Chairwoman's Letter to Shareholders

November 2023

Dear Shareholder,

I am writing to update you on the activities of BlackRock Strategic Funds (the "Company" or "BSF") over the six months to 30 November 2023. The Company offered shares in 31 funds (each a "Fund" and together the "Funds") as of 30 November 2023.

The past six months have seen continued volatility in global equity markets as uncertainty around how long interest rates will remain at their currently elevated levels has persisted. However, share prices have generally risen over the period as a result of signs that inflation is being brought under control and that interest rates have reached a peak. While the impact of tight monetary policy on global economic activity in the coming months remains uncertain, investors are hopeful that central banks can achieve a 'soft landing' following recent turbulence.

Equity markets face a number of further challenges, however. While oil prices fell back in the first half of 2023, output cuts subsequently planned by major oil producers including Russia and Saudi Arabia drove prices higher. More recently, the outbreak of the war between Israel and Hamas in Palestine in October raised fears of a wider conflict in the Middle East that could have negative consequences for the cost of energy and inflation rates.

While China's post-COVID reopening in late 2022 had raised hopes that its recovery could drive significant global growth, data from the Chinese economy has proved lacklustre throughout 2023 to date. Intensifying concerns about the stability and resilience of China's real-estate and financial sectors have also weighed on investor sentiment and added to pessimism about the growth trajectory of the world economy.

Having proved relatively robust in early 2023, economic data from the US and Europe showed some signs of deterioration towards the end of the review period as high borrowing costs and rising prices weighed on business activity and consumer spending. In its World Economic Outlook Update, published in October 2023, the International Monetary Fund ("IMF") forecasted an expansion of the world economy of 3.0% in 2023 and 2.9% in 2024 compared with 3.5% in 2022 and 6.1% in 2021. The IMF added that inflation rates were expected to decline over the next two years but only gradually, returning to target levels no sooner than 2025.

In the US, the inflation rate had fallen from its peak in June 2022 to 3.2% in October 2023 – still above the Federal Reserve's 2% target. In the Eurozone, the annual pace of price rises had eased back to 2.4% by November 2023. Meanwhile, the UK inflation rate stood at 4.6% in October 2023.

Markets started the period under review on a positive note after fears for the stability of the global financial system receded and lawmakers in the US reached an eleventh-hour agreement to raise the American government's debt ceiling. The prospect of reduction in interest rates and optimism around the potentially transformative impact of artificial intelligence provided a boost for global technology stocks, in particular manufacturers of computer chips.

There was continued volatility in fixed-income assets during the period. The yield curve on US Treasuries remained inverted throughout, which meant that short-term interest rates were higher than long-term interest rates. This is a relatively unusual phenomenon, and when it has occurred in the past, it has often been associated with an increased risk of recession. However, yields fell across the board in November 2023 as hopes rose that central banks would start to reduce interest rates in the early months of 2024.

The performance of the Funds is covered in more detail in the Investment Advisers' Report, which also sets out some views regarding the investment outlook. Overall, the Company's assets under management ("AUM") fell 11.94% from USD 17,484.68 million to USD 15,397.31 million.

Outflows from two funds had a significant impact on the overall decline in AUM recorded during the period. These were the BlackRock Global Event Driven Fund, which declined in value by 22.82% to end at USD 2,654.68 million, and the BlackRock Sustainable Fixed Income Strategies Fund, which decreased by 20.49% to end the period at EUR 2,289.33 million.

The strongest percentage growth in terms of AUM was seen in the BlackRock Asia Pacific Absolute Return Fund, which rose by 76.52% to USD 133.47 million, and in the BlackRock Systematic Asia Pacific Equity Absolute Return Fund, which rose 63.73% to USD 71.29 million. The BlackRock Systematic ESG World Equity Fund grew by 49.48% to USD 615.43 million.

The weak spots included the BlackRock Systematic Global Equity Absolute Return Fund which lost 39.54% of its AUM, falling to USD 22.13 million. Meanwhile, the BlackRock European Unconstrained Equity Fund's value decreased by 38.40% to EUR 35.56 million and the BlackRock Global Absolute Return Bond Fund declined by 34.40% to end the period at EUR 62.63 million.

Chairwoman's Letter to Shareholders

Regulatory change continued throughout Europe and a number of these changes could have implications for investors. Key changes include:

- ▶ As of 1 January 2023, the extended PRIIPs regulation has brought significant changes for the fund industry. UCITS KIIDs have been replaced with the stricter PRIIPs KIDs requirements. Changes include the way risks, performance scenarios, and transaction costs are calculated.
- ▶ The European Union's Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation ("SFDR") came into effect in March 2021. It imposes new transparency and reporting obligations on investment management firms, both at a firm-wide level and at a product level. Certain parts of the framework were finalised in 2022 and adopted at the start of 2023. At the same time, the EU is working on an EU-wide classification system or 'framework'. This taxonomy is designed to provide businesses and investors with a common language to identify to what degree economic activities can be considered environmentally sustainable. There are also moves to improve reporting, with the Corporate Sustainability Reporting Directive ("CSRD") due to be implemented from 2024 onwards. Under the CSRD regulations, companies will be obliged to report on sustainability across their supply chains ("Scope 3") and will also be required to incorporate double materiality into their reporting. Double materiality is the requirement to report not just on how sustainability-related issues affect the company, but how the company's activities affect the likes of the environment, climate change and social issues. The Luxembourg government recently took further steps to encourage investment in environmentally sustainable funds, reducing the 'taxe d'abonnement' (subscription tax) for funds that meet certain environmental criteria.
- ▶ The UK Financial Conduct Authority's new Consumer Duty regulation came into effect from 31 July 2023, which impacts the content of investment funds' communications – including both funds domiciled in the UK or marketed in the UK – to retail investors. The rules enforce a duty of care on financial services firms for their retail customers, committing them to deliver good outcomes for retail customers – and provide evidence of how they are doing so. The 'higher and clearer' standards of consumer protection now apply to new and existing products open to sale to UK retail investors.

Yours sincerely,

Denise Voss
Chairwoman

Investment Advisers' Report Performance Overview

1 June 2023 to 30 November 2023

Market Review

Equities recovered in June 2023 after a period of turbulence in global markets. This was sparked in March by the collapse of Silicon Valley Bank in the US, and by further fears relating to the stability of the global financial system in the weeks that followed. At the start of June, investors were relieved to hear that Democrat president Joe Biden had managed to reach an agreement with his Republican counterparts in the US House of Representatives over an increase in the American government's borrowing limit.

Markets' main focus during the six months was on the extent to which central banks would tighten monetary policy in their efforts to bring inflation under control. Although the rate of price increases continued to fall in the US and Europe, strength in labour markets and areas such as consumer spending raised the possibility that rates would need to remain elevated for longer than previously expected. However, it became clear in autumn 2023 that rates in most major economies had reached a peak.

While the US economy remained relatively resilient despite the regular tightening of monetary policy, China's post-pandemic recovery appeared to be particularly uneven. Investors had hoped that the end of the country's "zero-COVID" policy in late 2022 could drive a rapid increase in growth. However, sentiment among Chinese investors and businesses was dominated by concerns about stability in the real estate and banking sectors in the face of rising global borrowing costs. Repeated attempts by the Beijing government to provide fiscal stimulus were seemingly ineffective.

Concerns about industrial activity in China weighed on commodity and energy prices for much of the period. However, plans announced by Saudi Arabia and Russia to limit crude production led to sharp rises in oil prices in September, driving energy-company stocks higher. News of a fresh conflict between Israel and Hamas in Palestine added to upward pressure on oil prices in October as investors feared an escalation of the crisis across the Middle East.

Throughout the six months, technology companies benefited from optimism around the potential for artificial intelligence to drive growth in the sector, with share-price increases especially strong among producers of microchips. Falling interest-rate expectations later in the period added to these gains. Elsewhere, company earnings statements for the third quarter of 2023 started to reflect the negative impact of high inflation and rising interest rates to a greater degree.

The uncertain period for global bond markets continued but the prospect of interest-rate cuts in 2024 eventually helped yields to fall back and prices to rise (bond yields move inversely to prices). The yield on 10-year US Treasuries stood at 4.3% at the end of November 2023, having hit a post-financial crisis high of almost 5% during the previous month.

The BlackRock Sustainable Euro Short Duration Bond Fund rose 1.57% EUR and matched its benchmark, the Bloomberg MSCI Euro Aggregate 1-3 years Sustainable SRI Index. The BlackRock Emerging Markets Short Duration Bond Fund added 8.05% USD and outperformed its benchmark, the JP Morgan EMBI Global Diversified 1-3 year Index, which returned 5.72%.

Mixed Fund Performance

The BlackRock Dynamic Diversified Growth Fund rose 0.18% EUR over the six-month period, underperforming its benchmark, the Euro Overnight Index Average, which rose 1.87%. The BlackRock Managed Index Portfolio (Conservative) was up 1.57% EUR. The Defensive, Moderate and Growth portfolios rose 0.55%, 2.21% and 3.67% respectively in Euro terms. None of the managed portfolios has a benchmark.

Outlook

Equity markets have managed to stage a recovery from 2022's losses so far this year as inflation has continued to fall and central banks have largely indicated that their programmes of interest-rate rises are at an end. While economic data has been particularly mixed in recent months, investors remain hopeful of a 'soft landing' following the period of monetary policy tightening and wider economic turbulence.

However, the ramifications of higher interest rates have started to be felt by consumers, businesses and the global financial sector, where stability has come under threat. Meanwhile, if inflation remains persistently above target – an increasing possibility given recent oil-price volatility, especially in light of the ongoing conflict in the Middle East – interest rates may need to be maintained at their current high levels well into 2024. This could in turn increase the risk of a slowdown in growth. In terms of global economic performance over the near term, much will depend on China's ability to stimulate business activity following the relaxation of its COVID-19-era restrictions while also minimising the fall-out from ongoing difficulties in the property and financial sectors.

Despite the high levels of volatility seen in much of 2022 and 2023, the corporate sector has remained reasonably resilient to date, although rises in share prices have left valuations looking less attractive than at the start of 2023. Undoubtedly, there are companies that can weather the current storm and do well in spite of any looming economic weakness. While there will undoubtedly be challenges in the months ahead, so too will opportunities continue to emerge.
