Are there any other particular Risks?

- Liquidity risk – the risk stemming from the lack of marketability of an investment that cannot be bought or sold quickly enough to prevent or minimize a loss.

- Counterparty risk – the Sub-Fund will enter into derivatives with a single counterparty. If a counterparty fails to make payments (for example, it becomes insolvent), this may result in your investment suffering a loss.

- Operational risk – the risk of material losses to the Sub-Fund resulting from human error, system failures, inadequate procedures or internal management controls.

- Derivative instruments – a careful use of derivatives can be beneficial to the Sub-Fund but also implies additional risks which are different from the ones related to the underlying. Derivatives may be used to obtain, increase or reduce exposure to underlying assets and may create leverage. Leverage occurs when the economic exposure created by the use of derivatives is greater than the amount invested. Such leverage may result in greater fluctuations of the Net Asset Value of the Sub-Fund and therefore entails a high degree of risk, including the risk that losses may be substantial.

- Credit risk – the risk that the issuer of a security held within the Sub-Fund may not be able to meet its obligation to the Sub-Fund.

For more details about risks, see section "Risk Factors" of the prospectus.
