Investment risks

For complete information on risks, refer to the legal documents. The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. Debt instruments are exposed to credit risk which is the ability of the borrower to repay the interest and capital on the redemption date. Changes in interest rates will result in fluctuations in the value of the fund. The fund uses derivatives (complex instruments) for investment purposes, which may result in the fund being significantly leveraged and may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund. The fund may invest in certain securities listed in China which can involve significant regulatory constraints that may affect the liquidity and/or the investment performance of the fund. Investment in instruments providing exposure to commodities is generally considered to be high risk which may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund. As a portion of the Fund may be exposed to less developed countries, you should be prepared to accept large fluctuations in the value of the Fund.

Fund Strategy

The strategy aims to achieve a positive total return in all market conditions over a rolling three-year period. We take a conviction-led approach to sourcing good, long-term thematic investment ideas, using both traditional asset types and derivatives before applying robust risk management to blend these ideas into a truly diversified portfolio, with a clearly defined return and volatility target. The strategy will not have exposure to agricultural commodities and will not hold debt securities with a credit rating of below B- by Standard and Poor's rating agency or equivalent.

The investment concerns the acquisition of units in an actively managed fund and not in a given underlying asset.

The holdings date for risk purposes may be moved by one business day to the closest day that is not distorted by fund flows or trading and may therefore differ from the date used for showing performance or other fund data.
