Portfolio benefited from increased index implied volatility premiums, strong equity market returns led by the 31.49% return of the S&P 500 and reasonable short-term US Treasury rates. For the year, the Portfolio rallied 12.42%, outperforming the Blended PutWrite Index return of 8.83% but lagged its benchmark return of 12.61%. As anticipated, the Portfolio lacked the beta exposure to keep pace with the MSCI ACWI.

Year-to-date, the Portfolio's S&P 500 Index put writing strategy was the largest contributor to performance and posted a 15.99% return, outperforming the 13.51% return of the CBOE PUT Index but lagged the S&P 500 Index's 31.49%. During the year, the CBOE S&P 500 Volatility Index ("VIX") level fell -11.6 points from 25.4 at the start of the year, averaging 15.4 for the period. Meanwhile, volatility on the S&P 500 Index realised at 12.5, well below its historical average, leading to a positive average implied volatility premium of 3.0 for the year.

Non-US developed markets was the second best contributor to Portfolio performance during the year. The Portfolio's MSCI EAFE put writing strategy rallied approximately 10.45%, outperforming the 5.45% return of the CBOE MSCI EAFE PutWrite Index but lagged the MSCI EAFE Index's 22.66% for the year. Meanwhile, the CBOE EFA ETF Volatility Index level retreated -7.4 points from 19.4 at the start of the year, averaging 13.7 for the period. In addition, volatility on the MSCI EAFE Index has realised at 8.8, leading to a positive average implied volatility premium of 5.0 for 2019.

For the year, the Portfolio's MSCI EM put writing strategy at approximately 9.72%, outperforming the 1.65% return of the CBOE MSCI Emerging Markets PutWrite Index and capturing more than half of the MSCI Emerging Markets Index's ("MSCI EM Index") 18.88%. During 2019, the CBOE EEM ETF Volatility Index level retreated -7.6 points from 24.9 at the start of the year, averaging 18.6 for the period. Meanwhile, volatility on the MSCI EM Index realised at a low 11.4, leading to a positive average implied volatility premium of 7.2 for the year.

Year-to-date, the collateral Portfolio posted a gain of approximately 2.32% as 2-Year US Treasury Yields fell -92bps. The Portfolio outperformed the ICE BofA 0-3 Month US Treasury Bill Index return of 2.21% but lagged against the longer duration exposure of the ICE BofA 1-3 Year US Treasury Index, which returned of 3.55% for the year.

After years of waiting for risk to build in the system, 2020 looks to be a year in which any number of anticipated and unanticipated risks, like strategic assassinations of military leaders or global pandemics, could, and have, come to weigh on the markets. Having managed through one of the worst equity sell-offs in modern times and the 2nd largest increase in implied volatility levels on record (only 1987 was higher), elevated option premium levels offer a substantial opportunity to either recoup losses as a recovery takes hold or mitigate additional losses in the event the market continue to decline. With rates at zero or negative, credit spreads widening based on the growing possibility of real default risk and other strategies failing to navigate the volatility, monetizing equity volatility is one of the more liquid and direct ways to profit from the current fear in the markets. Importantly, the longer VIX remains in a historically high range in 2008/09 VIX was above 50 for 56 days and has been above 50 for 14 days in 2020 - the more insulated our strategies become from any additional deterioration in equity markets. With the VIX futures curve elevated above 30 out into the 3rd quarter of this year, option markets are expecting high levels of equity volatility to continue on into the 2020 election. Regardless of what we think, a lot happens in 365 days and the markets will continue to surprise investors in 2020, so we will just have to wait and see.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 2.32%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown reflect the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

2019 saw equities rally strongly across the board, with European stocks appreciating +23.9% (MSCI AC Europe Index), US equities +31.5% (S&P 500 Index), and Asia +16.3% (MSCI AC Asia Pacific Index). The US Federal Reserve set the tone in early January with a dovish turn which provided the catalyst for a sharp early year bounce in equities, following what had been a dismal fourth quarter in 2018. The rally was perpetuated in the second half of the year – and from September onwards in particular – by positive narrative around trade negotiations between the US and China, culminating in an eagerly anticipated “Phase One” agreement by year-end. Over the year the US dollar was mixed, generally trading higher in more muted periods for equities but giving back some of these gains as risk-appetite returned. Overall the US dollar appreciated against the euro (+2.2%) and the Australian dollar (+0.4%), but depreciated vs the British pound (-3.9%) and the Japanese yen (-1.0%). Developed Sovereign Fixed Income markets had a very strong year, although they gave back some gains in the last four months of the year. 10-Year bond yields in the US moved from 2.7% to 1.92%, UK Gilt yields were at 0.8% by year-end versus 1.28% a year ago and German 10 Year Bunds moved to negative levels at -0.19% from 0.24%.

The Portfolio allocated to six core strategies over the period. Four of the strategies contributed positively to return: Global Macro, Short-Term Trading, Trend Following and Equity Market Neutral. The two negatively contributing strategies were Volatility Relative Value and Statistical Arbitrage.

The Portfolio traded currencies, fixed income and equity securities throughout the year.

Fixed Income trading was the most profitable area, with gains being driven by the positions in US, UK and European sovereign bonds and interest rates. The gains came from the Trend Following strategy maintaining structural positions while our short-term trading allocation also profited from active trading within the interest rate and sovereign bond futures areas. Finally, the Global Macro strategy also generated gains from North American and European fixed income.

The Portfolio also profited from currency trading during the year. The most profitable source related to short positioning in the euro against the US dollar within the Global Macro strategy.

Equity trading was a negative for the year. Gains in the Equity Market Neutral strategy were more than offset by challenging conditions within Statistical Arbitrage and equity options trading. The options positions within the Volatility Relative Value book had a defensive characteristic, which historically has produced its best returns in adverse periods for equities; given the strong equity market and complacent levels of equity volatility over the year, this ended up as a net cost, though it did perform during brief bouts of “risk-off” in May and August. Statistical Arbitrage saw a headwind driven by an exodus of capital from related strategies on a global basis – a trend which we believe will abate in 2020.

The Portfolio added two new managers during the year. The first addition related to a second Equity Market Neutral strategy. This manager adopted a discretionary trading approach to a global portfolio of equities on a market neutral basis. We see the allocation as an effective complement to our incumbent systematic Equity Market Neutral manager, due to the differentiated approach. The second addition related to a discretionary Global Macro manager. This diversifies our Global Macro bucket by bringing in a discretionary, options based approach to complement the existing systematic futures-centric allocation.

February 2020 was a good reminder as to why it can make sense to allocate to strategies with low correlation to equities and with the ability to trade dynamically in volatile times. High turnover and/or positively convex trading strategies can be somewhat boring to own during prolonged periods of low volatility and asset price inflation, but they can also provide a valuable source of differentiated returns during less benign periods for risk assets.

We are continuing to try to make sure that the portfolio remains diversified and isn't over-reliant on one particular strategy, asset-class or market condition in order to generate returns. We also want to be sufficiently prudent in what is a high risk environment. Over recent weeks, we have seen gross exposures coming gradually down in the single stock equity strategies, reflecting the more volatile conditions. The Global Macro book has also rebalanced somewhat, taking risk down in some areas – most notably with a significant cut in the longstanding short Euro trade and an increase in short Australian Dollar. Trend Following has seen a reduction in risk and some modest hedging of the sizable fixed income exposure, so should be somewhat better positioned if we see a snap back up in yields during the month, at the cost of some further upside if there is continued yield compression. Short Term Trading remains very active, but has at least realised the majority of the profits from February, so trading risk today represents new trades rather than stale positions. Volatility Relative Value has also reined in risk somewhat at the current time.

Overall, we believe that these conditions are setting up some interesting opportunities for our strategies. We are currently on the front foot from a trading perspective but will remain mindful of the need for caution given the levels of uncertainty.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 15.07%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the weighted average of 2/3 JP Morgan Emerging Markets Bond Index Global Diversified Investment Grade and 1/3 of JP Morgan GBI EM Global Diversified Index Investment Grade 15% Cap (the "Index"), returned 15.70%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Emerging markets ("EM") debt posted strong gains in 2019 following a down year in 2018. The recovery was driven by spread compression as risk appetite returned to global markets in the first quarter. A sharp drop in US Treasury yields drove gains from March onwards as the market started to price in multiple rate cuts by the Federal Reserve ("Fed") for 2019. A more dovish monetary policy stance in developed markets also acted as a tailwind for EM assets, especially in local markets where local interest rates moved down. The ongoing trade negotiations between the US and China contributed to market volatility throughout the year, however, this abated as the countries came to a phase one agreement in mid-December to support a year-end rally.

The hard currency sovereign index returned 16.57% in 2019. The best performers were Kazakhstan, Uruguay and Mexico, which all posted returns over 20%. The worst performers were Lithuania and the Slovak Republic, but they were both still in positive territory for the year. In addition, there were new countries introduced to the Index over the course of the year. These were from the Gulf Cooperation Council ("GCC") and included Bahrain, Kuwait, Qatar, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates ("UAE").

The local currency benchmark returned 13.73% in USD terms over the year 2019, driven mostly by strong local bond returns. The benchmark yield came down from 5.13% to 4.43% during the year. Soft inflation across most emerging countries and a dovish turn by the Fed allowed many EM central banks to cut rates multiple times. As a result, we saw strong local bond performance in various large local markets including Russia, Mexico and Indonesia.

The Portfolio underperformed over the period: Within hard currency sovereigns security selection was the primary driver of performance, while country allocation and top down positioning were also positive. Within local currency, rates added to performance but foreign exchange ("FX") detracted. The tactical asset allocation ("TAA") sleeve was also additive as the currency overlay performed well in the December rally. Within hard currency sovereigns our security selection in Chile, where we hold metals & mining companies rather than sovereign exposure as valuations are less attractive, was positive. Positions in China and Kazakhstan were also additive. Security selection and the overweight position in Mexico dragged on performance as concerns about Pemex weighed on markets early in the year. The overweight in lower beta markets such as the UAE, Hong Kong, and Singapore detracted as did the underweight in Russia. The local currency sleeve outperformed its portion of the benchmark. Overweights in Mexico, Indonesia and Thailand were among the main contributors on the duration side while underweights in Poland and Russia detracted. On the currency side, overweights in the Kazakh tenge, Polish zloty and Peruvian sol added most value while the Russian ruble and the Philippine peso detracted the most.

As we entered 2020, we had been seeing increasing signs that economic activity is bottoming out following last year's slowdown, on the back of the lagged effects of global monetary policy easing and improved sentiment post the 'Phase 1' trade deal between the US and China. In the coming months though, the fallout from the Covid-19 virus will likely result in a severe short term dip in global growth due to the substantial demand and supply side disruptions globally. Our base case is for a recovery in economic activity later in the year, assuming containment of the virus and strong policy support from governments and central banks globally.

As for valuations, we believe that EM yields in aggregate are less compelling today after the strong recent tightening, although we continue to find attractive bottom-up opportunities in select local markets. Meanwhile, on the FX side, we believe valuations look attractive for most EM currencies.

We see market technicals as challenging due to potential outflows from the asset class, partly offset by net issuance that is expected to remain low in 2020. As for valuations, spreads in EM hard currency sovereigns and credits have become more compelling after the recent widening and continue to provide an attractive risk premium relative to developed market credits in our view.

Neuberger Berman Emerging Markets Sustainable Equity Fund

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 19.48%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the MSCI Emerging Markets Index (Net) (the "Index"), returned 18.42%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Emerging markets ("EM") equities rallied in 2019. After trailing developed equities for much of the year, they closed on a high note. Global monetary policy easing plus indications that a "phase one" US-China trade deal was imminent boosted risk-on sentiment. This was reflected in an EM equities rally, the dollar (DXY Index) weakening, and flows into EM equity funds turning strongly positive to end the year.

The EM Index was led by Information Technology ("IT"), Consumer Discretionary and Real Estate stocks. All sectors were positive, but Health Care, Materials and Industrials lagged. By country, Russia, Greece and Egypt were top performers, while Argentina, Chile and Poland declined.

Stock selection was the key driver of the Portfolio's outperformance this year. IT holdings contributed most, followed by Utilities. By country, stocks based in Taiwan, Russian and were positives. Sector allocation had a minor negative impact, including our overweight to Communications and underweight to Consumer Discretionary. Stock selection within Consumer Discretionary also detracted. By country, Philippines-based and Indonesian holdings underperformed.

Separately during 2019, the team signed the KnowTheChain Investor Statement encouraging corporations to follow basic protocols on Modern Slavery, and are engaging the relevant portfolio holdings on the topic.

With investors optimistic that monetary easing can boost global economic prospects, equity markets all rallied at year-end, with EM leading the way.

Global equity markets are attempting to assess the broader impact of COVID-19: as it spreads across communities, and corporates highlight the impact to their businesses. The impact can be categorized in three broad categories: first, the lost demand to the services sector; second, a postponement of discretionary spending; and third, a potential impact to global supply chains. Each emerging market and developed market are in a various stages of the virus spreading and government policies to tackle the virus. The early March breakdown of key oil supplier talks also added to the market turbulence.

The severity of both the COVID-19 disruption – and the oil price retreat – speaks to the lack of earnings visibility for the remainder of 2020, with the uncertainty also likely contributing to the volatility in equity markets.

In March 2020, emerging market equities were sold off indiscriminately, although countries that are further along in the Coronavirus curve, e.g. China and Taiwan, are outperforming and their economies seem to be getting back to normal. Commodity-sensitive markets like Russia and Brazil continue to be underperformers. On a sector basis, commodity sectors (Energy/Materials) have been the hardest hit during the month. Challenges are likely to persist in these markets, so we remain underweight, which has been helpful on a relative basis. We continue to monitor currencies that have taken a big hit, in particular commodity currencies like the Brazilian real, and Russian ruble.

Easy monetary policy can be helpful in the longer run, but March 2020's dollar funding squeeze is putting further pressure on emerging markets. The portfolio favors domestically-driven names, and the team expect locally-focused companies to recover first given exporters will likely still have to deal with virus-related demand destruction in the developed world. As things recover and liquidity improves, the team believes the portfolio is well positioned to benefit.

The portfolio positioning has not changed radically, but the team is staying in close contact with existing holdings to assess the impact. When the team believe stock prices are dislocated from fundamentals, the team looks to add. The portfolio's large underweight towards China is being reduced, adding to domestically-focused Consumer names as the economy recovers and pent-up demand could drive a second half 2020 recovery. In addition, we are also looking for opportunities in niche tech players, and quality financials with structural growth.

Our quality bias helps the portfolio avoid businesses with significant debt or with short term funding cliffs. Issues in credit markets should therefore be less impactful for our companies.

The team believes that despite short-term disruptions, the quality businesses in the portfolio could gradually return to normal activity. Current valuation makes many of them look very attractive on long-term view. Markets appear to already be discounting a sharp earnings drop, but stimulus combined with pent-up demand could lead to a recovery.

Chinese equities performed well during this period, outperforming developed international and emerging markets equities, and trailing the US S&P 500 Index which gained 31.49% in 2019. US-China trade war headlines impacted all markets throughout this year, creating tensions and volatility. Chinese economic indicators remained subdued as well.

In the first half, markets welcomed a late June agreement, which kept the trade standoff from escalating, and the US Federal Reserve's move toward easing. As the year ended, indications that a "phase one" US-China trade deal was imminent and a weaker dollar boosted sentiment.

Top performing Index sectors for the Portfolio included Consumer Discretionary, Information Technology and Consumer Staples. All sectors were positive, but Energy, Industrials and Utilities lagged.

Stock selection drove the Portfolio's outperformance this year, with Consumer Staples holdings, along with an advantageous overweight, the key factor. Communications holdings also outperformed. The Portfolio underperformed the benchmark in Financials and Information Technology.

Under the leadership of Patrick Ru as of July 2019, we seek to identify and own quality companies that are positioned to be beneficiaries of positive domestic secular trends – and that are thus somewhat insulated from headline trade-tension news. We believe our deep research capability and disciplined strategy should continue to help us identify exceptional opportunities, and deliver strong risk-adjusted returns going forward.

Global equity markets are attempting to assess the broader impact of COVID-19: as it spreads across communities, and corporates highlight the impact to their businesses. The impact can be categorized in three broad categories: first, the lost demand to the services sector; second, a postponement of discretionary spending; and third, a potential impact to global supply chains. Each emerging market and developed market are in a various stages of the virus spreading and government policies to tackle the virus. The early March breakdown of key oil supplier talks also added to the market turbulence.

The severity of both the COVID-19 disruption – and the oil price retreat – speaks to the lack of earnings visibility for the remainder of 2020, with the uncertainty also likely contributing to the volatility in equity markets. The portfolio favors domestically-driven names, and the team expect locally-focused companies to recover first given exporters will likely still have to deal with virus-related demand destruction in the developed world. As things recover and liquidity improves, the team believes the portfolio is well positioned to benefit.

Our quality bias helps the portfolio avoid businesses with significant debt or with short term funding cliffs. Issues in credit markets should therefore be less impactful for our companies.

The team believes that despite short-term disruptions, the quality businesses in the portfolio could gradually return to normal activity. Current valuation makes many of them look very attractive on long-term view. Markets appear to already be discounting a sharp earnings drop, but stimulus combined with pent-up demand could lead to a recovery.

Neuberger Berman Multi-Asset Class Growth Fund

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 9.48%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the ICE BofA US 3-Month Treasury Bill Index (the "Index"), returned 2.28%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

After a particularly challenging 2018, 2019 proved very strong across all major asset classes; equities, fixed income, commodities, inflation-linked strategies, Real Estate Investment Trusts ("REITS") and hedge funds, all posted positive returns. The global macroeconomic backdrop remained healthy and the market cycle was extended by another year, becoming the longest growth cycle since 1900. Central banks globally (Federal Reserve and ECB in particular) shifted to a more dovish stance and indicated their willingness to support the economy further via ultra-easy monetary policy, fueling the equity market rally. Job market and confidence indicators remain robust, while geopolitical tensions eased with US-China tensions reducing and the Brexit impasse was broken in the UK after an emphatic Conservatives election victory.

High equity allocation and pro-risk positioning in tactical strategies at the beginning of the year contributed positively to the Portfolio's performance. Option writing strategies also contributed positively over the year as equity markets reached new heights and volatility remained muted. US Investment Grade Credit, inflation-linked bonds and European High Yield were the top contributors within the fixed income part of the Portfolio, while relative value trades in rates markets had a modest negative impact. Currency positioning also detracted value as the Portfolio held long positions in Scandinavian currencies which depreciated over the year.

As we enter 2020, the balance of economic and market risks has changed drastically as the Coronavirus outbreak has created significant economic and social disruption, which will likely lead to the next global recession. With the pandemic spreading rapidly across the globe, governments have been forced to expand quarantine measures, with several countries essentially in complete lockdown. The unique circumstances have created extreme market volatility, with equities posting their worst drawdown since 2008, crude oil dropping to multi-year lows, credit markets suffering and even Treasury securities experiencing pricing and liquidity challenges. Despite the exceptional fiscal and monetary measures taken by authorities globally, we expect the level of uncertainty around the path of the coronavirus and its impact on GDP growth and corporate earnings to remain high for an extended period, accompanied by elevated market volatility. This is a challenging environment, where correlations are rising across assets and diversification is not as beneficial as in more normal periods. Amid this volatility, the multi-asset class portfolio management team continues to focus on risk management, and are closely evaluating the path of the virus and its impact on the economy. The team has increased cash levels in the portfolio and is monitoring the elevated level of overall market volatility, scarce liquidity in credit markets, and the lack of a bottoming process in equity markets. They are looking for evidence of normalization in these areas as key indicators to increase risk and potentially deploy capital into asset classes that provide opportunities after the selloff.

Neuberger Berman Global Thematic Equity Fund

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the Neuberger Berman Global Thematic Equity Fund USD I Accumulating Class returned 30.35%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the MSCI World Index (Net) (the "Index"), returned 27.67%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

We are pleased to report that 2019 was a quite productive year. Invariably there were both contributors and detractors across our themes and investments. Smart Systems, Health & Wellbeing and Humanisation of Pets contributed positively to the outperformance while Education, Energy Efficiency, and Personalisation of Media created some drag. At the holdings level, Pets at Home, Western Digital, Norton Lifelock (formerly Symantec) and Inovalon were the MVPs but GTT Communications, Allegheny Technologies and Scholastic required patience. Importantly, based on our calculations, we continue to be encouraged by the risk/reward profile of our holdings today.

This past year's results came despite significant pessimism and prognostications to the contrary exactly one year ago. Reflecting back further, 2018 was very much the mirror image of 2019, with much enthusiasm and optimism entering the year, only to fade as the months unfolded. Entering 2020 there were flecks of optimism for the global economy rooted in progress on US-China trade negotiations and increased clarity around Brexit. However, elevated tensions in the Middle East have provided cause for broad skepticism. Thus is the perpetually unsettled state of markets and the importance of having a mechanism that bolsters visibility and knowing what you own: the core of our thematic process.

It has been our experience, that the most productive real returns have been achieved investing around the world through the entirety of the cycle as contrasted with those strategies that attempt to time geographies, sectors or capitalisations. Themes, defined as observable, sustainable, global secular shifts provide the mechanism that allows our investment horizon to transcend cycles. However, generating outsized returns requires more than having the right theme. Equally important is having the right type of business, with solid leadership, an attractive business model (predictable growth, meaningful operating leverage), and a compelling valuation framework. It is these elements (depicted in the image that follows) that underpin each and every one of the investments in the portfolio. We thought a detailed summary of these characteristics across each of this year's non-performers might provide a useful insight to our cause for continued conviction in these businesses.

GTT Communications

Theme: Personalisation of Media

GTT Communications was founded in 2005 and is headquartered in McLean, VA. GTT is a relatively small, but very nimble cloud networking and communications services provider. The company was created through a multitude of acquisitions over the years with the goal of capitalizing on the increasing need for bandwidth by global enterprises. As businesses use more and more cloud applications for things such as order management, billing, inventory and general communication they require greater bandwidth. These services are essential to remaining relevant and become mission critical. GTT's goal is to capture market share from the larger incumbent providers that have failed to adapt to the changing landscape and offer cumbersome and inefficient solutions to their customers. This change in business communication technology is the large global theme that GTT was built to capture and one we call Personalisation of Media.

The company is led by Richard Calder, CEO, and Brian Thompson, Chairman. They have both worked in the communications industry for several decades and built GTT together to capture the digital business movement. They are both focused on free cash flow generation and making the right long term decisions. We like the fact that management owns approximately 20% of the shares outstanding and believe that skin in the game provides ample motivation.

2019 was a forgettable year performance wise for GTT. Management made some missteps in using too much leverage to make acquisitions and the sales force did not grow or produce at a rate that was acceptable. While these issues are real, we believe they do not impact the quality of GTT's offerings or change the demand environment for their services. We believe their debt and sales force obstacles are on the way to being fixed and with those corrections, we believe we should see significant increase in free cash flow, approaching $200 million for 2020. In our view this free cash flow yield is very attractive for a predictable and visible business like GTT.

Allegheny Technologies

Theme: Energy Efficiency

Founded in 1996 and headquartered in Pittsburgh, PA, Allegheny Technologies is a leading producer of specialty nickel alloys, titanium and metallic powders. Given the global emphasis on energy efficiency, their materials are increasingly being utilised across a range of industries to reduce weight and improve heat tolerance enabling greater fuel productivity. Importantly, they are one of three producers in the world of aerospace grade titanium which is increasingly utilised in next generation planes and jet engines. Their materials science expertise and years of certification tests have created a high barrier to entry. In addition, we believe their powdered metals know-how will allow them to be an enabler of the nascent but growing number of additive manufacturing (3D Printing) applications on the horizon.

As for leadership, we are confident Allegheny has a high caliber team that thinks like owners and understands that returns are measured in free cash flow. CEO, Bob Weatherbee, supported by EVPs and Division Presidents, Kim Fields and John Sims have collectively demonstrated the importance of consistent execution and delivering results. While we will miss Pat DeCourcy, retiring CFO, whom we credit with driving the organisational emphasis on free cash flow, we are confident he has chosen a capable successor in Donald Newman.

In 2019, respectable operating results and business progress was overshadowed by fears surrounding 737MAX production. While this will have some near-term financial impact, in our opinion it is a short term distraction. We believe ATI is well positioned to be a direct beneficiary of the increasing global implementation of specialty metals across a number of industries, most significantly in aerospace. We believe this is a visible and predictable shift that will materialize over the coming years. Given the fixed cost nature of the business, increased volumes should drive meaningful operating leverage and resulting free cash flow. Over the past few years the company has had great success improving operational efficiency and addressing leverage and pension obligations. As a result, we believe ATI has the capacity to generate $275-300m annually in free cash flow. Given the company's current $4B enterprise value we anticipate a healthy free cash flow yield. Few in the market seem to share our perspective.

Scholastic Corp

Theme: Education

Founded in 1920 and headquartered in New York City, Scholastic is the largest global publisher of children's books, magazines and teaching materials serving tens of thousands of schools and tens of millions of homes, across 165 countries in 45 languages. Highly correlated with long-term academic success, early reading is accepted as a foundational skillset for children around the world. Serving both institutions and individuals, Scholastic boasts an impressive lineup of leading titles from Clifford the Big Red Dog to Harry Potter in addition to a growing portfolio of early literacy curriculums for teachers use in the classroom. We believe Scholastic's content gives it a wide and deep competitive moat as an enabler of early child education.

Led by Dick Robinson, the second generation of family management, Scholastic maintains a unique private company culture that attracts high caliber creative talent (writers and artists). We have met with Mr. Robinson, as well as other senior leaders of the organisation on numerous occasions over the past few years and feel confident they share our emphasis on maximizing free cash flow. As the single largest individual shareholder, Mr. Robinson undeniably brings an owner mindset – though admittedly investment time horizons can conflict.

Our investment in Scholastic has warranted greater patience than we had anticipated as the company embarked on a facilities and technology upgrade utilizing material cash flow. However, with visible, predictable secular growth underpinned by the steady increase in dollars directed to education around the world and multi-year initiatives to improve the company's operating efficiency, Scholastic is a business that we believe is capable of generating $75-$100 million of annual free cash flow by 2021.

In our opinion, this is quite attractive relative to the current enterprise value of less than $1 billion which ascribes minimal value to their significant real estate holdings in the prime SoHo region of NYC.

In light of the recent market correction associated the COVID-19 pandemic and the oil price war between Russia and Saudi Arabia:

COVID-19

- There are many unknowns and that is what makes this virus and the possible outcomes even more concerning.
- The spread of the virus has been quick and statistics around risk have been unreliable adding to the fear that has entered the financial markets.
- We believe the best medical minds are working around the clock to develop treatments/vaccines and will show progress in the near future.

Oil Price War

- We've seen Saudi Arabia enter into an oil price war with Russia.
- We believe this is about market share and an attempt to put enough pressure on oil producers around the world to potentially shut down marginal supply.
  - The shale oil producers in North America could see tremendous pressure as their balance sheets are leveraged and many of them stand to burn cash at current oil prices.
- It is important to note that lower oil prices are an economic stimulus to most of the world.

Investment Manager's Report (Continued)

We are taking these events very seriously and continue to monitor the real impacts on our portfolio companies. It is exactly during such extreme times that our Thematic strategy and knowing what you own become increasingly important. As we noted in our 2020 outlook, the themes that make up our portfolio stand to benefit from powerful long-term tailwinds that transcend the current market volatility. Themes such as Rising Value of Water, Smart Systems, Humanization of Pets will continue to endure and will outlast the concerns around COVID-19 and the plunge in oil prices.

We believe the best course of action during volatile markets is to remain disciplined and be ready to take advantage of opportunities as they present themselves.

Neuberger Berman CLO Income Fund

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class of the Neuberger Berman CLO Income Portfolio was 11.83%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the ICE BofA US Dollar 3-Month Deposit Offered Rate Constant Maturity Index (the "Index"), returned 2.60%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

The CLO market experienced a robust rally for the first months of the year, rebounding off a sharp drawdown in the later stages of 2018. With international trade tensions building, the US Federal Reserve ("Fed") took an increasingly accommodative stance throughout most of the year. Three quarter-point rate cuts were made by the Fed in 2019, negatively impacting investor demand for floating-rate securities; specifically for the Portfolio, leveraged loans and CLO debt.

As a result of more dovish central bank stances persisting, loan funds saw outflows for most of the year which weighted on market prices of loans and CLO mezzanine debt. Over the fall, concern built up in the loan market about elevated downgrades and the susceptibility of the Single-B rated loan market being downgrade to Triple-C rating levels. These concerns lead to a temporary sharp decline in CLO mezzanine debt as it is primarily exposed to single-B rated loans. October was a particularly weak month for CLO BB debt as primary spreads widened approximately 100 basis points ("bps") from L+700 to L+800 and the CLO BB index lost 3.22% for the month. In our view, the selloff was predicated by the selloff in lower quality loans in early October and resulting investor concerns around the quality of CLO portfolios. Following the CLO BB debt selloff in October, the rate-hedged yield basis between CLO BBs and high yield securities rated BB increased to 5.56%, the widest level since the market dislocation in early 2016.

Starting in mid-November, the CLO BB market reversed course and rallied back strongly for the remainder of the quarter. The CLO BB index returned 6.48% over the last two months, reversing the entire October selloff and more. The rally was driven by the rally in loan markets as the Fed put further rate cuts on hold, and by a renewed conviction that CLO mezzanine debt offers attractive relative value given the basis versus high yield is still near the wider end of the historical range. This was coupled with a continued lack of secondary supply and light dealer inventories of higher quality CLOs rated BB.

Over the year, the Portfolio had net inflows of $33 million as clients remained assured of the relative attractiveness of CLO mezzanine debt. The Portfolio ended the year at a net asset value of $152.5 million. As of December 31 2019, primary CLO BB spreads tightened approximately 25bps quarter-over-quarter from L+700 to L+675 into year-end. Even at these tighter levels, higher quality primary CLOs continued to see robust levels of interest, indicating a persistent deep bid from a broad range of investors.

Clearly the short-term outlook for CLO debt markets will be dominated by further developments around the coronavirus. As we have discussed in the past, we would expect CLO mezzanine debt to continue to be sensitive to broader macro volatility.

With respect to the underlying credits, efforts to assess the top-down impact of supply chain disruptions and changes in consumer and business behavior from the COVID-19 virus are challenging. The magnitude of the hit to economic activity will depend on the duration and severity of the spread of the virus which is an unknown variable at this point. Central banks and policymakers have been very vocal in their support of monetary and fiscal stimulus to mitigate any downside in activity. Along these lines, on March 3rd the Federal Reserve announced an intermeeting 50-bp rate cut with the ability and willingness to take further action. We would expect a continuation of volatility, in both directions, in the near term as market participants calibrate the detractions from real economic activity.

While pockets of volatility can create temporary dislocations in parts of the loans market, such as the larger, more liquid issuers and lower quality and more highly leveraged capital structures, it is important to focus on the underlying fundamentals of individual credits and differentiate between price moves due to panic selling and price moves of those issuers facing a material hit to their fundamentals. We are focused on understanding which issuers' balance sheets and enterprise values can weather a stall in global economic growth. While credit differentiation continues to be a theme and concerns over global growth stemming from the heightened uncertainty of the virus are warranted, there remains a strong demand for issuers with stable to improving fundamentals. Avoiding credit deterioration remains our primary focus.

Investment Manager's Report

For the period beginning 1 January 2019 and ending with the Portfolio's termination on 6 December 2019, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 24.89%. Over the same period, the MSCI China A Onshore Index (the "Index"), returned 28.23%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Chinese equities performed well during this period, outperforming developed international and emerging equities, and slightly trailing the US S&P 500. US-China trade war headlines impacted all markets throughout this year, creating tensions and volatility. Chinese economic indicators remained subdued as well.

In the first half, markets welcomed a late June agreement, which kept the trade standoff from escalating, and the US Federal Reserve's move toward easing. As the year ended, indications that a "phase one" US-China trade deal was imminent and a weaker dollar boosted sentiment.

Top performing Index sectors included Consumer Staples, Information Technology and Health Care. All sectors were positive, but Energy, Utilities and Industrials lagged.

The Portfolio outperformed the Index within Consumer Staples and Materials, where stock selection and sector overweights were advantageous. Avoiding the Real Estate sector was another relative benefit. Industrials, Information Technology and Financials detracted most. Overall, the Portfolio underperformed the Index.

With investors optimistic that monetary easing can boost global economic prospects, along with an improved US-China trade outlook, global equity markets rallied at year-end. We saw risk sentiment improve, with allocations flowing into emerging markets.

* Portfolio liquidated on 6 December 2019.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the USD I Accumulating Class total return was 29.99%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the MSCI All-Country World Index (Net) (the "Index")*, returned 26.60%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II). Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

The Portfolio outperformed the Index by 339 basis points over the reporting period. Sector allocation to Information Technology was the largest positive contributor to performance during the period. Unallocated sectors such as Consumer Staples, Energy, Health Care, and Real Estate were additional positive contributors to performance. Conversely, security selection in Materials detracted the most.

Equity market performance was broadly positive in 2019 following the sharp correction in the fourth quarter of 2018. Gains during 2019 were primarily a result of more accommodative monetary policy as the US Federal Reserve reduced interest rates three times and other central banks also instilled supportive monetary policies. Additionally, the prospect for improved trade relations between the US and China added to positive market sentiment. Despite the gains experienced in 2019, we continue to see compelling long-term opportunities across the investable universe.

The transportation industry continues to evolve as evidenced in 2019 by accelerated timelines for electric vehicle introductions, continued growth of ride-sharing services, ongoing proliferation of active safety features on the automobile and investments in autonomous vehicle technologies. Automakers including BMW, Toyota, Honda and Jaguar Land Rover announced accelerated timelines for the rollout of electrified vehicles as both electric and hybrid vehicles are gaining in popularity across the globe. Tesla also began delivering its first electric vehicles from its local factory in China, underscoring the long-term growth opportunity in that market. Additionally, the industry continues to build out the associated EV infrastructure including charging stations. On the autonomous front, Apple purchased Drive.ai, an autonomous vehicle start-up, to advance the company's mobility efforts. Relatedly, Honda, Softbank and T. Rowe Price invested in GM's Cruise Automation subsidiary at a valuation of $19 billion and Volkswagen's investment in Ford's autonomous vehicle business, Argo AI, valuing it at $7 billion to help scale the development of autonomous taxi fleets. In ride-sharing, Lyft and Uber priced their initial public offerings at a valuation of $24 billion and $75 billion, respectively, reflecting continued expected growth in consumer acceptance of ride-sharing services. These are just a few examples that highlight the transportation industry's evolution towards Next-Generation Mobility.

Looking ahead, the Coronavirus (COVID-19) has created additional market volatility and added some risk to the outlook for global economic growth. We believe market volatility will likely remain elevated as the number of COVID-19 cases continue to increase. While we are of the view that virus-related uncertainty may create some economic softness, we believe this could prove temporary and that longer-term demand is unlikely to be fundamentally altered. Despite the volatility caused by COVID-19, we have seen little indication that the demand for autonomous, electric or connected vehicle related technologies within the global transportation industry is slowing, and remain positive on the outlook for the evolution of these technologies.

* While the Index captures the global nature of the Portfolio, its scope is significantly broader than the investable universe of the Portfolio and therefore has limitations for comparative performance purposes.

Neuberger Berman Ultra Short Term Euro Bond Fund

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the EUR I Accumulating Class was 1.65%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the ICE BofA 0-1 year AAA Euro Government Index (EUR Total Return, Hedged) returned -0.66%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Euro government yields spiraled downwards in the first eight months of 2019, reaching a new lowest level ever for most countries. Rising political uncertainties like Brexit and the tariff trade war weighed on growth pace, particularly on German exports, which raised fears of recession in the wake of the fall in corporate confidence. Particularly during the second quarter of the year, the European Central Bank ("ECB") started to react by extending its forward guidance period, announcing no key rate increase up to mid-2020. Later, when the growth outlook was reviewed to the downside below its potential level, the ECB cut its medium term inflation forecasts: considering its inflation target of 2% not being achievable in the coming years, the Central Bank concluded in June further accommodative monetary policy was needed.

During the summer, the service sector showed its resilience, which reduced the market expectation of a recession feared in the wake of the Chinese deeper than expected slowdown: large part of the Eurozone exports are towards Asia, especially for carmaker sector. This led the market bond yields to bottom up.

Nevertheless, the ECB decided to focus on all these growing uncertainties to support the economy when the inflation risk, being so low, is not its issue: it decided to act again mid-September by extending its forward guidance period, cutting its key rate by 10 bps and reopening its QE buy program. However, it failed to meet the market expectations, which were very strong, leading to a small rebound of rates in September. Investors agree the central policy is not the best answer to the recession fears but rather the fiscal economic boost from the governments of the North of the Eurozone which new objective is to switch from an export model to more a domestic growth.

Such an ECB policy led again to a new period of government yields convergence. Southern European State debts outperformed significantly again, as shown by the Spanish government yield falling close to 0% on the 10 years maturity.

But the economic slowdown outcome out-passed the usual search for yield from investors, which became more cautious about the credit market which slightly underperformed at the end of the 3rd quarter: the numerous primary trades weighted on private bonds as investors analysed yields too low to bear a credit risk on the long run. Some credit defaults for high yield rated companies led investors to take their profits.

Euro yields rose over the last quarter of 2019 from their all-time low reached in September. The economic growth slowdown seemed to have bottomed out as shown by the rebound of most Euro leading corporate business indicators at the end of the year. Despite an industrial recession led by the fall in exports, Germany finally avoided recession thanks to its domestic activity resilience: low rates supported real estate activity and wage increase led to steady consumer spending. Moreover, political uncertainties diminished with the Brexit decision taken by the UK new government and the trade tariff war truce since China and the USA said to be ready to sign a "phase 1" deal.

In fact, the main economic outcome of the fourth quarter was the rebound in the Euro inflation whose core rate increased gradually up to +1.3% in November year on year. For the first time, inflation started to converge towards the ECB rate target of 2%. It is a significant change as it is due to a rise in service prices led by the protracted domestic demand.

However, for the time being, the ECB considers the inflation rebound as too recent and preferred to maintain its dovish stance, focus on the risks for the activity due to significant external threats. The new Central Bank president ensured clearly the stability of the monetary policy, leading the market to expect no rate increase for years. Nevertheless, she asked for the ECB policy review considering that now the Eurozone governments should take the lead by increasing the public expense to boost growth.

Such a better economic and political context led to global risk-on sentiment reinforced by the Fed's rate cut policy. Thus, the equity market rallied again, reaching a new all-time high in the USA, which helped the credit market to absorb heavy primary flows and to perform up to year-end: Credit spreads tightened over the last quarter whereas German rates increased. Itraxx Xover spread tightened from +232 to +206 bps while 10 years Bund's yield jumped from -57bps to -19bps.

Moreover, the ECB bond buy program, which recommenced in November, offered a support to the Euro credit as well as peripheral debt markets. Southern European State debts outperformed significantly again, going on their convergence towards core country rates, as shown by the Spanish government yields tightening to 0.65% on the 10 years maturity relative to the German yields. However, in the wake of its higher debt level than expected, the Italian BTP underperformed ahead of coming regional elections, given that the risk surrounding longevity of the government coalition became more prominent.

The Portfolio was importantly rotated over the year; however, the Portfolio was heavily exposed to credit, which ranged from 55 to 70% of the assets under management ("AUM"). Attractive spreads, improving economic picture and accommodative Central Banks behavior made credit very attractive in 2019: it ended being a strong performer. We invested in Italian government bonds as well, in particular BOTs and short maturity BTPs, as all core and semi-core countries' government bonds were offering negative yields on short maturities.

Exposure to this asset class was however managed actively as Italian politics proved once again to be a bumpy road: government bonds ranged from 0 to 15% of the Portfolio AUM during the year. We invested both in nominal and inflation linked government bonds depending on relative value and inflation expectations.

European senior asset backed securities ("ABS") were used as well this year as they lagged credit rally during the first quarter and we could invest in very highly rated bonds at the beginning of the year offering much higher yields than equally rated corporate bonds. ABS ranged from 0 to 16% of the AUM of the Portfolio in 2019.

As far as spread risk is concerned, we actively managed the Portfolio spread risk in the so-called "tactical bucket" of the Portfolio, which went from 0% to 12% over the year. We mainly invested in corporate high yield, subordinated, corporate hybrids and inflation linked bonds. We started the year with a "tactical bucket" at 8%, which was gradually reduced to 4% at the end of April, aiming at taking profit after the strong rally of the first quarter 2019. We increased it to almost 12% in May given a sell-off in credit and thus we managed invest on attractive yields. After this parenthesis, the rally in credit spread continued until the summer when we decided to lower risks in the Portfolio as August is generally a month with low liquidity for credit. We thus brought the "tactical bucket" to 3% of the AUM. That was a good decision as spread widened in August after the Italian government collapsed. We managed to buy back risky bonds at the end of August at cheaper prices. The "tactical bucket" was then increased throughout the fourth quarter as trade war tensions were easing. This decision contributed positively to Portfolio performance as credit spreads rallied strongly into year-end.

Interest rate risk was managed actively in 2019: modified duration was slightly reduced during the first quarter, from slightly above 1 to around 0.5 years, and increased to 1 year at the end of June. This repositioning was mainly prompted by easing in the US-China trade war on one hand and by a very dovish stance of the European Central Bank on the other hand. The interest rate active management during the period contributed positively to the performance for the Portfolio. Moreover, the ECB highlighted throughout the period the weak inflation environment in Europe and admitted to be ready to use new tools to help boosting growth. This dovish stance was a clear support for risky assets, credit and Italian debt: this is the reason why we increased credit over the second quarter from 52% to 76%, after having been more cautious over the first quarter.

Notwithstanding the Portfolio's natural short duration stance, we actively managed portfolio duration between 0.2 and 2 years over the second semester, thus exploiting the complete positive duration range available to the Portfolio. Duration management was primarily done through futures on German rates, Gilt and BTPs.

Over the next months, the market should face challenges coming from the coronavirus risk: euro bonds still discount a pessimistic economic scenario despite current resilient domestic activity. The Chinese flu will likely hurt global growth in the near term. Nevertheless, later this year, we anticipate inflation rate to rise again towards the ECB target and the tariff war fears to fade thanks to a truce between China and the USA. Because of the very low rates and steady corporate profits, we expect capital expenditure to recover later this year thanks to the sustainability of consumption. Thus, bond yields should start to rise back towards positive territories and credit spreads to come back to their average past year level supported by the cash in excess from investors.

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the EUR I Accumulating Class was 8.12%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the Bloomberg Barclays Euro Aggregate Index (EUR Total Return, Hedged) (the "Index") returned 5.98%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Euro government yields went down during the first eight month of 2019, reaching a new low for most countries. Rising political uncertainties like Brexit and the tariff trade war weighed on growth pace, particularly on German exports, which raised fears of recession in the wake of the fall in corporate confidence. Particularly during the second quarter of the year, the European Central Bank ("ECB") started to react by extending its forward guidance period, announcing no key rate increase up to mid-2020. Later, when the growth outlook was reviewed to the downside below its potential level, the ECB cut its medium term inflation forecasts: considering its inflation target of 2% not being achievable in the coming years, the ECB concluded that further accommodative monetary policy was needed in the coming months.

During the summer, particularly in Germany, the service sector showed its resilience which reduced the market expectation of a recession which had been feared in the wake of the deeper than expected Chinese slowdown. A large part of Eurozone exports go to Asia, especially in the automobile sector. This led bond market yields to bottom up.

Nevertheless, the ECB decided to focus on all these growing uncertainties to support the activity when the inflation risk, being so low, is not its issue. The ECB decided to act again mid-September by extending its forward guidance period, cutting its key rate by 10 basis points ("bps") and reopening its Quantitative Easing ("QE") program. However, it failed to meet the market expectations, which were very strong, leading to a small rebound of rates in September. Investors seem to agree that central policy isn't the best answer to recession fears but rather a fiscal economic boost from governments north of the Eurozone whose new objective is to switch from an export model to more a more domestic growth model.

Such an ECB policy led again to a new period of government yields convergence. Certain countries in the south of Europe outperformed significantly again, as shown by the Spanish government yield falling close to 0% on the 10 years maturity.

The economic slowdown made investors in their usual search for returns more cautious about the credit market, which slightly underperformed at the end of the 3rd quarter. Numerous trades weighted on private bonds as investors analysed yields they believed were too low to bear the credit risk in the long-run. Some credit defaults on high yield bonds led investors to take their profits.

Euro yields rose over the last quarter of 2019 from their all-time low reached in September. The economic growth slowdown seemed to have bottomed up as shown by the rebound of most Euro leading corporate business indicators at the end of the year. Despite an industrial recession led by the fall in exports, Germany avoided recession thanks to its domestic activity resilience: low rates supported real estate activity and wage increase led to steady consumer spending. Moreover, political uncertainties diminished with the Brexit decision taken by the UK new government and the trade tariff war truce since China and the USA said to be ready to sign a "Phase 1" deal.

In fact, the main economic outcome of the fourth quarter was the rebound in Euro inflation whose core rate increased 1.3% year over year in November. For the first time, inflation started to convergence towards the ECB rate target of 2%. It is a significant change as it is due to a rise in service prices led by protracted domestic demand.

However, for the time being, the ECB considers the inflation rebound as too recent and preferred to maintain its dovish stance, focus on the risks for the activity due to significant external threats. The new ECB president ensured clearly the stability of the monetary policy, leading the market to expect no rate increase for years. Nevertheless, she asked for the ECB policy review considering that now the Euro zone governments should take the lead by increasing the public expense to boost growth.

Such a better economic and political context led to global risk-on sentiment reinforced by the US Federal Reserve's rate cut policy. Thus, the equity market rallied again, reaching a new all-time high in the US, which helped the credit market to absorb heavy primary flows and to perform up to year-end. Credit spreads tightened over the last quarter whereas German rates increased as witnessed by the tightening of the Itraxx Crossover spread from +232 to +206 bps while the 10-year Bund yield jumped from -57bps to -19bps.

Moreover, the ECB bond buy program re started in November which offered a support to the euro credit as well as peripheral debt markets. Government debts from the south of Europe outperformed significantly again, going on their convergence towards core country rates, as shown by the Spanish government yields tightening to 0.65% on the 10-year maturity relative to the German yields. But in the wake of higher than expected debt level, the Italian BTP underperformed ahead of regional elections, given that the risk surrounding longevity of the government coalition became more prominent.

The bond market outperformed strongly until the summer despite most high quality government bonds offering negative returns. In such a context, we decided to underweight duration exposure mainly in order to avoid investing in these negative returns. We reduced significantly our exposures to securities having a maturity below 5 years or a rating of AAA or AA. The very accommodative ECB monetary policy led to a new period of government yields convergence. Part of the Portfolio outperformance versus the Index has been driven by our overweight exposure to Portugal and tactically Spain and Italy, to take into account the short term market volatility. The credit market also performed but with a strong volatility due to the fears of the diffusion of the trade war to all around the world and then to the Eurozone for which growth is very sensitive to exports.

The resilience of domestic activity and the extension of the ECB's very accommodative monetary policy finally convinced investors searching for returns to buy private sector bonds. In this context, we got additional source of outperformance by overweighing significantly private sector bonds, especially the lowest of the investment grade category. We took advantage of the extra premium offered on the primary market to increase our credit exposure mainly to sectors such as banks, technology, information technology and telecommunications.

In September, we also moved our yield curve positioning to reinforce again the 10-year bucket at the expense of the very long end of the curve: we switched from a flattening to a steeping yield curve strategy.

In June and again in July, we began investing in inflation-linked bonds in order to reach 14% of the Portfolio's net assets as their pricing is not yet reflective of any inflation recovery, what we believe was a consequence of the global tariff trade war.

Finally, in the fourth quarter of the year, we actively managed the Portfolio duration under exposure between -0.75 and -3.75 years below the benchmark duration. This investment policy was implemented mainly through option strategies, to take advantage of the market volatility. This policy brought an efficient hedge of our peripheral and credit debt overweighted exposures. In addition, the Portfolio underweighted the very long bonds from core countries due to the rising inflation outlook.

In parallel, we started to realize some profits on our peripheral government debt significant over exposure by selling a few long-term bonds of Portugal, Italy and Spain. We still stick to our strong conviction of the yield convergence between the Eurozone countries due to the very accommodative ECB monetary policy reinforced by the re launch of its bond buy program. However, we anticipate a strong primary market at the start of the next year, which could out pass the demand.

Our strategy is to also look for incremental returns. During the period, we took advantage of the numerous primary market auctions to re-increase our private sector over exposure relative to the benchmark. We believe the following sectors could be additive to returns: banks, technology, information technology, telecommunications and also bonds with a below-investment grade rating.

In addition, we continued to increase our exposure to euro inflation rates through inflation-linked bonds and swaps as the market was not anticipating any inflation recovery despite its core rate year on year started to rise since the autumn.

Over the next months, we believe the market could face challenges. Bonds still discount a pessimistic economic scenario despite current resilient domestic activity, corporate outlook improvement and support from the very accommodative ECB policy. We believe the very low rates and steady corporate profits should lead to higher capital expenditure in the wake of the steady consumption, implying growth pace to beat the market consensus. In the euro area, recent slowdown has been caused, in our opinion, mainly by an increasingly protectionist policy of the US administration and related weakness in emerging markets, especially China. Weakness in the automotive sector driven by the change in emission regulations and impact of tariffs on car exports exacerbated this effect as companies cut both production and inventories. We anticipate now a return to normal activity, which means a rebound. In this more optimistic context, we believe the inflation rate could go on rising above 1.5%. Thus, bond yields could rise back toward positive territories and credit spreads could stay at current levels supported by the cash in excess from investors.

Neuberger Berman Euro Bond Absolute Return Fund

Investment Manager's Report

For the 12 months ended 31 December 2019, the total return for the EUR I Accumulating Class was 3.79%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the ICE BofA 0-1 year AAA Euro Government Index (EUR Total Return, Hedged) (the "Index") returned -0.66%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Euro government yields went down during the first eight months of 2019, reaching a new low for most countries. Rising political uncertainties like Brexit and the tariff trade war weighed on growth pace, particularly on German exports, which raised fears of recession in the wake of the drop in corporate confidence. Particularly during the second quarter of the year, the European Central Bank ("ECB") started to react by extending its forward guidance period, announcing no key rate increase up to mid-2020. Later when the growth outlook was reviewed to the downside below its potential level, the ECB cut its medium term inflation forecasts; considering its inflation target of 2% not being achievable in the coming years, the ECB concluded in June further accommodative monetary policy was needed in the coming months.

During the summer, particularly in Germany, the service sector showed its resilience, which reduced the market expectation of a recession, which had been feared in the wake of the deeper than expected Chinese slowdown. A large part of Eurozone exports go to Asia, especially in the automobile sector. This led bond market yields to bottom up.

Nevertheless, due to all these growing uncertainties, the ECB decided to act again mid-September by extending its forward guidance period, cutting its key rate by 10 basis points ("bps") and reopening its Quantitative Easing ("QE") program. However, it failed to meet the market expectations, which were very strong, leading to a small rebound of rates in September. Investors seem to agree that central policy is not the best answer to recession fears but rather a fiscal economic boost from governments north of the Eurozone whose new objective is to switch from an export model to a more domestic growth model.

Such an ECB policy led again to a new period of government yields convergence. Certain countries in the south of Europe outperformed significantly again, as shown by the Spanish government yield falling close to 0% on the 10 years maturity.

The economic slowdown made investors in their usual search for returns more cautious about the credit market which slightly underperformed at the end of the 3rd quarter. Numerous trades weighted on private bonds as investors analysed yields they believed were too low to bear the credit risk in the long run. Some credit defaults on high yield bonds led investors to take their profits.

Euro yields rose over the last quarter of 2019 from their all-time low reached in September. The economic growth slowdown seemed to have bottomed up as shown by the rebound of most Euro leading corporate business indicators at the end of the year. Despite an industrial recession led by the fall in exports, Germany avoided recession thanks to its domestic activity resilience: low rates supported real estate activity and wage increase led to steady consumer spending. Moreover, political uncertainties diminished with the Brexit decision taken by the new UK government and the trade tariff war truce since China and the US said to be ready to sign a "Phase 1" deal.

In fact, the main economic outcome of the fourth quarter was the rebound in Euro inflation whose core rate increased 1.3% year over year in November. For the first time, inflation started to converge towards the ECB rate target of 2%. It is a significant change, as it is due to a rise in service prices led by the protracted domestic demand.

However, for the time being, the ECB consider the inflation rebound as too recent and preferred to maintain its dovish stance, focus on the risks for the activity due to significant external threats. The new ECB president ensured the stability of the monetary policy, leading the market to expect no rate increase for years. Nevertheless, she asked for the ECB policy review considering that now the Euro zone governments should take the lead by increasing the public expense to boost growth.

Such a better economic and political context led to global risk-on sentiment reinforced by the US Federal Reserve's rate cut policy. Thus, the equity market rallied again, reaching a new all-time high in the US, which helped the credit market to absorb heavy primary flows and to perform up to year-end. Credit spreads tightened over the last quarter whereas German rates increased as witnessed by the tightening of the Itraxx Crossover spread from +232 to +206 bps while the 10 year Bund yield jumped from -57bps to -19bps.

Moreover, the ECB bond buy program restarted in November, which offered a support to the euro credit as well as peripheral debt markets. Government debts from the south of Europe outperformed significantly again, going on their convergence towards core country rates, as shown by the Spanish government yields tightening to 0.65% on the 10 year maturity relative to the German yields. But in the wake of higher than expected debt level, the Italian BTP underperformed ahead of regional elections, given that the risk surrounding longevity of the government coalition became more prominent.

The bond market outperformed strongly until the summer despite most high quality government bonds offering negative returns. In such a context, we decided to be short duration exposure mainly in order to avoid investing in these negative returns. We reduced significantly our exposures to securities having a maturity below 5 years or a rating of AAA or AA. The very accommodative ECB monetary policy led to a new period of government yields convergence.

Part of the Portfolio's outperformance versus the Index has been driven by our exposure to Portugal and Spain and tactically Italy and Cyprus, to take into account the short-term market volatility. The credit market also performed but with a strong volatility due to the fears of the diffusion of the trade war to all around the world and then to the Eurozone for which growth is very sensitive to exports.

The resilience of domestic activity and the extension of the ECB's very accommodative monetary policy finally convinced investors searching for returns to buy private sector bonds. In this context, we got additional source of performance by investing private sector bonds, especially the lowest of the investment grade category. We took advantage of the extra premium offered on the primary market to increase our credit exposure mainly to sectors such as banks, technology, information technology and telecommunications.

In September, we also moved our yield curve positioning to increase the 10-year bucket at the expense of the very long end of the curve on core and semi core countries: we switched from a flattening to a steeping yield curve strategy.

In June and again in July, we started to increase the Portfolio's inflation exposure by buying inflation-linked bonds in order to reach 18% of the Portfolio's net assets as their pricing was not yet reflective of any inflation recovery, what we believe was a consequence of the global tariff trade war. Euro inflation expectations for maturities below 5 years were especially attractive like low Italian inflation expectations for maturities between 3 and 4 years.

Finally, in the fourth quarter of the year, we actively managed the Portfolio duration exposure between -0.5 and 2.5 years. We used option strategies, to take advantage of the market volatility. This policy brought an efficient hedge of our peripheral and credit debt exposures.

We increased our exposure in Spanish and Irish government securities during November. For the first, the country is a quasi semicore and needs to be priced as a semicore. For the latter, risk of a "no deal" Brexit has been postponed to end of 2020 and led to a repricing value of Ireland to price close to France and Belgium valuations. By the end of year, we started to take some profits on our peripheral government debt significant exposure by selling a few long-term bonds from Portugal and Italy.

We still stick to our strong conviction of the yield convergence between the Eurozone countries due to the very accommodative ECB monetary policy reinforced by the re launch of its bond buy program. However, we anticipate a strong primary market at the start of the next year, which could out pass the demand.

Our strategy is to also look for incremental returns. During the period, we took advantage of the numerous primary market auctions to re-increase our private sector exposure. We believe the following sectors could be additive to returns: banks, technology, information technology, telecommunication, and also bonds with a below-investment grade rating.

In addition, we continued to increase our exposure to inflation-linked bonds and zero-coupon inflation swaps as the market was not anticipating any inflation recovery, which is what we anticipate now due to the trade tariff war leading to less globalisation. The fact that the ECB has linked QE2 life to a sustainable recovery of inflation target means higher inflation expectations going forward. Moreover, In December, the performance of inflation was good because of less linkers supply, risk-on mode amplified by declining uncertainties (Trade war and Brexit) and core inflation stable at 1.3%. We realised some profit on 10 year zero coupon inflation swaps with inflation expectations rising gradually.

Over the next months, the market should face challenges coming from the coronavirus risk: euro bonds still discount a pessimistic economic scenario despite current resilient domestic activity. The Chinese flu will likely hurt global growth in the near term. Nevertheless, later this year, we anticipate inflation rate to rise again towards the ECB target and the tariff war fears to fade thanks to a truce between China and the USA. Because of the very low rates and steady corporate profits, we expect capital expenditure to recover later this year thanks to the sustainability of consumption. Thus, bond yields should start to rise back towards positive territories and credit spreads to come back to their average past year level supported by the cash in excess from investors.

Neuberger Berman Absolute Alpha Fund

Investment Manager's Report

From inception of the Portfolio on 20 February 2019 through 31 December 2019, the total return for the Neuberger Berman Absolute Alpha Fund USD I Accumulating Class was -4.40%. Over the same period, the benchmark indices, the S&P 500 Total Return Index ("index A"), returned 18.02% and the HFRX Equity Hedge Index ("index B") returned 5.40%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

In Q4 2018, the market suffered a severe correction. It did so because the Federal Reserve ("Fed") raised rates just as macro data indicated a slowdown in the global economy. In 2019, severe weakness in the industrial economy did in fact occur. The central question of 2019 was whether this industrial slowdown would expand into the rest of the global economy. Two events supported the markets despite the industrial slump. First, having aggressively raised rates in 2018, the Fed turned dovish in 2019 and lowered rates three times. Second, throughout 2019, negotiations between China and the US were ongoing and late in the year, the two sides reached a Stage 1 deal. Between these two, in our view, the Fed's actions mattered the most. The Stage 1 deal between China and the US was largely optics. China agreed to buy agricultural products and the US lowered tariffs on certain products. At best, this deal represents a temporary truce. The more important issues of intellectual property theft have been put off, and we expect no resolution on any of these more important issues. We anticipate a trade war may resume but not in an election year.

Despite a dovish Fed and a Stage 1 deal, the industrial slowdown did have a major impact on fundamentals. In 2019, the earnings of the industrial and materials sectors declined by 6% and 25%, respectively. With respect to the overall S&P 500 Index, at the beginning of 2019, analysts estimated that 2019 S&P 500 earnings would increase by 6%-7%. As of this writing, 2019 S&P earnings will be down about 1%. Thus, the entire increase in the market was due to multiple expansion.

There is another aspect of the rally that has not, in our view, received enough attention. In mid-September 2019, the Repo markets suffered a dislocation. Repo markets are where banks and other financial institutions lend to one another overnight. This market is an important part of the financial system and normally is seamless. In early October, however, overnight rates blew out from 1.7% to 8%, a jump that might occur during a severe crisis but never in normal times. In our view, the cause of this Repo market dislocation is due largely to post-crisis regulations that force large banks to hoard cash. The simple solution would have been to change those rules. The Fed, however, chose a different approach. Since mid-October, the Fed purchased $300 billion of short-term treasuries, thereby flooding the markets with liquidity. While the Fed did not call it such, this is another quantitative easing. One thing we may have learned this decade is that when the Fed engages in quantitative easing, stock markets go up – hence, the strong year-end rally.

Our underperformance was largely due to positioning. For much of 2019, we maintained a very low net exposure, generally below 30%. Our longs performed well. Our shorts however performed poorly and in combination with a low net, ate up our performance. Why did we maintain a low net exposure? We simply believed that the global industrial recession would infect the rest of the global economy. And here we were simply wrong. The normal mechanism of translation would have been a global industrial slowdown leading to a tightening of credit conditions and a widening of credit spreads and this combination would lead to a slowdown in the rest of the economy. It did not happen. By turning dovish and lowering rates, the Fed insured that credit conditions would remain loose regardless of industrial economic conditions. By engaging in a closet quantitative easing, the Fed ensured a fourth quarter rally by flooding the markets with liquidity.

With respect to credit quality, US data indicates a fairly benign environment. Consumer credit statistics remain strong with delinquencies and losses at multi-year lows. Canada represents the one exception to this benign picture. We have been saying for quite some time that Canada would experience a credit cycle for the first time in over 25 years. It looks like that prediction is finally coming true. While some commentators have been predicting problems in the Canadian mortgage sector, that area still shows no signs of deterioration. The same cannot be said for the corporate sector. Canadian banks reported their fourth quarter numbers in late November. Corporate credit results were the worst we have seen since we have been analysing these banks. For example, CIBC experienced a 26% yr/yr increase in total non-performing loans but a 47% increase in commercial non-performers. For Royal Bank of Canada, the total non-performing and commercial non-performing loan yr/yr increase was 36% and 71%, respectively. We anticipate credit deterioration may continue into 2020 and as a result, the current estimates for Canadian banks are simply too high; we remain short two Canadian banks, Royal Bank of Canada and CIBC.

At the beginning of 2019, the S&P 500 was valued at 14x one year forward earnings. At year-end, the forward multiple was 18x. Given this significantly higher multiple, we do not expect as good a year in 2020. However, with the Fed on hold and with credit conditions as loose as they are, we believe that there is little reason, at this time, to expect a recession. We believe US GDP growth should remain at its slow 2%. While there has been some stabilisation in leading economic indicators, we are still not expecting a bounce-back in the industrial sector. The major risks are largely political. Assuming that the election is between Trump and a moderate Democrat, then the market will largely ignore it. However, an election between Trump and a progressive Democrat will make the markets nervous.

In 2020, net positioning largely determined performance. We feel this year will be different and stock picking will matter much more, both on the longs and the shorts. As a result, our Portfolio has very little in the way of macro themes (other than short two Canadian banks and short HSBC and Standard Charter because of the potential for a recession in Hong Kong). The rest of the Portfolio is exceptionally idiosyncratic both on the long and short sides.

We have made some major changes to the Portfolio. For almost all of 2019, our net exposure was below 30%. At the end of Q3 2019, beta and non-beta adjusted net exposures stood at 15.2% and 25.2%, respectively. However, when the Fed began its closet quantitative easing in October, we began changing the Portfolio. We eliminated most of our macro bets and reduced significantly our European bank shorts. While the Portfolio is certainly net longer, a close examination of the positions indicates that much of the Portfolio is composed of idiosyncratic ideas (both long and short) with very few macro bets. Below, we show a comparison of the Portfolio at the end of Q3 2019 against Q4 2019.

By eliminating most of our European bank shorts and adding positions such as Progressive and Equitable, we are now net long financials. We also added a biotech stock, BioMarin to our healthcare positions and covered two of our shorts in that sector which were not working.

We bought Equitable ("EQH"), which is a life insurance company, largely because of valuation. Life insurance companies do best when long term rates are rising. However, our investment thesis on Equitable is not a rate bet. Based on current estimates, the stock's 2020 P/E is only 5x. But in actuality it is even lower. EQH owns 65% of Alliance Bernstein (AB). AB sells at 11x 2020 estimates. If we deduct the value of AB, EQH's pure multiple is 3x. While we are not overly positive on the life insurance sector, 3x earnings seems a bit silly. Also, we think that later this year, EQH will partially sell down its stake in AB and buy back stock.

Progressive is regarded as one of the best companies in all of financial services. It is largely an auto insurer. The stock generally sells at 16x forward earnings. Today it is at 13.5x repressed earnings. Earnings are repressed because in the last few months, loss costs have been elevated. This is a curable problem with price increases. Progressive sells short-term policies so within a year price increases can overcome loss increases. As this comes through earnings, we anticipate that the multiple will rise back up to 16x.

Biomarin focuses on gene therapy and presently has a well-diversified commercial drug Portfolio and has two potential blockbusters that they will be seeking approval in 2020 and 2021. Valrox for the treatment of Hemophilia A and Vosoritide for the treatment of Achondroplasia (dwarfism).

Investment Manager's Report

From inception of the Portfolio on 1 March through 2019 through period ended 31 December 2019, the total return of the USD I Accumulating Class was 5.40%. Over the same period, the ICE BofA US Dollar 3-month Deposit Offered Rate Constant Maturity Index (the "Index") returned 2.09%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

By investing in a portfolio of diversified risk premia, it seeks attractive absolute returns with managed volatility and low correlation to traditional asset classes, as well as better drawdown characteristics during highly volatile periods. The Portfolio is comprised of well-diversified exposure to four styles of risk premia (value, momentum, carry and liquidity) identified across equities, fixed income, currencies and commodities - for a total of 14 risk premia included in the Portfolio. The Portfolio construction for the risk premia is based upon the team's proprietary risk-balancing methodology, which seeks balanced risk from each of the four styles of risk premia, and then balances risk across premia within each style, so as to achieve better diversification and drawdown management, and ultimately to achieve its investment objectives.

Performance was positive during the year since March 2019 inception. In long/short equities, our significant efforts to incorporate greater fundamental depth into our quantitative processes continued to drive differentiated outcomes. For example, working closely with Neuberger Berman's central fundamental equity research team has allowed us to adjust data inputs for select M&A activity to more accurately capture the economics of companies without having to wait for quarterly releases.

During the year from a multi-factor perspective, the Portfolio's most profitable sectors were technology, materials, financials and energy, while healthcare and staples were the largest detractors. Over the same time period, momentum, income and low risk factors were positive, while value and quality underperformed. Currency momentum and carry were positive along with rates carry. In the volatility book, short volatility options were profitable as equity markets drove higher during the year, while trend following detracted on noisy signals across asset classes. Commodity momentum was the main detractor from Portfolio performance throughout the year due to choppy price action and trend reversals, particularly across grains and soft commodities.

Looking forward into 2020, we anticipate the trade overhang from last year to subside and manufacturing growth to continue to stabilise. Central banks remain highly accommodative and could lend additional fiscal stimulus to provide further support to global growth. Over the last quarter, the Portfolio began to migrate to a more pro-cyclical stance across equity sectors, commodities and the US dollar. Barring acceleration of geopolitical risks in the Middle East, it seems like this secular shift could continue, which would benefit a more risk-on posture as well as exposure to cyclical value. Given the recent developments of the global pandemic, the portfolio continues to be positioned defensively in this uncertain environment, with tactical adjustments to keep key indicators, such as beta and volatility, within desired ranges.

Investment Manager's Report

From the inception on 4 December 2019 through 31 December 2019, the total return for the EUR I Accumulating Class was 0.10%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the ICE BofA 0-1 Year AAA Euro Government Index (EUR Total Return), returned -0.05%. (Performance for all share classes is provided in Appendix II. Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Over the course of December, the best performing major currencies were the Norwegian krone and New Zealand dollar. The worst performing major currencies were the US dollar and Japanese yen. The Portfolio generated a positive return for the period. Overweights in the Norwegian krone and Brazilian real were the best performing positions whilst underweight the Swiss franc and New Zealand dollar were detractors of performance.

The last month of the year saw renewed risk appetite as the US and China agreed to Phase 1 of a trade deal, political tensions subsided in Chile and Hong Kong and expectations of fiscal stimulus increased. This led to a rally in risk assets and higher yielding currencies. Not participating in the move higher was the Australian dollar where devastating wildfires are certain to have a significant social, environmental and economic cost.

Across the major currencies, yield differentials and forward-looking estimates of volatility remain low compared to history. This environment has led to narrow trading ranges and consequently few opportunities. However, that being said, some valuations remain stretched notably the Norwegian krone, Japanese yen and Swiss franc and should the macroeconomic backdrop change we anticipate some of the valuation imbalances to adjust towards fair value. The increasing consensus building around the need for fiscal policy to take a greater role in stimulating global demand, and therefore for monetary policy's role to diminish, would be a catalyst for such a change.

Over the course of the month, we remain overweight the Japanese yen, Norwegian krone and Brazilian real; and underweight the Swiss franc and Australian dollar. The Portfolio is largely risk and carry neutral with positions focused on relative value opportunities. We remain confident on the outlook for the Portfolio and continue to monitor the data and risk events closely.

NOTES TO THE AUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The significant accounting policies adopted by Neuberger Berman Investment Funds plc (the "Company") are as follows:

Basis of Preparation of Financial Statements

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with accounting standards generally accepted in Ireland, Irish Statute comprising the Companies Act 2014 (as amended), the European Communities (Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities) Regulations, 2011 as amended, the Central Bank (Supervision and Enforcement) Act 2013 (section 48(1)) (Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities) Regulations 2019 (the "Central Bank UCITS Regulations") and the listing rules of Euronext Dublin. The financial statements are prepared in accordance with Financial Reporting Standard ("FRS") 102: 'The financial reporting standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland'. Accounting standards generally accepted in Ireland in preparing financial statements giving a true and fair view are those published by the Institute of Chartered Accountants in Ireland and issued by the Financial Reporting Council ("FRC").

The financial statements are prepared under the historical cost convention as modified by the revaluation of the financial assets and financial liabilities held at fair value through profit and loss. Valuation time is market close on the relevant dealing day. The dealing day is each business day or such other day as the Directors may determine and notify to the administrator and to the shareholders in advance.

The format and certain wordings of the financial statements have been adapted from those contained in the Companies Act 2014 (as amended) and FRS 102 so that, in the opinion of the Directors, they more appropriately reflect the nature of the Company's business as an investment fund. The Company meets the criteria to avail of the exemption available to certain open-ended investment funds under FRS 102 not to prepare a cash flow statement.

Financial Assets and Financial Liabilities at Fair Value through Profit or Loss

(i) Classification

The Company has chosen to apply the recognition and measurement provisions of International Financial Reporting Standard 9: "Financial Instruments" ("IFRS 9"), and the disclosure and presentation requirement of FRS 102 to account for all the financial instruments. IFRS 9, published in July 2014, has replaced previous guidance in IAS 39 and includes revised guidance on the classification and measurement of financial instruments. Effective for reporting periods beginning on or after 1 January 2018 it carries forward the guidance on recognition and derecognition of financial instruments from IAS 39. In accordance with IFRS 9, the Company has designated all of its investments into financial assets or financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss. All derivatives in a receivable position (positive fair value), as well as options purchased, are included in financial assets at fair value through profit or loss. All derivatives in a payable position (negative fair value), as well as written options, are included in financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss.

Financial assets that are not at fair value through profit or loss include certain balances due from brokers and accounts receivable, which are classified as loans and receivables.

Financial liabilities that are not at fair value through profit and loss include certain balances due to brokers and accounts payable which are measured at amortised cost.

(ii) Initial Measurement

Purchases and sales of financial instruments are accounted for at trade date for financial statement purposes. Realised gains and losses on disposals of financial instruments are calculated using the first in first out method. Financial instruments categorised as financial assets at fair value through profit or loss are measured initially at fair value with transaction costs for such instruments being recognised directly in the Profit and Loss Account.

(iii) Subsequent Measurement

After initial measurement, the Company measures financial instruments classified as financial assets at fair value through profit or loss, at their fair values. Fair value is the amount for which an asset could be exchanged, or a liability settled, between knowledgeable, willing parties in an arm's length transaction. The fair value of financial instruments is based on their official quoted market price on a recognised exchange or sourced from a reputable broker/counterparty in the case of non-exchange traded instruments, at the balance sheet date without any deduction for estimated future selling costs. In accordance with IFRS 9 the Company's securities and other assets are valued at the last traded price as at 31 December 2019 to determine the Net Assets Attributable to Holders of Redeemable Participating Shares ("Net Assets").

(iii) Subsequent Measurement (continued)

However, the Directors may adjust the value of financial assets if it considers such adjustment is required to better reflect the fair value thereof. If a quoted official market price is not available on a recognised stock exchange or from a broker/counterparty, the probable realisation of value shall be calculated with care and in good faith in accordance with the Company's valuation policy. Such probable realisation values may be determined by the Administrator using valuation techniques, including use of recent arm's length market transactions, reference to the current fair value of another instrument that is substantially the same, discounted cash flow techniques, option pricing models or any other valuation technique that provides a reliable estimate of prices obtained in actual market transactions. Subsequent changes in the fair value of financial instruments at fair value through the profit or loss are recognised in the Profit and Loss Account.

The Directors have approved the use of Interactive Data Pricing and Reference Data, Inc. ("Interactive") to assist in determining the fair value of foreign equity securities when changes in the value of a certain index suggest that the closing prices on the foreign exchanges may no longer represent the amount that a Portfolio could expect to receive for those securities or on days when foreign markets are closed and US markets are open. In each of these events, Interactive will provide adjusted prices for certain foreign equity securities using a statistical analysis of historical correlations of multiple factors (Level 2 inputs, as it is using indirect prices). In the absence of precise information about the market values of these foreign securities as of the close of the New York Stock Exchange, the Directors have determined on the basis of available data that prices adjusted in this way are likely to be closer to the prices a Portfolio could realise on a current sale than are the prices of those securities established at the close of the foreign markets in which the securities primarily trade.

(iv) Derecognition of Financial Assets and Liabilities

The Company derecognises a financial asset when the contractual rights to the cash flows from the financial asset expire or when the financial assets are transferred and the transfer qualifies for derecognition in accordance with IFRS 9. Interest earned or incurred is accrued in interest income on an accrual basis. The Company derecognises a financial liability when the obligation specified in the contract is discharged, cancelled or expires.

Real Estate Investment Trusts

Units or shares in real estate investment trusts will be valued at the latest available Net Asset Value or, if listed or traded on a regulated market, at the last quoted trade price or the mid quotation or, if unavailable or unrepresentative, the latest available Net Asset Value as deemed relevant to the collective investment scheme.

Investment Funds

The fair value of any investment which is a unit of or participation in an investment fund is the latest available unaudited Net Asset Value of such unit or participation. Units or shares in exchange traded funds will be valued at the latest available Net Asset Value, or if listed or traded on a regulated market, at the last quoted trade price.

Participatory Notes

The Portfolios may invest in participatory notes. Participatory notes which are fully paid up and have a zero strike price, exhibit the identical risk and return characteristics as in the case where the Portfolio had acquired the underlying equity directly. Such participatory notes are valued at the last bid price for the underlying equity quoted on the stock exchange or principal market on which it is listed or, if the bid price is unavailable or unrepresentative, the last available mid price on such stock exchange or market.

Asset Backed Securities and Mortgage Backed Securities

Inputs used to value asset backed securities and mortgage backed securities generally include models that consider a number of factors, which may include the following: prepayment speeds, cash flows, spread adjustments and other market information, which may include benchmark yields, reported trades, broker-dealer quotes, issuer spreads, benchmark securities, bids, offers, and reference data, such as market research publications, when available.

FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31 DECEMBER 2019*1. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (CONTINUED)*To Be Announced Securities

The Portfolios may enter into To Be Announced ("TBA") purchase commitments to purchase securities for a fixed unit price at a future date beyond customary settlement time. Although the unit price has been established, the principal value has not been finalised. The Portfolio holds and maintains until settlement date, cash or high grade debt obligations in an amount sufficient to meet the purchase price, or the Portfolio may enter into offsetting contracts for the forward sale of other securities that they own. Income on the securities will not be earned until settlement date. Unsettled TBA purchase commitments are valued at the current market price.

The Portfolios may enter into TBA sale commitments to hedge their portfolio positions or to sell mortgage backed securities they own under delayed delivery arrangements. Proceeds of TBA sales commitments are not received until the contractual settlement date. During the time a TBA sale commitment is outstanding, equivalent deliverable securities or an offsetting TBA purchase commitment deliverable on or before the sale commitment date, are held as "cover" for the transaction. Unsettled TBA sale commitments are valued at current market value, generally according to the procedures described previously in the accounting policies.

Forward Currency Contracts

A forward currency contract is an agreement between two parties to buy and sell a currency at a set price on a future date. The market value of a forward currency contract fluctuates with changes in forward currency exchange rates. Forward currency contracts are marked to market daily and the change in value is recorded by the Portfolio as an unrealised gain or loss. Realised gains or losses equal to the difference between the value of the contract at the time it was opened and the value at the time it was closed are recorded upon delivery or receipt of the currency or, if a forward currency contract is offset by entering into another forward currency contract with the same broker, upon settlement of the net gain or loss.

Futures Contracts

Futures contracts may include certain options on exchange-traded futures contracts. Initial margin deposits are made upon entering into futures contracts and are generally made in cash and cash equivalents. The fair value of futures contracts is based upon their quoted daily settlement prices. Changes in the value of open futures contracts are recognised as unrealised gains or losses on futures contracts until the contracts are terminated, at which time realised gains and losses are recognised. Gains or losses on open futures contracts are shown in the Schedule of Investments of each relevant Portfolio and as appropriate, on the Balance Sheet as financial assets/financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss.

Swap Contracts

A swap contract is a privately negotiated agreement between a Portfolio and a counterparty to exchange or swap the return generated by one instrument for the return generated by another instrument. Some swap contracts are net settled. When entering into an over-the-counter ("OTC") swap contract and during the term of the transaction, the Portfolio and/or the swap counterparty may post or receive cash or securities as collateral in accordance with the terms of the respective swap agreements to provide assets of value and recourse in the event of default or bankruptcy/insolvency. Certain clearinghouses currently offer clearing for limited types of swaps. In a cleared swap transaction, a Portfolio typically enters into the transaction with a financial institution counterparty that is then cleared through a central clearinghouse. Upon acceptance of a swap by a central clearinghouse, the original swap is extinguished and replaced with a swap with the clearinghouse, thereby reducing or eliminating the Portfolio's exposure to the credit risk of the original counterparty. A Portfolio typically will be required to post specified levels of both initial and variation margin with the clearinghouse or at the instruction of the clearinghouse. The daily change in valuation is recorded as a receivable or payable for variation margin and settled in cash with the centrally clearing party.

Interest Rate Swaps

A Portfolio may enter into interest rate swap contracts which are arrangements between two parties to exchange cash flows based on a notional principal amount, to manage a Portfolio's exposure to interest rates. Interest rate swap contracts are marked-to-market daily based in some cases on quotations from counterparties and in other cases from pricing services and the change in value, if any is recorded as an unrealised gain or loss. Payments made or received are recorded as part of realised gains and losses.

Credit Default Swaps

A credit default swap is a bilateral financial contract under which the protection buyer pays a fee, usually expressed in basis points per annum on the notional amount, in return for a payment by the protection seller contingent on the occurrence of a credit event, such as a bankruptcy, default, or restructuring, with respect to a referenced entity. The credit events and applicable settlement mechanism used to determine the contingent payment are negotiated between the counterparties at the time of trading.

Once the credit event has been declared, the protection buyer has the right to settle the contract. Settlement is usually physical, with the protection buyer having the right to deliver bonds of the reference entity up to the notional amount of the contract. In return, the protection buyer receives the par value of those obligations. Selling protection is the synthetic equivalent of buying a bond or alternative form of debt. Buying protection is the equivalent of synthetically shorting or hedging a bond or other credit exposure. Credit default swap agreements on credit indices involve one party making a stream of payments to another party in exchange for the right to receive a specified return in the event of a write-down, principal shortfall, interest shortfall or default of all or part of the reference entities comprising the credit index. A credit index is a list of a basket of credit instruments or exposures designed to be representative of some part of the credit market as a whole. Components of the indices may include, but are not limited to, investment grade securities, high yield securities, asset backed securities, emerging markets, and/or various credit ratings within each sector. Credit indices are traded using credit default swaps with standardised terms including a fixed spread and standard maturity dates. An index credit default swap references all the names in the index, and if there is a default, the credit event is settled based on that name's weight in the index. The composition of the indices change periodically, usually every six months, and for most indices, each name has an equal weight in the index.

The use of credit default swap contracts is restricted to the extent that the benefits to a Portfolio mirror that which could be obtained by direct investment in the underlying instruments and that the swaps do not expose a Portfolio to risks which it would not otherwise assume (other than the exposure to the credit default swap counterparty). The upfront payment received by a Portfolio, as protection seller, is recorded as a liability on the Portfolio's books. An upfront payment made by a Portfolio, as protection buyer, is recorded as an asset on the Portfolio's books. Payments received or paid by a Portfolio are recorded as realised gains or losses. Credit default swaps are valued using a pricing service provider. Where no pricing service provider is available, contracts may be marked-to-market daily based upon quotations received from counterparties or based upon calculations using valuation models and the change, if any, is recorded as an unrealised gain or loss. Payments received or paid as a result of a credit event or termination of the contract are recognised, net of a proportional amount of the upfront payment, as realised gains or losses.

Total Return Swaps

A Portfolio may enter into total return and structured swaps in order to trade the return on an index which reflects the general composition of the assets of the Portfolio for a rate of return which will generally be at a fixed rate above or below LIBOR or another index. The rate of return to be paid or received by the Portfolio will be negotiated prior to entering into the swap and will remain fixed throughout the term of the swap.

A Portfolio may enter into total return and structured swaps in order to gain market exposure in circumstances where it is not practical or economical to use direct investments or other forms of derivatives such as futures contracts. Swaps are marked-to-market daily based upon quotations received from counterparties or valued using a pricing service and in other cases based upon calculations using valuation models. The significant assumptions and the formulae behind the calculations used in the valuation models are defined explicitly in the individual term sheets. Generally the total returns are determined by the daily index level or daily price multiplied by a predetermined notional amount and the financing portion is built-in to create an all-in valuation.

Changes in valuations, if any, are recorded as unrealised gains or losses. Payments received or made are recorded as realised gains or losses. The Company discloses outstanding total return swap contracts at the year end in the Portfolio of Investments. For the year ended 31 December 2019, the fair value of total return swaps is disclosed in the Schedule of Investments and Balance Sheet as net unrealised gain or loss. Prior to 31 December 2019, the fair value was presented as showing the current notional value and notional cost separately. This difference in methodology has been deemed immaterial and has no effect on NAV and as such, comparative presentation prior to 31 December 2019 has not been updated.

Cross-Currency Swaps

Cross-currency swap agreements involve two parties exchanging two different currencies with an agreement to reverse the exchange at a later date at specified exchange rates. The exchange of currencies at the inception date of the contract takes place at the current spot rate. The re-exchange at maturity may take place at the same exchange rate, a specified rate, or the then current spot rate. Interest payments, if applicable, are made between the parties based on interest rates available in the two currencies at the inception of the contract. The terms of cross currency swap agreements may extend for many years. Cross-currency swaps are usually negotiated with commercial and investment banks. Some cross-currency swaps may not provide for exchanging principal cash flows, but only for exchanging interest cash flows.

Inflation Swaps

Inflation swaps involve the exchange of a floating rate linked to an index for a fixed rate interest payment with respect to a notional amount or principal.

FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31 DECEMBER 2019*1. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (CONTINUED)*Options

Option contracts may include certain options on exchange-traded futures contracts. When a Portfolio writes an option, an amount equal to the premium received by the Portfolio is recorded as a liability and the current fair value of the option written is subsequently adjusted by this amount. The premium on written call options exercised is added to the proceeds from the sale of the underlying security or foreign currency in determining the realised gain or loss. The premium on written put options exercised is subtracted from the cost of the securities or foreign currencies purchased. Premiums received from written options which expire are treated as realised gains. The premium on purchased put options exercised is subtracted from the proceeds of the sale of the underlying security or foreign currency in determining the realised gain or loss. The premium paid on purchased call options exercised is added to the cost of the securities or foreign currency purchased. Premiums paid for the purchase of options which expire unexercised are treated as realised losses. Exchange traded options are valued at the settlement price determined by the relevant exchange.

Swaptions

When a Portfolio writes a swaption, an amount equal to the premium received by the Portfolio is recorded as a liability and is subsequently adjusted to the current fair value of the swaption written. Premiums received from the written swaptions which expire unexercised are treated by the Portfolio on the expiration dates as realised gains. If a written call swaption is exercised, the premium is added to the proceeds from the sale of the underlying swap in determining the realised gain or loss. If a written put swaption is exercised, the premium reduces the cost basis of the swap purchased.

When a Portfolio purchases a swaption, an amount equal to the premium paid by the Portfolio is recorded as an asset and is subsequently adjusted to the current fair value of the swaption purchased. Premiums paid for the purchase of swaptions which expire unexercised are treated on the expiration date as realised losses. If a purchased payer swaption is exercised, the premium is subtracted from the proceeds of the underlying swap in determining whether the relevant Portfolio has realised a gain or a loss. If a purchased receiver swaption is exercised, the premium is added to the cost basis of the floating rate investment that has been swapped. Swaptions are priced either via a pricing vendor or a counterparty pricing source.

Contracts for Differences

Contracts for differences are valued based on the closing market price of the underlying security converted into the base currency of the contract for differences, less any financing charges attributable to each contract which are booked separately. The current market value is shown in the Balance Sheet. On entering a contract for differences, a Portfolio may be required to pledge an amount of cash and/or other assets to the broker which is equal to a certain percentage of the contract amount ('initial margin'). Subsequently, payments known as 'variation margins' are made or received by a Portfolio periodically, depending on the fluctuations in the value of the underlying security. During the period that the contract for differences is open, changes in the value of the contract are recognised as unrealised gains or losses and by marking to market at each valuation date in order to reflect the value of the underlying security. Realised gains or losses at the closure of the contract are equal to the difference between the value of the contract for differences at the time it was opened (including any financial charges) and the value at the time it was closed. Dividends (net of withholding taxes) attributable to open contracts for differences are deemed to be dividends receivable or payable at the end of the year. For the year ended 31 December 2019, the fair value of contracts for differences is disclosed in the Schedule of Investments and Balance Sheet as net unrealised gain or loss. Prior to 31 December 2019, the fair value was presented as showing the current notional value and notional cost separately. This difference in methodology has been deemed immaterial and has no effect on NAV and as such, comparative presentation prior to 31 December 2019 has not been updated.

Offsetting Financial Instruments

Financial assets and liabilities are offset and the net amount reported in the Balance Sheet when there is a legally enforceable right to offset the recognised amounts and there is an intention to settle on a net basis, or realise the assets and settle the liability simultaneously.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash comprises current deposits with banks. Cash equivalents are short-term highly liquid investments that are readily convertible to known amounts of cash, are subject to an insignificant risk of changes in value, and are held to meet short-term cash commitments rather than for investment or other purposes.

Cash and cash equivalent assets are valued at their face value with interest accrued, where applicable, to the valuation point on the relevant dealing day, unless in the opinion of the Directors (in consultation with the Investment Manager and the Administrator) an adjustment should be made to reflect the true value thereof.

Company cash accounts

A number of Company cash accounts are being operated by the Administrator, on behalf of the Company pursuant to the Central Bank of Ireland Guidance paper entitled Umbrella Funds – Cash Accounts Holding Subscription, Redemption and Dividend Monies. These cash accounts, held with Brown Brothers Harriman Trustee Services (Ireland) Limited (the "Depositary") for collection of unprocessed subscription monies received from investors, redemption monies payable to investors and/or other amounts due to investors for the Company are deemed assets of the Company. Any balances held on these cash accounts at the financial year end are reflected on the Aggregate Balance Sheets of the Company.

Foreign Currency TranslationFunctional and Presentation Currency*

The functional and presentation currency of the Neuberger Berman European High Yield Bond Fund, the Neuberger Berman Corporate Hybrid Bond Fund, the Neuberger Berman Ultra Short Term Euro Bond Fund, the Neuberger Berman Euro Opportunistic Bond Fund, the Neuberger Berman Euro Bond Absolute Return Fund and the Neuberger Berman Macro Opportunies FX Fund is EUR. The functional and presentation currency of the Neuberger Berman China Bond Fund is CNY. The functional and presentation currency of all other Portfolios is US dollars. The base currency of the majority of net assets in the Company is US dollars and thus US dollars is deemed the most appropriate aggregate currency. For more details please refer to Note 15.

Transactions and Balances

Assets and liabilities, denominated in currencies other than the functional currency of the Portfolio are translated into the functional currency at the rate of exchange prevailing at the Balance Sheet date. Transactions in currencies other than the functional currency of the Portfolio are translated into the functional currency at the rate of exchange prevailing at the dates of the transactions. Gains and losses on foreign exchange transactions are recognised in the Profit and Loss Account in determining the result for the year.

Proceeds from subscriptions and amounts paid for redemptions of Redeemable Participating Shares in currencies other than the functional currency are translated into the functional currency at the rates prevailing on the dates of the transactions. The Balance Sheet is translated using exchange rates at the year end and the Profit and Loss Account and the Statement of Changes in Net Assets are translated at an average rate over the year.

Income and Expense Recognition

Dividend income is recognised in the Profit and Loss Account on the date upon which the relevant security is listed as "ex-dividend" to the extent that information thereof is reasonably available to the Portfolio. Dividend and interest income is shown gross of any non-recoverable withholding taxes, which are disclosed separately in the Profit and Loss Account and net of any tax credits. Bank deposit interest is accounted for on a receipts basis.

Interest income is recognised in the Profit and Loss Account for all debt instruments on an accrual basis.

Realised Gains and Losses on Investments

Realised gains and losses on disposals of financial assets at fair value through profit or loss are calculated on a first in first out basis. The associated foreign exchange movement between the date of purchase and the date of sale on the disposal of financial assets at fair value through profit or loss is included in net gain/(loss) on financial assets at fair value through profit or loss. Investment transactions are accounted for on trade date, the date at which the Portfolio commits to purchase or sell the asset.

Taxation

Under current law and practice, the Company qualifies as an investment undertaking as defined in Section 739B (1) of the Taxes Consolidation Act, 1997 as amended. On that basis, it is not therefore chargeable to Irish tax on its relevant income or relevant gains. However, Irish tax can arise on the happening of a chargeable event in the Company.

A chargeable event includes any distribution payments to shareholders or any encashment, redemption, or transfer of shares and the holding of shares at the end of each eight year period beginning with the acquisition of such shares. No Irish tax will arise on the Company in respect of chargeable events in respect of:

- (i) a shareholder who is neither Irish resident nor ordinarily resident in Ireland for tax purposes, at the time of the chargeable event, provided appropriate valid declarations in accordance with the provisions of the Taxes Consolidation Act, 1997 as amended, are held by the Company, and
- (ii) certain exempted Irish tax resident shareholders who have provided the Company with the necessary signed statutory declarations.

There were no chargeable events during the year under review.

Capital gains, dividends and interest received (if any, on investments made) by the Company may be subject to withholding taxes imposed by the country from which the investment income/gains are received and such taxes may not be recoverable by the Company or its shareholders.

The Finance Act, 2010 provides that the Revenue Commissioners may grant approval for investment funds marketed outside of Ireland to make payments to non-resident investors without deduction of Irish tax where no relevant declaration is in place, subject to meeting the "equivalent measures". A Company wishing to receive approval must apply in writing to the Revenue Commissioners confirming compliance with the relevant conditions. As at 31 December 2019 the Company had not applied for approval from the Revenue Commission.

The Company has reviewed the tax positions for the open tax years as of 31 December 2019 and has determined that no provision for income tax and/or uncertain tax positions is required in the Company's financial statements.

Redeemable Participating Shares

Redeemable Participating Shares are redeemable at the shareholder's option and are classified as financial liabilities. Any distributions on these shares are recognised in the Profit and Loss Account as Finance Costs. The Redeemable Participating Shares can be put back to the Portfolio on any dealing day for cash equal to a proportionate share of the Portfolio's Net Asset Value. The Redeemable Participating Shares are carried at the redemption amount that is payable at the balance sheet date if the shareholder exercised the right to put the shares back to the Portfolio.

Distribution Policy

The Directors have determined to accumulate all net investment income and net realised capital gains attributable to the Accumulating Classes and therefore do not intend to declare dividends in respect of shares in such classes.

Source of Distributions

Pursuant to the Articles, the Directors may declare dividends, in respect of any shares out of net income (including dividend and interest income) and/or the excess of realised and unrealised capital gains over realised and unrealised losses in respect of investments of the Company (collectively "Net Income") and also out of capital. Dividends paid out of capital amount to a return or withdrawal of part of a shareholder's original investment or from any capital gains attributable to that original investment. Such dividends may result in an immediate decrease in the Net Asset Value of the relevant shares.

It is the current intention of the Directors, subject to any de minimis threshold, to declare and pay as a dividend at least 85% of the Net Income attributable to each of the Distributing Classes, other than (i) the (Weekly) Distributing Classes; (ii) the (Monthly) Distributing Classes; (iii) the (CG) Distributing Classes and (iv) such other Distributing Classes in a Portfolio which are specified in the relevant Supplement to pay dividends out of capital and Net Income.

However, shareholders should note that the Directors may, in their discretion, decide not to make such declaration and payment in respect of a Distributing Class.

In respect of the (Weekly) Distributing Classes, the (Monthly) Distributing Classes and the (CG) Distributing Classes, the Directors intend to declare and pay a weekly, monthly or semi-annual dividend, respectively, attributable to the shares of each such class out of a combination of Net Income and capital, so that where Net Income during the relevant period is less than the amount declared, the balance will be paid of the capital represented by the relevant shares, which will enable the classes to distribute regular, set dividends. In the event that the Net Income attributable to the (Weekly) Distributing Classes, the (Monthly) Distributing Classes or the (CG) Distributing Classes exceeds the amount declared during the relevant period, the excess of Net Income over this amount will be retained in a distribution account in respect of the relevant shares and will form part of the dividend payable in respect of the succeeding distribution period. While the foregoing represents the Directors' current intention in respect of the declaration and payment of dividends in respect of the (Weekly) Distributing Classes, the (Monthly) Distributing Classes and the (CG) Distributing Classes, the Directors may in their discretion decide not to make such declaration and payment and there is no guarantee that any such dividends will be paid.

Frequency of Distributions

Under normal circumstances, the Directors intend that dividends in respect of:

- (a) each of the (Weekly) Distributing Classes in all Portfolios shall be declared and paid on or prior to the last business day of each week;
- (b) each of the (Monthly) Distributing Classes in all Portfolios shall be declared on or prior to the last business day of each month and paid within three business days thereafter;
- (c) each of the (CG) Distributing Classes in all Portfolios shall be declared on a semi-annual basis and paid within thirty business days;
- (d) each of the other Distributing Classes of the Neuberger Berman US Small Cap Fund, the Neuberger Berman US Real Estate Securities Fund, the Neuberger Berman US Small Cap Intrinsic Value Fund, the Neuberger Berman China Bond Fund, the Neuberger Berman Global Thematic Equity Fund, the Neuberger Berman Euro Opportunistic Bond Fund, the Neuberger Berman Euro Bond Absolute Return Fund and the Neuberger Berman Ultra Short Term Euro Bond Fund shall be declared on a quarterly basis and paid within thirty business days in relation to the Net Income of such Distributing Classes for the previous quarter;

The Directors are empowered to issue up to 500,000,000,000 shares of no par value in the Company on such terms as they think fit.

The Company is an investment company with variable capital due to its ability to issue and redeem shares on demand. On a daily basis, the Risk Department monitors liquidity for the Portfolios and incorporates various stress test scenarios, including stress testing to assess each Portfolio's ability to meet shareholder redemptions, and other methods of analysis to oversee expected liquidity levels. The Investment Manager's Investment Risk Committee, the group responsible for risk oversight, also reviews stress test results on at least a quarterly basis. The Investment Manager seeks to ensure that adequate liquidity exists in the Portfolios to provide for shareholder redemptions in normal market conditions and normal levels of redemptions.

A breakdown of the Portfolios' TERs is provided in Appendix I.

Assets from US$ 0 - US$ 500 million	0.055%
Between US$ 500 - US$ 2,000 million	0.05%
Above US$ 2,000 million	0.04%

Effective 1 March 2019, the Company pays administration fees to the Administrator based on the value of month-end net assets of each of the remaining Portfolios administered by the Administrator at the following rates:

Assets from US$ 0 - US$ 10,000 million	0.010%
Between US$ 10,000 - US$ 25,000 million	0.008%
Between US$ 25,000 - US$ 50,000 million	0.006%
Above US$ 50,000 million	0.005%

Up to 28 February 2019, the Company paid administration fees to the Administrator based on the value of month-end net assets of each of the remaining Portfolios administered by the Administrator at the following rates:

Assets from US$ 0 - US$ 10,000 million	0.012%
Above US$ 10,000 million	0.01%

The above fees are inclusive of four share classes per Portfolio. Any Portfolio which has in excess of four share classes will be charged a monthly fee of US$ 175 per each additional share class.

In addition, the Administrator is entitled to a further fee in respect of transfer agency services provided to the Portfolios.

In respect of the B Shares, C Shares, E Shares, C1 Shares and C2 Shares in each Portfolio the Distributor shall be entitled to a distribution fee at the rate of 1.00% in respect of the distribution services provided to such classes, which shall accrue daily and be payable monthly in arrears at the end of each calendar month. In respect of all other classes, the Investment Manager may pay the Distributor a fee in respect of its distribution services out of the management fee. In respect of the M Shares in each Portfolio, the Distributor shall be entitled to a distribution fee at an annual rate expressed as a percentage of the Net Asset Value of the relevant Classes in respect of the distribution services provided to such Classes, which shall accrue daily and be payable monthly in arrears at the end of each calendar month. The rate of such distribution fee varies between Portfolios and is disclosed in the Supplement to the Prospectus for each Portfolio.

Adviser Fees

The fees paid to the advisers appointed by the Investment Manager and/or the Sub-Investment Manager will be paid out of the assets of the Portfolio. The aggregate fees paid to all advisers were between 0.65% and 1.50% of the Net Asset Value of the Portfolio. The aggregate adviser fee for the year ended 31 December 2019 was US$ 413,284 (31 December 2018: US$ 777,254).

Performance Fees

As at the year ended 31 December 2019 a performance fee is being calculated on Neuberger Berman US Long Short Equity Fund, Neuberger Berman Global High Yield Bond Fund and Neuberger Berman Uncorrelated Strategies Fund.

Performance Fee paid to the Investment Manager

The Investment Manager may be entitled to receive a performance fee (the "Performance Fee") payable out of the Portfolio's assets in respect of each PF Class in the relevant Portfolio. The Depositary shall verify the calculation of the Performance Fee. The Directors may, with the consent of the Investment Manager, reduce the Performance Fee payable by any Class of Shares. Performance fees are payable on realised and unrealised capital gains taking into account realised and unrealised losses at the end of the Calculation Period defined below for each applicable Portfolio. Consequently, performance fees may be paid on unrealised gains which may subsequently never be realised.

Shareholders should note that, as the Performance Fee is calculated at Class level and not at an individual Shareholder level, they may be charged a Performance Fee even where the Net Asset Value of their Shares has remained the same or dropped, for example, where Shareholders purchase or redeem Shares at points other than the start and end of the Calculation Period.

If the Investment Management Agreement is terminated before the end of a Calculation Period in any year the performance fee in respect of the then current Calculation Period will be calculated and paid as though the date of termination were the end of the relevant Calculation Period.

The performance fee will be accrued in the Net Asset Value on each Dealing Day and will normally be payable to the Investment Manager in arrears within 30 Business Days of the end of each Calculation Period. However, in the case of Shares redeemed during a Calculation Period, the accrued performance fee in respect of those Shares will be payable to the Investment Manager within 30 Business Days of the date of redemption. Crystallised performance fees shall remain in the relevant Class (but shall not participate in subsequent gains and losses of the relevant Class) until paid to the Investment Manager and shall not be used or made available to satisfy redemptions or pay any fees and expenses of the relevant Class.

The methodology used to calculate the Performance Fee for each applicable Portfolio is as follows:

Neuberger Berman US Long Short Equity Fund

The Investment Manager may be entitled to receive a performance fee payable out of the Portfolio's assets in respect of each PF Class in the Portfolio.

Definitions

Calculation Period	The Calculation Period shall normally run from 1 January to 31 December in each year except that: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• in the case of the initial issue of Shares in each PF Class, the first Calculation Period will run from the date of issue to 31 December;</li> <li>• in the case of the termination of a PF Class, the Calculation Period will terminate on the date of the termination; and</li> <li>• in the case of the termination of the Investment Management Agreement in any year, the Calculation Period will terminate on the date of the termination.</li> </ul> The first value used in determining the first Performance Fee for a PF Class shall be the Initial Offer Price.
Crystallisation	The point at which any Performance Fee becomes payable to the Investment Manager. Crystallisation will occur either at the end of the Calculation Period or on a Dealing Day on which a Shareholder redeems or exchanges all or part of its Shareholding.
High Water Mark	The greater of: (i) the initial offer price per Share; and (ii) the Net Asset Value per Share at the end of any previous Calculation Period in respect of which a Performance Fee was paid.

Methodology

For each Calculation Period, a Performance Fee in respect of each PF Class in issue becomes due in the event that the Net Asset Value per Share at the end of the Calculation Period exceeds the High Water Mark for that particular PF Class.

The Performance Fee will be calculated on each Dealing Day and will be equal to 15% of the amount by which the percentage growth in the Net Asset Value per Share over the Calculation Period exceeds that of the High Water Mark. The Performance Fee will be accrued on each Dealing Day and will form part of the Net Asset Value per Share for each PF Class where applicable. Any Performance Fee accrual on a Dealing Day will be superseded by any accrual made on the following Dealing Day up to the last Dealing Day of the Calculation Period.

In all cases the Net Asset Value per Share used in the calculation of the Performance Fee is unswung, i.e. it does not include any adjustment for swing pricing.

No Performance Fee will be paid until the Net Asset Value per Share exceeds the High Water Mark and such fee is only payable on the outperformance of the Net Asset Value per Share over the Hurdle Rate as described above.

Methodology (continued)

Shareholders should note that, as the Performance Fee is calculated at Class level and not at an individual Shareholder level, they may be charged a Performance Fee even where the Net Asset Value of their Shares has remained the same or dropped, for example, where Shareholders purchase or redeem Shares at points other than the start and end of the Calculation Period.

The Performance Fee will be accrued in the Net Asset Value on each Dealing Day and will normally be payable to the Investment Manager in arrears within 30 Business Days of the end of each Calculation Period. However, in the case of Shares redeemed during a Calculation Period, the accrued performance fee in respect of those Shares will be payable to the Investment Manager within 30 Business Days of the date of redemption.

Crystallised Performance Fees shall remain in the relevant PF Class (but shall not participate in subsequent gains and losses of the relevant Class) until paid to the Investment Manager and shall not be used or made available to satisfy redemptions or pay any fees and expenses of the relevant PF Class.

The Depositary shall verify the calculation of the Performance Fee.

The Directors may, with the consent of the Investment Manager, reduce the Performance Fee payable by any PF Class. Performance Fees are payable on realised and unrealised capital gains, which for the avoidance of doubt includes investment income, taking into account realised and unrealised losses at the end of the Calculation Period. Consequently, Performance Fees may be paid on unrealised gains which may subsequently never be realised.

The performance fees paid to the Investment Manager by the Portfolio for the year ended 31 December 2019 were US$ 468,838 (31 December 2018: US$ 75,008).

Neuberger Berman Global High Yield Bond Fund

The Investment Manager may be entitled to receive a performance fee payable out of the Portfolio's assets in respect of each PF Class in the Portfolio.

Neuberger Berman Global High Yield Bond Fund (continued)Methodology

For each Calculation Period, a Performance Fee in respect of each PF Class in issue becomes due in respect of any Outperformance, i.e. the excess performance of the Net Asset Value per Share over the performance of the Benchmark applicable to that particular PF Class during the Calculation Period. The Percentage Fee will be calculated on each Dealing Day and will be equal to 20% of the Outperformance applicable to that particular PF Class over the same period.

In all cases the Net Asset Value per Share used in the calculation of the Performance Fee is unswung, i.e. it does not include any adjustment for swing pricing.

In the event that the performance of a PF Class over a Calculation Period is less than that of the Benchmark, no Performance Fee shall be payable in respect of that PF Class until such cumulative underperformance relative to its Benchmark has been recovered.

In the event that the PF Class has achieved Outperformance over a Calculation Period, a Performance Fee shall be payable in respect of that PF Class. Upon payment the Benchmark will be reset, this process ensures the Net Asset Value per Share and the Benchmark start from the same place at the start of the calculation period. Accordingly for the next Calculation Period the commencing Benchmark value will equal the Net Asset Value in respect of the PF Class on which the performance fee was paid i.e. if the Net Asset Value were to equal 110 the commencing Benchmark Value would also equal 110.

EUR Hedged PF Classes	ICE BofA Global High Yield Constrained Index – EUR Hedged	HWOC select currency EUR
GBP Hedged PF Classes	ICE BofA Global High Yield Constrained Index – GBP Hedged	HWOC select currency GBP

Shareholders should note that, as the Performance Fee is payable on the outperformance over the Benchmark, they may be charged a Performance Fee where the Net Asset Value of their Shares has declined but to a lesser extent than the Benchmark.

Shareholders should note that, as the Performance Fee is calculated at Class level and not at an individual Shareholder level, they may be charged a Performance Fee even where the Net Asset Value of their Shares has remained the same or dropped, for example, where Shareholders purchase or redeem Shares at points other than the start and end of a Calculation Period.

The Performance Fee will be accrued in the Net Asset Value on each Dealing Day and will normally be payable to the Investment Manager in arrears within 30 Business Days of the end of each Calculation Period. However, in the case of Shares redeemed during a Calculation Period, the accrued Performance Fee in respect of those Shares will be payable to the Investment Manager within 30 Business Days of the date of redemption.

Crystallised Performance Fees shall remain in the relevant PF Class (but shall not participate in subsequent gains and losses of the relevant Class) until paid to the Investment Manager and shall not be used or made available to satisfy redemptions or pay any fees and expenses of the relevant PF Class.

The Depositary shall verify the calculation of the performance fee.

The Directors may, with the consent of the Investment Manager, reduce the Performance Fee payable by any PF Class. Performance Fees are payable on realised and unrealised capital gains, which for the avoidance of doubt includes investment income, taking into account realised and unrealised losses at the end of the Calculation Period. Consequently, Performance Fees may be paid on unrealised gains which may subsequently never be realised.

There were no performance fees paid to the Investment Manager by the Portfolio for the year ended 31 December 2019 and 31 December 2018.

6. INVESTMENT MANAGER, ADMINISTRATOR, DISTRIBUTOR AND DEPOSITARY FEES (CONTINUED)

Performance Fee paid to the advisers

Neuberger Berman Uncorrelated Strategies Fund

The advisers appointed by the Investment Manager and/or the Sub-Investment Manager (“Non-Affiliated Sub-Advisers”) may be entitled to receive a performance fee (the “Adviser Performance Fee”) payable out of the Portfolio’s assets and as described more fully below. However, for the avoidance of doubt, no performance fees will be paid to the Investment Manager and the Sub-Investment Manager on any portion of the Portfolio’s assets which is managed by the Investment Manager and the Sub-Investment Manager acting in the capacity of an Adviser. All Classes in the Portfolio are PF Classes.

Definitions

Allocated Portion	The part of the Portfolio for which a Non-Affiliated Sub-Adviser is responsible.
Calculation Period	The Calculation Period shall normally run from 1 January to 31 December in each year except that: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• in the case of the initial appointment of a Non-Affiliated Sub-Adviser, the Calculation Period will run from the date of appointment to 31 December;</li> <li>• in the case of the termination of a Non-Affiliated Sub-Adviser, the Calculation Period will terminate on the date of the termination; and</li> <li>• in the case of the termination of the Investment Management Agreement in any year, the Calculation Period will terminate on the date of the termination.</li> </ul>
Crystallisation	The point at which any Adviser Performance Fee becomes payable to the Non-Affiliated Sub-Adviser. Crystallisation in respect of a Non-Affiliated Sub-Adviser will occur either (i) at the end of the Calculation Period; (ii) due to the Investment Manager or the Sub-Investment Manager reducing the capital allocated to the relevant Allocated Portion (iii) termination of the appointment of that Non-Affiliated Sub-Adviser.
High Water Mark	In respect of a Non-Affiliated Sub-Adviser, the greater of: (i) the Net Asset Value of its Allocated Portion at its appointment; and (ii) the value that that Allocated Portion has achieved at the end of any previous Calculation Period in respect of which an Adviser Performance Fee was paid, adjusted for any subscriptions and/or redemptions affecting the Allocated Portion.

Methodology

An Adviser Performance Fee is payable to a Non-Affiliated Sub-Adviser only with respect to the relevant Allocated Portion and only from the time that the Investment Manager or the Sub-Investment Manager appoints that Non-Affiliated Sub-Adviser to manage the Allocated Portion until such time, if ever, that the Non-Affiliated Sub-Adviser ceases to manage the Allocated Portion.

For each Calculation Period in which the net asset value of the Allocated Portion exceeds the High Water Mark, the Adviser Performance Fee payable will be equal to the increase in the Allocated Portion’s net asset value above the High Water Mark, multiplied by the relevant Non-Affiliated Sub-Adviser’s Adviser Performance Fee rate, as agreed with the Investment Manager and the Sub-Investment Manager, which shall not exceed 20%.

The Adviser Performance Fee will be calculated and accrued daily as at each Valuation Point. The Adviser Performance Fee is calculated on the unsprung net asset value of the relevant Allocated Portion, i.e. before any adjustment for swing pricing (for more information on “swing pricing” please see the “Determination of Net Asset Value – Adjustments of Valuations and Swing Pricing” section of the Prospectus).

Portfolio expenses (excluding Management Fees) are allocated pro rata to each Allocated Portion and to the portion of the Portfolio’s assets that are not allocated to a Non-Affiliated Sub-Adviser and the Adviser Performance Fee in respect of each Allocated Portion is calculated and paid after the deduction of the portion of such expenses which is attributable to the relevant Allocated Portion.

The Adviser Performance Fee will normally be payable to a Non-Affiliated Sub-Adviser in arrears within 30 Business Days of 31 December each year. However, in the event of the Crystallisation of an Adviser Performance Fee during a Calculation Period, the accrued Adviser Performance Fee in respect of such amounts will be payable within 30 Business Days of the end of the calendar quarter during which the Crystallisation occurred.

Methodology (continued)

Crystallised Adviser Performance Fees shall remain in the Portfolio until paid to the Non-Affiliated Sub-Adviser and shall not participate in subsequent gains and losses of the Allocated Portion. Crystallised Adviser Performance Fees shall not be used or made available to satisfy redemptions or pay any fees and expenses of the relevant Allocated Portion, the Portfolio or the Company (other than Adviser Performance Fees payable to the on-Affiliated Sub-Adviser).

The Depositary shall verify the calculation of any Adviser Performance Fee.

Investors should note that, as the Adviser Performance Fee is calculated and may be payable to a Non-Affiliated Sub-Adviser with respect to the performance of its Allocated Portion and not the performance of the Portfolio as a whole, it is possible that the Portfolio could pay an Adviser Performance Fee to a Non-Affiliated Sub-Adviser in circumstances where the overall performance of the Portfolio as a whole is negative. This could occur where, for example, during a Calculation Period one Non-Affiliated Sub-Adviser's Allocated Portion performs well but the remaining Non-Affiliated Sub-Advisers' Allocated Portions perform negatively and the aggregate total of the negative performance exceeds that of the positive performance of the Non-Affiliated Sub-Adviser receiving the Adviser Performance Fee.

Adviser Performance Fees are payable on realised and unrealised capital gains, which for the avoidance of doubt includes investment income, taking into account realised and unrealised losses at the end of the Calculation Period. Consequently, Adviser Performance Fees may be paid on unrealised gains which may subsequently never be realised.

Non-Affiliated Sub-Advisers may charge research expenses to the Portfolio through the provision of an annual research budget for the Portfolio, as agreed with the Company.

12. FINANCIAL INSTRUMENT DISCLOSURES

In pursuing its investment objectives the Company invests in transferable securities with the aim of spreading risk. Investments in equities and fixed income securities expose the Company to varying risks including market, liquidity and credit/counterparty risks. A description of the specific risks and the policies for managing these risks are included below. In addition, consequences of political, social, economic, diplomatic changes, or public health condition may have disruptive effects on market prices or fair valuations of foreign investments. Fair value is determined in accordance with the methodology outlined in the Statement of Significant Accounting Policies. The Schedules of Investments of the Portfolios at the year-end are representative of the type of investments held during the year.

Market Risk

Market risk embodies the potential for both losses and gains and includes price risk, interest rate risk and foreign currency risk.

All security investments present a risk of loss of capital. The Investment Manager moderates this risk through a careful selection of securities and other financial instruments within specified limits. The Company's overall market positions are monitored on a daily basis by the Portfolio's Investment Manager and are reviewed on a quarterly basis by the Board of Directors. The Company's equity and debt securities and trading derivative financial instruments are susceptible to market price risk arising from uncertainties about future prices of the instruments.

(a) Price Risk

Price risk is the risk that the fair values of securities decrease as a result of changes in the levels of the indices and the values of individual securities. The trading price risk exposure arises from the Company's investment portfolios.

The majority of the Company's investments are listed on recognised exchanges or traded on regulated markets as per the Prospectus. As at 31 December 2019 and 31 December 2018, a 10% increase in security prices would have increased the Net Assets and the Changes in Net Assets of each Portfolio as outlined in the table below. An equal change in the opposite direction would have decreased the Net Assets by an equal but opposite amount.

Other price risk is the risk that the value of the instruments will fluctuate as a result of changes in market prices (other than those arising from interest rate risk or currency risk), whether caused by factors specific to an individual instrument, its issuer or all factors affecting all instruments traded in the market. As the majority of the Company's financial instruments are carried at fair value with fair value changes recognised in the Profit and Loss Account changes in market conditions will directly affect Net Gain/(Loss) on Financial Assets and Liabilities at Fair Value through Profit or Loss.

Price risk is managed by the Investment Manager by investing in a diversified range of securities in different markets.

(b) Foreign Currency Risk

The Net Asset Value per share of a Portfolio will be computed in the base currency of the relevant Portfolio, whereas the investments held for the account of that Portfolio may be acquired in other currencies. The base currency value of the investments of a Portfolio designated in another currency may rise and fall due to exchange rate fluctuations in respect of the relevant currencies. Adverse movements in currency exchange rates can result in a decrease in return and a loss of capital. Positions are monitored on a daily basis and hedging strategies are used to ensure positions are maintained within established limits.

At 31 December 2019 and 31 December 2018, had the base currency of the relevant Portfolio strengthened by 5% in relation to all currencies, with all other variables held constant, Net Assets and the Change in Net Assets per the Profit and Loss Account would have (decreased)/increased as outlined in the table below.

(c) Interest Rate Risk

The Portfolios may hold investments in fixed interest bearing securities. Any change to the interest rate for particular securities may result in income either increasing or decreasing. Prices of securities held will be impacted by domestic rates of interest. The Portfolio's performance therefore will depend in part on its ability to anticipate and respond to such fluctuations in market interest rates. The Investment Managers and Sub-Investment Managers manage this risk by way of duration and yield curve analysis to establish and monitor duration positioning and yield curve structure.

The Company has forty six Portfolios as at the year ended 31 December 2019. Of the Portfolios, seventeen are Portfolios where the majority of the assets and liabilities of the Portfolio is invested in equity securities and are non-interest bearing. As a result, these Portfolios are not subject to significant amounts of risk due to fluctuations in the prevailing level of market interest rates.

At year end, the Portfolios set out in the table below invested primarily in fixed income instruments and are therefore exposed to the effects of fluctuations in the prevailing level of market interest rates on their respective financial position and cash flows.

Based on the Portfolios' compositions as at 31 December 2019 and 31 December 2018, had interest rates fallen by 0.50% with all other variables held constant, it is estimated that Net Assets and the Change in Net Assets per the Profit and Loss Account would have increased/decreased by approximately the values outlined in the table below. A 0.50% rise in rates would have resulted in an equal but opposite effect.

(d) Credit/Counterparty Risk

Credit risk is the risk that an issuer or counterparty will be unable to meet a commitment that it has entered into with the Company. It is the Company's policy to enter into financial instruments with a diversity of creditworthy counterparties. Therefore, the Company does not expect to incur material credit losses on its financial instruments. The Investment Manager performs assessments of the credit quality of trading counterparties used by the Company. This assessment includes, at minimum, an initial and annual credit review based on financial and/or third-party ratings data. Counterparties used for forwards and other OTC derivatives are subject to heightened monitoring, which includes in-depth credit reviews considering third-party ratings and/or factors such as capital adequacy, asset quality, management quality, earnings, and liquidity. The Investment Manager also follows news regarding the financial sector to monitor industry trends as well as events that may directly impact specific counterparties.

The Company's maximum exposure to credit risk (not taking into account the value of any collateral or other security held) in the event that counterparties fail to perform their obligations as at 31 December 2019 in relation to each class of recognised financial assets, other than derivatives, is the carrying amount of those assets as indicated in the Balance Sheet.

Transactions involving derivative financial instruments are usually with counterparties with whom the Portfolio has signed master netting agreements. Master netting agreements provide for the net settlement of contracts with the same counterparty in the event of default. The credit risk associated with derivative financial assets subject to a master netting arrangement is eliminated only to the extent that financial liabilities due to the same counterparty will be settled after the assets are realised. Risk is also managed by collateral being immediately available to the Company without recourse to counterparty in the event of default of counterparty.

Cash held via accounts opened on the books of Brown Brothers Harriman & Co. ("BBH") are obligations of BBH while cash held in accounts opened directly on the books of a third party cash correspondent bank, sub-custodian or a broker (collectively, "agency accounts") are obligations of the agent. Cash held via agency cash accounts are liabilities of the agent, creating a debtor/creditor relationship directly between the agent and the Company. Accordingly, while BBH is responsible for exercising reasonable care in the administration of such agency cash accounts where it has appointed the agent (i.e., in the case of cash correspondent banks and sub-custodians), it is not liable for their repayment in the event the agent, by reason of its bankruptcy, insolvency or otherwise, fails to make repayment. As at 31 December 2019, all cash and bank balances held on overnight deposit were with third party institutions, as outlined in Note 3. Cash and Cash Equivalents, that have a long term credit rating which is above investment grade as issued by Standard & Poor's (31 December 2018: same). BBH has a long term credit rating of A+ (31 December 2018: A+) as issued by Fitch.

The Depository must ensure that there is legal separation of non-cash assets held in custody, that such assets are held on a fiduciary basis, and that appropriate internal control systems are maintained such that records clearly identify the nature and amount of all assets under custody. As Depository, Brown Brothers Harriman Trustee Services (Ireland) Limited ("BBHTS") must ensure the ownership of each asset and the location of documents of title for each asset.

The key risk for the Company remains Credit Risk i.e. that the Investment Manager buys a loan or bond of a particular issuer and it does not perform as expected and either defaults on a payment or experiences a significant drop in the secondary market value.

To mitigate this risk, the Investment Manager carries out independent due diligence on each borrower, and has a focus on stable, performing credits that evidence strong track records through previous economic cycles. Additionally, the size of an issuer is also considered and the Investment Manager continues to favour the larger issuers in the market, defined by having debt issuance greater than $500m. These issuers tend to have broader syndicates, which can aid liquidity in the secondary market. As well as screening out the smaller issuers the Investment Manager also excludes highly cyclical industries and companies with limited earning visibility from its Investment Process.

Once a particular investment has been made, the Investment Manager monitors it. A range of relevant data is reviewed on an ongoing basis for each investment, including, but not limited to, key financial drivers, commodity prices, stock prices, regulatory developments, financial results, press releases and management commentary to identify any indicators of credit deterioration.

To manage this risk further, the Board ensures that the Investment Manager operates in accordance with the investment limits and restrictions policy determined by the Board. The Directors monitor the implementation and results of the investment process with the Investment Manager at each Board meeting and monitor risk factors in respect of each Portfolio.

The securities that BBH holds in custody include equities, fixed income securities, participatory notes, asset backed securities and REITs.

All securities that BBH holds in custody (as global sub-custodian for and on behalf of BBHTS for further benefit of its underlying clients) are segregated from BBH's own assets, whether they are held in BBH's vault, in segregated accounts on the books of their sub-custodians, or in an account maintained at a central securities depository. BBH maintains segregated accounts per client on its own books as well as on the books of the sub-custodian in the local market, where this is possible. As Depository, BBHTS must also ensure non-cash assets are held on a fiduciary basis through BBH's network of global sub-custodians.

BBH's sub-custodians are required by contract with BBH and generally by operation of law to segregate the securities of custody clients from the general banking assets of the sub-custodian.

BBH performs both initial and ongoing due diligence reviews on the sub-custodians within its global custody network through its Network Management Group. Such reviews include an assessment of service level standards, management expertise, market information, custody operations, reporting and technology capabilities at the sub-custodian, as well as reviews in relation to their reputation and standing in the market and their ongoing commitment to providing custody services.

Service level agreements are put in place with each sub-custodian, as well as the usual contractual arrangements, and these are reviewed on a regular basis through service review meetings, including on-site due diligence meetings.

Regular financial analysis of all sub-custodians is carried out by BBH's Risk and Credit Group and is focused on the sub-custodian bank's capital adequacy, asset quality, earnings, liquidity and credit ratings as key indicators, amongst others. These reviews form part of BBH's routine assessment of a sub-custodian's financial strength and standing.

The Investment Manager monitors the Company's risk in accordance with UCITS guidelines and reports to the Board of Directors on a periodic basis.

The Company invests in debt instruments that may receive a credit rating from a well-known rating agency. The credit ratings in the tables below are calculated as a percentage of fixed income securities, where there is a significant proportion of that Portfolio held as fixed income. A debt instrument is considered Investment Grade by Standard & Poor's and Fitch if its credit rating is BBB- or higher and by Moody's if its credit rating is Baa3 or higher. As at 31 December 2019 and 31 December 2018 the exposures by credit rating for each applicable Portfolio were as follows:

(e) Liquidity Risk

The main liquidity risks of the Company are associated with the need to satisfy Shareholders' requests for redemptions. The Company is exposed to daily cash redemptions of Redeemable Participating Shares. Redeemable Participating Shares are redeemed on demand at the holder's option based on the relevant Portfolio's Net Asset Value per Share at the time of redemption. This risk is mitigated by the Company primarily investing in securities listed or traded on the recognised markets in OECD member states and other countries thus assets comprise principally of realisable securities, which can be readily sold. Additionally, if there are any collateral arrangements in place with a counterparty, this will limit the extent to which liabilities may be extended to the Company.

Financial Assets

The majority of financial assets of the Company can be liquidated within 30 days.

Financial Liabilities

The maturity grouping is based on the remaining period from the end of the reporting period to the contractual maturity date. When the counterparty has a choice of when the amount is paid, the liability is allocated to the earliest on which the Company can be required to pay.

As at 31 December 2019 and 31 December 2018, the vast majority of liabilities (above 95% based on total liabilities including Redeemable Participating Shares) of all Portfolios were payable in one month.

Fair Value of Investments

FRS 102 Section 11.27 on "Fair Value: Disclosure" requires disclosure relating to the fair value hierarchy in which fair value measurements are categorised for assets and liabilities. The disclosures are based on a three-level fair value hierarchy for the inputs used in valuation techniques to measure fair value.

The Company has classified fair value measurements using a fair value hierarchy that reflects the significance of the inputs used in making the measurements. The three levels of the fair value hierarchy under FRS 102 are described below:

Level 1 – Unadjusted quoted prices in active markets that are accessible at the measurement date for identical unrestricted assets or liabilities;

Level 2 – Inputs other than quoted prices included in Level 1 that are observable for the asset or liability, either directly (as prices) or indirectly (derived from prices);

Level 3 – Inputs for the asset or liability that are not based on observable market data (unobservable inputs). Pricing inputs are unobservable for the investment and include situations where there is little, if any market activity for the instrument. The inputs into the determination of fair value require significant management judgement or estimation. As observable prices are not available for these securities, the Portfolios would have used valuation techniques to derive the fair value if applicable.

The level in the fair value hierarchy within which the fair value measurement is categorised in its entirety is determined on the basis of the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement in its entirety. For this purpose, the significance of an input is assessed against the fair value measurement in its entirety. For example, if a fair value measurement uses observable inputs that require significant adjustment based on unobservable inputs, that measure is a Level 3 measurement.

Assessing the significance of a particular input to the fair value measurement in its entirety requires judgement in considering the factors specific to the asset or liability.

The determination of what constitutes "observable" requires judgement by the Directors in consultation with the Investment Manager.

<sup>1</sup> Portfolio launched during the prior reporting year.

Securities categorised as Level 3 are generally valued based on a single quotation obtained from a dealer, but can also be fair valued securities with unobservable inputs. The Portfolios do not have access to unobservable inputs and therefore cannot disclose such inputs used in formulating such quotation, nor can the impact on valuation of changing one or more inputs to reasonably possible alternative assumption be established.

The recent outbreak of the COVID-19 in many countries, which is a rapidly evolving situation, has, among other things, disrupted global travel and supply chains, and has adversely impacted global commercial activity, the transportation industry and commodity prices in the energy sector. The rapid development and fluidity of this situation precludes any prediction as to its ultimate impact, which may have a continued adverse effect on economic and market conditions and trigger a period of global economic slowdown. Such conditions (which may be across industries, sectors or geographies) may impact operating performance at the Portfolios' companies in the near term.

24. DERIVATIVE CONTRACTS

The Investment Manager of the Company is an affiliate of Neuberger Berman Group LLC, who is a registered investment adviser with the SEC in the United States. The information included here represents US GAAP equivalent disclosures that are provided in order to enable the Investment Manager to avail of certain exemptions available to it under the SEC Custody Rule.

The Portfolios may transact in a variety of derivative instruments including swaptions, forward currency contracts, futures contracts, contracts for differences, options contracts, interest rate, credit default, cross currency, inflation and total return swap contracts.

Typically derivatives serve as components of the Portfolios' investment strategy and are utilised primarily to structure and hedge investments, to enhance performance and reduce risk to the Portfolios (the Company does not designate any derivative as a hedging instrument for hedge accounting purposes).

The Company uses financial derivative instruments to economically hedge its risks associated primarily with interest rate and foreign currency fluctuations. Derivatives may also be used for trading purposes where the Investment Manager believes this would be more effective than investing directly in the underlying financial instruments.

Derivatives often reflect, at their inception only a mutual exchange of promises with little or no transfer of tangible consideration. However, these instruments frequently involve a high degree of leverage and are very volatile. A relatively small movement in the underlying of a derivative contract may have a significant impact on the profit or loss of the Company.

The Investment Manager closely monitors the Portfolios' exposure under derivatives as part of the overall management of the Portfolios.

The Fair Value of these derivative instruments is included in the Balance Sheet with changes in Fair Value included in Net gain/(loss) on Financial Assets and Liabilities at Fair Value through Profit and Loss Account.

The Portfolios hold forward currency contracts some of which are specific to hedged share classes. Currency rate fluctuations that impact these forwards will only affect the net assets in the respective class and not the Portfolio as a whole. Refer to the Schedules of Investments for further information on class level forward currency contracts.

The notionals summarised in the table below are as at 31 December 2019 and are indicative of the volume of derivative activity for the year/period. The notionals are not indicative of market risk or credit risk.

In the normal course of business the Company enters into contracts that contain a variety of representations and warranties which provide general indemnifications. Certain contracts are required to be accounted for pursuant to "Guarantor's Accounting and Disclosure Requirements for Guarantees, Including Indirect Guarantees of Indebtedness of Others", which addresses the disclosures to be made by a guarantor and whether a liability should be recognised by a guarantor at the inception of a guarantee. If required by that statement, the liability for a guarantee would be recorded at fair value at the inception of the guarantee. The Company's maximum exposure under other arrangements is unknown, as this would involve future claims that may be made against the Company that have not yet occurred. However, based on experience, the Company expects the risk of loss to be low.

Credit-Risk-Related Contingent Features

The Portfolios' derivative contracts are subject to International Swaps and Derivatives Association ("ISDA") Master Agreements which contain certain covenants and other provisions that may require the Company to post additional collateral on derivatives or terminate these agreements if the Company fails to maintain sufficient asset coverage for its contracts or its Net Assets decline by stated percentages or amounts. The Portfolios entered into credit default swaps as part of its investment strategies, to hedge against unfavourable changes in the value of investments and to protect against adverse movements in interest rates or credit performance with counterparties. The maximum potential amount the Portfolios could be required to pay as a seller of credit protection if a credit event occurs as at 31 December 2019 was US$ 22,886,890 (31 December 2018: US$ 25,190,390). The aggregate fair value of all credit default swaps as at 31 December 2019 was US$ (19,927,164) (31 December 2018: US$ (2,926,214)). There were no other derivative instruments with credit-risk-related contingent features held by the Company at 31 December 2019 and 31 December 2018.

25. OFFSETTING FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

The Investment Manager of the Company is an affiliate of Neuberger Berman Group LLC, who is a registered investment adviser with the SEC in the United States. The information included here represents US GAAP equivalent disclosures that are provided in order to enable the Investment Manager to avail of certain exemptions available to it under the SEC Custody Rule.

Financial assets and liabilities are offset and the net amount reported in the Balance Sheet when there is a legally enforceable right to offset the recognised amounts and there is an intention to settle on a net basis, or realise the asset and settle the liability simultaneously.

For financial reporting purpose, the Company does not offset derivative assets and derivative liabilities in the Balance Sheet. The following tables present the Company's derivative assets and liabilities by counterparty, net of amounts available for offset under a master netting agreement and net of the related collateral received by the Company for assets and pledged by the Company for liabilities as at 31 December 2019 and 31 December 2018.

INFORMATION ON GLOBAL EXPOSURE (UNAUDITED)

Measurement of Market Risk and Leverage using the Commitment Approach and VaR

The Portfolios will seek to limit the market risk and leverage created through the use of derivatives by using either the commitment approach or by using a sophisticated risk measurement technique known as value-at-risk ("VaR"). The Neuberger Berman High Yield Bond Fund, Neuberger Berman US Multi Cap Opportunities Fund, Neuberger Berman US Real Estate Securities Fund, Neuberger Berman China Equity Fund, Neuberger Berman Emerging Markets Equity Fund, Neuberger Berman US Small Cap Fund, Neuberger Berman Short Duration High Yield Bond Fund, Neuberger Berman Short Duration Emerging Market Debt Fund, Neuberger Berman European High Yield Bond Fund, Neuberger Berman Global Equity Fund, Neuberger Berman Systematic Global Equity Fund, Neuberger Berman Global Real Estate Securities Fund, Neuberger Berman US Small Cap Intrinsic Value Fund, Neuberger Berman Corporate Hybrid Bond Fund, Neuberger Berman US Equity Fund, Neuberger Berman Global High Yield Bond Fund, Neuberger Berman Emerging Markets Sustainable Equity Fund, Neuberger Berman China Equity Opportunities Fund, Neuberger Berman Global Thematic Equity Fund, Neuberger Berman CLO Income Fund and Neuberger Berman Next Generation Mobility Fund use the commitment approach. The commitment approach calculates leverage by measuring the market value of the underlying exposures of derivatives relative to the relevant Portfolio's NAV but such leverage will not exceed the Portfolio's Net Asset Value at any time.

A Portfolio may use an "absolute" VaR model where the measurement of VaR is relative to the NAV of the Portfolio or the Portfolio may use a relative VaR model where the measurement of VaR is relative to a derivatives free comparable benchmark or equivalent portfolio. The model used by certain Portfolios is noted in the subsequent chart labeled VaR analysis. The VaR methodology used is subject to several limitations. First, VaR is based on a model of stock price returns which uses risk factors. To the extent that there are missing risk factors, mis-specified risk factors, or risk factors which are not predictive, the VaR may not be indicative of future risk. Also, the returns to various risk factors are not directly observable in the market and must be estimated using statistical techniques. To the extent that these estimates may be imprecise, the VaR may not be indicative of future risk. In addition, the co-variance between the risk factors is estimated over a particular historical time period. To the extent that the future time period may be different from the historical time period, the VaR may not be indicative of future risk. For these reasons, VaR may be more useful as a relative measure of risk among Portfolios, rather than as an absolute measure of risk.

A number of calculation standards are employed for the Portfolios using the VaR model. However, these calculation standards are dealt with in more detail in the risk management process of the Portfolio and may change from time to time at the discretion of the Investment Manager and in accordance with the requirements of the Central Bank.

The tables below detail the maximum, minimum and average usage of regulatory limit calculated during the year ended 31 December 2019 for each Portfolio using VaR:

Depending on market conditions, the Portfolios may employ leverage from time to time. In this context, "leverage" is calculated, in accordance with the requirements of the Central Bank, as the sum of the notionals of the derivatives used. Applying this calculation method, it is possible for the leverage of the Portfolios to be as high as 2 times (200 percent) of the Net Asset Value of the Portfolios. The disclosed level of leverage is not intended to be an additional risk exposure limit for the Portfolios. Furthermore, it is not intended that the leverage level by itself be indicative of the risk profile of the Portfolios. The table below details the level of leverage employed during the year ended 31 December 2019 and is calculated as the sum of the absolute value of the notionals of the derivatives used and expressed as a percentage of the Net Asset Value:

In addition to meeting other criteria, qualifying securities must have a below investment grade rating (based on an average of Moody's, S&P and Fitch ratings), and have risk exposure to countries that are members of the FX-G10, Western Europe or territories of the US and Western Europe. Securities in legal default are excluded from the index. Index constituents are capitalisation-weighted, provided the total allocation to an individual issuer does not exceed 2%.

ICE BofA 0-3 Month US Treasury Bill Index

ICE BofA 0-3 Month US Treasury Bill Index is a subset of ICE BofA US Treasury Bill Index including all securities with a remaining term to final maturity less than 3 months.

ICE BofA US Treasury Bill Index tracks the performance of US dollar denominated US Treasury Bills publicly issued in the US domestic market. Qualifying securities must have at least one month remaining term to final maturity and a minimum amount outstanding of $1 billion. Securities issued or marketed primarily to retail investors are excluded. Index constituents are market capitalisation weighted. Accrued interest is calculated assuming next-day settlement. Cash flows from bond payments that are received during the month are retained in the index until the end of the month and then are removed as part of the rebalancing. Cash does not earn any reinvestment income while it is held in the index. Information concerning constituent bond prices, timing and conventions is provided in the ICE BofA Bond Index Guide, which can be accessed on our public website (<https://indices.theice.com>), or by sending a request to iceindices@theice.com. The index is rebalanced on the last calendar day of the month, based on information available up to and including the third business day before the last business day of the month. New issues must settle on or before the calendar month end rebalancing date in order to qualify for the coming month. No changes are made to constituent holdings other than on month end rebalancing dates.

ICE BofA 3-Month US Treasury Bill Index

The index is comprised of a single issue purchased at the beginning of the month and held for a full month. At the end of the month that issue is sold and rolled into a newly selected issue. Fixed income securities are subject to the risk of an issuer's ability to meet principal and interest payments on the obligation (credit risk) and may also be subject to price volatility due to such factors as interest rate sensitivity, market perception of the creditworthiness of the issuer and general market liquidity (market risk). Fixed income securities are also exposed to the risk that their or their issuers' credit ratings may be downgraded, which can cause a significant drop in the value of such securities.

Lower rated or unrated (i.e. non-investment grade or high yield) securities are more likely to react to developments affecting market and credit risk than are more highly rated securities, which primarily react to movements in the general level of interest rates. Investors should carefully consider the relative risks of investing in high yield securities and understand that such securities generally are not meant for short-term investing. Investors who subscribe in a currency other than the base currency of the Company are exposed to currency risk. Fluctuations in these exchange rates may affect the return on investment.

Past performance is not indicative of future results. For details of the investment risks, which may include but are not limited to liquidity, interest rate, credit and currency risk, see the current prospectus. Please note that any dividends/interest which the Company may receive may be subject to withholding tax. The benchmark does not take into account the effects of tax and the deduction is therefore not reflected in the benchmark return illustrated herein. The investment objective and performance benchmark is a target only and not a guarantee of the Company performance. The index is unmanaged and cannot be invested in directly. Index returns assume reinvestment of dividends and capital gains and unlike fund returns do not reflect fees or expenses. Adverse movements in currency exchange rates can result in a decrease in return and a loss of capital. The investments of each Portfolio may be fully hedged into the Portfolio's base currency: this may reduce currency risks but may also expose the Portfolio to other risks such as the default of a counterparty. As noted above for further information relating to risks specific to this strategy please see the current prospectus.
