Important information

This simplified prospectus contains key information in relation to the Sub-Fund. If you would like more information before you invest, please consult the most recent full prospectus (the "Full Prospectus"). Unless defined in this document, defined terms shall bear the same meaning as in the Full Prospectus. For details about the Sub-Fund's holdings, please see the most recent report.

HSBC Global Investment Funds – BRIC Equity* (hereinafter the "Sub-Fund") is a sub-fund of HSBC Global Investment Funds (hereinafter the "Company"). The Company is a Luxembourg investment company with multiple compartments organised as a "société anonyme" incorporated on 21 November 1986.

The Company exists for an unlimited period and qualifies as an undertaking for collective investment in transferable securities under Part I of the Luxembourg law of 20 December 2002 on undertakings for collective investment, as amended (the "2002 Law").

The rights and duties of the investor as well as the legal relationship with the Company are laid down in the Full Prospectus. The Full Prospectus and the periodical reports may be obtained, free of charge, from the Company.

What does the Sub-Fund invest in?

Investment objective

The Sub-Fund seeks long-term returns from capital growth and income by investing primarily in a concentrated portfolio of investments in equity and equity equivalent securities of companies which have their registered office in, and with an official listing on a major stock exchange or other Regulated Market in Brazil, Russia, India and China (including Hong Kong SAR) ("BRIC") as well as those companies with significant operations or carrying out a preponderant part of their business activities in these countries provided that investments in securities dealt in on the Russian market other than those recognised by the Luxembourg regulator as Regulated Markets are subject to the 10% limit set forth in restriction 1. a) of Appendix 3 "General Investment Restrictions" of the Full Prospectus. These companies will be those that at the time of purchase have their registered office in, and with an official listing on a major stock exchange or other Regulated Market of a BRIC country, as well as those companies which carry out a preponderant part of their business activities in any of the BRIC countries.

Whilst there are no capitalisation restrictions, it is anticipated that the Sub-Fund will seek to invest across a range of capitalisations.

The portfolio will be actively managed, aiming to achieve total returns to investors without reference to market index weightings.

Who should invest in the Sub-Fund?

Profile of the typical investor

The Sub-Fund (being in the Dynamic category) is suitable for investors with a long term investment horizon. The Sub-Fund is intended to provide additional exposure for more experienced investors within a portfolio where a high proportion of the assets may be invested in Emerging Markets and smaller capitalisation securities, which may restrict liquidity and increase the volatility of return.

To determine if the Sub-Fund is suitable, it is recommended that the investor consult a stockbroker, bank manager, solicitor, accountant, representative bank or other financial adviser.

What are the risks of investing in the Sub-Fund?

Risk Profile

Investment in the Sub-Fund carries with it a degree of risk, but not limited to, those referred to below. Potential investors should review the Full Prospectus in its entirety and have a clear picture of the Sub-Fund prior to a decision to invest. There can be no assurance that the Sub-Fund will achieve its investment objectives and past performance should not be seen as a guide to future returns.

Stock risk

The Sub-Fund is exposed to equity markets for all or part of its total assets. The value of these assets can therefore rise or fall and investors may not get back all of their investment.

Foreign exchange risk

The Sub-Fund is exposed to foreign exchange risk for all or part of its total assets. The underlying assets may be denominated in a currency other than the dealing currency. The value of these assets may rise or fall in line with movements in the relevant exchange rates.

▪ Emerging Markets

Because of the special risks associated with investing in Emerging Markets, the Sub-Fund investing in such securities should be considered speculative. Investors in the Sub-Fund are advised to consider carefully the special risks of investing in Emerging Market securities. Economies in Emerging Markets generally are heavily dependent upon international trade and, accordingly, have been and may continue to be affected adversely by trade barriers, exchange controls, managed adjustments in relative currency values and other protectionist measures imposed or negotiated by the countries with which they trade. These economies also have been and may continue to be affected adversely by economic conditions in the countries in which they trade.

Brokerage commissions, custodial services and other costs relating to investment in Emerging Markets generally are more expensive than those relating to investment in more developed markets. Lack of adequate custodial systems in some markets may prevent investment in a given country or may require the Sub-Fund to accept greater custodial risks in order to invest, although the Custodian will endeavour to minimise such risks through the appointment of correspondents that are international, reputable and creditworthy financial institutions. In addition, such markets have different settlement and clearance procedures. In certain markets there have been times when settlements have been unable to keep pace with the volume of securities transactions, making it difficult to conduct such transactions. The inability of the Sub-Fund to make intended securities purchases due to settlement problems could cause the Sub-Fund to miss attractive investment opportunities. Inability to dispose of a portfolio security caused by settlement problems could result either in losses to the Sub-Fund due to subsequent declines in value of the portfolio security or, if the Sub-Fund has entered into a contract to sell the security, could result in potential liability to the purchaser.

The risk also exists that an emergency situation may arise in one or more developing markets as a result of which trading of securities may cease or may be substantially curtailed and prices for the Sub-Fund's securities in such markets may not be readily available.

Investors should note that changes in the political climate in Emerging Markets may result in significant shifts in the attitude to the taxation of foreign investors. Such changes may result in changes to legislation, the interpretation of legislation, or the granting of foreign investors the benefit of tax exemptions or international tax treaties. The effect of such changes can be retrospective and can (if they occur) have an adverse impact on the investment return of shareholders in the Sub-Fund so affected.

▪ Chinese Equity

A part of the portfolio will be invested in Chinese equity. Investors should be aware of a number of special risk factors attendant on investment in China.

1. The Chinese currency, the Renminbi, is not a freely convertible currency. The State Council's securities regulation body - the China Securities Regulation Commission (CSRC) also supervises the two official stock exchanges in China (the Shanghai Stock Exchange and the Shenzhen Securities Exchange) on which shares of Chinese issuers are listed in two categories, of which the "B" shares are quoted and traded in foreign currencies (currently Hong Kong Dollars and US dollars) and are available to foreign investors.
2. The China "B" share market is relatively illiquid so that the choice of investments will be limited by comparison with that of major international stock exchanges.
3. The Sub-Fund will invest directly in securities quoted on the regulated Stock Exchanges in China and also in securities of companies listed in other Stock Exchanges which have substantial business or investment links in China. For this purpose, Chinese Equity will generally only invest in companies listed outside China where those companies are owned or controlled by Chinese interests, or where at least 40% of the earnings, production facilities, turnover, assets or investments of such companies are based in or derived from China.

The Sub-Fund may invest in equity markets in China other than the Shanghai and Shenzhen exchanges once such markets have been established and approved by the authorities in China.

▪ Sector Risk

The portfolio may have a high concentration in the natural resources sector. Because these investments are limited to a relatively narrow segment of the economy, the Sub-Fund's investments are not as diversified as most mutual funds. This means that the Sub-Fund tends to be more volatile than other mutual funds and its portfolio value can increase or decrease more rapidly. The performance of the Sub-Fund may differ in direction and degree from that of the overall stock market.

Further details are provided in the Full Prospectus.
