INVESTMENT APPROACH

U ACCESS (IRL) Trend Macro (the "Fund") is a discretionary global macro fund that seeks to identify and capitalize on fundamental trends in currencies, interest rates, credit and equity in both developed and emerging markets. Typically, the portfolio is comprised of 10 to 30 investment themes, with an average holding period of one to three months. The Fund primarily trades fixed income, foreign exchange, equity indices, credit indices, sovereign credit and related derivatives across all liquid markets. The fund does not trade individual equities, individual credits without significant government ownership, or physical commodities for speculative purposes. Generally, trades are diversified by geography and asset type, as well as by 'risk on' versus "risk off" with the goal of capital appreciation regardless of market direction and with little or no correlation to a broad range of indices.

The Portfolio Manager's investment team uses a fundamental approach to identify macro trends and their underlying drivers. The research process involves both a quantitative and a qualitative analysis. During the quantitative analysis, the Portfolio Manager builds proprietary models meant to give them a strong analytical understanding of the underlying drivers. As part of the qualitative analysis, members of the investment team travel and meet with local government or business leaders.

Active risk and liquidity management are critical components of the strategy, and trades are constructed with the goal of maximizing risk reward and building asymmetry into the portfolio. Risk is managed through portfolio construction, hedging, and stress testing.

MAIN RISKS

The Fund is exposed to the following risks :

Emerging and Developing Markets Risk: Investing in emerging and developing markets involves additional risks not typically associated with investing in more established economies and markets. Such risks may include greater social, economic and political uncertainty. Operational Risk: Local custody services remain underdeveloped in Operational Risk: Local custody services remain underdeveloped in many emerging market countries and in certain circumstances the Fund may not be able to recover some of its assets.

Derivatives Risk: The Fund will enter into various financial contracts (derivatives) with other parties. There is a risk that the other party to a derivative will become insolvent or fail to make its payments which may result in the Fund and your investment suffering a loss. Investments in a derivative will not necessarily generate the same return as a direct investment in the underlying asset on which the derivative is based.

Leverage Risk: The Fund implements a high use of leverage. Leverage presents opportunities for increasing both returns and losses because any event which affects the value of an investment is magnified to the extent leverage is employed.

Liquidity Risk: The Fund can from time to time be invested in financial instruments that may have low levels of liquidity.

Currency Risk: The Fund has exposure to securities that are issued in currencies other than the base currency of the Fund. As a result the Fund is subject to currency risk, which arises from changes in the exchange rates.
