The information is required by law to help you understand the nature and the risks of investing in this fund. You are advised to read it so you can make an informed decision about whether to invest.

Fidelity Funds - Fidelity Target TM 2055 (Euro) Fund

a sub-fund of Fidelity Funds

A-ACC-Euro (ISIN: LU2218679988)

This fund is managed by FIL Investment Management (Luxembourg) S.A.

Objectives and Investment Policy

- The fund aims to provide long-term capital growth for investors planning to withdraw substantial portions of their investment in the year 2055
- The fund typically invests in a wide range of markets throughout the world, providing exposure to shares of companies, bonds, interest rate bearing securities, money market securities and commodities.
- The fund can invest in bonds issued by governments, companies and other bodies.
- The fund is managed in accordance with an asset allocation that will become increasingly conservative as the target year is approached.
- The fund has the freedom to invest outside its principal geographies, market sectors, industries or asset classes.
- As this fund may invest globally, it may invest in countries considered to be emerging markets.
- The fund may invest in assets directly or achieve exposure indirectly through other eligible means including derivatives. The fund can use derivatives with the aim of risk or cost reduction or to generate additional capital or income, including for investment purposes, in line with the fund's risk profile.
- Investments may be made in currencies other than the fund's reference currency. Exposure to currencies may be hedged, for example with currency forward contracts. The fund's reference currency is the currency used for reporting and may be different from the currency of denomination of the investments.
- The fund is actively managed and uses a blend of asset classes, each represented by a market index ("Market Index"), for the purposes of internally setting the portfolio's asset allocation. There are no restrictions on the extent to which the fund's portfolio and performance may deviate from the Market Indices. For performance comparison, the Market Indices are represented as a blended Index, the weightings of which will frequently change as the asset allocation changes.
- Income earned by the fund is accumulated in the share price.
- The fund is actively managed and references a blend of market indices (each a "Market Index") in order to set internal guidelines around the weightings allocated to different asset classes. As the fund's exposure to different asset classes evolves over time in line with the fund's investment policy, the Market Indices referenced and their weightings will also change accordingly. While the fund may take direct or indirect exposure to the components of the Market Indices, there are no restrictions on the extent to which the fund's portfolio and performance may deviate from the Market Indices. The Market Indices are represented by a blended index for the purposes of performance comparison. As at 31 January 2021, the Market Indices consist of MSCI Europe (N); MSCI Emerging Markets (N); MSCI World ex Europe (N). Further information on the current list of Market Indices as well as past weightings is available on request.
- Shares can usually be bought and sold each business day of the fund.
- This fund may not be appropriate for investors who plan to withdraw their money before the target date. Whilst the fund should be regarded as a long-term investment, it will become shorter as the target date approaches.

Risk and Reward Profile

- Historical data may not be a reliable indication for the future.
- The risk category shown is not guaranteed and may change over time.
- The lowest category does not mean a "risk free" investment.
- The risk and reward profile is classified by the level of historical fluctuation of the Net Asset Values of the share class, and within this classification, categories 1-2 indicate a low level of historical fluctuations, 3-5 a medium level and 6-7 a high level.
- The value of your investment may fall as well as rise and you may get back less than you originally invested.
- The fund may invest in instruments denominated in currencies other than the fund base currency. Changes in currency exchange rates can therefore affect the value of your investment.
- Currency hedging may be used which aims to reduce the effect of such changes. However, the effects may not be completely eliminated to the degree expected.
- The use of derivatives may result in "leverage" by which we mean a level of exposure which could expose the fund to the potential of greater gains or losses than would otherwise be the case.
- There is a risk that the issuers of bonds may not be able to repay the money they have borrowed or make interest payments. While we seek to mitigate this, the fund may be exposed to the risk of financial loss if it invests into an instrument issued by an entity that subsequently defaults on its borrowings. Losses may also be realised if an entity that the fund is exposed to ceases to make interest payments over a period of time or indefinitely. Bond prices have an inverse relationship with interest rates such that when interest rates rise, bonds may fall in value. Rising interest rates may cause the value of your investment to fall.
- Liquidity is a measure of how easily an investment can be converted into cash. Under certain market conditions assets may be more difficult to value or sell at a desired price. This could affect the fund's ability to meet redemptions in a timely manner.
- Emerging markets may be more volatile and it could be harder to sell or trade securities. There may be less supervision, regulation and less well-defined procedures than in more developed countries. Emerging markets can be sensitive to political instability, which can result in greater volatility and uncertainty, subjecting the fund to the risk of losses.
