I Introduction

Fidelity Funds (the "Company") is an open-ended investment company established in Luxembourg as a société d'investissement à capital variable ("SICAV"). It has an umbrella structure and its assets are held in a number of different funds ("sub-funds"). Each sub-fund is a separate portfolio of financial instruments managed in accordance with specific investment objectives. Separate classes of shares in the Company (the "shares") are issued in relation to the sub-funds. Each sub-fund provides an investment opportunity in professionally managed pools of financial instruments in different geographical areas and currencies, with the investment objective of capital growth, income or a balance between capital growth and income.

Shares are authorised for sale in a number of jurisdictions and may be listed on the Luxembourg Stock Exchange. However, shares in the Reserved Funds and the Institutional Reserved Funds are not presently listed.

II Financial Statements

The Board of Directors of the Company (the "Board") submits its report and the audited financial statements for the year ended 30 April 2018. The audited financial statements are set out on pages 162 to 771 of this Annual Report, with results for the year appearing in the Statement of Operations and Changes in Net Assets on pages 678 to 705. Dividend information for the sub-funds is detailed on pages 737 to 757.

A copy of the Annual Report may be obtained upon request from either the offices of the companies registered as distributors or from the Registered Office of the Company.

Alternatively, please go to www.fidelityinternational.com/statutory/fid\_funds\_annual\_reports.page. Comparative figures for the previous year can be found in the Annual Report of the Company for the year ended 30 April 2017.

III Activities during the year

During the year, the company followed the normal activities of an open-ended investment company. The Investment Manager's Report that follows gives an overview of performance. As at 30 April 2018, the number of registered Shareholders worldwide totalled in excess of 70,000. However, the total number of investors in the Company is much greater than the number of registered Shareholders due to the fact that certain registered Shareholders may represent the holdings of many underlying clients. Assets under management as at 30 April 2018 exceeded USD 123.4 billion.

The Directors may from time to time close sub-funds as well as launch further sub-funds with different investment objectives, subject to the approval of the Commission de Surveillance du Secteur Financier ("CSSF").

At the year end, the Company consisted of 147 active sub-funds.

Details of changes to the composition of the sub-fund range during the year are provided in the Notes to the Financial Statements on pages 730 to 771.

IV Board of Directors

The Directors of the Company as at 30 April 2018 are listed on page 5. ## Conducting Officers' Responsibilities

The COs have a duty to ensure that the tasks of the FID, the Investment Manager as well as the administrative functions carried out by the Management Company are performed in compliance with Luxembourg Law, the Company's Articles of Incorporation and the current Prospectus. Amongst other things, the COs ensure compliance with the investment restrictions of the Company and oversee the implementation of the investment policy of each sub-fund by the appointed Investment Manager.

The Management Company and/or the COs report to the Board on a quarterly basis and the COs inform the Management Company and the Board without delay of any materially adverse matters resulting from the actions of the Investment Manager, the General Distributor or of the Management Company in relation to the administrative functions.

VI Role of Investment Manager and Central Administrative Agent

FFML provides day-to-day investment management of the Company, under the supervision and subject to the control of the Board and FIMLUX. FFML is authorised to act on behalf of the Company and to select agents, brokers and dealers through whom to execute transactions and is required to provide the Board and FIMLUX with any reports it may require.

FFML may receive investment advice from, and act upon the advice of, any company within the holding company FIL Limited ("FIL"), including affiliate companies of FFML, and may execute, transact and otherwise carry out its functions, duties and obligations with or through any of these Fidelity companies. FFML remains responsible for the proper performance by such companies of those responsibilities.

The duties of the Investment Manager include the design, implementation and maintenance of controls and procedures to administer the assets of the Company and to manage its affairs properly. The process extends to operational and compliance controls and risk management. In addition, the Company and FIMLUX have appointed FIL to provide services in relation to the investments of the sub-funds including valuation, statistical, technical, reporting and other assistance.

VII Corporate Governance

The Board applies a clear and transparent corporate governance framework for the management of the Company's affairs.

1. The Board has adopted the principles of good governance as set out in the ALFI (Association of the Luxembourg Fund Industry) Code of Conduct issued in June 2013 and considers that the Company has been in compliance with it in all material respects throughout the financial year ended 30 April 2018.
2. There are contractual arrangements in place governing the relationships with FIMLUX, FFML, FID and FIL as well as other third party suppliers to the Company.
3. The Directors take decisions in the interests of the Company and its Shareholders and refrain from taking part in any deliberation or decision which creates conflict between their personal interests and those of the Company and its Shareholders.
4. The Board meets at least four times a year. The Board requests and receives reports from relevant Committees, the COs, FIMLUX, FFML, and FID on the various activities including compliance controls and risk management undertaken by the relevant FIL companies. Senior representatives of FIMLUX, FFML and FID attend meetings by invitation, thus enabling the Board of Directors to question the reports presented to it.
5. As part of the control framework within FIL, all FIL group employees are subject to the FIL Code of Conduct and its associated policies, which, amongst other things, set out procedures for personal account dealing in securities. The Board receives regular reports from the FIL Ethics Office on Employee Personal Trading to ensure that any conflicts of interest between personal accounts dealing by FIL group staff and the interests of the Company are properly managed.
6. The Board has established an Audit and Risk Committee which consists exclusively of independent Directors and which is charged with reviewing the annual accounts, the external audit process, sub-custodian arrangements and the relationship with the external Auditor, including the recommendation to Shareholders of its appointment and level of fees. The Audit and Risk Committee meets at least twice a year and reports to the Board, making recommendations where appropriate. The Audit Committee meets with the external Auditor in the absence of representatives of the FIL group at least once a year.
7. The nomination of new Directors is considered by the Board and is subject to the approval of the CSSF and ultimately the approval of Shareholders at the Annual General Meeting. The level of Directors' fees is put to Shareholders for approval, in accordance with the Articles of Incorporation. Directors who are employed by FFML, its holding company FIL, or its subsidiaries have waived their fees for the year ended 30 April 2018. For those Directors that have not waived their fees, the remuneration earned for the year ended 30 April 2018 was in aggregate USD 482,302 subject to Shareholder approval, as set out on page 734 of this Annual Report. For comparison purposes the EUR equivalent was EUR 399,448.

8. The Directors are committed to ensuring that Shareholders are kept informed of matters relevant to their investment and that all Shareholders are treated fairly. The maintenance and integrity of information concerning the Company on the Fidelity website is the responsibility of FIL. FIMLUX is responsible for the accuracy of translations of documents which may be available to investors in languages other than English. The Directors approve the English form of the financial statements presented to them at Audit and Risk Committee and Board meetings.

The external Auditor, PricewaterhouseCoopers, Société coopérative, being eligible, offers itself for re-election for the year from 1 May 2018 to 30 April 2019.

VIII Other Information

Proxy Voting

FFML has a policy of voting on equity securities where it is possible to do so, unless the loss of liquidity as a result of attendant share blocking is deemed to outweigh the expected benefits to be gained. Such voting is undertaken in accordance with written proxy voting guidelines employed by the FIL group, of which FFML is a part, and takes account of prevailing local market best practices. The Board reviews and approves the proxy voting policy, activity and guidelines annually. FIL's Principles of Ownership, which summarises how FIL engages with companies in which the Company's sub-funds have invested, can be accessed from the Corporate Governance section of FIL's website (<https://www.fidelityinternational.com>).

Commissions and Interfunding

FFML uses supplemental research in the course of its work for the Company and other clients provided by brokers through whom the Investment Manager executes transactions for the Company and other clients. All dealing commission paid by the Company and other clients on trades with brokers account only for the costs of executing the trade. All supplemental research used by the Investment Manager is valued and paid for separately from execution and other relationships with brokers in accordance with inducement regulations. On 25 April 2018, FFML has reimbursed the company for research fees of USD 6,515,636.

The Company participates in the Investment Manager's interfunding programme whereby FIL's traders, on occasion, identify situations where an account or sub-fund managed by FIL is buying the same security that another account or sub-fund is selling. If a trader can confirm that it would be in the interests of both accounts to execute a transaction between them rather than in the market then an interfund transaction is executed.

Swiss investors

Swiss investors are advised that with the exception of Asian Equity Fund, Asia Pacific Multi Asset Growth & Income Fund, Greater China Fund II, Greater China Multi Asset growth & Income Fund, Institutional US High Yield Fund, the Fixed-Term Bond Funds, the Institutional Target Funds, the Reserved Funds, the present sub-funds of the Company have been authorised by the Swiss Financial Market Supervisory Authority for distribution in Switzerland.

Performance Overview - 12 months ending 30 April 2018

Equity Markets

Global equities rose in US dollar terms over the 12-months to April 2018, supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. Volatility spiked in early 2018, as investors anticipated faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve (Fed) following higher US wage growth data, triggering a sell-off in markets. Moreover, the imposition of import tariffs by the US government sparked concerns about the possibility of trade wars. However, these concerns eased towards the end of the review period, as fears over trade frictions between the US and China receded, and strong corporate earnings boosted investor sentiment. The US Fed remained on a gradual interest rate hike path, while the European Central Bank (ECB) continued to favour an accommodative monetary policy stance. In Japan, Prime Minister Shinzo Abe's landslide victory in the snap election held in late October and the reappointment of Haruhiko Kuroda as the Bank of Japan governor for a second term supported investor sentiment. Elsewhere, uncertainty about the UK's negotiations with the European Union (EU) over the terms of its exit continued.

Against this backdrop, emerging markets and Japan significantly outperformed other global regions in US dollar terms, while Pacific ex Japan lagged. Returns in US dollar terms were supported by its depreciation against the euro, sterling and the yen.

European equities ended in positive territory over a volatile year. Markets started the period on a strong note following favourable French election results. However, volatility increased at the start of the third quarter of 2017 due to rising geopolitical tensions. Markets rebounded in September as macroeconomic data and surveys signalled momentum in the economic recovery. The ECB's continued accommodative monetary policy stance, strong corporate earnings, US tax reforms and sustained global economic growth also supported equities. Markets declined at the start of 2018 due to rising bond yields, trade war concerns between the US and China, and the uncertain political environment in Italy. Subsequently, equities recovered partially in April, driven by subsiding geopolitical tensions and strong corporate earnings.

The UK stock market rose over the year, mainly driven by gains in the resources sector. Investor sentiment was positive over most of the period, despite the lacklustre domestic economic outlook. However, markets experienced heightened volatility in the first quarter of 2018, primarily due to concerns over faster interest rate increases this year, particularly in the US. In April, most of the first-quarter losses were offset by a sharp rebound in markets, driven by a weak sterling, which buoyed companies that generate sales in foreign currencies. At a sector level, mining stocks were among the major gainers as global growth remained strong. Meanwhile, technology and utilities stocks underperformed the broader market. Overall, value-oriented companies performed better than growth stocks.

US equities advanced over the review period. Stocks were supported by the passage of the Republican tax reform bill, robust economic data and strong corporate earnings. At a sector level, information technology (IT), financials and consumer discretionary outperformed, while consumer staples and telecommunication services stocks came under pressure. During the period, the US Fed increased its benchmark interest rate three times by a total of 0.75%; interest rates now range between 1.50% and 1.75%. The latest hike was at its March 2018 meeting under Jerome Powell, who took over as the new Fed chairperson in February 2018. The central bank is expected to continue with its gradual interest rate hike policy, and has indicated two more rate increases of 0.25 percentage points each in 2018.

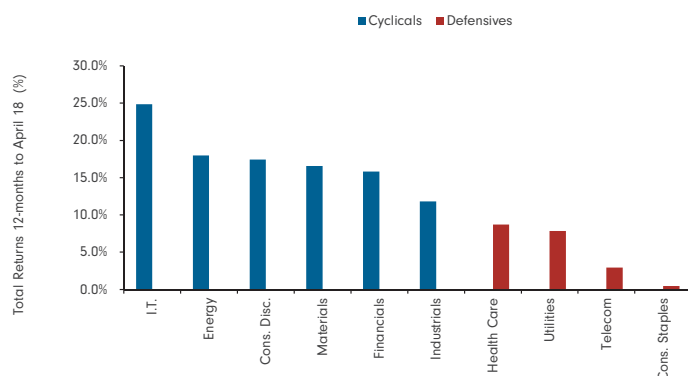

Japanese equities rose over the year, driven by upbeat corporate earnings results and a steady flow of positive economic data. Investor sentiment was also supported by hopes of positive economic policy measures. However, a strong yen, which attracted buying interest as a safe haven currency during the volatile first quarter of 2018, diminished risk sentiment. In terms of style, growth companies outperformed value stocks, while smaller companies performed better than their larger peers. From a sector perspective, technology, energy and consumer staples were among the leading performers. Conversely, telecommunication services, utilities and financials recorded negative returns.

Pacific ex Japan equities gained over the period as healthy global economic data boosted sentiment. From a regional perspective, Chinese and Hong Kong equities ended higher. Economic stabilisation and progress towards structural reforms in China supported sentiment. Expectations of easing geopolitical tensions on the Korean peninsula buoyed South Korean stocks. However, Australian equities lagged the broader market. Financials fell amid concerns over a regulatory inquiry on alleged misconduct in the sector and risks associated with the housing market. From a sector perspective, healthcare and IT led gains. Energy and materials stocks also tracked commodity prices higher.

Emerging market equities advanced over the period, driven by stabilising economic growth in China. However, expectations of higher-than-expected interest rate hikes by new Fed chairperson limited gains. In Asia, Chinese stocks advanced as the government announced the easing of foreign ownership limits on banks and fund managers, and announced plans to reform 'H-shares' of companies listed in Hong Kong. In Latin America, Brazilian markets rose. Investors found relief in President Michel Temer's plans to improve government finances through labour and pension reforms. For the time being, though, pension reforms cannot be passed in parliament due to military intervention in Rio de Janeiro. In the emerging Europe, Middle East and Africa region, Russian shares rose in line with prices of oil, the country's key export item. South African stocks gained following the appointment of business friendly Cyril Ramaphosa as the country's president.

Cyclicals Outperformed Defensives

Source: Thomson Reuters Datastream, 30.04.2018

Global cyclical sectors outperformed defensives, led by higher bond yields and positive macroeconomic data. All sectors generated positive returns, with cyclicals, including IT, energy, consumer discretionary and materials leading the way. The IT sector was buoyed by strong earnings momentum. Energy stocks rose in line with oil prices, while materials stocks were supported by higher metal prices on the back of an encouraging growth outlook, especially in China. Defensives such as telecommunication services and consumer staples lagged the broader market, hurt by higher interest rate expectations. Looking ahead, geopolitical news flow has the potential to unsettle markets over the coming months. Against this backdrop, stock-picking should remain a major driver of returns.

Bond markets

Fixed income markets posted mixed returns over the review period, characterised by a change in the monetary policy regime from quantitative easing to quantitative tightening. Led by US Treasuries, sovereign bond yields rose as global macroeconomic data continued to improve, indicating sustained growth momentum. In the US, yields on 10-year US Treasuries touched 3% for the first time since 2014, signalling the confidence in economic expansion. The moves in US debt rippled out into other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds and UK government bonds (Gilts) edging higher over the period. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded another period of strong performance as credit spreads tightened amid strong demand for yields, subsiding geopolitical tensions and strong corporate earnings.

Government Bond Yield Curve Flattens

Source: ICE BofA Merrill Lynch, 30.04.2018

While developed market central banks are on the path to policy normalisation, inflation remains subdued. Despite favourable global economic conditions, inflation continues to be below global central banks' target. Across developed economies, the annual rate of inflation has been steadily falling for a number of years. In the US, the inflation average has declined from 7.1% in the 1970s, to just 2.6% in the 2000s. Over the same period, inflation in the UK fell by 10%. While the unemployment rate dropped from 9% to 3.9% in the US over the last seven years, inflation has been virtually constant, fluctuating around the 2% mark. Against this backdrop of rising interest rates and low inflation, most core government bond yield curves have flattened, with yields rising at the short end while remaining relatively stable at the long end. Overall, as the US economy improves and the US Fed continues on its path to normalise interest rates, we believe inflation will not increase enough to warrant the expected pace of normalisation. As a result, bond yields are not expected to rise significantly.

Performance notes on Fund Reviews

Cumulative Returns are calculated from published Net Asset Value price to published Net Asset Value price with gross income reinvested on ex-dividend dates. For sub-funds where the price adjustment policy has been applied as per note 2 on page 731, the Cumulative Returns are calculated to or from the adjusted Net Asset Value price.

This calculation does not include any initial charge, and represents the true investment performance of the sub-fund.

The performance figures reported under the column "Since Launch" in the tables are calculated from the commencement of operations until 30 April 2018.

Annualised performance is an alternative way of expressing a sub-fund's total return. It assumes a steady compound rate of growth during the period in question and is not the sub-fund's year by year performance, which fluctuated over the periods shown.

Please note that the Manager's Overviews are based on the first Share class disclosed for each sub-fund. Performance data is expressed in the Share class currency of denomination, indicated by the ISO code shown.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 5,360 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US equities rose over the review period. Stocks were supported by the passage of the Republican tax reform bill, robust economic data and strong corporate earnings. Towards the end of the period, investor sentiment was dampened due to concerns over a trade war between the US and China. At a sector level, information technology, financials and consumer discretionary outperformed. During the period, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased its benchmark interest rate three times by a total of 0.75%; interest rates now range between 1.50% and 1.75%. Jerome Powell took over as the new Fed chairperson in February 2018.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Not holding mega-cap technology stocks such as Amazon.com and Microsoft, both of which performed strongly, hampered performance. Molson Coors Brewing slid on concerns over weakening beer volumes in the US. Potential synergies post its acquisition of MillerCoors are likely to materialise at a slower than expected rate, which also weighed on its shares. Juniper Networks declined on concerns over its routing business, as the ongoing architectural transition at some of its key north American cloud customers led to a delay in orders. Encouragingly, Akamai Technologies gained following a broker upgrade and positive investor sentiment surrounding new shareholder initiatives. Canada-based insurance company Fairfax Financial Holdings rose ahead of its quarterly results. The company has a strong franchise with several property and casualty insurance subsidiaries that run decentralised businesses. The lack of exposure to Philip Morris also added relative value.

Currently, the fund has a key overweight stance in the financials, healthcare and materials sectors. Willis Towers Watson and Berkshire Hathaway are the key active positions in financials. Within healthcare, Abbott Laboratories and Mylan are some of the key holdings. Mylan is one of the world's largest generics company, with a well-diversified and robust pipeline of drugs under development. Mosaic, a leading phosphates and potash producer, is a key active position in materials.

Manager's Overview

US equities rose over the review period. Stocks were supported by the passage of the Republican tax reform bill, robust economic data and strong corporate earnings. Towards the end of the period, investor sentiment was slightly dampened due to concerns over a trade war between the US and China. During the period, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased its benchmark interest rate three times by a total of 0.75%; interest rates now range between 1.50% and 1.75%. The latest hike was at its March 2018 meeting under Jerome Powell, who took over as the new Fed chairperson in February 2018. The central bank is expected to continue with its gradual interest rate hike policy.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, due to positioning in the consumer discretionary sector and stock selection in industrials. Within consumer discretionary, the allocation to Newell Brands weighed on returns after it lowered its annual earnings guidance. However, its investment thesis remains intact as the company is run by a credible management team. In the healthcare sector, the position in Allergan fell. A US court ruled against the company in a patent lawsuit regarding its key eye medicine Restasis. The ruling will allow a generic version of Restasis to enter the market before the patent expires. On a positive note, the exposure to music streaming company Spotify Technology added value as investors welcomed its direct listing on the New York Stock Exchange.

The fund invests in attractively valued, high quality companies to provide long-term capital growth. The manager looks for businesses with dominant market shares and ownership of unique assets. For instance, the fund holds Abbott Laboratories, which has diversified revenue streams and multiple businesses, including consumer, diagnostics and emerging market pharmaceuticals. In addition, its earnings should benefit from its plans to reduce debt. The fund also holds well-managed financial companies such as PNC Financial Services Group and JPMorgan Chase & Co that should gain from an easing regulatory environment.

Manager's Overview

US equities rose over the review period. Stocks were supported by the passage of the Republican tax reform bill, robust economic data and strong corporate earnings. Towards the end of the period, investor sentiment was slightly dampened due to concerns over a trade war between the US and China. During the period, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased its benchmark interest rate three times by a total of 0.75%; interest rates now range between 1.50% and 1.75%. The latest hike was at its March 2018 meeting under Jerome Powell, who took over as the new Fed chairperson in February 2018. The central bank is expected to continue with its gradual interest rate hike policy.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, driven by stock selection in the information technology (IT) sector and an overweight stance in industrials. Within IT, the exposure to music streaming company Spotify Technology added value as investors welcomed its direct listing on the New York Stock Exchange. Direct listing enables a company to list on a stock exchange without issuing additional shares. The allocation to IT services company Broadridge Financial Solutions advanced. It announced strong quarterly revenues and raised its full year guidance. However, shares in Celgene slid following the failure of phase three trials of its drug GED-0301, which aimed to treat inflammatory bowel disease.

The manager invests in companies that are benefiting from long-term secular growth trends and those that can significantly grow their earnings as they benefit from strong pricing power. The fund has exposure to IT stocks such as Fidelity National Information Services, which provides software and payment processing solutions to financial services companies. It has a strong runway for organic growth and margin expansion. Alphabet (A) is another key holding in the portfolio, given its dominant market position and high-margin advertising business. Within consumer discretionary, media company Charter Communications provides a complete range of broadband and cable services, and has a strong management team.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 911 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Equities in the ASEAN region advanced amid optimism over global growth. Thai equities gained as the military government announced plans to hold general elections in November 2018 to restore democracy. Singaporean equities ended higher, led by financials and real estate stocks. Additionally, the country's central bank tightened its monetary policy for the first time in six years in April, against the backdrop of steady economic growth momentum. Buying activity by foreign investors buoyed Malaysian equities. Indonesian equities also advanced over the period. While equities rose initially after global credit rating agencies Fitch and S&P upgraded Indonesia's sovereign credit rating, stocks retreated since February on the weakening rupiah. Meanwhile, sentiment towards equities in the Philippines weakened amid concerns over inflation, which rose above the central bank's target range in February.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the period, as selected industrials and real estate holdings disappointed. Among industrials, the exposure to conglomerate Sime Darby hurt returns due to the lacklustre performance of its demerged entities Sime Darby Plantations and Sime Darby Property on their trading debut on the Malaysian stock exchange. Petroleum and chemical logistics company AKR Corporindo slid in light of weak earnings. In the real estate sector, shares in the Philippines-based property developer Robinsons Land declined on concerns over its plans to undertake a rights issue to fund land acquisitions. On a positive note, selected financials and energy stocks were among the key contributors to returns. In particular, healthy earnings supported Singaporean bank DBS Group Holdings and Thai oil and gas giant PTT.

The manager focuses on companies that are likely to gain market share and are exposed to regional growth. The fund also favours companies that have strong management track records. Among banks, the manager likes DBS Group Holdings and United Overseas Bank. While the former is held for its disciplined pricing strategy, the latter is favoured for its solid business momentum. The position in Singapore Telecommunications is retained for its diversified business model, strong cash flow generation and attractive valuations.

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities rose over the period as healthy global economic data boosted sentiment. From a regional perspective, Chinese equities ended higher. Economic stabilisation and progress towards structural reforms in China supported sentiment. Expectations of easing geopolitical tensions on the Korean peninsula buoyed South Korean stocks. From a sector perspective, healthcare, information technology (IT), real estate and financial stocks led gains. Energy and materials stocks also tracked commodity prices higher. In contrast, industrials and telecommunication services providers lagged the broader market.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to security selection in China. Contract drug maker WuXi Biologics buoyed performance in view of its robust profits, aided by efficiency gains and robust growth in order backlog. Shares in China International Travel Services rose. The travel services provider and duty-free shops operator's move to acquire a majority stake in Sunrise Shanghai is likely to be positive for its duty-free business. Premium liquor producer Kweichow Moutai (A) reported solid earnings, which boosted its share price. Elsewhere, Thai energy company PTT gained as operating performance at its gas business and oil marketing unit were encouraging.

The fund is focused on its core investment philosophy, which is to invest in high-quality businesses run by strong management teams that benefit from the region's long-term structural growth drivers. Overall, the fund is overweight in the financials and consumer sectors, due to positions in companies with solid fundamentals. HDFC Bank (demat) has a robust franchise, low funding cost, excellent management team and solid asset quality. ### Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities advanced over the year. Economic stabilisation in China and optimism towards state-owned enterprise reforms boosted Chinese and Hong Kong equities. Taiwanese stocks advanced, mainly due to financials and materials sectors. A recapitalisation plan for state-owned banks, an ambitious infrastructure spending programme and an upgrade to the country's sovereign credit rating also attracted investor interest in India. Easing geopolitical tensions surrounding the Korean Peninsula buoyed South Korean equities. All sectors in the region, except telecommunications, ended in positive territory. Of note, the financials, information technology (IT) and consumer sectors were the notable gainers.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Selected consumer stocks were among the key contributors to returns. Liquor and beverage maker Kweichow Moutai (A) rose as it reported healthy earnings and announced plans to increase the price of its flagship product in 2018 amid rising demand for premium liquor. Food seasonings manufacturer Foshan Haitian Flavouring & Food also advanced as its encouraging earnings guidance reflected an improvement in its product mix and stable raw material prices. IT and materials stocks came under pressure. Logistics software maker Getswift declined in light of weak earnings and the launch of a regulatory investigation into disclosure allegations. Canadian gold miner Franco-Nevada (USA) fell amid lacklustre interest in the gold sector.

The manager focuses on bottom-up stock selection and favours companies that have an understandable business model, above-average earnings growth rate relative to market expectations and trade at attractive valuations. Kweichow Moutai (A) is held for its dominant position in China's high-end liquor market, strong market share gains and solid bargaining power. HDFC Bank (demat.) is retained given its retail driven high growth business model, healthy asset quality, strong earnings profile and management's superior track record.

Manager's Overview

Asian property stocks gained over the year, aided by optimism around well-synchronised growth in the global economy. Against this backdrop, realty shares in Japan, Hong Kong, China, Indonesia, Singapore and the Philippines advanced. However, risks of faster interest rate hikes in the US led to volatility in government bond yields, which weighed on interest rate sensitive property companies towards the latter half of the period. Housing starts in Japan continued to decline during the year. In Australia, housing values slipped for the fifth straight month in February, as the crackdown on interest-only lending continued to dampen housing demand.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, due to rewarding security selection in Japan and Hong Kong. The conviction position in Tateru (formerly known as Investors Cloud) boosted performance. Sentiment towards the online apartment investment platform provider received a boost as its operating results were ahead of expectations. Japanese mall operator Aeon Mall enhanced gains following encouraging sales growth at its domestic and overseas operations, and as its results suggested that it is on track achieve its profit guidance. Shares in Hysan Development and Wharf Real Estate Investment added value as sentiment towards the high-end retail segment in Hong Kong improved. Conversely, SM Prime Holdings came under pressure as uncertainty around monetary policy in the Philippines, against the backdrop of rising inflation, hurt sentiment.

A broadly positive macroeconomic and accommodative policy environment is likely to support the Asia-Pacific property market and continue to provide an attractive backdrop for stock selection. The manager favours high-quality companies in Hong Kong. Hysan Development is held for its high-quality portfolio of retail and office assets at attractive locations, strong balance sheet and stable dividend policy. Retail malls and car parking owner Link REIT (real estate investment trust) has strong corporate governance and a stable, defensive earnings profile due to its primary focus on non-discretionary retail spending. The manager is also finding opportunities in Japan and Australia.

Manager's Overview

Asia ex Japan equities gained over the year as healthy global economic data boosted sentiment. However, fears over faster interest rate hikes in the US and a potential trade war between the US and China led to volatility. From a regional perspective, Chinese and Hong Kong equities advanced. Economic stabilisation and progress towards structural reforms in China supported sentiment. Expectations of easing geopolitical tensions on the Korean peninsula buoyed South Korean stocks. Indian equities also gained, aided by a rebound in the pace of economic growth. At a sector level, healthcare and information technology led gains. Energy and materials stocks also tracked commodity prices higher.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Certain Indian holdings weighed on returns. Shares in diesel engine manufacturer Cummins India declined on the back of weak earnings. Shares in Punjab National Bank slid following the detection of a debt fraud. The lender is held as the government's recapitalisation plan for state-owned banks should help it to clean its books and get it back to a normalised growth trajectory. In China, small personal care appliances maker Shanghai Flyco Electrical Appliance (B) fell, largely due to concerns over higher marketing expenses in the near term. On a positive note, smartphone camera component maker Sunny Optical Technology and dairy products company China Mengniu Dairy supported gains, aided by their healthy earnings updates. The position in Thai energy company PTT benefited from higher crude oil prices.

The fund is focused on companies in three categories – restructuring candidates where the manager finds catalysts for an improvement in returns; those that have global technology, scale or cost leadership; and strong franchises that benefit from long-term structural drivers. For instance, India's HDFC Bank (demat.) has an excellent management team, strong franchise, low funding costs and robust asset quality. Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing is a global foundry leader, both in terms of technology and scale, and has strong pricing power.

Manager's Overview

Equities in Asian smaller companies advanced over the year. Optimism around the encouraging pace of economic activity in China, a positive outlook for global growth and easing geopolitical tensions on the Korean peninsula supported sentiment. Gains in the regional small-cap index were driven by equities in South Korea, China and Taiwan. Conversely, smaller companies in the Philippines and Indonesia underperformed the broader market. In terms of market capitalisation, small-cap stocks lagged their larger counterparts.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. The holding in G8 Education declined as lower occupancy levels hurt the childcare centre operator's earnings and guidance. Nonetheless, an increase in government funding is likely to support demand. Shares in Amaysim Australia slid as higher-than-expected migration of its existing mobile subscribers towards lower price plans weighed on its half-yearly results. Encouragingly, it is witnessing robust growth in subscribers and is likely to benefit from cross-selling higher earning broadband and energy plans. On a positive note, battery maker Tianneng Power International's solid full-year results, led by strong revenue growth, and management's positive outlook for earnings growth lifted its shares. Elsewhere, Programmed Maintenance Services added value due to its acquisition by Japanese staffing company Persol Holdings.

The fund is managed with an absolute returns perspective. The manager invests in companies with strong competitive advantages and good management teams, and tries to buy them at a reasonable price. Among key positions, WPG Holdings benefits from increasing semiconductor demand as it is Asia's largest integrated circuits distributor. It further offers healthy dividend yields and remains focused on operating margin improvement through a better revenue mix, productivity enhancement and expense control. LT Group is a beneficiary of improving pricing power in the tobacco industry in the Philippines, given its dominant market share through the Marlboro brand of cigarettes.

Manager's Overview

Australian equities advanced over the year. At a sector level, resource-related companies led gains, driven by firm commodity prices. The healthcare and information technology sectors benefited from improving profitability prospects for selected companies and mergers and acquisitions. Conversely, rising competitive pressure hurt telecommunication stocks. On the economic front, the labour market continued to strengthen, led by solid jobs growth. A private survey indicated a positive outlook for near-term business activity. Solid exports supported a healthy trade surplus in recent months.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Speculative reports hurt sentiment towards asset manager Blue Sky Alternative Investments and last-mile logistics software provider GetSwift. Both companies rejected the allegations made against them. The former announced initiatives to improve transparency in its financial reporting. On a positive note, shares in language technology company Appen rose after it made a synergistic acquisition; the holding was sold to take profits. A new position in Treasury Wine Estates benefited from strong demand in Asia, which bolstered its earnings and margins. WiseTech Global's strong product platform supported market share gains, and it remained focused on acquisitions to support growth.

Anita Costa took over as the portfolio manager on 8 December 2017 and repositioned the portfolio in line with her investment philosophy. She favours companies that have a superior return profile, strong management teams and well capitalised balance sheets. Among key holdings, a new position in Goodman Group offers a steady stream of industrial rental earnings, while its prospects are supported by its robust development pipeline. The low debt on its balance sheet should also cushion it from interest rate increases. Treasury Wine Estates has a strong portfolio. Its management is expanding its footprint in Asia, particularly China, and is executing a turnaround at its US business.

Manager's Overview

Chinese and Hong Kong equities rose in light of healthy economic data releases and optimism towards state-owned enterprise reforms in China. At its recent sessions, the National People's Congress maintained focus on the quality of growth, supply-side reforms, boosting consumption and deleveraging the economy. Steady inflows from mainland China also supported Hong Kong equities. All sectors except telecommunications ended in positive territory. Information technology, financials and consumer stocks were the notable gainers.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the period, due to its positioning in the internet segment. The underweight allocation to Chinese internet giants Tencent Holdings and Alibaba Group Holding ADR hampered relative performance as they outperformed in light of their upbeat earnings. Certain financials holdings also held back gains. China Life Insurance (H) fell amid concerns over tightening regulations on short-term savings products. This was partially offset by the exposure to Ping An Insurance Group (H). Its shares rose on optimism towards its Finance OneConnect Initiatives, which are likely to help the company to transition from its traditional capital-intensive business to a capital-light financial platform. Elsewhere, liquor and beverage maker Kweichow Moutai (A) rose as it announced plans to increase the price of its flagship product in 2018, amid rising demand for premium liquor.

The manager favours the "new China" theme. These sectors are expected to witness solid growth in the coming years due to technology advancements, changes in consumer behaviour and flexible business strategies. Among insurance providers, AIA Group is held for its sustainable earnings profile, strong growth potential, management's solid track record and impressive fundamentals. China Life Insurance (H) is favoured for the optimisation of its business structure, robust net business value growth and undemanding valuations.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 4,658 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Chinese equities rose over the year. A pick-up in economic activity supported strong earnings growth for Chinese equities relative to their regional peers. At a sector level, heightened liquidity led a narrow rally in information technology and real estate companies. Resources-related stocks rose amid firm commodity prices. Conversely, telecommunications and industrials stocks lagged the broader market. Meanwhile, policymakers focused on deleveraging, curbing financial risks and reforms of state-owned-enterprises.

The fund posted strong returns but lagged the comparative index. The underweight allocation to bellwether technology stocks and low-quality property developers hurt relative returns amid a pro-growth rally. The underweight stance in Alibaba Group Holding ADR and Tencent Holdings was retained due to concerns around their premium valuation. As a quality conscious investor, the manager steered the fund away from low quality property stocks China Evergrande Group and Sunac China Holdings, which benefited from mainland Chinese investor interest. Elsewhere, short-term concerns around tightened regulations on savings policies hurt the holding in China Life Insurance (H). Encouragingly, preferred positions in Gree Electric Appliances of Zhuhai and Anhui Conch Cement (A) witnessed strong earnings growth. The former's dominant brand position and robust demand trends buoyed its profitability. The latter's solid results reflected gains from strong cement prices following supply side reforms.

The manager focuses on opportunities arising from the structural changes underway in China. Energy sector holdings in CNOOC, China Petroleum & Chemical (H) and PetroChina (H) are beneficiaries of a recovery in oil prices. CNOOC's excellent cost control, low debt levels, strong free cash flows and focus on profitability driven production further support its prospects. Among financials, China Life Insurance (H) is a beneficiary of secular growth in insurance penetration in China. It has a strong brand and distribution network, while it is focused on improving its product mix.

Manager's Overview

Chinese and Hong Kong equities rose in light of healthy economic data releases in China and optimism towards state-owned enterprise reforms. Steady inflows from mainland China also supported Hong Kong equities. All sectors in the region except telecommunications ended in positive territory. Of note, information technology (IT), financials and consumer stocks were the key gainers.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period, due to rewarding security selection in healthcare and financial stocks. Within healthcare, Aier Eye Hospital Group (B) rose on expectations that the introduction of leading investment management firm Hillhouse Capital as its new strategic investor would result in robust business expansion. Sino Biopharmaceutical advanced on optimism towards its earnings outlook, aided by the launch of new drugs. Among financial stocks, Ping An Insurance Group (H) gained on optimism towards its Finance OneConnect Initiatives, which are likely to help it to transform from a traditional capital-intensive business to a capital-light financial platform. This was partially offset by the position in China Life Insurance (H), which slid amid concerns over tightening regulations on short-term savings products. Elsewhere, not holding China Evergrande Group hurt relative returns as the property developer reported robust semi-annual profits and proposed to reduce debt levels.

The manager favours companies that are likely to witness solid growth in the coming years due to technology advancements, changes in consumer behaviour and flexible business strategies. Industrial & Commercial Bank of China (H) is held given its improving margin outlook, robust asset quality and strong capital position. Property developer China Resources Land is favoured for its steady contracted sales, robust rental income prospects, low borrowing costs, healthy balance sheet and attractive valuations.

Manager's Overview

Emerging Asian equities gained over the year as healthy global economic data supported sentiment. Chinese stocks rose amid optimism around economic data, upbeat earnings and the government's plans to deepen structural reforms. Indian equities delivered positive returns but lagged the broader market. In the ASEAN region, Thai stocks were notable gainers over the review period, while growth concerns held back the Indonesian market. At the sector level, materials, energy, financials and consumer discretionary stocks were notable gainers.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, due to rewarding security selection in China and Thailand. Contract research and manufacturing company WuXi Biologics Cayman reported robust profits, aided by efficiency gains and growth in its order backlog. Solid earnings lifted the position in premium liquor producer Kweichow Moutai (A). Its decision to raise product prices also supported the uptrend in its shares. Among Thai holdings, strong growth in international traffic bolstered sentiment towards the conviction position in Airports of Thailand. Energy company PTT's earnings benefited from the performance of its gas business and oil marketing unit; its share split and attractive dividend also lifted the stock.

The manager is focused on identifying high-quality undervalued stocks with robust business models and strong management teams that can add considerable value for shareholders over time. The fund has a bias towards HDFC Bank (demat.) and Bank Central Asia given their strong franchises, quality management teams and solid asset quality. Insurer AIA Group has a robust regional presence and benefits from structural growth in Asia's underpenetrated insurance markets. The manager favours Chinese internet-led businesses, such as Tencent Holdings and Alibaba Group Holding ADR. Both these companies are long-term winners in the growing online ecosystem, which includes e-commerce, payments and streaming entertainment.

Emerging Europe, Middle East and Africa Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 652 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Equities in the emerging Europe, Middle East and Africa (EMEA) region rose over the period as stabilising economic growth in China boosted investors' appetite for riskier assets. Interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve (Fed) in June and December last year and March this year were well-received by markets. This gradual tightening signalled the Fed's confidence in the strength of the US economy. Russian shares rose in line with prices of oil, the country's key export item, although gains were limited by rising geopolitical tensions with the West. Elsewhere, South African stocks gained following the appointment of business-friendly Cyril Ramaphosa as the country's President.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period, driven by stock selection in the financials, materials and consumer staples sectors. Within financials, the position in insurer Discovery rose. The company reported strong half-yearly results, driven by the robust performance of its health and life insurance businesses in South Africa. It continues to increase members in its innovative Vitality programme, which encourages customers to stay healthy. Sberbank of Russia also released robust quarterly results during the year. However, the exposure to Steinhoff International Holdings weighed on performance owing to 'accounting irregularities'. Subsequently, the managers sold the position.

Rising populations and income levels drive consumption, which results in many interesting investment opportunities in consumer-related sectors. As a result, the fund has an overweight stance in the consumer staples and discretionary sectors. Media company Naspers is among the largest positions in the fund. Through its stake in multiple emerging market businesses, Naspers is exposed to the high-growth ecommerce industry. In Russia, Magnitogorsk Iron & Steel Works is a low-cost producer that can generate strong cashflows even in a challenging pricing environment. Elsewhere, the fund owns insurer Discovery, which has a unique, innovative business model that encourages customers to remain healthy.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 59 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Emerging market equities rose over the period, driven by stabilising economic growth in China. Interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve (Fed) in June and December last year and March this year were well-received by markets. This gradual tightening signalled the Fed's confidence in the strength of the US economy, which is a key export market for developing countries. However, concerns over a trade war between the US and China negatively impacted sentiment. In Latin America, Brazilian markets rose. Investors found relief in President Michel Temer's plans to improve government finances through labour and pension reforms. However, for the time being, pension reforms cannot be passed in parliament due to military intervention in Rio De Janeiro.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period, due to stock selection in the consumer discretionary and financials sectors. However, information technology (IT) holdings detracted from performance. Within consumer discretionary, the position in electrical appliances manufacturer Midea Group added value on expectations of continued robust demand in China. In the staples sector, the allocation to food seasoning company Foshan Haitian Flavouring & Food supported performance given its strong market position in China. However, the lack of exposure to Tencent Holdings weighed on relative returns as its share price rose.

With its large addressable market, rising internet penetration, improving lifestyle and increase in income, the emerging world presents attractive investment opportunities in the consumer space. As a result, the fund has exposure to businesses that can capture this trend. For instance, South Africa-based food company AVI has a stable growth rate and high profit margins. In the consumer discretionary sector, global luggage manufacturer Samsonite International is a key holding given its strong product portfolio and large distribution chain. Elsewhere, insurer AIA Group is a play on the structural growth story in the Asian life insurance market.

Manager's Overview

Emerging market equities rose over the period, driven by stabilising economic growth in China. Interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve (Fed) in June and December last year and March this year were well-received by markets. This gradual tightening signalled the Fed's confidence in the strength of the US economy, which is a key export market for developing countries. Investors found relief in President Michel Temer's plans to improve government finances through labour and pension reforms. However, for the time being, pension reforms cannot be passed in parliament due to military intervention in Rio De Janeiro.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the period due to stock selection in the information technology (IT) sector. However, financials holdings supported performance. Within IT, the underweight stance in internet company Tencent Holdings weighed on relative returns. Its share price rose as it reported strong results on the back of the robust performance of its gaming business. In the consumer discretionary sector, the position in Steinhoff International Holdings declined due to 'accounting irregularities'. On a positive note, the exposure to dairy company Inner Mongolia Yili Industrial Group added value. Its shares rose on robust annual revenues and investor expectations of structural growth in demand for dairy products in China.

The vast consumer base in the developing world is supportive for consumer-related businesses across a range of segments. As a result, the fund is overweight in the consumer discretionary and staples sectors. Among the former, the manager holds South African internet conglomerate Naspers, which has many internet businesses in countries such as China and Russia. Within staples, China Mengniu Dairy and Inner Mongolia Yili Industrial Group are key positions. Elsewhere, India's HDFC Bank (demat.) has a strong track record and is likely to benefit from government reforms.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : EUR 617 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities ended the period in positive territory. Markets started on a strong note; however, rising geopolitical tensions led to periods of volatility. Encouraging macroeconomic data, strong corporate earnings and the European Central Bank's accommodative monetary policy supported equities.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year as sector allocation detracted from returns. Within consumer discretionary, the position in Inditex weighed on performance after it lowered earnings expectations for the fourth quarter. Elsewhere, the lack of exposure to automobiles held back gains as the sector rallied. In industrials, the holding in aerospace company Leonardo hurt returns as it issued a profit warning despite reporting in line revenues, due to weakness in the helicopter market and execution issues. At a stock level, holdings in Iliad, Roche Holding and SAP posted negative returns. On a positive note, stock picking in the information technology (IT) and financials sector added value. Within IT, Amadeus IT Holding advanced after it signed two significant deals in the third quarter. At a stock level, Royal Dutch Shell (NL) added notable value, boosted by a recovery in oil prices.

The fund's investment approach has evolved. It has transitioned to an analyst-driven portfolio of the best ideas, which is overseen by an advisory team consisting of portfolio managers and the head of risk for Europe. A portfolio of the top 30 eurozone analyst ideas has been constructed, utilising an optimiser to size positions to maximise expected returns, while limiting factor exposures to target specific risk as the primary contributor to tracking error. Industrials is now the largest overweight sector, with key holdings in International Consolidated Airlines and Royal BAM Group. Conversely, the fund is significantly underweight in consumer discretionary; automaker Renault is the only position in the sector.

Manager's Overview

European equities ended in positive territory over a volatile year. Markets started the period on a strong note following favourable French election results. However, rising geopolitical tensions subsequently weighed on equities. Markets rebounded in September as macroeconomic data signalled momentum in the economic recovery. The European Central Bank's continued accommodative monetary policy stance also supported equities. Markets fell at the start of 2018 due to rising bond yields and fears over a US-led trade conflict. Subsidising geopolitical tensions and strong corporate earnings boosted equities in April.

As a "passive" or "index tracker" fund, the fund is managed to provide returns that are as close as possible to that of the index, which is a concentrated index of the 50 largest companies in the eurozone. However, the fund incurs costs and expenses that the index does not incur - although it can benefit from securities lending when the index cannot. This means fund returns should be similar to the index, rather than identical. Over the period, the primary A-EUR class of the fund returned +2.3% in net euro terms, outperforming the index, which returned +2.0%. Taxation was a positive source of tracking difference, where the fund's withholding tax treatment is more favourable versus the net total return index.

Geode Capital Management LLC, a leading specialist in the management of index tracking strategies, was appointed as sub-investment manager to the fund on 3 January 2017. The managers endeavour to minimise deviation from the index by using an index tracking technique, which comprises full replication of the companies represented in the index. Please note, the fund's cash position, and investment of cash into a liquidity fund for diversification, does not mean that the fund is under exposed to the index, as such positions are typically equitised with equity index futures contracts. This helps to efficiently manage cashflows in the fund at reduced costs. When taking into account exposure achieved by these futures contracts, the fund's holdings weights more closely match the index.

Manager's Overview

European equities ended the period in positive territory. Markets started on a strong note; however, rising geopolitical tensions led to periods of volatility. Encouraging macroeconomic data, strong corporate earnings and the European Central Bank's accommodative monetary policy supported equities.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, driven by strong security selection. Stock picking was particularly rewarding in the information technology (IT) and healthcare sectors. In IT, holdings in payment processing companies were the strongest contributors to performance, given the robust pick-up in consolidation activity in the European payments industry. The allocation to the UK's largest payments processor Worldpay (A) rose after it accepted a takeover offer from US rival Vantiv. Peer Nets also rose strongly as it received a takeover bid from a US private equity firm. Shares in healthcare equipment company Sartorius Perpetual (Pref'd) were buoyed by increased dividend pay-outs and strong long-term guidance, driven by organic growth and acquisitions. Following a share price rise, profits were taken in Nets and Sartorius Perpetual (Pref'd). Conversely, the holding in software company Micro Focus International fell as markets reacted to a profit warning and news of its CEO's departure. However, the significant decline in its share price appeared overdone and the position was retained.

The fund's sector allocation is a function of where the manager finds the most attractive investment opportunities at a stock level. The manager favours sectors with the greatest dispersion of returns, such as healthcare, industrials and IT, where good stock picking has the potential to add the most value. The manager purchased a new position in stock exchange operator London Stock Exchange, which has transformed from a cyclical cash equities business to a diversified exchange. A new holding was also purchased in personal care products company Beiersdorf as new management's initiatives around improved innovation, efficiency and price optimisation are showing signs of working.

Manager's Overview

European equities ended the period in positive territory. Markets started on a strong note; however, rising geopolitical tensions led to periods of volatility. Encouraging macroeconomic data, strong corporate earnings and the European Central Bank's accommodative monetary policy supported equities.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Medical technology company Getinge was the largest detractor from returns, as its shares slid following weaker than expected results. The global provider of products and solutions for operating theatres and intensive care units is going through a restructuring phase. The manager believes in the new management team's ability to recover growth, signs of which have been visible since the last six months. Additionally, the company has a favourable market share and operates in a growing end market. Medical products and technology company Convatec Group declined after it issued a profit warning for fiscal year 2017, due to manufacturing disruption in various production lines. The manager took the opportunity to increase the exposure to the stock, as the company operates in growing and highly concentrated markets. The underperformance was partially offset by strong security selection in the consumer discretionary and financials sectors. The holding in online retailer Yoox Net-a-Porter Group rose strongly, as investors welcomed luxury goods manufacturer Compagnie Financière Richemont's offer to purchase the company. The manager sold the position following the share price rally.

The fund remains well diversified across sectors. The manager aims to keep a balanced portfolio with no particular style or macroeconomic biases. The manager continued to increase the concentration of the portfolio, and currently holds 57 stocks (an all-time low). Profits were taken in Ferrovial, ING Groep and Cairn Energy. A new position was purchased in jewellery manufacturer Pandora. Its stock valuation is attractive and its growth potential remains high.

Manager's Overview

European equities ended in positive territory over a volatile year. Markets started the period on a strong note following favourable French election results. However, volatility increased at the start of the third quarter of 2017 due to rising geopolitical tensions. Markets subsequently rebounded on the back of the European Central Bank's continued accommodative monetary policy stance, strong corporate earnings, US tax reforms and sustained global economic growth. Equities declined at the start of 2018 due to rising bond yields, trade war concerns between the US and China, and the uncertain political environment in Italy. Subsequently, equities recovered partially in April, driven by subsiding geopolitical tensions and strong corporate earnings.

The fund underperformed the comparative index due to unfavourable sector allocation. Healthcare was the largest detractor from returns, as positions in Shire, Roche Holding and Sanofi held back gains. The underweight allocation to materials hurt relative performance as the sector rallied in line with commodity prices. Within industrials, Siemens weighed on returns as its shares fell after it reported weaker than expected third quarter results. At a stock level, British American Tobacco and John Wood Group were the largest detractors from performance. On a positive note, stock picking in consumer discretionary boosted returns. The holding in luxury goods conglomerate Kering added value following the release of strong quarterly results. At a stock level, positions in Royal Dutch Shell, Wolters Kluwer, DNB and Amadeus IT Holding performed well.

The manager positions the fund with balanced exposure to macroeconomic factors and expects stock selection to drive returns. During the year, the manager moved to an overweight position in industrials from an underweight stance as a new holding was purchased in Meggitt and the exposure to Siemens was increased significantly. A new position was purchased in health diagnostics company Siemens Healthineers via its initial public offering in March. Some profits were taken in strong performers, including Smith & Nephew and Royal Dutch Shell.

Manager's Overview

European equities ended the period in positive territory. Markets started on a strong note; however, rising geopolitical tensions led to periods of volatility. Encouraging macroeconomic data, strong corporate earnings and the European Central Bank's accommodative monetary policy supported equities. Markets fell at the start of 2018 due to rising bond yields and fears of US-led trade conflict. Subsequently, receding geopolitical tensions and strong corporate earnings boosted equities in April.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, driven by the robust performance of information technology and consumer discretionary stocks. Spotify Technology was the standout performer as its shares rallied following its initial public offering and listing on the New York Stock Exchange. In consumer discretionary, mobile gaming business LeoVegas rose following sustained earnings momentum. Low-cost gym operator Basic-Fit also performed well. Selected healthcare companies boosted returns. Shares in Ablynx benefited from Sanofi's successful bid to acquire the company at double its share price. Gains were partially offset by holdings in Ion Beam Applications and Ambea. Shares in the former fell owing to a profit warning in January, while the latter was weighed down by declining contract management revenues. Elsewhere, weaker stock picking in materials and energy pared gains.

The managers focus on identifying well-managed, cash-generative companies that have a clear market leadership, sustainable competitive advantage and profit growth driven by strong sales growth. A new position was purchased in Hikma Pharmaceuticals to take advantage of the weakness in its share price, due to concerns around the pricing of injectable generics in the US. Meanwhile, the exposure to Huhtamaki was increased for its strong foothold in emerging markets and its long-term relationships with key clients. Conversely, the managers took profits in Yoox Net-A-Porter Group and Ablynx.

Manager's Overview

European equities ended the period in positive territory. Markets started on a strong note; however, rising geopolitical tensions led to periods of volatility. Encouraging macroeconomic data, strong corporate earnings and the European Central Bank's accommodative monetary policy supported equities.

The fund generated positive returns but underperformed the comparative index over the period. Among industrials, the position in Vestas Wind Systems fell as the US tax reform bill has potentially negative implications for the wind industry. Insurer Saga declined after it issued a profit warning following the collapse of Monarch Airlines and a more challenging trading environment. The stock recovered some ground later in the period. On a positive note, the holding in software and telecommunications company United Internet rose significantly following the announcement of a deal to acquire a significant stake in competitor 1&1 Drillisch. Positions in electric utility Enel and oil and gas company Cairn Energy were also among the top contributors to performance.

The fund's investment process is designed to systematically capture the highest conviction ratings of Fidelity's analysts and to create portfolios where stock selection is the key driver of risk and returns. The managers use quantitative methods to ensure the consistency and repeatability of investment outcomes, while applying qualitative judgement and intervention to make sure that the portfolio demonstrates the intended characteristics. A new holding was purchased in Spanish capital goods company ACS, Actividades de Construcción y Servicios, as Fidelity analysts identified strong upside potential. A new position was bought in utilities company SSE given Fidelity's positive view on the stock. Conversely, profits were taken in diversified financial services provider Wendel as its share price rose strongly. The holding in logistics company Royal Mail was sold as the stock was downgraded due to the possibility of disruption from employee strikes.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the period. Optimism towards a sustained recovery in global economic growth, the smooth passage of the tax reform bill in the US and strengthening corporate data across markets supported stocks. However, the last few months were characterised by a spike in market volatility. Higher US wage growth led to fears of faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve, while the increase in tariffs by the US government sparked concerns about the possibility of trade wars.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Certain key holdings were negatively impacted by challenging business conditions. Utility company Edison International's shares declined sharply following wildfires across Southern California in December, which led to widespread power outages. Investors were concerned about the likely impact of related costs on the company's earnings and cash flows. Mortgage insurer Essent Group came under pressure due to increasing price competition in the market. The portfolio managers maintain conviction in the holding, given its clean balance sheet and low loss ratio. On a positive note, Sunny Optical Technology Group added value. It continued to witness strong shipments across key segments, as well as market share gains in high end product offerings in the dual camera and handset lens segment. United Internet advanced after it acquired a majority stake in mobile operator Drillisch. The deal is likely to enable United Internet to better compete with other large competitors in the German telecommunications market.

Given the ongoing concerns related to protectionist trade policies in the US and recent market volatility, earnings growth will be vital for a sustained uptrend in equities this year. In such an environment, a bottom-up investment approach, focused on stock level fundamentals, is best suited to deliver returns. As always, the portfolio managers continue to focus on the highest conviction and most relevant ideas generated by Fidelity's global analyst base.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 28 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Developed world equities rose over the year under review. Optimism towards a sustained recovery in global economic growth, the smooth passage of the tax reform bill in the US and strengthening corporate data across markets supported stocks. However, the last few months were characterised by a spike in market volatility. Higher US wage growth led to fears of faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve, while the increase in tariffs by the US government sparked concerns about the possibility of trade wars.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Grubhub reported strong third quarter results, driven by improving gross food sales and higher growth in diner numbers. United Internet advanced after it acquired a majority stake in mobile operator Drillisch. The deal is likely to enable United Internet to better compete with other large competitors in the German telecommunications market. Conversely, some key holdings were negatively impacted by challenging business conditions. Utility company Edison International's shares declined sharply following wildfires across Southern California in December, which led to widespread power outages. Investors were concerned about the likely impact of related costs on its earnings and cash flows. The holding in Baker Hughes, a GE company, declined as it missed its third-quarter earnings expectations. The overhang on General Electric's weak results also weighed on its shares.

Given the ongoing concerns related to protectionist trade policies in the US and recent market volatility, earnings growth will be vital for a sustained uptrend in equities this year. In such an environment, a bottom-up investment approach, focused on stock level fundamentals, is best suited to deliver returns. As always, the portfolio managers continue to focus on the highest conviction and most relevant ideas generated by Fidelity's global analyst base.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 100 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the period since the fund's launch. Optimism towards a sustained recovery in global economic growth, the smooth passage of the tax reform bill in the US and strengthening corporate data across markets supported stocks. However, the last few months were characterised by a spike in market volatility. Higher US wage growth led to fears of faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve, while the increase in tariffs by the US government sparked concerns about the possibility of trade wars.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the period since launch. Certain consumer discretionary holdings were negatively impacted by challenging business conditions. Diamond jewellery retailer Signet Jewelers came under pressure on disappointing holiday season sales and ongoing challenges in its core business. The position in Inditex fell ahead of its fourth quarter results due to concerns over currency headwinds. Nevertheless, it has a strong balance sheet, and its higher quality, distinctive and fashionable products give it pricing power. On a positive note, within financials, the overweight allocation to DBS Group Holdings added value as robust loan growth and an expansion in net interest margins resulted in healthy earnings. Sysmex reported robust third quarter performance, mainly driven by higher sales in Europe and Asia. The company's shares performed well on expectations of an improvement in inventory problems in China and new business development in areas such as robotics.

Given the ongoing concerns related to protectionist trade policies in the US and recent market volatility, earnings growth will be vital for a sustained uptrend in equities this year. In such an environment, a bottom-up investment approach, focused on stock level fundamentals, is best suited to deliver returns. The fund invests in companies that are highly rated by Fidelity's research analysts and that meet the fund's Environmental, Social and Governance (ESG) criteria.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : EUR 219 MILLION

Manager's Overview

French equities, along with broader European stocks, ended the year in positive territory. Encouraging macroeconomic data, strong corporate earnings and the European Central Bank's accommodative monetary policy supported equities. Markets started the period on a strong note; however, rising geopolitical tensions led to bouts of volatility in the latter part of the year.

The fund underperformed the comparative index as both stock selection and sector allocation disappointed. The exposure to consumer discretionary, particularly holdings in media names Technicolor and Altice, was the largest detractor from returns. The former held back gains as it cancelled its dividend and issued weaker-than-expected 2018 guidance. Altice's shares plunged after its French unit SFR issued a profit warning. The underweight stance in LVMH Moët Hennessy Louis Vuitton also hurt relative performance. Selected holdings in consumer staples (Marie Brizard Wine & Spirits) and industrials (Airbus Group) weighed on returns. On a positive note, the position in metallurgical manufacturing company Eramet was the strongest performer. Its shares rose on improving Chinese demand, which supported the upside potential for its major segment, manganese. Moreover, its foray into lithium could benefit the company given the ramp up in electric batteries. In healthcare, the underweight positioning in Sanofi boosted relative returns. At a stock level, holdings in Gemalto, Beneteau and Eiffage performed well.

Bertrand Puiffe took over the management of the fund on 1 September 2017. The portfolio is managed with a contrarian style and has a bias towards mid and small-cap stocks. The manager follows a disciplined investment process based on a systematic scoring of companies on qualitative and quantitative factors to identify long-term winners. Consumer discretionary is now the largest overweight sector in the portfolio. IPSOS, Technicolor and Solocal Group are among the favoured holdings, as the manager believes that the potential benefits from restructuring measures have not been factored into their share prices.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : EUR 878 MILLION

Manager's Overview

German equities ended the period in positive territory. Markets started on a strong note; however, rising political tensions led to periods of volatility. Progress in German coalition talks later in the period, encouraging macroeconomic data, strong corporate earnings and the European Central Bank's accommodative monetary policy supported equities.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period, driven by both strong security selection and sector positioning. Holdings in the industrials and information technology sectors were among the top contributors to performance. The allocation to car rental company Sixt rose strongly after it increased its earnings guidance for financial year 2017. The manager took profits in the stock following the share price rise. Positions in software and telecommunication services provider United Internet and telecommunications company 1&1 Drillisch continued to rise after United Internet announced that it would acquire a 73% stake in the latter. The allocation to stock exchange operator Deutsche Boerse rose as it announced strong 2017 results and encouraging 2018 guidance. The company also unveiled a share buyback programme that was considered positive by the market. Conversely, the holding in media firm ProSiebensat.1 Media was negatively impacted by concerns over advertising spending. However, it recovered later in the period after it announced fourth quarter results that exceeded consensus expectations.

The manager favours companies whose returns on invested capital are consistently above the cost of capital and that trade on attractive valuations. Over the period, the exposure to chemicals companies was increased significantly. Here, a new position was purchased in Linde, which is well placed to benefit from increasing product demand and potential merger synergies. Another holding was purchased in BASF, which has diversified end-market exposures and largely integrated operations. Conversely, the manager reduced the allocation to financial services companies. The position in real estate developer Vonovia was sold for profit taking. The exposure to Deutsche Boerse was also reduced following a rise in its share price.

Global Consumer Industries Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : EUR 781 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over a 12-month period, supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. Volatility spiked in early 2018, as investors anticipated faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve (Fed) following higher US wage growth data, triggering a sell-off in markets. The imposition of import tariffs by the US government sparked concerns about the possibility of a trade war. However, these concerns eased later in the period as fears over trade frictions between the US and China receded, and strong corporate earnings boosted investor sentiment.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. The position in Kering advanced after it posted upbeat first quarter results, led by its major fashion brand Gucci. Estee Lauder rose on strong second quarter results, driven by robust sales growth in the premium beauty category. LVMH Moët Hennessy Louis Vuitton gained on strong first quarter results, driven by an acceleration across divisions. Japan-based cosmetics company Kose advanced as its third quarter results were supported by robust sales growth and its expanding customer base in China. Conversely, the position in Inditex fell due to currency-related margin pressure. Colgate-Palmolive declined as it reported weak first quarter results, led by poor organic growth in Latin America and Asia. Molson Coors Brewing slid as beer volumes in the US declined and synergies post its acquisition of MillerCoors were slow to materialise. Online travel service provider Ctrip.com International ADR fell on lower-than-expected first quarter results.

The manager follows a bottom-up stock picking approach, with a focus on companies with superior execution and strong brands. The manager prefers businesses where managements have a differentiated strategy as they create valuable intellectual property and have high barriers to entry. The manager prefers to invest in brands at an early stage of growth and in companies that are well versed with managing a cluster of brands. A bottom-up stock picking approach is followed, while the top-down attractiveness of industries is monitored from a risk-reward perspective.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the period, supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. Volatility spiked in early 2018, as investors anticipated faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve following higher US wage growth data, triggering a sell-off in markets. The imposition of import tariffs by the US government sparked concerns about the possibility of a trade war. However, these concerns eased later in the period, as fears over trade frictions between the US and China receded and strong corporate earnings boosted investor sentiment.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Estee Lauder rose on strong second quarter results, led by robust sales growth in the premium beauty category. Positions in LVMH Moët Hennessy Louis Vuitton and Shanghai International Airport advanced after they posted strong first quarter results. The former's earnings were driven by an acceleration across divisions, while the latter gained on continued margin expansion. Conversely, the holding in Inditex fell due to currency-related margin pressure. Nevertheless, the company's higher quality, distinctive and fashionable products give it pricing power. Merlin Entertainment declined amid mixed trading performance and a cautious outlook. Colgate-Palmolive slid after it posted weak first quarter results, led by poor organic growth in Latin America and Asia. Online travel service provider Ctrip.com International ADR fell on lower-than-expected first quarter results.

The fund invests in companies whose earnings are driven by predictable and long-term structural drivers related to demographics. Accordingly, the portfolio is positioned to harness the benefits of factors such as a growing population, the growth of the middle classes in emerging markets and ageing populations. These themes provide investment opportunities across a range of sectors. The managers tend to take a long-term view, targeting the beneficiaries of demographic trends early – seeking out companies with compounding returns, innovative products and services that will address evolving demographic needs.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the period, supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. Volatility spiked in early 2018, as investors anticipated faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve (Fed) following higher US wage growth data, which triggered a sell-off in markets. The imposition of import tariffs by the US government sparked concerns about the possibility of a trade war. However, fears over trade frictions between the US and China subsequently receded, and strong corporate earnings boosted investor sentiment.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Citigroup rose after the Fed allowed banks to increase dividend payouts and share buybacks under its annual stress test programme. Beazley, which specialises in cyber insurance, gained following the WannaCry ransomware attack, which underscored the need for cyber protection. Bank of America rose as investors favour it for its better cost management and positive exposure to higher interest rates in the US. DBS Group Holdings gained in light of its technology usage and cost discipline. Conversely, shares in Gentara fell after it posted muted earnings results, largely due to low loan growth and higher operating expenses. The manager sold this position. The holding in Germany-based Commerzbank also declined on negative investor sentiment. Mortgage insurers Essent Group and MGC Investment Corporation fell after Freddie Mac announced the launch of a new pilot programme called IMAGIN (Integrated Mortgage Insurance), which could lead to pricing competition.

The manager combines bottom-up stock picking with top-down country and sector analysis, and believes that careful stock selection is particularly critical to drive returns. The fund continues to focus on quality companies with healthy balance sheets and experienced, credible management teams that are trading at reasonable valuations. Overall, the fund is positioned to benefit from a pickup in interest rates and economic activity, a supportive regulatory environment, as well as individual restructuring stories.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the review period. Optimism towards a sustained recovery in global economic growth, the smooth passage of the tax reform bill in the US and strengthening corporate data across markets supported stocks. However, the last few months were characterised by a spike in market volatility. Higher US wage growth led to fears of faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve, while the increase in import tariffs by the US government sparked concerns about the possibility of trade wars.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, driven by robust stock selection and market positioning. Certain consumer discretionary holdings performed well on the back of positive news flow. UK online grocery firm Ocado Group continues to transform itself into a provider of retail technology solutions. It is developing the most advanced and economic end-to-end online grocery platform for its own retail operations as well as for third party retailers around the globe. Indian restaurant company Jubilant Foodworks is witnessing higher same store sales and better cost management. The position in music streaming services provider Spotify Technology, which has an attractive subscription-based business model, also added value. Conversely, weak earnings results weighed on the performance of certain holdings. Consumer products company Newell Brands posted third-quarter earnings that fell short of consensus estimates, due to disappointing organic revenue growth and margins. Edgewell Personal Care underperformed on challenging fourth quarter results, due to a slowdown in its private label shaving business volumes in a heightened competitive environment.

Given ongoing concerns regarding protectionist trade policies and the likelihood of central banks tightening their monetary policies, the manager continues to increase the exposure to high-conviction holdings. In particular, companies with sustainable pricing power, unique assets and dominant market share in key markets that have the ability to deliver strong earnings will prove to be the key differentiators.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the period, supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. Volatility spiked in early 2018, as investors anticipated faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve following higher US wage growth data, triggering a sell-off in markets. The imposition of import tariffs by the US government sparked concerns about the possibility of a trade war. However, these concerns eased later in the period as fears over trade frictions between the US and China receded and strong corporate earnings boosted investor sentiment.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Hikma Pharmaceuticals fell on negative investor sentiment surrounding delays in the approval process for its asthma drug Advair and concerns on generics pricing deflation. Shares in Henry Schein fell due to ongoing margin pressure, led by rising e-commerce competition. The underweight stance in AbbVie and lack of exposure to Intuitive Surgical also detracted from relative performance. On a positive note, the holding in biopharmaceutical company CSL rose as it is expanding its plasma collection centres faster than the industry, thereby strengthening its market position. The allocation to Abbott Laboratories also advanced. The holding in UnitedHealth Group gained on upbeat quarterly results. There are rising expectations of a secular shift in its managed care business from commercial to government, which should help it to grow its profits. Leading biotechnology equipment supplier Sartorius Stedim Biotech advanced on robust order intake.

The manager's investment philosophy is anchored in a belief that the market's ability to forecast earnings is limited, which makes the evaluation of historical performance important. The fund continues to focus on high quality companies with earnings visibility. The manager looks for businesses with high and sustainable returns on invested capital, as well as those that could materially improve their returns. The fund is overweight in the healthcare equipment and supplies sub-sector.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the period, supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. Volatility spiked in early 2018, as investors anticipated faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve following higher US wage growth data. This triggered a sell-off in markets. The imposition of import tariffs by the US government sparked concerns about the possibility of a trade war. However, these concerns eased later in the period, as fears over trade frictions receded and strong corporate earnings boosted investor sentiment. The energy and materials sectors outperformed, while industrials underperformed the broader market.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. US industrial conglomerate General Electric fell due to investigations on its insurance business. Shares in energy distributor NOW fell on negative investor sentiment ahead of its quarterly results. Oil and gas producer Devon Energy declined after its quarterly results fell short of consensus estimates due to weaker-than-expected operations. The lack of exposure to Boeing also weighed on relative returns. On a positive note, Westlake Chemical gained on robust quarterly results. This was driven by the continued strength in its chlor-alkali business, which should witness a strong upcycle due to flat global capacity expected over the next two to three years. China Petroleum & Chemical (H) gained on strong dividend growth. Its solid cash flow generation, robust dividend outlook and an improvement in its oil product marketing business also bode well for the stock. The underweight stance in Exxon Mobil also contributed to relative performance.

Global industrial activities remain robust and are bolstered by strong construction activities globally, increasing investment in automation and technology, a stable environment in the US and Europe, as well as higher commodity prices. Against this backdrop, the fund focuses on long-term investments and bottom-up stock picking. The manager continues to look for attractively valued, high quality businesses run by strong management teams.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the period. Optimism towards a sustained recovery in global economic growth, the smooth passage of the tax reform bill in the US and strengthening corporate data across markets supported stocks. However, the last few months were characterised by a spike in market volatility. Higher US wage growth led to fears of faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve, while the increase in tariffs by the US government sparked concerns about the possibility of trade wars.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Certain key holdings were negatively impacted by challenging business conditions. Utility company Edison International's shares declined sharply following wildfires across Southern California in December, which led to widespread power outages. Investors were concerned about the likely impact of related costs on Edison's earnings and cash flows. Mortgage insurer Essent Group came under pressure due to increasing price competition in the market. The portfolio managers maintain conviction in the holding, given its clean balance sheet and low loss ratio. On a positive note, Sunny Optical Technology added value. It continued to witness strong shipments across key segments, as well as market share gains in high end product offerings in the dual camera and handset lens segment. United Internet advanced after it acquired a majority stake in mobile operator Drillisch. The deal is likely to enable United Internet to better compete with other large competitors in the German telecommunications market.

Given the ongoing concerns related to protectionist trade policies in the US and recent market volatility, earnings growth will be vital for a sustained uptrend in equities this year. In such an environment, a bottom-up investment approach, focused on stock level fundamentals, is best suited to deliver returns. As always, the portfolio managers continue to focus on the highest conviction and most relevant ideas generated by Fidelity's global analyst base.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 198 MILLION

Manager's Overview

The global property market gained during the review period, led by eurozone countries, including Spain and Germany. While the Spanish real estate market benefited from low interest rates and declining unemployment, the German property market was buoyed by global investor interest, particularly in the office and logistics sectors. In Asia, the property market in Singapore continued to recover modestly following a four-year slump. Conversely, the US was weighed down by rising interest rates, weaker retail sentiment and declining consumer confidence in the housing segment. Elsewhere, a weak pound continued to drive demand for commercial property among foreign investors in the UK. Japanese stocks performed well on the back of sustained economic expansion and a relatively stable currency.

The fund outperformed the comparative index during the review period, driven by its positioning in the US and Spain. Inmobiliaria Colonial was a key contributor to performance. Its shares benefited from a favourable outlook for the Spanish property market and its acquisition of 'Alpha-III' portfolio assets in Madrid and Barcelona. In the US, an underweight allocation to Ventas boosted relative returns. Gains were partially offset by the weak performance of senior housing business Welltower and American Homes 4 Rent. Elsewhere, selected holdings in Germany and France added value. German property company Deutsche Wohnen advanced on the back of strong valuation gains in 2017. In France, shares in Icade rose on news that FdR was planning to acquire the company.

The fund has a sizeable allocation to US-based holdings and a large bias towards Spanish equities. Among the key transactions, a new position was bought in Merlin Properties owing to its strong upside potential. In the US, the manager purchased shares in Digital Realty Trust and Starwood Waypoint Homes. While the former is witnessing stable growth in leasing rentals, the latter has a strong portfolio of single-family rental homes. Conversely, the manager sold the holding in GGP and took some profits in Simon Property Group due to reduced conviction in the retail segment.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the review period. Optimism towards a sustained recovery in global economic growth, the smooth passage of the tax reform bill in the US and improving corporate data across markets supported stocks. However, the last few months were characterised by a spike in market volatility. Higher US wage growth led to fears of faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve, while the increase in import tariffs by the US government sparked concerns about the possibility of trade wars.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Nuance Communications fell despite reporting upbeat first quarter results as it faced some challenges in its healthcare segment. Juniper Networks declined on negative investor sentiment surrounding its routing business. Orders were delayed over the short term, due to an ongoing architectural transition at its key North American cloud customers. Not holding Tencent and Nvidia also hampered relative performance. On a positive note, Mellanox Technologies gained as its 2018 forecasts beat consensus expectations and an activist investor (Starboard) bought a stake in the business. Ocado rose after it signed its third overseas contract for an automated warehouse using Ocado's Smart Platform and signed its first contract in North America. The position in UK software company Aveva also added value as it agreed to a merger with the software arm of French energy group Schneider Electric.

Long-term growth drivers for the sector remain intact, along with a cyclical tailwind in the form of increasing information technology investment, as companies look to improve business processes through digital transformation. The manager employs a fundamental, bottom-up approach, and focuses on structural technological developments to identify quality companies that are well positioned to harness growth. The fund is relatively defensively positioned, with higher exposure to software businesses that benefit from recurring revenues and a sticky customer base.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the 12-month period, but telecommunications stocks underperformed on weak investor sentiment, mainly due to the slow pace of earnings growth in the sector compared to other areas of the market. Overall, optimism towards a sustained recovery in global economic growth, the smooth passage of the tax reform bill in the US and strengthening corporate data across markets supported stocks. However, the last few months of the period were characterised by a spike in market volatility. Higher US wage growth led to fears of faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve, while the increase in import tariffs by the US government sparked concerns about the possibility of trade wars.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Key holdings continued to perform well, partially offset by some stock-specific disappointments. The position in HKBN, a fixed-line residential broadband services provider in Hong Kong, gained on strong results. The company is a low-cost price leader with strong growth opportunities. Shares in online services provider United Internet also rose on positive investor sentiment around its merger with German wireless operator Drillisch. Conversely, positions in Indonesia-based investment company Sarana Menara Nusantara and Israeli telecommunications operator Bezeq held back gains.

The manager believes the ongoing transition from third generation (3G) to 4G mobile technology, and the requirement for high-speed broadband networks, are the current focus areas in the telecommunications sector. There are several positions in the fund that have exposure to these factors such as Singapore Telecom and BT Group. Elsewhere, a new position was purchased in Telstra, which is Australia's incumbent operator with a dominant market share and an attractive margin and return profile. A holding was also bought in Indonesia-based investment company Sarana Menara Nusantara, which has a healthy balance sheet and offers strong returns on capital employed. Meanwhile, the exposure to Far EastOne Telecommunications and Orange was reduced.

Manager's Overview

Chinese and Hong Kong equities rose in light of healthy economic data releases in China. Optimism towards state-owned enterprise reforms also supported sentiment. At its recent sessions, the National People's Congress (NPC) maintained focus on the quality of growth, supply-side reforms, boosting consumption and deleveraging the economy. Steady inflows from mainland China also supported Hong Kong equities. Taiwanese equities advanced, led by gains in the financials and materials sectors. All sectors in the Greater China region ended in positive territory. Of note, information technology (IT), financials and consumer stocks were the key gainers.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period, due to robust security selection in the IT and healthcare sectors. Upbeat earnings lifted e-commerce company Alibaba Group Holding ADR. Aier Eye Hospital Group (B) rose on expectations that the introduction of leading investment management firm Hillhouse Capital as its new strategic investor would result in robust business expansion. Sino Biopharmaceutical advanced on optimism towards its earnings outlook, aided by the launch of new drugs. Selected consumer stocks also added value. The allocation to liquor and beverage maker Kweichow Moutai (A) enhanced gains. Its shares rose as it announced plans to increase the price of its flagship product in 2018 amid rising demand for premium liquor. Conversely, Chinese insurance service provider China Life Insurance Group (H) slid amid concerns over tightening regulations on short-term savings products.

The manager favours the "new China" theme. These sectors are expected to witness solid growth in the coming years due to technology advancements, changes in consumer behaviour and flexible business strategies. As such, the fund is overweight in consumer stocks. Kweichow Moutai (A) is held for its dominant position in China's high-end liquor market, strong market share gains and solid bargaining power. The manager also sees significant opportunities in certain banks. Industrial & Commercial Bank of China (H) is favoured given its improving margin outlook, robust asset quality and strong capital position.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 643 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Chinese and Hong Kong equities rose in light of healthy economic data releases in China. Optimism towards state-owned enterprise reforms also supported sentiment. At its recent sessions, the National People's Congress (NPC) maintained focus on the quality of growth, supply-side reforms, boosting consumption and deleveraging the economy. Steady inflows from mainland China also supported Hong Kong equities. Taiwanese equities advanced, led by gains in financials and materials sectors. All sectors in the Greater China region ended in positive territory. Of note, information technology (IT), financials and consumer stocks were the key gainers.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period, due to robust security selection in the IT and healthcare sectors. Upbeat earnings lifted e-commerce company Alibaba Group Holding ADR. Aier Eye Hospital Group (B) rose on expectations that the introduction of leading investment management firm Hillhouse Capital as its new strategic investor would result in robust business expansion. Sino Biopharmaceutical advanced on optimism towards its earnings outlook, aided by the launch of new drugs. Selected consumer stocks also added value. The allocation to liquor and beverage maker Kweichow Moutai (A) enhanced gains. Its shares rose as it announced plans to increase the price of its flagship product in 2018 amid rising demand for premium liquor. Conversely, Chinese insurance service provider China Life Insurance (H) slid amid concerns over tightening regulations on short-term savings products.

The manager favours the "new China" theme. These sectors are expected to witness solid growth in the coming years due to technology advancements, changes in consumer behaviour and flexible business strategies. As such, the fund is overweight in consumer stocks. Kweichow Moutai (A) is held for its dominant position in China's high-end liquor market, strong market share gains and solid bargaining power. The manager also sees significant opportunities in certain banks. Industrial & Commercial Bank of China (H) is favoured given its improving margin outlook, robust asset quality and strong capital position.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : EUR 689 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Iberian equities registered negative returns during the year. Markets started on a strong note; however, political turmoil in Spain weighed on investor sentiment. On a positive note, encouraging macroeconomic data, strong corporate earnings and the European Central Bank's accommodative monetary policy supported equities. Markets fell at the start of 2018 due to rising bond yields and fears over a US-led trade conflict. Subsequently, receding geopolitical tensions and strong corporate earnings helped recover some of these losses in April.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Gains were driven by strong security selection in materials and positive positioning in information technology and financials. Within materials, the holding in Vidrala advanced on sustained cash flow generation and a robust track record of acquisitions and integration. Amadeus IT Holding, the technology solutions provider to the tourism industry, was buoyed by encouraging results and good growth prospects as it signed significant new customer deals. Gains were partially offset by the lack of exposure to energy stocks, including Galp Energia and Repsol. The managers tend to avoid energy holdings as the sector is more susceptible to macroeconomic influences rather than intrinsic factors.

The fund remains biased towards undervalued companies with strong intrinsic growth potential, higher expected earnings growth and better return profiles. The focus is on identifying companies that can benefit from structural growth drivers such as Grifols, Prosegur Cia De Seguridad and Industria de Diseno Textil. Among the key transactions, some profits were taken in Amadeus IT Group. The proceeds were invested in Industria de Diseno Textil, as the managers believe that the market is underestimating the sustainability of its earnings growth. A new position was also purchased in Banco Santander, whose sizeable banking presence across Europe should benefit from improving macroeconomic fundamentals across the region. Elsewhere, the managers took profits in Aena to benefit from a rally in its share price.

Manager's Overview

Indian equities advanced over the year. Optimism around progress on key reforms, improving earnings expectations and a rebound in GDP growth over the July–December period supported sentiment. At a sector level, information technology (IT) and consumer staples companies led gains amid an improving earnings growth outlook. Conversely, the healthcare sector declined due to regulatory concerns and weakness in the US generic drugs market, while competitive pressure hurt telecommunications stocks. In a noteworthy development, the government announced a recapitalisation programme for state-owned banks to support credit growth in the economy.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Selected conviction holdings were among the key contributors to performance. Staffing services provider Teamlease Services' healthy results reflected increasing contribution from higher margin segments. Among financials, preferred holdings in HDFC Bank (demat.) and Edelweiss Financial Services boosted returns. The former witnessed strong loan growth over the year, while the latter delivered solid growth in its credit and franchise businesses and an improvement in its returns profile. Elsewhere, solid volume growth and product mix improvement aided Phillips Carbon Black's earnings. Conversely, the holding in LIC Housing Finance declined as concerns around margin pressure weighed on its shares.

The fund is positioned to benefit from India's long-term growth and its structurally positive domestic consumption trends. The manager prefers high-quality growth stocks, characterised by their superior returns on equity, free cash flows and lower debt levels. Within financials, HDFC Bank (demat.) remains a key holding as it has the lowest cost of funds, a conservative underwriting culture and a robust balance sheet. Edelweiss Financial Services is a leading financial services company in India, with credit, wealth management, capital markets and insurance businesses. It has a high-quality management team with a focus on risk and a good track record, and has a long runway for growth.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 358 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Indonesian equities declined over the period. While markets rose initially after global credit rating agencies Fitch and S&P upgraded Indonesia's sovereign credit rating, equities retreated since February on the weakening rupiah. On the monetary policy front, Bank Indonesia cut its key interest rate twice over the period to aid economic growth. In key developments, Indonesia's Parliament approved the 2018 budget in October, targeting record government spending to accelerate economic growth. All sectors except energy and financials ended in negative territory. Of note, utilities, industrials and consumer discretionary stocks were the key laggards.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the period, as selected healthcare stocks and industrials disappointed. In the healthcare space, Tempo Scan Pacific fell as higher costs weighed on its earnings. However, the holding is retained in light of its strong distribution channels and healthy returns profile. Within industrials, petroleum and chemicals logistics company AKR Corporindo slid in light of lacklustre earnings. Certain real estate stocks also held back gains. Property developer Summarecon Agung came under pressure on news that its shares had been delisted from the MSCI Index. Conversely, selected energy stocks supported performance. In particular, mining contractor United Tractors gained in light of robust earnings. Favourable positioning in the consumer discretionary sector also added relative value. Healthy earnings lifted home improvement retailer Ace Hardware Indonesia. Meanwhile, the underweight stance in conglomerate Astra International boosted relative performance amid weaker-than-expected earnings.

The manager focuses on companies that have strong fundamentals, robust long-term growth outlook and can benefit from infrastructure spending. Palm oil producer First Resources is retained for its cheap valuations. The exposure to clove cigarette manufacturer Gudang Garam was also maintained for its market share gains, attractive valuations and sustainable business model.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose strongly over the year. Markets were supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. However, equities corrected sharply towards the end of the period as higher US wage growth data sparked fears over a rise in inflation and faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve (Fed). Moreover, the imposition of import tariffs by the US government spurred concerns about the possibility of trade wars. Meanwhile, the European Central Bank continued to emphasise its gradual withdrawal of policy support.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to poor stock picking in the underlying North American equity strategies. In particular, the US value strategy detracted from returns as the style remained out of favour. A US core strategy that leverages the stock picking expertise of Fidelity further weighed on performance. Here, an underweight allocation to and stock picking in the consumer discretionary and industrials sectors hampered returns. Losses were mitigated by a strategy that invests in European small-cap stocks, which supported performance. The exposure to Japan and Pacific ex Japan equities also added value. In Pacific ex Japan, all underlying strategies enhanced gains, while a mid and small-cap growth strategy in Japan performed particularly well.

Over the period, the smart beta exposure to the US healthcare sector was sold in favour of a US value strategy. A new position that provides exposure to the energy sector was purchased. The manager gradually decreased the passive US allocation and added to US managers who have struggled, as a meaningful reversal in relative performance is expected in this area. The manager also reduced the overweight position in Japan.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : EUR 653 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities ended in positive territory over a volatile year. Markets started the period on a strong note following favourable French election results. However, rising geopolitical tensions subsequently weighed on equities. Markets rebounded in September as macroeconomic data signalled momentum in the economic recovery. The European Central Bank's continued accommodative monetary policy stance also supported equities. Markets fell at the start of 2018 due to rising bond yields and fears over a US-led trade conflict. Subsidising geopolitical tensions and strong corporate earnings boosted equities in April.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the period, largely due to the weak performance of consumer discretionary holdings and an unfavourable position in the industrials sector. At a stock level, an underweight allocation to Fiat Chrysler Automobiles and Ferrari weighed on relative returns as positive earnings momentum boosted their shares. Losses were partially offset by the position in online luxury retailer Yoox Net-A-Porter Group. It received a bid from Compagnie Financière Richemont, which already owns a stake in the company. Within industrials, aerospace and defence company Leonardo slid. However, the stock remains well positioned to benefit from an improvement in the civilian helicopter market as well as from the current dynamism in the defence sector. On a positive note, an underweight allocation to telecommunications stocks boosted relative returns.

The manager increased the allocation to materials and technology companies. Within materials, shares were bought in Buzzi Unicem as the global construction cycle continues to show momentum. Within technology, a new holding was purchased in STMicroelectronics as it is well-positioned to benefit from strong demand in end-user markets, including smartphones, automotive and industrials. Meanwhile, profits were taken in a few strong performers, including Yoox Net-A-Porter Group and Technogym following a rally in their share prices. The proceeds were reinvested in energy holdings, including Tenaris, as the outlook for the oil industry remains favourable.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : JPY 54,194 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Japanese equities rose over the year, driven by upbeat corporate earnings results and a steady flow of positive economic data. Hopes of positive policy measures following Prime Minister Shinzo Abe's landslide victory in October's snap election and the reappointment of Haruhiko Kuroda as the Bank of Japan Governor for a second term supported sentiment. However, concerns about global trade friction stemming from protectionist moves in the US and a strong yen, which attracted buying interest as a safe haven currency during the volatile first quarter of 2018, diminished risk sentiment. In terms of style, growth companies outperformed value stocks, while smaller companies performed better than their larger peers. From a sector perspective, technology, energy and consumer staples were among the leading performers. Conversely, telecommunication services, utilities and financials recorded negative returns.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Strong stock selection in the machinery, retail and electric appliances sectors drove returns. At a stock level, MISUMI Group, a distributor of precision machinery parts, was a leading contributor to performance. It is seeing strong growth driven by factory automation demand in Japan and elsewhere in Asia. Machinery names such as Daifuku, SMC and DISCO also added notable value, supported by their positive earnings outlook. Conversely, the position in Alps Electric, a key supplier of camera actuators for smartphones, detracted from performance due to reduced sales expectations at a major smartphone customer. However, its automotive-related earnings are recovering and valuations are now close to the bottom of their historical range.

During the period, the manager bought a new position in electronic component maker TDK. Its profit growth momentum is steadily strengthening, driven by higher demand and better profitability in passive components, and rising battery sales. A new holding was also purchased in Hitachi as its earnings are improving and it has significant upside as a value stock.

Hopes of positive policy measures following Prime Minister Shinzo Abe's landslide victory in October's snap election and the reappointment of Haruhiko Kuroda as the Bank of Japan Governor for a second term supported sentiment. From a sector perspective, technology, energy and consumer staples were among the leading performers. Conversely, telecommunication services, utilities and financials recorded negative returns.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Strong stock selection in the services, foods, retail and communication sectors drove returns. At a stock level, Yamaha, a musical instrument and audio equipment maker, was the leading contributor to performance. Its mainstay musical instrument segment showed solid growth, driven by strong sales of digital pianos and guitars in China and other emerging markets. Confectionary group Kotobuki Spirits generated robust earnings growth, supported by higher sales in the Tokyo area. Encouraging earnings lifted the position in multiline retailer Ryohin Keikaku, as price cuts for some products and an improvement in product availability drove brisk domestic sales.

The manager focuses on under-researched growth stocks and looks to identify signs of positive change over the mid-to-long term. Positions in quality machinery and services companies that are geared to structural growth trends were selectively increased. Conversely, the manager took profits in strong performers in the pharmaceuticals and automobile sectors. Technology and consumer-related companies that are experiencing a deceleration in earnings momentum were sold.

Manager's Overview

Japanese equities rose over the year, driven by upbeat corporate earnings and a steady flow of positive economic data. Hopes of positive policy measures following Prime Minister Shinzo Abe's landslide victory in October's snap election and the reappointment of Haruhiko Kuroda as the Bank of Japan Governor for a second term supported sentiment. In terms of style, growth companies outperformed value stocks, while smaller companies performed better than their larger peers. From a sector perspective, technology, energy and consumer staples were among the leading performers. Conversely, telecommunication services, utilities and financials recorded negative returns.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Strong stock selection in the services and information & communication sectors contributed to returns, but stock specific factors weighed on certain holdings. Sakata Seed, Japan's largest vegetable seed supplier, succumbed to profit taking amid concerns over stock valuations and earnings growth. The manager has sold this position. Selected holdings in the financials sector, notably mega bank Mitsubishi UFJ Financial Group, lost ground amid the macroeconomic-led correction in global markets and accompanying yen appreciation in early 2018, which curbed expectations of higher interest rates. On a positive note, the position in Recruit Holdings, a leading staffing provider, advanced. Its shares rose on the back of strong earnings trends, driven by continued growth at Indeed, its global recruitment advertising network. The acquisition of European staffing provider USG People further supported its shares.

The manager looks for companies that operate in a stable competitive environment, with high and sustainable return on invested capital and good earnings visibility. Optical sensor manufacturer Keyence was among the new positions in the portfolio. It stands out among factory automation players given its high-margin, direct sales business model, which is gaining traction overseas. Information technology services group Obic was another addition to the portfolio, supported by its strong long-term outlook.

From a sector perspective, technology, energy and consumer staples were among the leading performers. Conversely, telecommunication services, utilities and financials recorded negative returns.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Strong stock selection in the machinery, electric appliances and precision instruments sectors drove returns. Daifuku, a play on the rising automation in warehousing and distribution, was the top contributor to performance given its strong order momentum and improving productivity. The position in system integration company Otsuka added value as it announced solid annual results and earnings forecasts amid strong domestic demand for information technology (IT) services. The allocation to Shimadzu, a precision equipment company, added value. The company increased its full-year earnings guidance to reflect the strong sales growth of its analytical/measuring instruments.

The manager focuses on well-run mid-to-small cap companies that trade at a discount to their growth potential. New positions included Obic, a niche IT services company with a strong customer base among small and medium-sized enterprises in Japan. A new holding was also purchased in Advantest, a leading producer of semiconductor equipment, which is well positioned to benefit from the continued growth in memory-related capital expenditure.

Manager's Overview

Latin American equities rose over the year. Stabilising growth in China and improving economic environment in the US boosted investors' appetite for riskier assets. Both China and the US are key export destinations. Interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve (Fed) in June and December last year and March this year were well-received by markets. This gradual tightening signalled the Fed's confidence in the strength of the US economy. Brazilian markets rose as investors found relief in President Michel Temer's plans to improve government finances through labour and pension reforms. Chilean stocks rose following the victory of 'market-friendly' Sebastian Pinera in the Presidential elections held in November. Colombian and Peruvian markets advanced with prices of oil and copper, their main export items, respectively.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the period, due to stock selection in the materials sector and the underweight stance in energy. Within materials, the underweight allocation to Brazil-based iron-ore producer Vale ADR weighed on relative returns as its shares rose in line with the broader market. Elsewhere, the position in retailer and beverage producer FEMSA fell as its profits were negatively impacted by the revaluation of its assets in Venezuela. On a positive note, the holding in private education provider Estacio Participacoes rose, driven by the strong performance of its distance learning business and price increases.

The manager has an overweight stance in the consumer discretionary and financials sectors. Within consumer discretionary, Brazil-based department store operator Lojas Renner is a key position. It has demonstrated its resilience during challenging economic conditions in the country. In the financials sector, the manager prefers Itau Unibanco Holding ADR, the largest bank in Brazil. It is proactively de-risking its balance sheet and focusing on fee generation by cross-selling services. Exchange operator BM&F Bovespa is another preferred stock, given its dominant market position.

Manager's Overview

Malaysian equities ended in positive territory, led by gains in financials and utilities. In particular, banks advanced after global rating agency Moody's Investors Services stated that it expects profitability in the sector to remain robust in 2018, supported by higher demand for corporate loans, stable consumer lending and healthy net interest margins. The Malaysian Prime Minister also unveiled the 2018 budget, laying out the government's plans to tackle rising costs and contain fiscal deficit. On the monetary policy front, the central bank raised interest rates for the first time since July 2014 in January 2018.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, as selected industrial holdings came under pressure. The exposure to industrial conglomerate Sime Darby hurt returns amid the lacklustre performance of its demerged entities Sime Darby Plantations and Sime Darby Property on their trading debut on the Malaysian stock exchange. Certain real estate stocks also held back gains. Property developer Mah Sing Group slid in anticipation of a deceleration in earnings growth, given the weakness in the Malaysian property sector. Conversely, selected information technology (IT) and consumer holdings enhanced gains. Inspection machine manufacturer ViTrox advanced in light of stronger demand, stemming from an expansion of its customer base, positive product acceptance and improved economies of scale. Healthy earnings lifted the holding in Carlsberg. Its management also unveiled a new dividend policy, targeting a 100% dividend payout of its profits.

The fund focuses on market share gainers and companies that will benefit from policy changes and infrastructure development. The manager is positive on Malayan Banking for its improving net interest margins, efficient management of its credit costs, strong capital position and healthy dividend payouts. ViTrox is favoured as it is well positioned to gain market share in light of global semiconductor growth, by leveraging its technology leadership in machine inspection.

Manager's Overview

Nordic equities posted strong positive returns over the year. Energy, utilities and telecommunication services were the top performing sectors in the region, while consumer discretionary and financials lost value. Norway and Finland were the region's stand-out performers, while Sweden lagged the broader market. Nordic stocks continue to be valued at a slight premium to the broader European equity market. However, this is warranted given their underlying quality, healthy balance sheet structure and superior long-term growth potential.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year due to unfavourable sector allocation. The overweight positioning in industrials and selected holdings in healthcare hurt performance. Within industrials, the allocation to security services company Gunnebo and ventilation products manufacturer Systemair detracted from returns. Within healthcare, medical technology company Getinge held back gains as investors remained sceptical about its profit growth target of more than 10% per year. The manager used the decline in its share price to raise the exposure to the stock as it is cheap in valuation terms and the new CEO's roadmap appears credible. At a stock level, Stockmann and Hoegh LNG Holdings were among the key detractors from returns. On a positive note, stock picking in the financials and energy sectors added notable value. Within energy, BW Offshore boosted returns, driven by timely commissioning of the Catcher project. Borr Drilling's shares also rallied. In financials, Norwegian holding company Aker performed well.

During the year, the manager used the weakness in Sweden-based windows manufacturer Inwido to add to this position, as he remains positive on the name. Elsewhere new positions were purchased in do-it-yourself (DIY) stores operator Bygghem Group and educational services provider Academedia. In terms of sales, the manager took profits in strong performers such as Bang & Olufsen, DNA and Songa Offshore.

Manager's Overview

Asian equities rose over the year. Chinese stocks gained amid a pick-up in economic growth and progress towards structural reforms. Japanese equities received support from upbeat corporate earnings and a steady flow of positive economic data. South Korean stocks advanced due to easing geopolitical tensions on the Korean peninsula. Conversely, equities in Indonesia and the Philippines lagged the broader market.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, led by improving profitability prospects for selected holdings. Optical inspection specialist Koh Young Technology's results exceeded estimates, while the contribution from its new products improved its future earnings visibility. Condiments producer Yihai International Holding added value given its strong market position in the mid to high end segment. It is the main supplier to Haidilao, one of China's fastest growing hot-pot restaurant chains, and continues to benefit from Haidilao's expansion. Among Japanese holdings, property investment platform and management company Tateru and Universal Entertainment boosted returns. The former's strong technology platform supported its solid full-year earnings and guidance. The latter's improving balance sheet position and the turnaround in its Okada Manila casino operations attracted investor interest. Conversely, Tiga Pilar Sejahtera Food's decision to divest its rice business following the imposition of a cap on rice prices in Indonesia hurt its shares.

The manager focuses on companies with good long-term growth prospects that are cash generative and have strong management teams. Universal Entertainment is a key holding given an improvement in the growth prospects for its casino business, as well as its strengthening financial position. SoftBank Group's strong management and superior execution skills support its promising investments in technology companies globally. Hutchison China MedTech, a Chinese drug innovator focused on oncology and immunology, has an encouraging product pipeline and strong drug-specific partnerships with global healthcare leaders.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 67 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Singaporean equities advanced over the period, led by financials and real estate stocks. Banks rose in anticipation of robust loan growth and an improvement in net interest margins. Real estate stocks also advanced against the backdrop of a booming property sector, supported by several office and residential market deals. Additionally, the country's central bank tightened its monetary policy for the first time in six years in April, against the backdrop of steady momentum in economic growth.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the period, as selected consumer stocks disappointed. Palm oil producer First Resources declined as its earnings came under pressure due to higher operating costs and lower average selling prices. Nonetheless, the stock is retained in view of its undemanding valuations. Seafood restaurant operator Jumbo Group retreated on expectations that higher expansion related costs would hurt its margins in the near term. Certain real estate stocks also declined. The holding in property developer Yoma Strategic held back gains. Its latest round of equity fund raising for business expansion is likely to dilute its earnings. These losses were partially offset by the position in real estate brokerage house APAC Realty. Its shares advanced following its listing on the Singapore Exchange and in light of better-than-expected earnings. Selected financials also contributed to performance. The exposure to DBS Group Holdings added value as it reported healthy earnings, supported by robust loan growth and an expansion in net interest margins.

The fund is focused on companies that are exposed to regional growth. The manager prefers companies with proven management teams that know how to navigate through uncertain times. The bias towards banks with solid fundamentals is maintained. In particular, DBS Group Holdings is held for its disciplined pricing strategy, solid business momentum and compelling valuations. Certain industrials are also among the key holdings in the portfolio. The manager holds SBS Transit for its strong balance sheet and its scope to increase dividend payouts.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : CHF 265 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Swiss equities ended in positive territory over a volatile year. Markets started the period on a strong note following favourable French election results. However, rising geopolitical tensions subsequently weighed on equities. Markets rebounded in September as macroeconomic data signalled momentum in the economic recovery. The European Central Bank's continued accommodative monetary policy stance also supported equities. Markets fell at the start of 2018 due to rising bond yields and fears over a US-led trade conflict. Subsiding geopolitical tensions and strong corporate earnings boosted equities in April.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the review period, largely driven by positive positioning in healthcare and the strong performance of industrials holdings. Among key contributors, Vifor Pharma gained on the back of strong 2017 results and a positive outlook for 2018. An underweight allocation to Roche Holding supported relative gains. Its shares came under pressure amid concerns around the impact that biosimilars would have on some of its blockbuster drugs. In industrials, Georg Fischer benefited from better-than-expected revenues for the full year, driven by strong order intake. Selected technology companies including ams also boosted returns. Shares in this semiconductor manufacturer were buoyed by a major design-win momentum in the smartphone and automobile segments. Conversely, the weak performance of consumer staples stocks pared gains.

The fund retains a sizeable exposure to the healthcare, financials and industrials sectors. During the review period, the managers took profits in strong performers in healthcare, including Lonza Group and Ascom Holding. Meanwhile, the exposure to financials and industrials stocks was increased. A new position was bought in Sulzer as it offers significant upside potential on the back of a recovery in end markets, driven by a rebound in oil prices. The managers also bought shares in Bucher Industries as it is well-positioned to benefit from structural growth drivers. Elsewhere, the fund continues to avoid real estate and telecommunications stocks.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 68 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Taiwanese equities advanced, led by gains in the financials and materials sectors. Among financials, banking stocks rose, driven by an improvement in loan growth and a recovery in their wealth management businesses. Conversely, the information technology (IT) sector underperformed. An improved outlook on semiconductors lifted sentiment towards IT companies. However, Apple's supply chain companies came under pressure on expectations of order cuts for the iPhone X and concerns over weak demand for smartphones.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the period. Selected electronic component manufacturers disappointed. Delta Electronics, a global leader in providing power and thermal management solutions, held back gains. Its shares slid as it witnessed pricing pressures in its power electronics division, as well as higher labour expenses and material costs. Smartphone camera module maker Largan Precision declined amid muted sentiment towards Apple's supply chain companies. Lacklustre earnings held back notebook computer manufacturer Quanta Computer. These losses were partially offset by the position in Chroma ATE, a supplier of electronic test and measurement equipment and systems. Its encouraging profitability guidance reflected ongoing capacity expansion in the electric vehicle and panel industries. Silicon wafer manufacturer GlobalWafers also rose on optimism towards its earnings, aided by increasing average selling prices. Elsewhere, healthy earnings lifted Taiwanese bank E-Sun Financial Holding.

Hyomi Jie took over the portfolio's management in July 2017 from Raymond Ma, and repositioned the portfolio to align it with her investment philosophy. Hyomi favours companies with a high return profile and growth execution capability. At the end of April 2018, the fund had an overweight exposure to financials and consumer staples. Within the IT sector, semiconductor holdings are preferred at the industry level.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 464 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Thai equities advanced as the military government announced plans to hold general elections in November 2018 to restore democracy. The country also plans to link the Eastern Economic Corridor (EEC) with China's "One Belt One Road" initiative, which aims to create trade connections between Asia, Africa, the Middle East and Europe. The EEC is expected to make Thailand's Eastern provinces a trade and industry hub, creating as many as 100,000 jobs a year by 2020. Separately, the government is rolling out a series of economic reforms and infrastructure projects under its large-scale Thailand 4.0 initiative, which aims to elevate the country's development model. All sectors except information technology (IT) advanced. The energy, utilities and consumer sectors were the notable gainers.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period, due to rewarding security selection in the energy sector. State-owned energy giant PTT and leading liquefied petroleum gas (LPG) trader Siamgas and Petrochemicals advanced. The former rose as it reported better-than-expected earnings, while the latter gained in line with rising crude oil prices. Selected industrials and real estate stocks also supported gains. In particular, healthy earnings lifted positions in Airports of Thailand and property developer Central Pattana. Conversely, selected IT stocks came under pressure. Electronic parts maker Delta Electronics Thailand slid amid concerns over a slowdown in the sale of its legacy products. KCE Electronics retreated on worries that high copper prices would hurt the electric printed circuit board manufacturer's earnings.

The manager favours high-quality companies with above average sustainable earnings growth and attractive valuations. Private power generator Electricity Generating is held for its robust capacity expansion plans and consistent track record of dividend payouts. The fund also has an overweight stance in Tisco Financial Group NVDR in light of its solid asset quality, sound management team, focused business strategy and attractive dividend yields.

Manager's Overview

The UK stock market rose over the year, mainly driven by gains in the resources sector. Investor sentiment was positive over most of the period, despite continued uncertainty around the UK's negotiations to exit the European Union and a lacklustre UK economic outlook. However, markets experienced heightened volatility in the first quarter of 2018, primarily due to concerns over faster interest rate increases this year, particularly in the US. Investors were also worried about a possible trade war between China and the US. In April, most of the first-quarter losses were offset by a sharp rebound in markets, driven by a weak sterling, which buoyed companies that generate sales in foreign currencies.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Key holdings across sectors contributed to returns, but gains were offset by stock-specific disappointments. In particular, shares in Inmarsat fell as it issued weak earnings guidance for the year and lowered its dividend to boost investment in its aviation division. The holding in Shire underperformed. On a positive note, the position in On the Beach Group, an online retailer of beach holidays, gained on strong growth prospects. This high-growth, capital light business is well-positioned to take advantage of increasing online penetration and an expanding customer base. The allocation to Glencore also enhanced returns as mining stocks benefited from strong metal prices.

The manager focuses on spotting long term, mispriced growth stories and favours companies with good management teams. A new position was purchased in software and services group Sage, as its existing installed base should continue to provide strong growth. In addition, it has overhauled its products and is encouraging customers to adopt its subscription-based services rather than making a one-time purchase, which bodes well for the stock. The exposure to aerospace components maker Meggitt was also increased given its strong growth potential, supported by rising defence budgets and rapidly growing platforms.

Manager's Overview

Developed world equities rose over the year under review. Optimism towards a sustained recovery in global economic growth, the smooth passage of the tax reform bill in the US and strengthening corporate data across markets supported stocks. However, the last few months were characterised by a spike in market volatility. Higher US wage growth led to fears of faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve, while the increase in tariffs by the US government sparked concerns about the possibility of trade wars.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Security selection in the energy sector added value. The holding in integrated oil company Royal Dutch Shell rose in line with crude oil prices. US oil refiner Andeavor's shares advanced after Marathon Petroleum announced a deal to buy the company for more than $23 billion. Semiconductor-related holdings, including ON Semiconductor and Sumco added value, as investors increasingly recognised the growing addressable markets for their products. Conversely, certain positions were negatively impacted by challenging business conditions. Molson Coors Brewing continued to suffer due to the delay in synergies from its merger with MillerCoors. French food and staples retailer Carrefour declined as management issued a profit warning due to increased competitive pressure in its domestic French market; the position was sold. The lack of exposure to online retailer Amazon.com, which is trading at relatively unattractive valuations, also hurt relative returns as its shares rose on strong quarterly results.

The fund invests in three specific types of opportunities - change, value and franchise. Companies that are undergoing change offer the potential for a fundamental shift in value, with catalysts linked to near term restructuring, merger & acquisition, or spin-off activity. Value firms have the ability to deliver earnings growth in excess of market expectations, potentially leading to a re-rating. Franchise firms have a dominant industry position, strong growth, cash flow and pricing power.

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities rose over the period as healthy global economic data boosted sentiment. From a regional perspective, Chinese and Hong Kong equities ended higher. Economic stabilisation and progress towards structural reforms in China supported sentiment. Expectations of easing geopolitical tensions on the Korean peninsula buoyed South Korean stocks. From an overall sector perspective, healthcare, financials and information technology (IT) led gains. However, Australian financials fell amid concerns over regulatory inquiry on alleged misconduct in the sector and risks associated with the housing market. Telecommunication services providers lagged the broader market.

The fund generated positive returns over the year, led by rewarding positions in the IT and healthcare sectors. China's camera component maker Sunny Optical Technology Group rallied as market share gains, a better product mix and higher average selling prices boosted its profits. Investors favoured drug maker Jiangsu Hengrui Medicine for its encouraging earnings outlook, aided by new drug launches, even as it expands capacity to meet strong demand. In financials, China Construction Bank (H) and Industrial & Commercial Bank of China (H) reported healthy results, including an expansion in net interest margins and improved asset quality. The exposure to Singapore-based United Overseas Bank supported returns on expectations that an improvement in net interest margins and efficient cost controls would bolster its earnings outlook.

The fund focuses on identifying quality growth stocks that can offer good dividend growth potential and long-term secular growth. The manager raised the exposure to leading internet company Tencent Holdings and dominant e-commerce company Alibaba Group Holding ADR. Both companies have solid business models and are likely to be long-term winners in high-growth areas such as e-commerce, payments, advertising, cloud computing and artificial intelligence. The portfolio includes high-quality financials, particularly banks with excellent management, strong capital position and robust asset quality.

Manager's Overview

European equities ended in positive territory over a volatile year. Markets started the period on a strong note following favourable French election results. Volatility picked up during the third quarter of 2017 due to rising geopolitical tensions. The European Central Bank's continued accommodative monetary policy stance, strong corporate earnings, US tax reforms and sustained global economic growth supported equities. Markets declined in early 2018, due to rising bond yields and concerns over a trade war between the US and China, much of which eased towards the end of the period.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. The significant underperformance of defensive sectors such as consumer staples and telecommunications, compared to mining, technology and consumer discretionary stocks, was a headwind given the fund's conservative approach and strict valuation discipline. Tobacco holdings Philip Morris International and Imperial Brands detracted from returns due to uncertainty in the industry given stringent nicotine regulations and 'new generation products'. On a positive note, higher oil prices supported energy holdings. Finnish refiner Neste remains an excellent investment with growing dividends. Norwegian oil company Aker BP's relatively smaller operations in the industry provides stable cash flows and distributions, and lower capital expenditure requirements.

The fund continues to focus on good businesses with strong brands, entrenched market shares, good cash conversion rates and strong balance sheets that offer sustained dividend growth under a wide range of economic conditions. During the period, the manager bought new positions in AXA and Prudential. French insurer AXA is supported by a strong balance sheet and capital structure, and has grown through successful acquisitions in the past. Prudential is a quality cash generative business with operations in the UK, US and Asia. It stands to benefit from the structural increase in demand for insurance products in the Asian region.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 5,520 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the 12-month period, supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. Volatility spiked in early 2018, as investors anticipated faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve (Fed) following higher US wage growth data. The imposition of import tariffs by the US government also sparked concerns about the possibility of trade wars. These concerns, however, eased towards the end of the period as fears over trade frictions between the US and China receded. The US Fed continued on a gradual interest rate hike path, while the European Central Bank favoured an accommodative monetary policy stance. Elsewhere, uncertainty about the UK's negotiations with the European Union over the terms of its exit continued.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Receding political risk, and strong economic and corporate data drove investors into sectors that were most likely to benefit from stronger GDP growth. Key holdings such as US Bancorp detracted from returns due to the lack of asset sensitivity to rising interest rates. Encouragingly, increasing volatility boosted the position in German exchange operator Deutsche Boerse.

The strategy focuses on delivering a dividend based total return, with an emphasis on capital preservation. The fund aims for cross cycle performance, to provide real growth in fund distributions and lower drawdowns. The portfolio is well diversified, with a tilt towards higher return on capital businesses such as the consumer, healthcare, industrials and technology sectors, reflecting the strategy's quality bias. During the period, the manager bought new positions in Maxim Integrated Products and BlackRock. Maxim Integrated Products is a semiconductor company with strong cash flows and a net cash balance sheet. Asset manager BlackRock has a diverse business across product and client type, style and region. It is supported by an excellent track record of capital allocation, organic growth, share buybacks and dividend payouts.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 76 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the 12-month period, supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. Volatility spiked in early 2018, as investors anticipated faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve (Fed) following higher US wage growth data. The imposition of import tariffs by the US government also sparked concerns about the possibility of trade wars. These concerns, however, eased towards the end of the period as fears over trade frictions between the US and China receded. The US Fed continued on a gradual interest rate hike path, while the European Central Bank favoured an accommodative monetary policy stance. Elsewhere, uncertainty about the UK's negotiations with the European Union over the terms of its exit continued.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Consumer staples holdings detracted from returns, given the lack of positive trading updates in an unfavourable environment for the sector. Key holdings such as Procter & Gamble and PepsiCo slid. On a positive note, stock selection within financials added value. Increasing market volatility boosted positions in exchange operators Deutsche Boerse and CME Group. Professional publisher Wolters Kluwer was another notable contributor to returns.

The manager prefers high-quality, fundamentally strong companies trading at reasonable valuations that provide a secure income stream and offer dividend growth prospects. The fund aims for cross cycle performance, real growth in fund distributions and lower drawdowns, while delivering a dividend based total return. During the period, the manager bought new positions in Willis Towers Watson and Linde. Quality insurer Willis Towers Watson was purchased at attractive valuations. It is a stable margin business with good potential for total returns. Linde is a high-quality Germany-based gases company with consistent returns on invested capital over the full market cycle.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose strongly over the year. Markets were supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. However, equities corrected sharply towards the end of the period as higher US wage growth data sparked fears over a rise in inflation and faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve (Fed). Moreover, the imposition of import tariffs by the US government spurred concerns about the possibility of trade wars. Meanwhile, the European Central Bank continued to emphasise its gradual withdrawal of policy support.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to poor stock picking in underlying North American equity strategies. In particular, the US value strategy detracted from returns as the style remained out of favour. A US core strategy that leverages the stock picking expertise of Fidelity further weighed on performance. Here, an underweight allocation to and stock picking in the consumer discretionary and industrials sectors hampered returns. However, the exposure to a US growth strategy contributed to performance. Losses were further mitigated by a strategy that invests in European small-cap stocks. The exposure to emerging markets also added value. All underlying strategies within Japan and Pacific ex Japan supported performance. The fund's discretionary exposure to global equity sectors also buoyed returns. Here, holdings in global technology and consumer industries added value.

The manager maintained an overweight allocation to Europe ex UK equities. The near-term outlook for Europe remains favourable, driven by supportive financial conditions, healthy labour markets and sustained global growth. The manager also maintained an underweight allocation to the US. Wage inflation in the US is likely to have a negative impact on corporate profit margins and continued volatility is likely due to expectations of multiple interest rate hikes by the US Fed in 2018.

Asia Pacific Multi Asset Growth & Income Fund <sup>1,3,4</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 7 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities advanced over the period as healthy global economic data boosted sentiment. However, concerns over faster than expected interest rate hikes in the US and a potential trade war between the US and China led to volatility. Economic stabilisation and progress towards structural reforms in China supported sentiment towards the Chinese and Hong Kong markets. Australian equities lagged the broader market, as financials fell amid concerns over a regulatory inquiry on alleged misconduct in the sector and risks associated with the housing market. Within fixed income, Asian US dollar investment grade bonds and Chinese renminbi bonds generated positive returns, driven by credit spread tightening.

The fund delivered positive returns over the period. The allocation to equities supported absolute returns. Asia Pacific dividend and Emerging Asia equity strategies were notable contributors to performance. The exposure to Chinese equities, particularly to consumer stocks, added further value. In fixed income, high yield bond holdings and Chinese renminbi bonds enhanced gains. Conversely, the allocation to Asian investment grade bonds weighed on returns.

Over the period, the managers took some profits in Chinese and Emerging Asia equities following strong gains. Capital was also rotated out of Indonesian equities towards the broader ASEAN market. Instead, the managers increased the allocation to assets offering higher yields such as Asian high yield and Chinese bonds. The exposure to defensive assets was also raised amid expectations of higher volatility. Consequently, the holding in Asian investment grade bonds was increased. Elsewhere, the fund's cash position was decreased.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : EUR 935 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities rose and outperformed bonds over the period. Markets were supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. However, equities corrected sharply towards the end of the period as higher US wage growth data sparked fears over a rise in inflation. Meanwhile, the losses in US Treasuries, due to concerns around widening twin deficit and higher inflation, rippled out into other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds and UK government bonds (Gilts) edging higher. Credit markets performed strongly as credit spreads tightened amid subsiding geopolitical tensions and strong corporate earnings. Given continued growth in the eurozone economy, the European Central Bank (ECB) shifted its focus to the expected path of interest rates. However, at its recent meeting in April, the ECB kept interest rates unchanged.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to the equities segment. Security selection and an underweight position in consumer discretionary, as well as stock picking in industrials detracted from the performance of the underlying equity strategy. On a positive note, security selection in information technology and financials added value. The fixed income segment also generated positive performance, capping losses from the equities segment. The underweight stance in fixed income added relative value, as bonds underperformed equities. Strategy selection in the segment enhanced gains. The underlying strategy's positive credit selection in financials via holdings in Goldman Sachs and Rabobank supported returns. Tactical positioning in euro duration also added value.

On a global basis, our models suggest that the economic backdrop remains robust, despite recent signs of deceleration. As such, we remain positive on equities and continue to favour a marginal overweight allocation to the asset class. Central banks appear to be committed to tightening their monetary policy, potentially faster than markets anticipate. This creates risks for fixed income markets. As a result, the fund remains underweight in bonds and retains its allocation to cash.

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained strongly over the year under review, as markets were supported by synchronised global growth. They corrected sharply, however, towards the end of the period, as higher US wage growth sparked fears over inflation and faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve (Fed). The imposition of import tariffs by the US government sparked further concerns about the possibility of trade wars. Meanwhile, the European Central Bank (ECB) continued to emphasise its gradual withdrawal of policy support.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Although the overweight exposure to equities and underweight allocation to bonds supported returns, this was significantly offset by the performance of underlying US holdings. An underweight position in the consumer discretionary sector and an overweight holding in financials detracted from relative returns in the US equity segment. Security selection in the information technology, industrials and energy sectors also held back gains. In contrast, the fund's bond holdings aided performance, with investment grade bonds adding the most value. Non-traditional asset classes (infrastructure, real estate and loans) weighed on returns, while commodities added marginal value.

The allocation to equities was broadly unchanged over the period. However, the exposure to fixed income was reduced as faster-than-anticipated monetary policy tightening by central banks posed risks to the asset class. The primary reduction was in European short-term bonds. Elsewhere, the holding in commodities was marginally increased, while the position in non-traditional asset classes was raised significantly.

Global Multi Asset Income Fund <sup>6</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 8,262 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose strongly and outperformed bonds over the year under review. Markets were supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. However, equities corrected sharply towards the end of the period as higher US wage growth data spurred fears over a rise in inflation and faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve. In fixed income markets, sovereign bond yields rose, led by US Treasuries, as global macroeconomic data continued to improve, indicating sustained growth momentum. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded another period of strong performance as credit spreads tightened amid strong demand for yields, subsiding geopolitical tensions and strong corporate earnings.

The fund delivered positive returns over the period and distributed income in line with its objective. Equities were the strongest contributors to absolute returns, although given the focus on income generation, the fund favours dividend paying and enhanced income equity strategies, which lagged the broader equity market. High yield bonds, emerging market debt (local currency) and hybrid bonds also contributed strongly to performance. The managers continue to hold non-traditional asset classes such as loans and infrastructure, which added value and enhanced the fund's yield.

The managers believe that the economy is in the late cycle, and given the fund's focus on capital preservation, they favour a cautious approach. The managers took profits from positions in US and Asian high yield bonds, as well as in emerging market debt (local currency). Instead, they added to the fund's duration position by purchasing US government bonds. The fund also rotated from Asian to US investment grade bonds, which are at the safer end of the investment grade spectrum. New holdings were purchased in non-traditional assets to improve diversification and enhance yields. Elsewhere, the managers continue to hedge part of the fund's equity market beta through regional and sector equity short positions. These hedges helped limit the drawdown in early 2018.

Global Multi Asset Tactical Defensive Fund <sup>4</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 209 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities gained over the period. Markets were supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. However, they corrected sharply towards the end of the period as higher US wage growth data sparked fears over a rise in inflation and faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve. Moreover, the imposition of import tariffs by the US government sparked concerns about the possibility of trade wars. The European Central Bank continued to emphasise its gradual withdrawal of policy support.

The fund generated positive absolute returns over the year. The fund did well in 2017, with the market exposure segment, primarily equities, performing well. However, performance post the end of 2017 was more difficult as volatility increased. Non-directional strategies had a mixed impact on returns. The investment in alternatives contributed to performance, but returns from portable alpha have been disappointing. Thematic positions, including long US equities versus a short position in the US media sector and long German equities versus a short position in European equities generated positive returns. The fund was not well positioned for the weakness in the US dollar over the period. It also failed to capitalise on the strong momentum in high growth sectors such as technology. This led to negative returns from long European equities versus short US equities and long Australian equities versus short Hong Kong equities.

The exposure to equities was reduced, primarily due to valuations and deteriorating risk/ return expectations. Capital was redeployed in non-directional strategies, as well as in defensive assets such as US Treasuries. The exposure to property shares was sold as rising interest rates are likely to have a negative impact on the asset class. Towards the end of the period, the managers took profits on the short position in automobiles. Within the portable alpha strategies, the exposure to Fidelity Funds - World Fund was increased as it has an attractive track record, with pro-cyclical positioning balanced by some good defensive exposure.

Greater China Multi Asset Growth & Income Fund <sup>1,3,4</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 8 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Greater China equities advanced over the period as healthy global economic data boosted sentiment. However, risks of faster than expected interest rate hikes in the US and a potential trade war between the US and China led to volatility. Economic stabilisation and progress towards structural reforms in China supported sentiment towards the Chinese and Hong Kong markets. The Taiwanese market also gained, led by healthcare and consumer staples. All sectors in the Greater China region ended higher. Within fixed income, Asian US dollar investment grade bonds and Chinese renminbi investment grade bonds generated positive returns, driven by credit spread tightening.

The fund delivered positive returns over the period. The allocation to equities supported absolute returns. Greater China equities and Chinese consumer companies enhanced gains. In the fixed income segment, the exposure to Chinese high yield bonds and Chinese renminbi bonds contributed to performance. Conversely, the fund's exposure to Asian investment grade bonds weighed on returns.

The exposure to Hong Kong and Taiwanese equities was reduced. Instead, the allocation to a Chinese equity strategy that focuses on value stocks was increased on expectations that it is relatively more defensive. The position in Chinese consumer equities was increased, given the long-term opportunity arising from a structural consumption upgrade in China. Within fixed income, the fund took some profits in both Chinese and Asian high yield bonds. Meanwhile, the significant exposure to Chinese renminbi bonds was retained in light of their higher yields. Elsewhere, the fund's cash position was reduced.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose strongly and outperformed bonds over the year under review. Markets were supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. However, equities corrected sharply towards the end of the period as higher US wage growth data spurred fears over a rise in inflation and faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve. In fixed income markets, sovereign bond yields rose, led by US Treasuries, as global macroeconomic data continued to improve, indicating sustained growth momentum. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded another period of strong performance as credit spreads tightened amid strong demand for yields, subsiding geopolitical tensions and strong corporate earnings.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to the underweight allocation to equities and a preference for bonds. Within equities, an underweight position in emerging markets, the best performing regional equity market over the period, weighed on returns. While equities contributed strongly to absolute returns, the global dividend paying and enhanced income equity strategies lagged the broader equity market. This hampered relative performance. In contrast, strong stock selection in the information technology sector supported returns from the Pacific ex Japan equity holding. Strategy selection in the fixed income segment also boosted performance. Positions in high yield bonds, hybrid bonds and emerging market debt (local currency) were rewarding.

The allocation to equities was increased and the exposure to bonds was reduced over the period. The managers took some profits in strategies that invest in Asian high yield bonds and emerging market debt (local currency) following their strong performance. They also sold a European corporate bond strategy. Instead, a position was purchased in an enhanced income strategy that offers an attractive yield with lower volatility. The exposure to financials, which tend to benefit from rising interest rates, was also increased.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose strongly and outperformed bonds over the year under review. Markets were supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. However, equities corrected sharply towards the end of the period as higher US wage growth data spurred fears over a rise in inflation and faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve. In fixed income markets, sovereign bond yields rose, led by US Treasuries, as global macroeconomic data continued to improve, indicating sustained growth momentum. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded another period of strong performance as credit spreads tightened amid strong demand for yields, subsiding geopolitical tensions and strong corporate earnings.

The fund delivered positive returns over the period and distributed income in line with its objective. Equities were the strongest contributors to absolute returns, although given the focus on income generation, the fund favours dividend paying and enhanced income equity strategies, which lagged the broader equity market. High yield bonds, emerging market debt (local currency) and hybrid bonds also contributed strongly to performance. The managers continue to hold non-traditional asset classes such as loans and infrastructure, which added value and enhanced the fund's yield.

The managers believe that the economy is in the late cycle, and given the fund's focus on capital preservation, they favour a cautious approach. The managers took profits from positions in US and Asian high yield bonds, as well as in emerging market debt (local currency). Instead, they added to the fund's duration position by purchasing US government bonds. The fund also rotated from Asian to US investment grade bonds, which are at the safer end of the investment grade spectrum. New holdings were purchased in non-traditional assets to improve diversification and enhance yields. Elsewhere, the managers continue to hedge part of the fund's equity market beta through regional and sector equity short positions. These hedges helped limit the drawdown in early 2018.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose strongly and outperformed bonds over the year under review. Markets were supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. However, equities corrected sharply towards the end of the period as higher US wage growth data spurred fears over a rise in inflation and faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve. In fixed income markets, sovereign bond yields rose, led by US Treasuries, as global macroeconomic data continued to improve, indicating sustained growth momentum. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded another period of strong performance as credit spreads tightened amid strong demand for yields, subsiding geopolitical tensions and strong corporate earnings.

The fund delivered positive returns over the period. The fund has two segments. The first provides broad market exposure, with allocation determined by a volatility management model that targets a specific volatility range. Within this segment, the allocation to equities proved the most rewarding to returns. The second segment includes exposure to positions that the managers expect will add value independent of broad market performance. Holdings in this segment also supported performance.

The portfolio's proprietary volatility management model dictates the allocation to risk, and consequently the exposure to the main asset classes, by taking into account the beta portfolio's 12-month rolling volatility. Low volatility over most of the review period led to increased allocation to growth assets versus defensive assets. The overall exposure to the beta portfolio was reduced. The spike in volatility at the start of 2018 led to a gradual de-risking of the fund. Towards the end of the period, a short position in global high yield bonds was purchased as a hedge against positions held elsewhere in the portfolio. The managers also took profits in a long position in the Malaysian ringgit, which performed well and introduced a new position that favours the Japanese yen over the Australian dollar. The managers also added a yield curve steepening trade on the US Treasury yield curve.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 727 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Asian US dollar investment grade bonds generated positive returns. Income returns were stable and credit spreads tightened modestly despite higher US Treasury yields. Risk sentiment towards the asset class turned positive in the first half of the period, as concerns around tensions in North Korea and uncertainty around the French election subsided. However, risk sentiment weakened in the later part of the period due to concerns over monetary/regulatory tightening in China, and a potential trade war between the US and China. At the country level, rating agencies Moody's and S&P downgraded China's sovereign credit rating to A1 from Aa3, highlighting the rising leverage in the economy. The market reaction to the downgrade was limited, as domestic investors, who dominate the market, had already priced in this much-anticipated move. On a positive note, China's GDP growth accelerated at 6.9% in financial year 2017, which was slightly above market expectations. Furthermore, rating agency Moody's upgraded India's sovereign rating to Baa2. Indonesia was upgraded to investment grade by both S&P and Fitch on the back of successful reforms and an improvement in its budget. US Treasury yields rose, as the US Federal Reserve raised interest rates and the economy experienced better than expected wage growth data.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Credit selection and term structure were the primary detractors from performance, while stable coupon income added value. At a sector level, the allocation to utility and property bonds held back performance, while capital goods holdings enhanced gains. At a credit level, the exposure to Heungkuk Life Insurance, China Minmetals and Minejesa Capital weighed on returns. These bonds were negatively impacted by wider credit spreads and a rise in US Treasury yields. However, losses were partially offset by an overweight exposure to Malaysian sovereign bonds. From a term structure perspective, the long duration (more sensitive to interest rate changes than the index) position detracted from performance as US Treasury yields rose.

The fund has an overweight duration and credit beta position versus the index. The portfolio manager looks to actively rotate within selected credit names as and when he finds attractive opportunities. The fund also retains a cash buffer for potential new issuance and liquidity purposes.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 4,325 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US dollar denominated Asian high yield bonds remained resilient and generated positive returns over the period, led by tighter credit spreads and higher coupon income. Risk sentiment towards the asset class turned positive after geopolitical tensions in North Korea and uncertainty around the French elections subsided. Strong first half results from most issuers further supported the asset class. However, risk sentiment weakened in the latter part of the review period, due to concerns over interest rate hikes in the US and a potential trade war between the US and China. At the country level, China's GDP growth accelerated at 6.9% in financial year 2017, which was slightly above market expectations. This marked China's first annual acceleration in growth in seven years, mainly led by fixed asset investments and a recovery in exports. India's GDP for the fourth quarter of 2017 surpassed estimates, due to strength in the services sector and a rebound in agriculture and manufacturing.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Credit selection and higher coupon income were the primary contributors to returns. On a sector level, the bias against the basic industry sector, in particular the underweight stance in Noble Group supported performance. The allocation to the communications sector, specifically the bias against Reliance Communication and GCX also enhanced relative gains. Conversely, the underweight stance in Mie Holdings in the energy sector detracted from relative returns. From a rating perspective, the exposure to unrated bonds added meaningful value. The underweight position in US dollar duration also buoyed performance given a rise in the US Treasury yield curve.

The fund has been selectively participating in new issues. It is defensively positioned, with a bias towards higher quality and strong conviction issuers. It has 10–15% market weight in short dated (<1year)/near-term callable bonds to ensure a robust liquidity profile and maintain high natural income. This also keeps overall volatility relatively low for the period ahead.

Asian Total Return Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 12 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Asian bonds generated positive returns, driven by credit spread tightening and stable coupon income. Risk sentiment towards US dollar denominated bonds turned positive in the first half of the period, as concerns around tensions in North Korea and uncertainty around the French election subsided. However, risk sentiment weakened in the later part of the review period, due to concerns over interest rate hikes in the US, monetary/regulatory tightening in China, as well as a potential trade war between the US and China. Offshore bonds benefited from a stronger renminbi, shrinking bond supply and stable funding rates. At the country level, rating agencies Moody's and S&P downgraded China's sovereign credit rating to A1 from Aa3, highlighting the rising leverage in the economy. The market reaction to the downgrade was limited, as domestic investors, who dominate the market, had already priced in this much-anticipated move. On a positive note, China's GDP growth accelerated at 6.9% in financial year 2017, which was slightly above market expectations. Furthermore, rating agency Moody's upgraded India's sovereign rating to Baa2. Indonesia was upgraded to investment grade by both S&P and Fitch on the back of successful reforms and an improvement in its budget.

The fund generated negative total returns over the period. Its term structure and credit allocation strategy were the biggest detractors from performance, while stable coupon income added value. The fund's US dollar duration position weighed on returns as US Treasury yields rose, led by the Federal Reserve's decision to raise interest rates. The allocation to US dollar Asian investment grade bonds also hampered performance. These bonds were negatively impacted by rising US Treasury yields, due to their higher duration position. The losses were partially offset by Chinese renminbi bonds. At a sector level, insurance and property held back gains, while quasi-sovereign bonds added value. Across the rating spectrum, the allocation to BB and below and BBB rated credits held back gains.

On the positioning front, the fund maintains an average investment grade rating and has a defensive stance. Currently, its asset allocation is split 8% in Chinese renminbi bonds and 87% in Asian investment grade bonds. While the investment team prefers investment grade securities, should fundamental and valuation views warrant it, the team will selectively add high yield exposure.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 93 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Chinese high yield bonds posted positive returns over the period, driven by higher coupon income. Credit spreads broadly widened over the year, due to concerns over monetary/regulatory tightening in China and a potential trade war between the US and China, as well as the strong supply of new issues. China's sovereign rating was downgraded from Aa3 to A1 in May 2017, but the impact on the Chinese dollar credit space was subdued. China's GDP growth accelerated at 6.9% in financial year 2017, which was slightly above market expectations. This marked China's first annual acceleration in growth in seven years, mainly led by fixed asset investments and a recovery in exports. Risk sentiment began to turn since February 2018, as pressure from strong offshore issuance and concerns over interest rate tightening in the US posed headwinds to the offshore Chinese credit market.

The fund generated positive returns over the period. Higher coupon income was the primary contributor to performance, while credit selection disappointed. The exposure to the property sector, particularly holdings in China Evergrande and China City Construction, supported returns. The holding in Yingde Gases in the basic industry sector also boosted performance. Conversely, the allocation to Wanda Properties International and Yuzhou Properties held back gains. The fund's US dollar duration position also detracted from performance as US Treasury yields rose. From a rating perspective, the exposure to some unrated and B rated bonds added meaningful value.

The fund continues to focus on credit quality and liquidity through fundamental analysis and careful credit selection. The manager remains committed to delivering a diversified portfolio with attractive income. The fund's US dollar duration exposure is 3.1 years and is biased towards the 1–5 year maturity period. In addition to its cash holding, the fund has 10–15% market weight in short dated (<1year)/near-term callable bonds to ensure a robust liquidity profile and maintain high natural income. This also keeps the fund's overall volatility relatively low.

China RMB Bond Fund <sup>4</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 177 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Offshore renminbi investment grade bonds (Dim Sum) generated positive absolute returns, led by tightening credit spreads and high coupon income. Offshore bonds benefited from a stronger renminbi, shrinking bond supply and stable funding rates. China's sovereign rating was downgraded from Aa3 to A1 in May 2017, but the market reaction to the move was subdued. In a key development, China's ruling Communist Party set the stage for President Xi Jinping to stay in office indefinitely, with a proposal to remove a constitutional clause limiting presidential service to just two terms in office. China's GDP growth accelerated at 6.9% in financial year 2017, which was slightly above market expectations. This marked China's first annual acceleration in growth in seven years, mainly led by fixed asset investments and a recovery in exports.

The fund generated positive returns during the review period, led by high coupon income. At a sector level, the allocation to the banks and brokers and energy sectors supported performance, while utility and insurance bonds held back gains. Looking at Dim Sum bonds, the exposure to Bank of China, one of the largest state-owned commercial banks in China, added value. It benefited from high coupon income and falling offshore yields on shorter dated bonds. The position in selected Chinese onshore bonds, particularly some high quality state-owned enterprises and government bonds, boosted returns as credit spreads tightened. In contrast, the allocation to US dollar denominated bonds hampered performance, as they were adversely impacted by rising US Treasury yields. From a rating perspective, holdings in some unrated and A rated bonds added value, while BBB and BB and below rated bonds detracted from returns.

The fund is invested in Dim Sum bonds, which continue to offer compelling risk-adjusted returns given their yield levels, relative quality and short duration. Longer dated onshore bonds also continue to offer value as they provide low correlation to developed market bonds. In addition, selected high-conviction China and China-related US dollar bonds are held for their attractive valuations.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : EUR 194 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European bonds posted mixed returns over the year, with corporate bonds outperforming government bonds. German bunds rallied in the first half of the period, but subsequently declined. The decline was driven by concerns over the impending reduction in quantitative easing and increased primary supply, which resulted in a rise in bond yields. Losses were limited as the threat of rising protectionism in the US and geopolitical uncertainty supported government bonds amid investors' flight to safety. This had a limited impact on credits, as investors' hunt for yield continued given improved corporate earnings and the global risk-on sentiment. However, following the economic recovery witnessed in the fourth quarter of 2017, the eurozone's economic momentum weakened notably in March. The composite Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) fell from 57.1 in February to 55.3 in March.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to credit selection. An overweight stance in financials was the largest contributor to returns, as the sector benefited from improved capital buffers and increased clarity on regulations. For instance, the exposure to Goldman Sachs and Morgan Stanley added value. In non-financials, the allocation to Wendel boosted returns as it reported good earnings. The fund's tactical position in euro duration (more sensitive to interest rate changes than the comparative index) during the latter half of the period also supported relative returns.

The recent widening of credit spreads has led the manager to increase risk and position the fund with a long credit beta (sensitivity to credit spreads). The fund retains a bias towards financials; new positions were purchased in Banco Santander and Nationwide. The manager took profits and reduced the exposure to peripheral bonds, such as Spanish and Italian government bonds, amid heightened political risks. In terms of the interest rate strategy, the manager reduced the fund's duration given low German bund yields, and will look to tactically add euro duration if it is available at attractive valuations.

Manager's Overview

Emerging market bonds posted positive returns over the period, with local currency bonds outperforming hard currency. Hard currency bond returns were negatively impacted by a rise in US Treasury yields. Within hard currency bonds, high yield bonds, supported by their shorter duration, outperformed investment grade bonds. Emerging market currencies generated mixed returns against the US dollar, with emerging European currencies occupying the top spot, led by the Czech koruna. However, the Argentinian peso weakened the most against the US dollar due to concerns over inflation. Meanwhile, a recovery in oil and commodity prices buoyed some of the commodity exporting emerging market economies. The market continues to assess the impact that higher yields will have on emerging market economies. Capital flows towards the asset class will require close monitoring, as they could become a meaningful driver for total returns.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Credit selection and higher coupon income were the key contributors to performance. On a sector level, the allocation to banks and brokers, specifically overweight positions in Credivalores and PTA Bank, added notable value. The exposure to the consumer cyclical sector, in particular, the overweight stance in Eldorado enhanced gains. Conversely, the bias against Petrobras in the energy sector and the overweight position in Minejasa Capital in the utility sector weighed on performance. Across the rating spectrum, the exposure to B rated bonds and underweight positions in unrated and BBB and above rated bonds contributed the most to returns. However, the allocation to BB rated bonds detracted from performance.

The fund maintains a flexible approach to its credit spread positioning and is currently has an overweight credit beta position. From a ratings perspective, the portfolio has a bias towards high yield bonds. The fund has an overweight US dollar duration position relative to the index, and is biased towards the 5–15 years maturity period.

Manager's Overview

Emerging market bonds posted positive returns over the period, with local currency bonds outperforming hard currency. A rise in US Treasury yields weighed on hard currency bond returns. Within hard currency bonds, high yield bonds, supported by their shorter duration position, outperformed investment grade bonds. Emerging market currencies generated mixed returns against the US dollar, with emerging European currencies occupying the top spot, led by the Czech koruna. However, the Argentinian peso weakened the most against the US dollar due to concerns over inflation. The market continues to assess the impact of higher yields on emerging market economies. Capital flows towards the asset class will require close monitoring, as they could become a meaningful driver for total returns.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. The overweight allocation to quasi-sovereign bonds of Venezuela (PDVSA) and sovereign bonds of Ecuador detracted from returns. On a positive note, the bias towards quasi-sovereign bonds of Azerbaijan (Southern Gas Corridor) added value. Positions in selected high yield corporates such as Metinvest and Stoneway Capital also enhanced gains. The allocation to Nigerian local rates, led by its coupon income, supported returns. Meanwhile, the US dollar duration position had a largely neutral impact on returns.

The fund maintains a flexible approach to its credit beta positioning and has an underweight allocation to credit risk versus the index. The portfolio is underweight in emerging market sovereigns and has a bias towards emerging market corporates. The fund currently has a small underweight US dollar duration position relative to the index. A modest allocation to emerging market currencies was also maintained.

Emerging Markets Inflation-linked Bond Fund <sup>4</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 80 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Emerging market bonds posted positive returns over the period, with local currency bonds outperforming hard currency. A rise in US Treasury yields weighed on hard currency bond returns. Within hard currency bonds, high yield bonds, supported by their shorter duration position, outperformed investment grade bonds. Emerging market currencies generated mixed returns against the US dollar, with emerging European currencies occupying the top spot, led by the Czech koruna. However, the Argentinian peso weakened the most against the US dollar due to concerns over inflation. Meanwhile, a recovery in oil and commodity prices buoyed some of the commodity exporting emerging market economies. Fundamentals in the region appear positive. The market continues to assess the impact of higher yields on emerging market economies. Capital flows towards the asset class will require close monitoring, as they could become a meaningful driver for total returns.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. The long positions in Brazilian and Russian real duration generated positive returns in local currency terms. However, the weakening of the Brazilian real and Russian rouble hampered performance. The exposure to five-year Chilean breakevens added value, as breakevens widened. The short duration position in US Treasury futures also supported performance as yields rose over the period.

The fund's long real duration position was maintained. The fund has an overweight allocation to Brazilian and Russian real duration, and a position in five-year Chilean breakevens. The short US nominal duration position, which is implemented through short positions in US Treasury futures, was maintained.

Manager's Overview

European bonds posted mixed returns over the year, with corporate bonds outperforming government bonds. German bunds rallied in the first half of the period, but subsequently declined. The decline was driven by concerns over the impending reduction in quantitative easing and increased primary supply, which resulted in a rise in bond yields. Losses were limited as the threat of rising protectionism in the US and geopolitical uncertainty supported government bonds amid investors' flight to safety. This had a limited impact on credits, as investors' hunt for yield continued given improved corporate earnings and the global risk-on sentiment. However, following the economic recovery witnessed in the fourth quarter of 2017, the eurozone's economic momentum weakened notably in March. The Composite Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) fell from 57.1 in February to 55.3 in March.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to credit selection. An overweight stance in financials was the largest contributor to returns, as the sector benefited from improved capital buffers and increased clarity on regulations. For instance, the exposure to Goldman Sachs and UniCredit added value. In non-financials, the allocation to Wendel boosted returns as it reported good earnings. The fund's tactical position in euro duration (more sensitive to interest rate changes than the comparative index) during the latter half of the period also supported relative returns.

The recent widening of credit spreads has led the manager to increase risk and position the fund with a long credit beta (sensitivity to credit spreads). The fund retains the bias towards financials; new positions were purchased in UniCredit and Nationwide. The manager took profits and reduced the exposure to peripheral bonds, such as Spanish and Italian government bonds, amid heightened political risks. In terms of the interest rate strategy, the manager reduced the fund's duration given low German bund yields, and will look to tactically add euro duration if it is available at attractive valuations.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : EUR 3,396 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European bonds posted mixed returns over the year, with corporate bonds outperforming government bonds. German bunds rallied in the first half of the period, but subsequently declined. The decline was driven by concerns over the impending reduction in quantitative easing and increased primary supply, which resulted in a rise in bond yields. Losses were limited as the threat of rising protectionism in the US and geopolitical uncertainty supported government bonds amid investors' flight to safety. This had a limited impact on credits, as investors' hunt for yield continued given improved corporate earnings and the global risk-on sentiment. However, following the economic recovery witnessed in the fourth quarter of 2017, the eurozone's economic momentum weakened notably in March. The composite Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) fell from 57.1 in February to 55.3 in March.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to credit selection. An underweight position in Russian aluminium giant Rusal Capital was the top contributor to returns as its bonds fell after the US imposed sanctions against Russia. Credit selection in financials, including holdings in Caixa Geral de Depósitos and International Personal Finance also added value. However, gains were limited by an underweight stance in the energy sector, as these credits staged a comeback following the rise in oil prices.

Despite the recent weakness in European high yield bonds, the managers believe the asset class is likely to see more headwinds in the near future. Increased volatility and rising core government bond yields may weigh on high yield bonds. Although the weakness in macroeconomic data is likely to support the asset class, historically, these bonds perform well during slow and steady GDP growth. As a result, the fund's positioning remains balanced, with marginally long credit beta (sensitivity to credit spreads). The managers reduced the exposure to the communications sector by selling holdings in Play Topco and WIND Telecomunicazioni. Meanwhile, the allocation to the capital goods sector was increased by purchasing positions in Paprec Holding and Ashtead Capital.

Flexible Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : GBP 304 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted mixed returns over the review period, characterised by a change in the monetary policy regime from quantitative easing to quantitative tightening. Led by US Treasuries, sovereign bond yields rose as global macroeconomic data continued to improve, indicating sustained growth momentum. In the US, yields on 10-year US Treasuries touched 3% for the first time since 2014, signalling the confidence in economic expansion. The moves in US debt rippled out into other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds and UK government bonds (Gilt) edging higher over the period. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded another period of robust performance as credit spreads tightened amid strong demand for yield, subsiding geopolitical tensions and solid corporate earnings.

The fund posted negative absolute returns over the period. The interest rate risk positioning was the primary detractor from performance as core government bond yields rose. The fund's holding in iTraxx crossover credit default swaps, to reduce credit risk in the portfolio, also held back gains. However, credit positioning contributed to returns as credit spreads tightened. The fund's exposure to a mix of sectors, including financials, communications and utilities added significant value. Specifically, holdings in EDF, AT&T and Tesco were the top contributors to performance at the issuer level.

The managers looked for opportunities to reduce the portfolio's credit beta (a measure of sensitivity to credit spreads), given their reluctance to skew the balance of risk towards credit at this stage of the cycle. They retain their preference for investment grade over high yield bonds, and for defensive over higher beta sectors. The managers' long-term structural views on interest rates remain unchanged. However, the fund's duration position was reduced to historical lows in the first quarter of 2018, mainly via a reduction in US dollar and sterling duration. This move was partially reversed by adding back US dollar duration towards the end of the period.

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted mixed returns over the period, amid the transition of the global monetary policy regime from quantitative easing to quantitative tightening. The US Federal Reserve raised interest rates three times over the period. US Treasuries posted losses due to bouts of volatility, driven by the lack of clarity on US tax reforms, concerns around widening twin deficit and higher inflation. The moves in US debt rippled out into other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds and UK government bonds (Gilts) edging higher over the period. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded another period of robust performance amid strong demand for yields, subsiding geopolitical tensions and solid corporate earnings.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. An overweight position in Canadian dollar duration (sensitivity to interest rate changes) detracted from performance as Canadian government bonds posted losses. The Bank of Canada raised interest rates in January, with yields reaching new highs. These losses were offset by an underweight stance in euro duration, as German bunds posted negative returns over the period. An underweight stance in corporate bonds also hampered relative performance. The fund's hedging strategy, via the purchase of index credit default swaps weighed on returns as credit spreads tightened. However, favourable security selection in financials, particularly holdings in Bank of America and Barclays added notable value.

The fund currently maintains a short duration position. While the fund has small long duration positions in the Canadian dollar, US dollar and Norwegian krone, this is offset by short duration positions in the Japanese yen, Polish zloty and the euro. In credit markets, the fund maintains a cautious stance on corporate bonds as valuations appear increasingly stretched. The manager focuses on high conviction credits with solid fundamentals. At the sector level, the manager participated in several new issues, including CVS Health Corporation and Wells Fargo in the consumer non-cyclical and financials sectors, respectively.

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted mixed returns over the period, amid the transition of the global monetary policy regime from quantitative easing to quantitative tightening. The US Federal Reserve raised interest rates three times over the period. US Treasuries posted losses due to bouts of volatility, driven by the lack of clarity on US tax reforms, concerns around widening twin deficit and higher inflation. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded another period of robust performance amid strong demand for yields, subsiding geopolitical tensions and solid corporate earnings.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Credit selection was the key driver of returns. In particular, holdings in the financials sector, such as Royal Bank of Scotland and Sumitomo Mitsui Financial Group supported performance as risk assets rallied amid an improving economic backdrop. In the energy sector, the position in HollyFrontier was the top contributor to returns. The basic industry and utility sectors also added value, as did securitised bond holdings. Conversely, the fund's hedging strategy, via the purchase of index credit default swaps, detracted from performance. At the sector level, the lack of exposure to telecommunications held back gains.

The fund's credit beta (sensitivity to changes in credit risk) position was increased over the period by raising the small conviction exposure to high yield credits. The manager focusses on regulated sectors such as banks, and raised the exposure to this area, mainly through issues such as ING Groep and Royal Bank of Scotland. The fund is biased towards utilities, reflecting long dated names such as EDF. Meanwhile, the fund's underweight position in the communications sector was increased by selling the holding in Time Warner. The fund moved from an overweight stance to a neutral position in the energy sector.

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted mixed returns over the period, amid the transition of the global monetary policy regime from quantitative easing to quantitative tightening. US Treasuries posted losses as there were bouts of volatility due to the lack of clarity on US tax reforms, concerns around widening twin deficit and higher inflation. The yield on 10-year US Treasuries touched 3% for the first time since 2014, signalling confidence in economic expansion. The moves in US debt rippled out into other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds and UK government bonds (Gilts) edging higher. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded another period of strong performance as credit spreads tightened amid strong demand for yields, subsiding geopolitical tensions and strong corporate earnings.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the period. The portfolio's defensive positioning, specifically an underweight stance in BB rated securities, held back performance. For instance, an underweight holding in Telecom Italia and the lack of exposure to Royal Bank of Scotland were among the top detractors from relative returns. However, these losses were partially offset by an overweight position in US credits such as Sprint and APX Group, which added value.

A favourable macroeconomic backdrop, along with low default rates should remain supportive for high yield assets. However, risk is increasing in some sectors such as US retail and telecommunications, with spreads providing little support. Valuations are a cause for concern; despite the recent sell-off, high yield bonds continue to look expensive. Against this backdrop, the managers maintained a broadly neutral credit beta position (a measure of the fund's sensitivity to credit spreads) versus the comparative index. Risk has been tactically reduced by using index credit default swaps. The exposure to single-B rated credits was lowered, while the cash buffer was increased to capitalise on future opportunities.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 97 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted mixed returns over the period, amid the transition of the global monetary policy regime from quantitative easing to quantitative tightening. US Treasuries posted losses as there were bouts of volatility due to the lack of clarity on US tax reforms, concerns around widening twin deficit and higher inflation. The yield on 10-year US Treasuries touched 3% for the first time since 2014, signalling confidence in economic expansion. The moves in US debt rippled out into other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds and UK government bonds (Gilts) edging higher. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded another period of strong performance, as credit spreads tightened amid strong demand for yields, subsiding geopolitical tensions and strong corporate earnings.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the period. Hybrid bonds rallied, with contingent convertibles (CoCo) outperforming corporate hybrids. Against this backdrop, the bias against CoCos weighed on relative returns. An underweight stance and security selection in insurance corporate hybrid bonds also detracted from relative performance. However, the exposure to senior banking credits helped to offset these losses.

Despite the recent sell-off in hybrid bonds due to geopolitical concerns, volatility from core government bond yields and the risk-off environment, the managers remain cautious from a valuations perspective. The managers are cautious on newly issued additional tier-1 (AT1) bonds and look for a higher quality bias through holdings in HSBC, ABN Amro and Sumitomo. The exposure to insurance credits was further reduced and holdings in Crédit Agricole Assurances and ELM BV (a special purpose entity for Swiss Life and Pension Group) were sold.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 294 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted mixed returns over the period, amid the transition of the global monetary policy regime from quantitative easing to quantitative tightening. The US Federal Reserve raised interest rates three times over the period. US Treasuries posted losses due to bouts of volatility, driven by the lack of clarity on US tax reforms, concerns around widening twin deficit and higher inflation. The moves in US debt rippled out into other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds and UK government bonds (Gilts) edging higher over the period. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded another period of robust performance amid strong demand for yields, subsiding geopolitical tensions and solid corporate earnings.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the period. Adverse security selection in consumer non-cyclical names such as Fresh Market weighed on returns as its credit rating was reduced after its operating performance came in below expectations. The fund's small exposure to hedging strategy, via a long position in index credit default swaps also hampered performance as credit spreads tightened. On a positive note, favourable security selection in the utility sector added value. The position in FirstEnergy Transmission was the top contributor to returns. Elsewhere, the small exposure to US dollar duration weighed on performance.

The manager retained the exposure to inflation-linked bonds. The fund has long real duration positions in the US dollar and New Zealand dollar, as fiscal stimulus and a tight labour market are likely to drive key inflation measures higher in the near term. Moreover, given the broad economic growth, the manager prefers to invest in sectors such as consumers, telecommunications and financials, which stand to benefit from reflation. The manager continues to take a more defensive approach by adding investment grade credit exposure, as credit spreads have tightened significantly in the past one year.

Global Inflation-linked Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 1,435 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Inflation-linked bonds outperformed their nominal counterparts, especially in the US and Europe. The continued growth momentum in the global economy, the US tax reform approved by Congress and firmer oil prices supported inflation expectations and inflation breakevens in both the US and Europe widened over the year. While government bonds were adversely impacted by the transition in the monetary policy regime from quantitative easing to quantitative tightening, the impact on inflation-linked bonds was acute, mainly in the US and Europe. Meanwhile, UK inflation-linked bonds underperformed nominal bonds as inflation breakevens reduced over the period, reaching the bottom of their trading ranges. Inflationary effects post the UK's decision to exit the European Union have peaked. Inflation is likely to gradually fade, after rising to 3.1% in November 2017, the highest level in nearly six years.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. The overall long real duration position (more sensitive to real interest rate changes than the index) detracted from performance, as yields on inflation-linked bonds edged higher over the year. In particular, the long US dollar and sterling real duration positions hampered returns. Moreover, the fund's recent long breakeven position in sterling weighed on performance as inflation breakevens reduced. However, losses were partially offset by long breakeven positions in the US dollar, as inflation breakevens continued to widen. The manager moved to a neutral breakeven position later in the period.

Over the year, the fund moved from a short to a long breakeven position in sterling. The manager believes that the UK inflation-linked market is now offering better value given long breakeven positions. Currently, the fund has a long real duration position with an overweight real duration exposure to the US dollar and sterling. The manager also maintains moderate exposure to high-quality investment grade corporate bonds.

Global Short Duration Income Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 187 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted mixed returns over the period, amid the transition of the global monetary policy regime from quantitative easing to quantitative tightening. The US Federal Reserve raised interest rates three times over the period. US Treasuries posted losses due to bouts of volatility, driven by the lack of clarity on US tax reforms, concerns around a widening twin deficit and higher inflation. The moves in US debt rippled out into other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds and UK government bonds (Gilts) edging higher over the period. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded another period of robust performance, amid strong demand for yields, subsiding geopolitical tensions and solid corporate earnings.

To address the asset decline and changing client demand, Fidelity Funds - Global High Grade Income was repurposed to a short duration income fund and its name was changed to Fidelity Funds - Global Short Duration Income Fund. Prior to its repurpose, the fund held 100% of its assets in high quality low duration government bond issues. However, the repurposed fund combines a strategic mix of credit assets optimised to deliver attractive income over time, with satellite allocations offering the flexibility to adapt to changing market environments. The fund posted negative returns over the period since its repurpose in December 2017. The fund's interest rate position detracted from performance, as short-term yields rose on the back of tighter monetary policies by global central banks. Adverse security selection in the consumer non-cyclical sector held back gains. For instance, the allocation to Yestar Healthcare Holdings Company weighed on returns. On a positive note, the exposure to corporate bonds added value as credit spreads tightened.

The manager retained the exposure to inflation-linked bonds. The fund has marginally long real duration positions in the euro and US dollar, as fiscal stimulus and a tight labour market are likely to drive key inflation measures higher in the near term. Moreover, given the broad economic growth, the manager prefers to invest in sectors such as consumers, telecommunications and financials, which stand to benefit from reflation. The manager continues to take a more defensive approach by adding investment grade credit exposure, as credit spreads have tightened significantly.

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted mixed returns over the period, amid the transition of the global monetary policy regime from quantitative easing to quantitative tightening. The US Federal Reserve raised interest rates three times over the period. US Treasuries posted losses due to bouts of volatility, driven by the lack of clarity on US tax reforms, concerns around widening twin deficit and higher inflation. The moves in US debt rippled out into other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds and UK government bonds (Gilts) edging higher over the period. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded another period of robust performance amid strong demand for yields, subsiding geopolitical tensions and solid corporate earnings.

The fund posted positive returns over the period. The fund's short duration holding in the Canadian dollar supported relative performance. Credit exposure also aided returns as credit spreads tightened across major regions. Conversely, the fund's duration (sensitivity to interest rate changes) position was the key detractor from performance. US dollar, euro and sterling duration positions hampered returns, as government bonds posted losses over the period. Moreover, the overall long real duration position weighed on returns, as yields on inflation-linked bonds edged higher over the year.

The manager reduced the fund's credit risk, especially via longer-dated investment grade sterling bonds. The fund's inflation exposure was also reduced, as the manager moved from inflation-linked to nominal government bonds. The allocation to Canadian dollar, US dollar and euro real duration was sold. However, with risks tilted to the upside, given rising commodity prices and positive wage data, the neutral stance in inflation breakevens, especially in the US, is tactical, as the manager waits for better valuations to emerge.

US Dollar Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 841 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US corporate bonds outperformed government bonds amid the transition of the global monetary policy regime from quantitative easing to quantitative tightening. The US Federal Reserve (Fed) raised interest rates three times over the period and experienced a smooth handover in leadership. New Fed Chairperson Jerome Powell's testimony to Congress portrayed confidence in the US growth story. There were bouts of volatility over the period, due to lack of clarity on US tax reforms, concerns around widening twin deficit and higher inflation. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded another period of robust performance, amid strong demands for yield and solid corporate earnings.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to its interest rate strategy. In particular, the exposure to specific points on the US Treasuries yield curve proved detrimental to returns. The small allocation to Canadian dollar duration also held back gains as yields rose. The fund's hedging strategy, through the purchase of index credit default swaps (CDS) protection, weighed on returns as credit spreads tightened. However, these losses were partially offset by holdings in Volkswagen and Citigroup. Meanwhile, the fund's high-conviction exposure to high yield credits such as New Field Exploration and Ashland added value as risk assets rallied.

The fund increased its overall long duration position. With the US Fed raising interest rates three times over the period, core global yields were skewed higher. This offered attractive entry points into 'dollar block' markets. Therefore, the fund moved to an overweight position in the US dollar and Canadian dollar from a broadly neutral stance at the beginning of the year. The manager moved to an underweight stance in credit, as valuations appear increasingly stretched. At the sector level, the manager decreased the overweight exposure to the banking sector by selling the holding in Bank of America. In the consumer cyclical sector, the exposure to Volkswagen and Dollar Tree was reduced.

US High Yield Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 3,843 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted mixed returns over the period, amid the transition of the global monetary policy regime from quantitative easing to quantitative tightening. US Treasuries posted losses as there were bouts of volatility due to the lack of clarity on US tax reforms, concerns around widening twin deficit and higher inflation. The yield on 10-year US Treasuries touched 3% for the first time since 2014, signalling confidence in economic expansion. The moves in US debt rippled out into other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds and UK government bonds (Gilts) edging higher. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded another period of strong performance, as credit spreads tightened amid strong demand for yields, subsiding geopolitical tensions and strong corporate earnings.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period. Security selection in utilities was the top contributor to returns. The position in TXU boosted performance as the credit recovered. Issuer selection in the energy sector, such as positions in California Resources and Chesapeake Energy also added value. However, gains were limited as the exposure to some high conviction credits in the healthcare sector held back performance. For instance, holdings in Allergan and Teva Pharmaceutical weighed on returns.

Fundamentals for high yield bonds remain strong despite continued volatility in equity markets, which trickled into other asset classes, including bonds. Robust macroeconomic developments in the US, combined with lower default rates over the next two years, offer a positive backdrop for high yield bonds. However, valuations look expensive given lower margin of safety and a rising interest rate outlook. As a result, security selection will be key to driving returns. From a sector perspective, the fund is overweight in financials and utilities. The manager is also positive on the outlook for the energy sector, though these bonds appear expensive. The largest underweights are in the technology and communications sectors.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : EUR 53 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted mixed returns over the period, amid the transition of the global monetary policy regime from quantitative easing to quantitative tightening. The US Federal Reserve (Fed) raised interest rates three times over the period. US Treasuries posted losses due to bouts of volatility, driven by the lack of clarity on US tax reforms, concerns around widening twin deficit and higher inflation. The moves in US debt rippled out into other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds and UK government bonds (Gilts) edging higher over the period. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded another period of robust performance amid strong demand for yields, subsiding geopolitical tensions and solid corporate earnings.

The fund posted positive returns over the period. A focus on issuers that deliver attractive yields relative to their inherent risk added value as coupon income supported performance. Positions in MNC Corporation and Lansing Trade Group were among the largest contributors to coupon returns. The fund's credit strategy also aided performance as credit spreads tightened over the period. At the sector level, the allocation to financials added notable value as risk assets rallied. Holdings in First Abu Dhabi Bank and VTB Bank enhanced gains. This was partially offset by adverse security selection in credits, such as the holding in telecommunication giant Global Cloud Xchange (GCX).

The fund's overall exposure to developed market corporates was reduced. The allocation to riskier areas of the market was also lowered by selectively reducing holdings in banking names. Given the cautious outlook on growth and the possibility of a deterioration in corporate credit quality, the manager maintained a preference for investment grade bonds over high yield bonds. The allocation to high yield bonds stood at approximately 21%. In terms of sectors, the portfolio remained well diversified, with the largest holdings in the banks, consumers, basic industries and communications sectors.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : AUD 125 MILLION

Manager's Overview

The Reserve Bank of Australia kept the benchmark interest rate unchanged at 1.5% at its April policy meeting, as it expects wage growth and inflation to remain low for some time to come. Unemployment stands at 5.6% in April 2018, above the 5% estimate that would spur faster wage growth and higher inflation. Meanwhile, in the first quarter of 2018, inflation was just below the bottom of the central bank's 2–3% target range.

The fund's relatively long weighted average maturity (WAM) was maintained in order to pick up incremental yield from the term premium. Yield pick-up was the main driver of returns as the fund's credit risk was kept to a minimum. The manager holds a large portion of the portfolio in highly liquid securities in accordance with the key aim of maintaining liquidity and capital preservation. At the end of the review period, the fund's WAM stood at 42 days.

The portfolio strategy remains conservative. The focus on credit quality is high, with exposure to issuers rated Aa3 or higher at 58.9%. The portfolio is also well diversified across regions. Issuers in the fund are domiciled in Australia, core eurozone countries, the UK and Japan. A high level of liquidity is maintained, with 24.3% of net assets maturing in 7 days or less.

Manager's Overview

Macroeconomic data in the eurozone continued to improve, indicating sustained growth momentum in the region. Business activity continued to expand, albeit at a modest pace. The region's flash composite Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) held steady at 55.2 in April 2018, well above the five-year average of 53.8. While momentum was driven by an increase in manufacturing activity, the rate of factory output growth slowed to a 17-month low. The region's flash manufacturing PMI fell to 56.0 in April 2018 from the previous month's reading of 56.6, but remained well above the critical 50 level. Notably, the rate of employment growth accelerated, with the service sector registering the fastest job creation over the decade. However, underlying inflation has not shown a convincing upturn, and remained below the European Central Bank's target of 2.0%.

The fund prioritised security of capital and a strong liquidity profile along with yield enhancement, while adhering to its strict credit quality guidelines. The manager holds a large portion of the portfolio in highly liquid securities, in accordance with the key aim of maintaining liquidity and capital preservation. At the end of the review period, the weighted average maturity (WAM) stood at 34 days.

The portfolio strategy remains conservative. The focus on credit quality remains high, with exposure to issuers rated Aa3 or higher at 29.3%. The portfolio is also well diversified across regions; issuers in the fund are domiciled in core eurozone countries, the UK, the US and Japan. A high level of liquidity is maintained, with approximately 20.2% of net assets maturing in 7 days or less.

Manager's Overview

News flow from the central bank dominated headlines in the UK. The Bank of England (BoE) raised interest rates in November 2017 for the first time since 2007 by a quarter of a percentage point to 0.5%, citing a broadly resilient economy and reduced tolerance to inflation. At the March 2018 meeting, though, the BoE defied expectations and kept interest rates on hold, but indicated the possibility of a rate hike in May 2018. However, the recent string of economic data releases showed a bigger than expected fall in inflation, disappointing wage growth figures and a sharp weather-related drop in retail sales, thus raising doubts about an interest rate rise in May. Despite the central bank's tightening bias, longer dated UK government bond (Gilt) yields remained anchored and the yield curve flattened. Overall, the UK economy continued to exhibit positive momentum, with both the service and manufacturing Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) in positive territory. The UK's negotiations to exit the European Union also dominated headlines, with the two moving closer to a withdrawal and transition deal.

The fund prioritised security of capital and a strong liquidity profile along with yield enhancement, while adhering to its strict credit quality guidelines. The manager holds a large portion of the portfolio in highly liquid securities, in accordance with the key aim of maintaining liquidity and capital preservation. At the end of the review period, the fund's weighted average maturity (WAM) stood at 23 days.

The portfolio strategy remains conservative. The focus on credit quality is high, with exposure to issuers rated Aa3 or higher at 36.2%. The portfolio is also well diversified across regions. Issuers in the fund are domiciled in core eurozone countries, the UK and Japan. A high level of liquidity is maintained, with 17.2% of net assets maturing in 7 days or less.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 1,265 MILLION

Manager's Overview

On the macroeconomic front, the US economy slowed in the first quarter of 2018, with GDP coming in at 2.3%, compared to 2.9% in the previous quarter. This was largely due to weak consumer spending, which grew at its slowest pace in nearly five years. However, these are short-term concerns. Core personal consumption expenditure, the US Federal Reserve's preferred measure of inflation, rose to 1.9% in the 12 months through March, very close to its target of 2.0%. The US consumer sentiment index fell in April 2018, mainly due to concerns over the potential impact that President Donald Trump's trade policies would have on the domestic economy. The Institute for Supply Management's manufacturing index fell to 57.3 in April from 59.3 in March, due to weakness in new orders, production and employment. Nonetheless, the underlying economic activity continues to gain momentum.

The fund prioritised security of capital and a strong liquidity profile along with yield enhancement, while adhering to its strict credit quality guidelines. The manager holds a large portion of the portfolio in highly liquid securities in accordance with the key aim of maintaining liquidity and capital preservation. At the end of the review period, the fund's weighted average maturity (WAM) stood at 40 days.

The portfolio strategy remains conservative. The focus on credit quality remains high, with the exposure to issuers rated Aa3 or higher at 48.1%. The portfolio is also well diversified across regions. Issuers in the fund are domiciled in core eurozone countries, the UK and Japan. A high level of liquidity is maintained, with 35.2% of net assets maturing in 7 days or less.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 23 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose strongly and outperformed bonds over the year under review. Markets were supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. However, equities corrected sharply towards the end of the period as higher US wage growth data spurred fears over a rise in inflation and faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve. In fixed income markets, US Treasuries fell due concerns around widening twin deficit and higher inflation. This impacted UK and German government bond markets as well. Given continued growth in the eurozone economy, the European Central Bank dropped its long-standing pledge to increase its bond buying programme and kept its interest rates unchanged.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, as UK equities weighed on returns. In particular, the allocation to a UK dividend distribution strategy detracted from performance. A US large-cap strategy that leverages the stock picking expertise of Fidelity further weighed on returns. Here, security selection in the information technology and industrials sectors held back gains. Losses were mitigated by strategies that invest in European small-cap stocks. Additionally, a large-cap Japanese strategy contributed to performance on the back of positive security selection in the industrials sector. Strong strategy selection in UK fixed income supported returns. An overweight stance in financials also added notable value. The bias towards Lloyds Banking Group, Zurich Insurance and Society of Lloyd's enhanced gains, as did the passive exposure to commodities.

The fund follows a monthly migration path towards the final portfolio, which will consist of 100% cash at the end of 2020. The exposure to global market neutral equities was increased for diversification in light of rising volatility. The allocation to UK fixed income securities was also raised.

Fidelity Target™ 2015 (Euro) Fund <sup>4</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : EUR 35 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global bonds and short-term cash instruments declined in euro terms over the year under review. The US Federal Reserve raised interest rates three times over the period. US Treasuries posted losses as there were bouts of volatility due to the lack of clarity on US tax reforms, concerns around widening twin deficit and higher inflation. The moves in US debt impacted other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds and UK government bonds (Gilts) edging higher. Given continued growth in the eurozone economy, the European Central Bank (ECB) dropped its long-standing pledge to increase its bond buying programme and shifted its debate to the expected path of interest rate increases. However, at its recent meeting in April, the ECB kept its interest rates unchanged.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period. Positive credit selection in financials supported returns as the sector rallied amid a positive macroeconomic backdrop and improving sector fundamentals. The allocation to Lloyds Banking Group and American Express were among the top contributors to performance.

The fund has rolled down to 100% cash as of the end of December 2015 and will stay invested in cash and cash equivalents. The fund remains fully invested in cash and highly liquid short-term bonds.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : EUR 159 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose strongly and outperformed bonds over the year under review. Markets were supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. However, equities corrected sharply towards the end of the period as higher US wage growth data spurred fears over a rise in inflation and faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve. In fixed income markets, US Treasuries fell due concerns around widening twin deficit and higher inflation. This impacted UK and German government bond markets as well. Given continued growth in the eurozone economy, the European Central Bank dropped its long-standing pledge to increase its bond buying programme and kept its interest rates unchanged.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to the equities segment. US equities weighed on returns. In particular, the allocation to a US value strategy detracted from performance as the style remained out of favour. A US core strategy that leverages the stock picking expertise of Fidelity also hampered returns. Here, an underweight allocation to and stock picking in the consumer discretionary and industrials sectors held back gains. Losses were mitigated by strategies that invest in European small-cap stocks and emerging markets. The exposure to equities in Japan and Pacific ex Japan also added value. The allocation to cash also contributed to returns. Strong strategy selection in fixed income supported performance. The underlying funds' positive credit selection in financials via credits such as Goldman Sachs and Rabobank aided performance. The underlying strategy's tactical positioning in euro duration also added value.

The fund follows a dynamic asset allocation model, which will consist of 100% cash at maturity. The monthly migration path towards the final portfolio is set to have an increasing exposure to bonds and cash, and a decreasing weight in equities over time until maturity. In line with this, the allocation to equities was reduced, while the exposure to bonds was increased.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to US equities. In particular, the allocation to a US value strategy detracted from returns as the style remained out of favour. A US core strategy that leverages the stock picking expertise of Fidelity further weighed on performance. Here, an underweight allocation to and stock picking in the consumer discretionary and industrials sectors held back gains. However, the exposure to a US growth strategy contributed to returns. Losses were further mitigated by strategies that invest in European small-cap stocks. The exposure to Japan also added value. All underlying strategies within emerging markets and Pacific ex Japan boosted performance.

The fund follows a dynamic asset allocation model, which will consist of 100% cash at maturity. The monthly migration path towards the final portfolio is set to have an increasing exposure to bonds and cash, and a decreasing weight in equities over time until maturity. In line with the dynamic asset allocation model, the portfolio remains fully invested in equities.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose strongly and outperformed bonds over the year under review. Markets were supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. However, equities corrected sharply towards the end of the period as higher US wage growth data spurred fears over a rise in inflation and faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve. In fixed income markets, US Treasuries fell due concerns around widening twin deficit and higher inflation. This impacted UK and German government bond markets as well. Given continued growth in the eurozone economy, the European Central Bank dropped its long-standing pledge to increase its bond buying programme and kept its interest rates unchanged.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to the liquid assets segment. Within the equity segment, the allocation to a US value strategy detracted from performance as the style remained out of favour. However, strategy selection in the fixed income segment added value. The underlying strategy's positive credit selection in financials, via credits such as Goldman Sachs and Rabobank supported returns. Tactical positioning in euro duration also added value.

The fund follows a dynamic asset allocation model. The monthly migration path towards the final portfolio is set to have an increasing exposure to bonds and cash, and a decreasing weight in equities over time until maturity. In line with this, the majority of the fund's assets are invested in cash and highly liquid short-term bonds. The fund retains a marginal allocation to bonds and equities.

However, the allocation to US dollar bonds detracted from returns compared to global investment grade credits. Valuations appeared expensive as there was very little cushion to compensate investors for the rising volatility in US Treasuries amid expectations of faster interest rate hikes. Additionally, flows towards US dollar denominated assets from international investors have been negatively impacted by the rising cost of hedging.

The fund follows a dynamic asset allocation model. The monthly migration path towards the final portfolio is set to have an increasing exposure to bonds and cash and a decreasing weight in equities over time until maturity. In line with this, the allocation to equities was reduced, while the exposure to bonds was increased.

The fund follows a dynamic asset allocation model. The monthly migration path towards the final portfolio is set to have an increasing exposure to bonds and cash and a decreasing weight in equities over time until maturity. In line with this, the allocation to equities was reduced, while the exposure to bonds was increased.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose strongly over the year. Markets were supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. However, equities corrected sharply towards the end of the period as higher US wage growth data sparked fears over a rise in inflation and faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve (Fed). Moreover, the imposition of import tariffs by the US government spurred concerns about the possibility of trade wars. Meanwhile, the European Central Bank continued to emphasise its gradual withdrawal of policy support.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Within the equity segment, the allocation to a US value strategy was the primary detractor from performance as the investment style remained out of favour. However, returns were supported by strategies that invest in European small-cap stocks. Within emerging markets, strong security selection in financials and consumer discretionary sectors added value. All underlying strategies in Japan and Pacific ex Japan also supported performance.

The fund follows a dynamic asset allocation model. The monthly migration path towards the final portfolio is set to have an increasing exposure to bonds and cash and a decreasing weight in equities over time until maturity. In line with the dynamic asset allocation model, the portfolio remains fully invested in equities.

Manager's Overview

Asia ex Japan equities gained over the year as healthy global economic data boosted sentiment. However, fears over faster interest rate hikes in the US and a potential trade war between the US and China led to volatility. From a regional perspective, Chinese and Hong Kong equities advanced. Economic stabilisation and progress towards structural reforms in China supported sentiment. Expectations of easing geopolitical tensions on the Korean peninsula buoyed South Korean stocks. Indian equities also gained, aided by a rebound in the pace of economic growth. At a sector level, healthcare and information technology (IT) led gains. Energy and materials stocks also tracked commodity prices higher.

The fund generated positive returns over the year. Selected Chinese companies boosted performance. Investors favoured internet-led companies Alibaba Group Holding ADR and Tencent Holdings for their strong growth prospects. Additionally, smartphone camera component maker Sunny Optical Technology and dairy products company China Mengniu Dairy enhanced gains, aided by their healthy earnings updates. In Thailand, shares in energy company PTT rose in line with crude oil prices. Conversely, the holding in diesel engine manufacturer Cummins India weighed on returns on the back of weak earnings. The position in India's Punjab National Bank also slid following the detection of a debt fraud. The lender is held as the government's recapitalisation plan for state-owned banks should help it to clean its books and get it back to a normalised growth trajectory.

The fund is focused on companies in three categories – restructuring candidates where the manager finds catalysts for an improvement in returns; those that have global technology, scale or cost leadership; and strong franchises that benefit from long-term structural drivers. For instance, India's HDFC Bank (demat.) has an excellent management team, strong franchise, low funding costs and robust asset quality. Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing is a global foundry leader, both in terms of technology and scale, and has strong pricing power.

Manager's Overview

US equities rose over the review period. Stocks were supported by the passage of the Republican tax reform bill, robust economic data and strong corporate earnings. Towards the end of the period, investor sentiment was slightly dampened due to concerns over a trade war between the US and China. During the period, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased its benchmark interest rate three times by a total of 0.75%; interest rates now range between 1.50% and 1.75%. The latest hike was at its March 2018 meeting under Jerome Powell, who took over as the new Fed chairperson in February 2018. The central bank is expected to continue with its gradual interest rate hike policy, and has indicated two more rate increases of 0.25 percentage points each in 2018.

The fund delivered positive returns over the year. The holding in Amazon.com advanced on the back of its strong annual sales. The exposure to educational technology company 2U enhanced gains, driven by growth in its graduate programme business as well as its short courses division. However, the position in medical device manufacturer Boston Scientific detracted from performance due to a delay in the launch of its heart-valve replacement product, Lotus Edge.

The manager's approach tends to be more value-oriented than growth-oriented. The emphasis is on high-return businesses with sustainable, long-term advantages. Expensive, aggressive-growth companies with weaker characteristics are avoided. A key theme in manager's approach is mean reversion. The manager believes with enough research, one can find compelling opportunities to buy - or avoid - individual stocks whose prices may be well out of line with their historical trends.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 6 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Emerging market equities rose over the period, driven by stabilising economic growth in China. Interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve (Fed) in June and December last year and March this year were well-received by markets. This gradual tightening signalled the Fed's confidence in the strength of the US economy, which is a key export market for developing countries. However, concerns over a trade war between the US and China negatively impacted sentiment. In Latin America, Brazilian markets rose. Investors found relief in President Michel Temer's plans to improve government finances through labour and pension reforms. However, for the time being, pension reforms cannot be passed in parliament due to military intervention in Rio De Janeiro.

The fund generated positive returns over the period on account of stock selection in the financials and consumer discretionary sectors. Among the latter, the holding in private education provider Estacio Participacoes rose, driven by the strong performance of its distance learning business and price increases. Within healthcare, shares in CSPC Pharmaceutical Group advanced on the back of the strong performance of its 'innovative drug' business, which includes its best-selling medicine NBP. However, the exposure to British American Tobacco fell as it reported subdued half-yearly results.

The fund has key positions in India and Brazil. While the former is benefiting from economic reforms and rising incomes, the latter presents attractive investment ideas based on strong domestic consumption. In Brazil, President Michel Temer is expected to implement reforms. Overall, the manager prefers a bottom-up stock picking approach on the basis of fundamental drivers such as market position, pricing power and valuations.

Manager's Overview

US equities rose over the review period. Stocks were supported by the passage of the Republican tax reform bill, robust economic data and strong corporate earnings. Towards the end of the period, investor sentiment was slightly dampened due to concerns over a trade war between the US and China. At a sector level, information technology, financials and consumer discretionary outperformed, while consumer staples and telecommunication services stocks came under pressure. During the period, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased its benchmark interest rate three times by a total of 0.75%; interest rates now range between 1.50% and 1.75%. The latest hike was at its March 2018 meeting under Jerome Powell, who took over as the new Fed chairperson in February 2018. The central bank is expected to continue with its gradual interest rate hike policy, and has indicated two more rate increases of 0.25 percentage points each in 2018.

The fund generated strong absolute returns over the year. Positions in the technology sector, such as Alphabet (A), Facebook and Apple, were the most prominent contributors to performance during the period. In consumer discretionary, the large holding in online retailer Amazon.com added notable value. Its shares rose largely due to its sustained dominance in the core e-commerce and cloud markets. The position in Adobe Systems, a developer of publishing software, also boosted returns. It topped estimates for its quarterly revenue and earnings, and raised financial guidance for the second quarter, citing market optimism for the continued growth of its Creative Cloud platform and strength in its Digital Experience segment.

The equity market rewarded growth in 2017. Growth stocks continued to outpace their value-oriented peers, as accumulating uncertainties and risks drove volatility up and prices down in the first quarter of 2018. In this environment, the allocation to leading growth companies in technology was maintained. The manager will track the stock market for any signs of fundamental weakness and will adjust the fund's positioning should any weakness arise. At the end of the period, the fund's largest weighting remains in the technology sector.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 3 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the 12-month period, supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. Volatility spiked in early 2018, as investors anticipated faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve (Fed) following higher US wage growth data. The imposition of import tariffs by the US government also sparked concerns about the possibility of trade wars. These concerns, however, eased towards the end of the period as fears over trade frictions between the US and China receded. The US Fed continued on a gradual interest rate hike path, while the European Central Bank favoured an accommodative monetary policy stance. Elsewhere, uncertainty about the UK's negotiations with the European Union over the terms of its exit continued.

The fund delivered positive returns over the year. Financials stocks such as JPMorgan Chase & Co and Bank of America Corporation were among the top contributors to performance, aided by expense discipline and rising interest rates in the US. Cisco Systems also added value, supported by the product cycle in its 'switching' business and plans to return US$31 billion in share buy-backs over the next two years. Conversely, shares in General Electric slid due to a dividend cut, concerns around cash flows and a prolonged outlook for weak earnings, largely attributable to its energy and power businesses.

The manager continued to look for attractively valued companies with strong competitive positions and good earnings growth prospects. The manager remains extremely disciplined about sticking to his price target for stocks. In terms of managing risk, the portfolio tends to include a lot of names, as this helps to limit the potential negative impact from any one holding. The manager sees a challenging environment for the fund in the near term. It will be necessary to carefully consider the trade-offs between value and quality as interest rates rise and monetary policy is tightened. Although it can be tough for investors to navigate through turbulent markets, the best approach is to stick to a discipline in all types of markets.

Manager's Overview

European equities ended in positive territory over a volatile year. Markets started the period on a strong note following favourable French election results. However, volatility increased at the start of the third quarter of 2017 due to rising geopolitical tensions. Markets subsequently rebounded on the back of the European Central Bank's continued accommodative monetary policy stance, strong corporate earnings, US tax reforms and sustained global economic growth. Equities declined at the start of 2018 due to rising bond yields, trade war concerns between the US and China, and the uncertain political environment in Italy. Subsequently, equities recovered partially in April, driven by subsiding geopolitical tensions and strong corporate earnings.

The fund generated positive returns over the year primarily due to the robust performance of selected consumer discretionary, energy and financials holdings. Luxury goods conglomerate Kering was the largest contributor to returns buoyed by strong quarterly results. In energy, positions in Royal Dutch Shell and BP rallied tracking crude oil prices higher. Within financials, the position in DNB added value on the back of a share buyback programme and strong oil prices. Positions in Wolters Kluwer, Amadeus IT Holding and Just Eat also performed well. Conversely, selected positions in healthcare (Roche Holding and Sanofi), consumer staples (British American Tobacco) and industrials (Siemens) weighed on performance.

The manager positions the fund with balanced exposure to macroeconomic factors and expects stock selection to drive returns. During the year, the manager increased the position in industrials as a new holding was purchased in Meggitt and the exposure to Siemens was increased significantly. A new position was purchased in health diagnostics company Siemens Healthineers via its initial public offering in March. Some profits were taken in strong performers, including Smith & Nephew and Royal Dutch Shell.

Global equities rose strongly over the year. Markets were supported by synchronised and broadening global growth. However, equities corrected sharply towards the end of the period as higher US wage growth data sparked fears over a rise in inflation and faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve (Fed). Moreover, the imposition of import tariffs by the US government spurred concerns about the possibility of trade wars. Meanwhile, the European Central Bank continued to emphasise its gradual withdrawal of policy support.

The fund generated positive returns over the year, driven by all equity regions. In the US, the largest segment of the portfolio, underlying positions in the information technology and financials sectors supported performance. An underlying strategy that invests in European small-cap companies further contributed to returns, while a mid and small-cap growth strategy in Japan performed particularly well. An income strategy in Pacific ex Japan added value, as did the fund's discretionary exposure to global strategies. Within global strategies, the underlying financial services equity strategy and a strategy that invests in the highest conviction ideas of Fidelity's research analysts supported performance.

Over the period, the smart beta exposure to the US healthcare sector was sold in favour of a US value strategy. A new position that provides exposure to the energy sector was purchased. The manager gradually decreased the passive US allocation and added to US managers who have struggled, as a meaningful reversal in relative performance is expected in this area.

At a sector level, information technology, financials and consumer discretionary outperformed, while consumer staples and telecommunication services stocks came under pressure. During the period, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased its benchmark interest rate three times by a total of 0.75%; interest rates now range between 1.50% and 1.75%. The latest hike was at its March 2018 meeting under Jerome Powell, who took over as the new Fed chairperson in February 2018. The central bank is expected to continue with its gradual interest rate hike policy, and has indicated two more rate increases of 0.25 percentage points each in 2018.

The fund generated positive absolute returns over the year. Bank of America, JPMorgan Chase & Co and Citigroup were among the top contributors to performance. All three of these large banks benefited from higher interest rates, which tend to create more profitable lending conditions. They were also among the fund's largest holdings. The allocation to technology company Microsoft, which has seen significant growth in its cloud services, added notable value. On the downside, the position in industrial conglomerate General Electric detracted from returns amid concerns about its earnings growth in the near term. However, the manager sees good turnaround potential and an attractive yield.

The fund has significant exposure to the financials sector, especially banks. This stance reflects the manager's view that the earnings power of many companies in the sector has been undervalued by the market. The manager sees this as a particularly challenging time for investors who must weigh multiple concerns. Interest rates are rising amid inflationary pressure, and stock valuations are relatively high. With these and other cross-currents, the manager will look for stocks that provide good risk/reward trade-offs.

Manager's Overview

Asian equities rose over the year. Chinese stocks gained amid a pick-up in economic growth and progress towards structural reforms. Japanese equities received support from upbeat corporate earnings and a steady flow of positive economic data. South Korean stocks advanced due to easing geopolitical tensions on the Korean peninsula.

The fund delivered strong returns over the year, led by improving profitability prospects for selected holdings. Optical inspection specialist Koh Young Technology's results exceeded estimates, while the contribution from its new products improved its future earnings visibility. The exposure to bellwether Chinese technology companies Alibaba Group Holding ADR and Tencent Holdings added value. Investor sentiment towards these stocks remained upbeat, particularly during 2017, amid healthy earnings growth and optimism about their underlying business prospects. Among Japanese holdings, property investment platform and management company Tateru and Universal Entertainment boosted returns. The former's strong technology platform supported its solid full-year earnings and guidance. The latter's improving balance sheet position and the turnaround in its Okada Manila casino operations attracted investor interest. Conversely, Tiga Pilar Sejahtera Food's decision to divest its rice business following the imposition of a cap on rice prices in Indonesia hurt its shares.

The manager focuses on companies with good long-term growth prospects that are cash generative and have strong management teams. Universal Entertainment is a key holding given an improvement in the growth prospects for its casino business, as well as its strengthening financial position. SoftBank Group's strong management and superior execution skills support its promising investments in technology companies globally. Hutchison China MedTech, a Chinese drug innovator focused on oncology and immunology, has an encouraging product pipeline and strong drug-specific partnerships with global healthcare leaders.

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted mixed returns over the period, amid the transition of the global monetary policy regime from quantitative easing to quantitative tightening. The US Federal Reserve (Fed) raised interest rates three times over the period. US Treasuries posted losses due to bouts of volatility, driven by the lack of clarity on US tax reforms, concerns around widening twin deficit and higher inflation. The moves in US debt rippled out into other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds and UK government bonds (Gilts) edging higher over the period. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded another period of robust performance amid strong demand for yields, subsiding geopolitical tensions and solid corporate earnings.

The fund posted positive returns over the period. A focus on issuers that deliver attractive yields relative to their inherent risk was the key contributor to performance as coupon income added value. The position in MNC Corporation was among the largest contributors to coupon returns. Elsewhere, the exposure to investment grade bonds enhanced gains as credit spreads tightened. However, adverse security selection in credits weighed on returns. The allocation to consumer non-cyclical name Allergan was the top detractor from performance at the issuer level. Its earnings came under pressure due to the unfavourable federal court decision on patent protection for its blockbuster eye drug Restasis.

The fund's overall exposure to developed market corporates was reduced. The allocation to riskier areas of the market was also lowered by selectively reducing holdings in banking names. Given the cautious outlook on growth and the possibility of a deterioration in corporate credit quality, the manager maintained a preference for investment grade bonds over high yield bonds. The allocation to high yield bonds stood at approximately 20%. In terms of sectors, the portfolio remains well diversified, with the largest holdings in the banks, basic industries and communications sectors.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 3 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US corporate bonds outperformed government bonds amid the transition of the global monetary policy regime from quantitative easing to quantitative tightening. The US Federal Reserve (Fed) raised interest rates three times over the period and experienced a smooth handover in leadership. New Fed Chairperson Jerome Powell's testimony to Congress portrayed confidence in the US growth story. There were bouts of volatility over the period, due to lack of clarity on US tax reforms, concerns around widening twin deficit and higher inflation. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded another period of robust performance, amid strong demand for yields and solid corporate earnings.

The fund generated positive returns over the year, largely due to its credit selection strategy. In particular, holdings in Banco Sabadell and Citigroup added value as the financials sector benefited from improved capital buffers and increased clarity on regulations. The high-conviction exposure to high yield credits such as New Field Exploration and Ashland added notable value as risk assets rallied. However, these gains were partially offset by the fund's interest rate strategy. The exposure to specific points on the US Treasuries yield curve proved detrimental to returns. The allocation to Canadian dollar duration also held back gains as yields rose.

The fund increased its overall long duration position. With the US Fed raising interest rates three times over the period, core global yields were skewed higher. This offered attractive entry points into 'dollar block' markets. Therefore, the fund increased the position in the US dollar and Canadian dollar. The manager reduced the exposure to credit, as valuations appear increasingly stretched. At the sector level, the manager decreased the allocation to the banking sector by selling the holding in Bank of America. In the consumer cyclical sector, the exposure to Volkswagen and Dollar Tree was reduced.

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted mixed returns over the period, amid the transition of the global monetary policy regime from quantitative easing to quantitative tightening. US Treasuries posted losses as there were bouts of volatility due to the lack of clarity on US tax reforms, concerns around widening twin deficit and higher inflation. The yield on 10-year US Treasuries touched 3% for the first time since 2014, signalling confidence in economic expansion. The moves in US debt rippled out into other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds and UK government bonds (Gilts) edging higher. Meanwhile, credit markets recorded another period of strong performance, as credit spreads tightened amid strong demand for yields, subsiding geopolitical tensions and strong corporate earnings.

The fund generated positive returns over the period. Security selection in utilities was the top contributor to returns. The position in TXU boosted performance as the credit recovered. Issuer selection in the energy sector, such as positions in California Resources and Chesapeake Energy also added value. However, gains were limited as the exposure to some high conviction credits in the healthcare sector held back performance. For instance, holdings in Allergan and Teva Pharmaceutical weighed on returns.

Fundamentals for high yield bonds remain strong despite continued volatility in equity markets, which trickled into other asset classes, including bonds. Robust macroeconomic developments in the US, combined with lower default rates over the next two years, offer a positive backdrop for high yield bonds. However, valuations look expensive given lower margin of safety and a rising interest rate outlook. As a result, security selection will be key to driving returns. From a sector perspective, the fund has a preference for financials and utilities. The manager is also positive on the outlook for the energy sector, though these bonds appear expensive. The manager avoids the technology and communications sectors.

Institutional Asia Pacific (ex-Japan) Fund <sup>4</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 4 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities rose over the period as healthy global economic data boosted sentiment. From a regional perspective, Chinese equities ended higher. Economic stabilisation and progress towards structural reforms in China supported sentiment. Expectations of easing geopolitical tensions on the Korean peninsula buoyed South Korean markets. From a sector perspective, healthcare and information technology (IT) led gains. Energy and materials stocks also tracked commodity prices higher. In contrast, industrials and telecommunication services providers lagged the broader market.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Selected industrials and consumer discretionary holdings detracted from performance. The position in diamond processing machinery manufacturer Sarine Technologies fell amid competitive concerns arising from the violation of its copyrights and patents in India. Despite the challenges, Sarine Technologies remains well positioned in the long term, given its technological advantage and strong demand for its core products. Australian department store chain Myer Holdings declined against the backdrop of challenging retail trading conditions. The underperformance was partially offset by strong stock picking in the financials sectors. The holding in Ping An Insurance Group (H) rose, buoyed by strong profit growth at its life and health segments.

The fund is focussed on quality companies with strong cashflows, excellent management and sustainable competitive advantages. Overall, the portfolio is positioned to benefit from rising income and consumption, as well as from a structural change in consumption and lifestyle patterns in Asia. The fund is overweight in consumer and IT stocks. The manager found new opportunities in the IT sector. For instance, a new position was purchased in e-commerce company Alibaba Group Holding ADR and the exposure to Tencent Holdings was increased. Both these companies are expected to be long-term winners in the growing online ecosystem. Conversely, certain industrials positions, including SK Holdings, Keppel and Singapore Post, were sold.

Institutional Emerging Markets Equity Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 717 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Emerging market equities rose over the period, driven by stabilising economic growth in China. Interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve (Fed) in June and December last year and March this year were well-received by markets. This gradual tightening signalled the Fed's confidence in the strength of the US economy, which is a key export market for developing countries. However, concerns over a trade war between the US and China negatively impacted sentiment. In Latin America, Brazilian markets rose. Investors found relief in President Michel Temer's plans to improve government finances through labour and pension reforms. However, for the time being, pension reforms cannot be passed in parliament due to military intervention in Rio De Janeiro.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period, driven by stock selection in the financials, industrials and consumer discretionary sectors. However, information technology holdings detracted from performance. At a country level, Chinese positions added value. Within financials, the exposure to insurer AIA Group supported returns on the back of rising insurance demand in countries such as China. In the consumer staples sector, the allocation to dairy company Inner Mongolia Yili Industrial Group advanced. Its shares rose on robust annual revenues and expectations of structural growth in demand for dairy products in China. However, the position in Steinhoff International Holdings declined due to 'accounting irregularities'.

The vast consumer base in the developing world is supportive for consumer-related businesses across a range of segments. As a result, the fund is overweight in the consumer discretionary sector. For instance, the manager holds South African internet conglomerate Naspers, which has many internet businesses in countries such as China and Russia. Within consumer staples, China Mengniu Dairy and Inner Mongolia Yili Industrial Group are key positions. Elsewhere, India's HDFC Bank (demat.) has a strong track record and is likely to benefit from government reforms.

Institutional Euro Blue Chip Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : EUR 40 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities ended the period in positive territory. Markets started on a strong note; however, rising geopolitical tensions led to periods of volatility. Encouraging macroeconomic data, strong corporate earnings and the European Central Bank's accommodative monetary policy supported equities.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year as sector allocation detracted from returns. Within consumer discretionary, the position in Inditex weighed on performance after it lowered earnings expectations for the fourth quarter. Elsewhere, the lack of exposure to automobiles held back gains as the sector rallied. In industrials, the holding in aerospace company Leonardo hurt returns as it issued a profit warning despite reporting in line revenues, due to weakness in the helicopter market and execution issues. At a stock level, holdings in Iliad, Roche Holding and SAP posted negative returns. On a positive note, stock picking in the information technology (IT) and financials sector added value. Within IT, Amadeus IT Holding advanced after it signed two significant deals in the third quarter. At a stock level, Royal Dutch Shell (NL) added notable value, boosted by a recovery in oil prices.

The fund's investment approach has evolved. It has transitioned to an analyst-driven portfolio of the best ideas, which is overseen by an advisory team consisting of portfolio managers and the head of risk for Europe. A portfolio of the top 30 eurozone analyst ideas has been constructed, utilising an optimiser to size positions to maximise expected returns, while limiting factor exposures to target specific risk as the primary contributor to tracking error. Industrials is now the largest overweight sector, with key holdings in International Consolidated Airlines and Royal BAM Group. Conversely, the fund is significantly underweight in consumer discretionary, with automaker Renault as the only position in the sector.

Institutional European Larger Companies Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : EUR 69 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities ended in positive territory over a volatile year. Markets started the period on a strong note following favourable French election results. However, volatility increased at the start of the third quarter of 2017 due to rising geopolitical tensions. Markets subsequently rebounded on the back of the European Central Bank's continued accommodative monetary policy stance, strong corporate earnings, US tax reforms and sustained global economic growth. Equities declined at the start of 2018 due to rising bond yields, trade war concerns between the US and China, and the uncertain political environment in Italy. Subsequently, equities recovered partially in April, driven by subsiding geopolitical tensions and strong corporate earnings.

The fund underperformed the comparative index due to unfavourable sector allocation. Healthcare was the largest detractor from returns, as positions in Shire, Roche Holding and Sanofi held back gains. The underweight allocation to materials hurt relative performance as the sector rallied in line with commodity prices. Within industrials, Siemens weighed on returns as its shares fell after it reported weaker than expected third quarter results. At a stock level, British American Tobacco and John Wood Group were the largest detractors from performance. On a positive note, stock picking in consumer discretionary boosted returns. The holding in luxury goods conglomerate Kering added value following the release of strong quarterly results. At a stock level, positions in Royal Dutch Shell, Wolters Kluwer, DNB and Amadeus IT Holding performed well.

The manager positions the fund with balanced exposure to macroeconomic factors and expects stock selection to drive returns. During the year, the manager moved to an overweight position in industrials from an underweight stance as a new holding was purchased in Meggitt and the exposure to Siemens was increased significantly. A new position was purchased in health diagnostics company Siemens Healthineers via its initial public offering in March. Some profits were taken in strong performers, including Smith & Nephew and Royal Dutch Shell.

Manager's Overview

European smaller companies outperformed their larger peers over the year. Markets started on a strong note; however, rising geopolitical tensions led to periods of volatility. Encouraging macroeconomic data, strong corporate earnings and the European Central Bank's accommodative monetary policy supported equities. Markets fell at the start of 2018 due to rising bond yields and fears over a US-led trade conflict. Subsequently, receding geopolitical tensions and strong corporate earnings boosted equities in April.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, driven by its positioning in the industrials and information technology sectors. Holdings in consumer discretionary and telecommunication services stocks also buoyed returns. Low-cost gym operator Basic-Fit, which benefited from continued strong underlying performance, added notable value. Online luxury retailer Yoox Net-A-Porter Group advanced following a bid from Compagnie Financière Richemont, which already owns a stake in the company. Selected healthcare companies also contributed to performance. Shares in Ablynx benefited from Sanofi's successful bid to acquire the company at double its share price. Gains were partially offset by the position in Ion Beam Applications; its shares slid following a profit warning in January. The weaker performance of energy and materials companies also weighed on returns.

The fund has a quality growth bias and is focussed on identifying well-managed, cash-generative companies that have clear market leadership positions, a sustainable competitive advantage and strong sales and profit growth. Among the key transactions, a new holding was purchased in sports goods retailer XXL. The company benefits from a dominant market position across the Nordic region and has a rapidly growing online business. The managers also participated in the initial public offering of specialist distribution company B&S Group. It has a strong track record of growth and cash conversion, in addition to a long history of successfully integrated acquisitions, including JTG Holding and Topbrands. Elsewhere, profits were taken in Ablynx and Yoox Net-A-Porter Group.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 172 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the review period. Optimism towards a sustained recovery in global economic growth, the smooth passage of the tax reform bill in the US and strengthening corporate data across markets supported stocks. However, the last few months were characterised by a spike in market volatility. Higher US wage growth led to fears of faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve, while the increase in import tariffs by the US government sparked concerns about the possibility of trade wars.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, driven by robust stock selection and market positioning. Certain consumer discretionary holdings performed well on the back of positive news flow. UK online grocery firm Ocado Group continues to transform itself into a provider of retail technology solutions. It is developing the most advanced and economic end-to-end online grocery platform for its own retail operations as well as for third party retailers around the globe. Indian restaurant company Jubilant FoodWorks is witnessing higher same store sales and better cost management. The position in music streaming services provider Spotify Technology, which has an attractive subscription-based business model, also added value. Conversely, weak earnings results weighed on the performance of certain holdings. Consumer products company Newell Brands posted third-quarter earnings that fell short of consensus estimates, due to disappointing organic revenue growth and margins. Edgewell Personal Care underperformed on challenging fourth quarter results, due to a slowdown in its private label shaving business volumes in a heightened competitive environment.

Given ongoing concerns regarding protectionist trade policies and the likelihood of central banks tightening their monetary policies, the manager continues to increase the exposure to high-conviction holdings. In particular, companies with sustainable pricing power, unique assets and dominant market share in key markets that have the ability to deliver strong earnings will prove to be the key differentiators.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the review period. Optimism towards a sustained recovery in global economic growth, the smooth passage of the tax reform bill in the US and strengthening corporate data across markets supported stocks. However, the last few months were characterised by a spike in market volatility. Higher US wage growth led to fears of faster interest rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve, while the increase in import tariffs by the US government sparked concerns about the possibility of trade wars.

The fund outperformed the comparative index during the period. The underweight stance in the defensive telecommunication services and consumer staples sectors, which lagged the broader market, added value. Security selection in the financials sector also proved rewarding, as certain holdings benefited from improving fundamentals and positive news flow. At a portfolio level, the exposure to Southern Copper, which is among the lowest cost tier-1 copper producers and has an attractive production growth pipeline, was among the top contributors to performance. Selected energy sector holdings, including China Petroleum & Chemical (H), ConocoPhillips and Royal Dutch Shell (UK) gained on higher crude oil prices. Conversely, an underweight stance in the consumer discretionary sector held back relative gains. Elsewhere, the relative overweight in the healthcare sector weighed on returns on the back of disappointing results.

The manager focuses on ensuring that the portfolio is suitably allocated between sectors. The manager believes that a bottom-up security selection approach is meaningful in the prevailing backdrop, and will complement the stock picking of the sector portfolio managers with additional positions, where appropriate.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : JPY 13,247 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Japanese equities rose over the year, driven by upbeat corporate earnings and a steady flow of positive economic data. Hopes of positive policy measures following Prime Minister Shinzo Abe's landslide victory in October's snap election and the reappointment of Haruhiko Kuroda as the Bank of Japan Governor for a second term supported sentiment. However, concerns about global trade friction stemming from protectionist moves in the US and a strong yen, which attracted buying interest as a safe haven currency during the volatile first quarter of 2018, diminished risk sentiment. In terms of style, growth companies outperformed value stocks, while smaller companies performed better than their larger peers. From a sector perspective, technology, energy and consumer staples were among the leading performers. Conversely, telecommunication services, utilities and financials recorded negative returns.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Strong stock selection in the industrials and information technology (IT) sectors was the primary contributor to returns. At a stock level, precision motor maker Nidec added notable value, supported by strong profit growth from its automotive and industrial motors businesses. The position in Shimadzu, a precision equipment company, also contributed to returns. It raised its full-year earnings guidance to reflect strong sales of its analytical/measuring instruments. A positive outlook for earnings supported the holding in Otsuka Corp. The system integration company announced solid annual results and forecasts amid strong domestic demand for IT services.

The manager remains overweight in the machinery, electric appliances and semiconductor sectors, and underweight in automobiles and expensive defensive sectors. The exposure to sectors with strong growth prospects, such as technology, was increased. However, the manager took profits in strong performers and reduced the allocation to financials given diminished interest rate expectations in Japan.

Institutional European High Yield Fund <sup>4</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : EUR 40 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European bonds posted mixed returns over the year, with corporate bonds outperforming government bonds. German bunds rallied in the first half of the period, but subsequently declined. The decline was driven by concerns over the impending reduction in quantitative easing and increased primary supply, which resulted in a rise in bond yields. Losses were limited as the threat of rising protectionism in the US and geopolitical uncertainty supported government bonds amid investors' flight to safety. This had a limited impact on credits, as investors' hunt for yield continued given improved corporate earnings and the global risk-on sentiment. However, following the economic recovery witnessed in the fourth quarter of 2017, the eurozone's economic momentum weakened notably in March. The composite Purchase Manager Index (PMI) fell from 57.1 in February to 55.3 in March.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to credit selection. Security selection in financials, including holdings in Caixa Geral de Depósitos and Intesa Sanpaolo contributed to returns. In non-financials, credit selection in consumer cyclicals via positions in Verisure Midholding and Ladbroke's Group (acquired by GVC Holdings) added value. However, gains were limited by an underweight stance in Fiat Chrysler Finance, which was the largest detractor from an issuer standpoint.

Despite the recent weakness in European high yield bonds, we believe the asset class is likely to see more headwinds in the near future. Increased volatility and rising core government bond yields may weigh on high yield bonds. Although the recent weakness in macroeconomic data is likely to support the asset class, historically, these bonds perform well during slow and steady GDP growth. As a result, the fund's positioning remains balanced, with neutral credit beta (sensitivity to credit spreads). The managers reduced the exposure to the communications sector by selling the holding in Cellnex Telecom. Meanwhile, the allocation to the capital goods sector was increased by adding a new position in Paprec Holding.

Institutional US High Yield Fund <sup>1,3,4,5</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2018 : USD 35 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted mixed returns over the period, amid the transition of the global monetary policy regime from quantitative easing to quantitative tightening. US Treasuries posted losses as there were bouts of volatility due to the lack of clarity on US tax reforms, concerns around widening twin deficit and higher inflation. The yield on 10-year US Treasuries touched 3% for the first time since 2014, signalling confidence in economic expansion. The moves in US debt rippled out into other bond markets as well, with yields on German bunds edging higher. Meanwhile, corporate bonds fell amid investors' lack of appetite for risk despite an improvement in both earnings and the macroeconomic outlook. However, improved oil prices supported energy credits.

The fund performed in line with the comparative index over the period since launch. Energy credits performed well amid improving oil prices and an overweight exposure to the sector boosted performance. Positive credit selection in consumer credits such as Kindred Healthcare also contributed to returns. However, the bias against communication credits such as Qwest Corp and Dish DBS Corp held back performance.

Fundamentals for high yield bonds remain strong despite continued volatility in equity markets, which trickled into other asset classes, including bonds. Robust macroeconomic developments in the US, combined with lower default rates over the next two years, offer a positive backdrop for high yield bonds. However, valuations look expensive given lower margin of safety and a rising interest rate outlook. As a result, security selection will be key to driving returns. From a sector perspective, the fund is overweight in utilities while the largest underweights are in the communications and consumer cyclical sectors.
