Investment strategy
ODDO BHF Génération is a European equity fund of all market caps that seeks to invest mainly in companies with stable and sustainable shareholdings (often family-owned companies). It aims to be permanently invested in equities, targeting long-term capital growth. The fund follows a pure stock-picking strategy based on fundamental analysis and individual stock valuation to find attractively priced stocks with regard to their long-term prospects. The fund takes strict ESG criteria into account during its investment process, based on the ODDO BHF AM proprietary analysis model.

Portfolio manager comment

After the European equity indices slumped by 7% in October, depressed by a new wave of COVID-19 in the West, November saw historic rises for equities sparked by the announcement of positive clinical trial results for the three vaccine candidates with efficacy ratings of up to more than 90%. Given the seriousness of the health crisis, the current state of emergency requires that approval authorities give the green light to vaccines as soon as possible without imposing the usual observation periods. The hope of seeing vaccination campaigns begin in the coming weeks and gather pace in H1 2021 makes it possible to envisage herd immunity and a return to semi-normal life by next summer.

On a political and economic level, investors are also keen to imagine an optimistic scenario. Joe Biden and his administration will be more mainstream than Donald Trump. This new administration will be able to roll out a new stimulus plan quickly from the start of next year. In Europe, the recovery fund will eventually be implemented despite being delayed by the veto from Hungary and Poland. Finally, the Fed and the ECB continued to ensure a healthy flow of cash in the economy and that the rate of public borrowing is not a drag on public finances.

In Europe, the MSCI EMU NR soared by 17.1% over the month. With the exception of health care and food, all sectors posted rises in excess of 10%. Like in October, stocks with low multiples far outstripped growth stocks with high valuation multiples. Banking and energy topped the leader board, with bonds above 30%.

In this context, Oddo BHF Génération underperformed relative to its benchmark. The best performers over the month were Plastic Omnium (automotive), Santander (Spain, banking), Sixt (Germany, car rental), Aperam (Luxembourg, stainless steel), Barco (Belgium, technology), Inditex (Spain, retail), ALTEN (outsourced R&D), Peugeot (automotive), SPIE (France, services), H&M (Sweden, retail), Sopra (IT services), AB InBev (Belgium, beer), ASM International (Netherlands, semiconductors) and LVMH (France, luxury goods). At the other end of the spectrum, the fund was hit by the decline in Just Eat Takeaway (Netherlands, home delivery), Cellnex (Spain, telecoms), Eurofins Scientific (testing), Roche (Switzerland, health care), SoftwareONE (Switzerland, software), Ipsen (health care), Merck (Germany, health care), Ubisoft (video games), Ericsson (Sweden, technology), Fresenius Medical Care (Germany, health care), Grifols (Spain, health care), Teleperformance (call centres) and Dassault Systèmes (software).

In terms of portfolio changes, we scaled back our holdings in Volkswagen (Germany, automotive), Fresenius Medical Care (Germany, health care), Bouygues (construction & telecoms), Michelin (automotive) and Bolloré (holding company) to strengthen our investments in BMW (Germany, automotive), Santander (Spain, banking), Essilor (eyewear), SAP (Germany, software), Andritz (Austria, capital goods), Ubisoft (video games) and Cellnex (Spain, telecoms).

We are keeping the portfolio's overall ESG rating above that of the reference universe.
