What does this synthetic indicator mean?

- The shares of class SAC-GBP are classified in category 5 because the value of the share may be subject to high variations and consequently the risk of loss and the opportunity of gain may be high.
- The risk category has been determined on the basis of historical and simulated data and may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile. The risk and reward category shown does not necessarily remain unchanged and the categorisation of the share class may shift over time.
- The lowest category does not mean a risk-free investment.
- Repayment of the initial investment is not guaranteed.

Which materially relevant risks are not adequately captured by the synthetic indicator?

- The investment in emerging markets expose the sub-fund to the risks of politic instability or uncertainties, as well as regulatory, financial or fiscal risks which can negatively affect the value of these investments, and even question the ownership right of the sub-fund's assets. Settlement and delivery systems are sometimes less organized in these markets and can incur complementary risks (delay or cancellation of the settlement of transactions, losses due to the counterparty default). Some emerging markets in which the sub-fund might invest can be of a relatively small size. Hence the risk that the sub-fund's investments in these markets become difficult to sell or buy at a price deemed suitable.
- The investor should also take into consideration other risk factors associated with his personal situation and circumstances at present and in the future.
