	(i) Use of proceeds:	Not applicable
	(ii) Estimated net proceeds:	Not applicable
	(iii) Estimated total expenses:	Not applicable
6.	PERFORMANCE OF FORMULA, EXPLANATION OF EFFECT ON VALUE OF INVESTMENT AND ASSOCIATED RISKS
	The value of Leveraged Products is significantly influenced by the price of the underlying. Therefore holders of the Leveraged Products have to consider the fact that with Leveraged Products they obtain a leveraged (long or short) exposure to the underlying and hence in a leveraged way bear the price risk of the underlying (downwards in the case of short Leveraged Products, upwards in the case of long Leveraged Products). As a result, prospective holders of Leveraged Products should evaluate the past, present and expected performance of the underlying while taking into account the expected future performance of the capital markets prior to the purchase of the Leveraged Products over their intended investment horizon. The factor leveraging the underlying operates both in positive and in negative price changes of the underlying: in the case of short Leveraged Products, holders are exposed to any increase in the price of the underlying while, in the case of long Leveraged Products, holders are exposed to any decrease in the price of the underlying. This, in both cases, would result in an amplified adverse performance of the Leveraged Products. Leveraged Products may include a regular restrrike mechanism which may have adverse impacts on the performance of the Leveraged Products. Over time, this effect, known as “beta slippage” may result in a decline in the value of a Leveraged Product while the underlying would have moved favourably i.e. it is possible that, when observed over several days, the value of a long Leveraged Product decreases over

	time despite the price or level of the underlying increasing over the same period of time (conversely it is possible that, when observed over several days, the value of a short Leveraged Product decreases over time despite the price or level of the underlying decreases over the same period of time). In addition to the regular restrike mechanism described above, Leveraged Products may include an intraday restrike mechanism. Although this mechanism aims to reduce the risk of the value of a Leveraged Product being equal to zero, there is no guarantee that this will be the case. In addition, certain intraday restrike mechanisms, especially the Min/Max restrike mechanism may result in a holder of a Leveraged Products incurring additional losses (including the total loss of their investment) and in preventing their Leveraged Products from recovering their value in case of subsequent market recovery (for long Leveraged Products) or decrease (for short Leveraged Products). Holders of Leveraged Products must be aware that the leverage mechanism embedded in Leveraged Products includes a certain number of fee and cost factors (for example and without limitation: financing of the leverage, borrowing cost for short Leveraged Products, costs to replicated and hedge the risk of the strategy underlying a Leveraged Product becoming negative) that are deducted on a regular basis from the value of the Leveraged Product. Therefore holders of Leveraged Products may face a loss despite the relevant underlying having posted a positive performance (for long Leveraged Products) or a negative performance (for short Leveraged Products). Holders of the Leveraged Products should also be aware that the Issuer may, at its discretion, perform reverse splits. In such case the number of Leveraged Products will be aggregated and these Leveraged Products will be converted into a smaller number of Leveraged Products calculated by dividing the number of pre-conversion Leveraged Products in by a predefined conversion factor. Although reverse splits are intended to provide additional liquidity to holders and to prevent the forced liquidation (and therefore complete exit) of a Leveraged Product, holders of Leveraged Products should be aware that (i) if such conversion entitles the holder to a fraction of a Leveraged Products such fraction will be settled in cash and that (ii) if a Leveraged Product benefits from an Absolute Floor, such Absolute Floor per Leveraged Product shall remain unaffected by the reverse split. As a result, any protection offered by an Absolute Floor will be greatly reduced by a reverse split.

More specifically, the Group could be affected by:

- renewed financial tensions in the Eurozone resulting from a return of doubts about the integrity of the region, for example in the run-up to elections in a context of rising eurosceptic political forces;
- a sudden and marked rise in interest rates and volatility in the markets (bonds, equities and commodities), which could be triggered by poor communication from central banks, in particular the US Federal Reserve (Fed) or the European Central Bank (ECB), when changing monetary policy stance;
- a sharp slowdown in economic activity in China, triggering capital flight from the country, depreciation pressure on the Chinese currency and, by contagion, on other emerging country currencies, as well as a fall in commodity prices;
- socio-political tensions in some countries dependent on oil and gas revenues and still needing to adapt to the situation of low prices for these commodities;
- worsening geopolitical tensions in the Middle East, South China Sea, North Korea or Ukraine. In the latter case, this could lead to the extension and stepping up of sanctions between Western countries and Russia, even more depressed economic activity in Russia, and a further sharp depreciation in the Rouble;
- fears regarding a possible tightening of international trade barriers, in particular in large developed economies (United States or, in the context of Brexit, United Kingdom for example).

D.6	Key information on the key risks that are specific to the securities and risk warning to the effect that investors may lose the value of their entire investment or part of it	In the case of Open-ended Leveraged Products, the duration of the Leveraged Products is dependent on an optional early expiration, elected by the Issuer or the Leveraged Product Holder, as the case may be. The possibility of an optional early expiration by the Issuer, on a predetermined date or set of dates, is likely to have a negative effect on the market value of the Leveraged Products. Prospective investors should consider the reinvestment risk in light of other investments available at the time of the expiration. If there is no secondary market, there might be no possibility for the investors to sell the Leveraged Products. Furthermore, this optional early expiration at the sole discretion of the Issuer or the Leveraged Product Holder, as the case may be could prevent the Leveraged Product Holders from benefitting from the performance of the underlying instrument(s) over the whole period initially envisaged. The possibility of an optional early expiration by the Issuer, on a predetermined date, is likely to have a negative effect on the market value of the Leveraged Products. Prospective investors should consider the reinvestment risk in light of other investments available at the time of the early expiration. Furthermore, this optional early expiration at the only discretion of the Issuer could prevent the Leveraged Product Holders from benefitting from the performance of the underlying instrument(s) over the whole period initially envisaged. The Leveraged Products may provide for an event-linked early expiration linked to a specific event. Therefore, this may prevent the Leveraged Product Holders from benefitting from the performance of the underlying instrument(s) over the whole period initially envisaged. The terms and conditions of the Leveraged Products may include provisions under which upon the occurrence of certain market disruptions delays in the settlement of the Leveraged Products may be incurred or certain modifications be made. Moreover, in case of occurrence of events affecting the underlying instrument(s), the terms and conditions of the Leveraged Products allow the Issuer to substitute the underlying instrument(s) by new underlying instrument(s), cease the exposure to the underlying asset(s) and apply a reference rate to the proceeds so obtained until the expiration date of the Leveraged Products, postpone the expiration date of the Leveraged Products, cancel the Leveraged Products on the basis of the market value

of these Leveraged Products, or deduct from any due amount the increased cost of hedging, and in each case without the consent of the Leveraged Product Holders.

Payments (whether at expiration or otherwise) on the Leveraged Products are calculated by reference to certain underlying(s), the return of the Leveraged Products is based on changes in the value of the underlying(s), which may fluctuate. Prospective investors should be aware that these Leveraged Products may be volatile and that they may receive no return and may lose all or a substantial portion of their investment.

The Guarantees constitute a general and unsecured contractual obligation of the Guarantor and no other person, any payments on the Leveraged Products are also dependent on the creditworthiness of the Guarantor.

Prospective investors in Leveraged Products benefiting from the Guarantees should note that in case of payment default of an Issuer the entitlement of the Leveraged Product Holder will be limited to the sums obtained by making a claim under the Guarantees in accordance with its terms and they shall have no right to institute any proceeding, judicial or otherwise, or otherwise assert a claim against the.

The Guarantees are payment guarantees only and not guarantees of the performance by the relevant Issuer or any of its other obligations under the Leveraged Products benefiting from the Guarantees.

Société Générale will act as issuer under Programme, as the Guarantor of the Leveraged Products issued by the Issuer and also as provider of hedging instruments to the Issuer. As a result, investors will be exposed not only to the credit risk of the Guarantor but also operational risks arising from the lack of independence of the Guarantor, in assuming its duties and obligations as the Guarantor and provider of the hedging instruments.

The potential conflicts of interests and operational risks arising from such lack of independence are in part intended to be mitigated by the fact that different divisions within the Guarantor will be responsible for implementing the Guarantees and providing the hedging instruments and that each division is run as a separate operational unit, segregated by Chinese walls (information barriers) and run by different management teams.

The Issuer and the Guarantor and any of their subsidiaries and/or their affiliates, in connection with their other business activities, may possess or acquire material information about the underlying assets. Such activities and information may cause consequences adverse to Leveraged Product Holders.

The Issuer and the Guarantor and any of their subsidiaries and/or their affiliates may act in other capacities with regard to the Leveraged Products, such as market maker, calculation agent or agent. Therefore, a potential conflict of interests may arise.

In connection with the offering of the Leveraged Products, the Issuer and the Guarantor and/or their affiliates may enter into one or more hedging transaction(s) with respect to a reference asset(s) or related derivatives, which may affect the market price, liquidity or value of the Leveraged Products.

During the lifetime of the Leveraged Products, the market value of these Leveraged Products may be lower than the invested capital. Furthermore, an insolvency of the Issuer and/or the Guarantor may cause a total loss of the invested capital.

The attention of the investors is drawn to the fact that they could sustain an entire or a partial loss of their investment.
