Risk and reward profile

1	2	3	4	5	6	7
---	---	---	---	---	---	---

- As any investment is risky by nature, the return (performance) thereof is potential only. The risk and reward profile of your investment is reflected by a synthetic indicator which ranks the fund over a risk/return scale from the lowest (1) to the highest (7) risk category.
- The computation of this risk/reward profile is based on the portfolio's net asset value fluctuations (volatility) recorded over the past 5 years (or on simulations based on an appropriate benchmark for funds or share classes of less than 5 years). It gives an indication of the fund's potential performance and of your capital risk exposure, but it does not guarantee that the risk/reward profile currently published will remain unchanged.
- Historical data, such as those used in calculating the synthetic indicator, may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the fund.
- The lowest risk/return category (level 1) does not mean a risk-free investment.
- The risk/return profile shown here is mainly explained by the usage of a multi-asset strategy and the inclusion of shares and bonds in the portfolio.
- The capital invested in this fund is neither guaranteed nor protected. You may therefore lose all or part of your investment.

Certain risks are not (or not adequately) reflected in the risk and reward profile mentioned herein. Amongst those risks, the following could have a material impact on the risk and reward profile of the fund:

- Risk associated with the leverage effect: the usage of derivative instruments may generate a leverage effect when the capital invested to acquire said instrument is less than the capital which would have been needed to acquire the underlying assets. The higher the leverage effect, the greater the variation in price of the derivative financial instrument in the event of fluctuation in the price of the underlying asset.
- Risk relating to derivatives: the derivative products which the fund may use are likely to be more volatile than their underlying instruments.
- Currency risk: exchange rate fluctuations may increase or reduce the return on your investment. If, for instance, the assets held in portfolio are denominated in another currency than the reference currency (NAV currency), the return on your investment will be linked to the fluctuations of the currencies in which the portfolio's assets are denominated compared to the reference currency.
