Tracking Error

Each of the Funds listed in the table employs a “passive” investment strategy designed to replicate the performance of its benchmark index. Some of the Funds attempt to fully replicate the index by holding all of the component securities, in approximately the same proportion as its weighting in the index. Other Funds instead use an index sampling process, holding a representative sample of securities which approximates the full index in terms of key risk factors and other characteristics.

Tracking error measures the volatility of the return difference between the Fund and the index. It is calculated as the standard deviation of the tracking difference between the Fund and the index (gross of fees for the trailing 36-month period, or since the Fund’s inception if it does not have 36 months of performance history). Realised tracking error may vary from the anticipated tracking error, depending on a range of circumstances. These include transaction costs, securities lending income and withholding tax differences. The anticipated tracking error and realised tracking error are not expected to vary significantly under normal circumstances.

There are two types of tracking error displayed for the Funds, swung and unswung. The Funds may use swing pricing, which adjusts the net asset value (NAV) of a Fund on a daily basis to ensure that no transaction costs caused by investing or redeeming clients are borne by the existing shareholders in a Fund. As a result, the performance difference relative to the benchmark and therefore the tracking error will be higher on a swung basis. Unswung tracking error shows the underlying performance of a fund without swing pricing applied. Additional details regarding the swing pricing policy employed by the funds can be found in Note 3 of the Notes to the Financial Statements.

The table below excludes adjustments for swing pricing.

Fund	Unswung Tracking Error		Explanation for Divergence
	Anticipated Tracking Error (%)	Realised Tracking Error (%)
Equity
Vanguard Emerging Markets Stock Index <sup>1</sup>	0.500	0.158	The fund has tracked its benchmark within acceptable tolerances of its anticipated tracking error.
Vanguard ESG Developed World All Cap Equity Index <sup>2,3</sup>	0.200	0.205	The difference in tracking error is driven by the fact that the fund transitioned from a non-ESG benchmark, the FTSE Developed Index, to an ESG-screened benchmark, the FTSE Developed World All Cap Choice Index, on 13 May 2020.
Vanguard ESG Developed World All Cap Equity Index EUR-Hedged <sup>2,3,4</sup>	0.200	0.122	The fund has tracked its benchmark within acceptable tolerances of its anticipated tracking error.

The fund is being optimised to match the risk and return characteristics of the benchmark, but because of the extreme market volatility experienced in 2020, the tracking error has elevated.

<sup>2</sup> Individual fund financial statements are presented in the base currency of each fund. For the purpose of calculating the consolidated Vanguard Investment Series plc US dollar total, the EUR-based funds, the JPY-based fund and the GBP-based funds have been translated into US dollars at following exchange rates:

	Daily exchange rate as at 31 December 2021	Daily exchange rate as at 31 December 2020	Average rate for the year ended 31 December 2021	Average rate for the year ended 31 December 2020
EUR-based funds	0.8794	0.8173	0.8455	0.8757
JPY-based fund	115.1550	103.2450	109.7695	106.7236
GBP-based funds	0.7383	0.7316	0.7269	0.7788

The resulting translation adjustment represents the difference in exchange rates applied to the net assets at the beginning of the year and an exchange rate differential in consolidating the Company Statement of Operations at the average rate for the year.

This adjustment is solely for the purposes of reporting Company totals in US dollars and has no effect on any individual fund.

The accompanying notes form an integral part of the financial statements.

Vanguard Emerging Markets Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the MSCI Emerging Markets Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of companies in emerging markets.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Market sentiment was buoyant in the first part of 2021. COVID-19 vaccines were rolled out, which helped lift the outlook for the global economy, especially the sectors hardest-hit by restrictions and lockdowns. Governments and central banks in developed markets continued to provide extensive support through central bank asset purchases, fiscal stimulus packages and relief to workers through enhanced unemployment benefits and job retention programmes.
- The investment environment grew a little more challenging later in the period, however. COVID-19 variants emerged, pushing up the number of new cases even as vaccination rates increased. Supply disruptions and labour shortages in some sectors drove inflation higher across much of the globe. In response, the United Kingdom raised its benchmark rate, the US Federal Reserve began tapering its bond purchases and pencilled in rate hikes in 2022 and the European Central Bank announced its intention to wind down its pandemic crisis bond purchases.
- Although volatility picked up at times amid concerns about inflation and the outlook for monetary policy, many stock markets continued the rally that began in 2020. The United States and Europe outpaced the Asia-Pacific region and emerging markets.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned -2.54% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2021.
- Information technology, financials and energy contributed most to performance. Consumer discretionary detracted most, followed by communication services and health care.
- Chinese companies, which represented nearly 40% of the index's market value, returned about -22% and detracted most from the index performance. South Korea and Brazil also detracted notably. Stocks in Taiwanese and Indian companies made the strongest contributions.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

- Market sentiment was buoyant in the first part of 2021. The rollout of COVID-19 vaccines helped lift the outlook for the global economy, especially the sectors hardest-hit by restrictions and lockdowns. Governments and central banks in developed markets continued to provide extensive support through central bank asset purchases, fiscal stimulus packages and relief to workers through enhanced unemployment benefits and job retention programmes.
- The investment environment grew a little more challenging later in the period, however. COVID-19 variants emerged, pushing up the number of new cases even as vaccination rates increased. Supply disruptions and labour shortages in some sectors drove inflation higher across much of the globe. In response, the Bank of England raised its benchmark rate and the US Federal Reserve began tapering its bond purchases and pencilled in rate hikes in 2022. The European Central Bank announced that it would wind down pandemic crisis bond purchases.
- Although volatility picked up at times amid concerns about inflation and the outlook for monetary policy, many stock markets continued the rally that began in 2020. The United States and Europe outpaced the Asia-Pacific region and emerging markets.
- The fund's benchmark index returned 20.78% for the 12 months. The index is constructed from the FTSE Developed All Cap Index, which is screened for certain environmental, social and corporate governance criteria by the sponsor of the index, which is independent of Vanguard.
- Nine of the index's 10 sectors recorded positive results, with technology and financials contributing the most. Energy was the only sector to detract from performance.
- US stocks, which accounted for about two-thirds of the index, contributed the most to performance. Japanese and South Korean stocks detracted.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard ESG Emerging Markets All Cap Equity Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the FTSE Emerging All Cap Choice Index.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Market sentiment was buoyant in the first part of 2021. COVID-19 vaccines were rolled out, which helped lift the outlook for the global economy, especially the sectors hardest-hit by restrictions and lockdowns. Governments and central banks in developed markets continued to provide extensive support through central bank asset purchases, fiscal stimulus packages and relief to workers through enhanced unemployment benefits and job retention programmes.
- The investment environment grew a little more challenging later in the period, however. COVID-19 variants emerged, pushing up the number of new cases even as vaccination rates increased. Supply disruptions and labour shortages in some sectors drove inflation higher across much of the globe. In response, the United Kingdom raised its benchmark rate, the US Federal Reserve began tapering its bond purchases and pencilled in rate hikes in 2022 and the European Central Bank announced its intention to wind down its pandemic crisis bond purchases.
- Although volatility picked up at times amid concerns about inflation and the outlook for monetary policy, many stock markets continued the rally that began in 2020. The United States and Europe outpaced the Asia-Pacific region and emerging markets.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned -1.72% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2021. The index is constructed from the FTSE Emerging All Cap Index, which is screened for certain environmental, social and corporate governance criteria by the sponsor of the index, which is independent of Vanguard.
- Of the 11 industry sectors in the index, consumer discretionary detracted the most from performance, followed by real estate and health care. Financials, technology and basic materials made the strongest positive contributions.
- Among markets, Chinese stocks, which represented more than 40% of the index's market value, returned about -22% and detracted most from performance. Taiwan and India, which combined account for nearly one-third of the market value of the index, contributed most to the index's return.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard European Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI Europe Index, which is made up of common stocks of companies located in Europe.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Market sentiment was buoyant in the first part of 2021. COVID-19 vaccines were rolled out, which helped lift the outlook for the global economy, especially the sectors hardest-hit by restrictions and lockdowns. Governments and central banks in developed markets continued to provide extensive support through central bank asset purchases, fiscal stimulus packages and relief to workers through enhanced unemployment benefits and job retention programmes.
- The investment environment grew a little more challenging later in the period, however. COVID-19 variants emerged, pushing up the number of new cases even as vaccination rates increased. Supply disruptions and labour shortages in some sectors drove inflation higher across much of the globe. In response, the United Kingdom raised its benchmark rate, the US Federal Reserve began tapering its bond purchases and pencilled in rate hikes in 2022 and the European Central Bank announced its intention to wind down its pandemic crisis bond purchases.
- Although volatility picked up at times amid concerns about inflation and the outlook for monetary policy, many stock markets continued the rally that began in 2020. The United States and Europe outpaced the Asia-Pacific region and emerging markets.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark returned 16.30%. All 11 industry sectors produced positive returns. Financials, industrials and health care helped performance the most. Real estate and utilities brought up the rear.
- The United Kingdom, France and Switzerland, the three largest constituents in the index, contributed the most to performance. Other notable contributors included the Netherlands, Sweden and Germany.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Performance is based on NAV with income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Eurozone Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI EMU Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks designed to capture 85% of the underlying euro zone countries' market capitalisation.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Market sentiment was buoyant in the first part of 2021. COVID-19 vaccines were rolled out, which helped lift the outlook for the global economy, especially the sectors hardest-hit by restrictions and lockdowns. Governments and central banks in developed markets continued to provide extensive support through central bank asset purchases, fiscal stimulus packages and relief to workers through enhanced unemployment benefits and job retention programmes.
- The investment environment grew a little more challenging later in the period, however. COVID-19 variants emerged, pushing up the number of new cases even as vaccination rates increased. Supply disruptions and labour shortages in some sectors drove inflation higher across much of the globe. In response, the United Kingdom raised its benchmark rate, the US Federal Reserve began tapering its bond purchases and pencilled in rate hikes in 2022 and the European Central Bank announced its intention to wind down its pandemic crisis bond purchases.
- Although volatility picked up at times amid concerns about inflation and the outlook for monetary policy, many stock markets continued the rally that began in 2020. The United States and Europe outpaced the Asia-Pacific region and emerging markets.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark returned 22.16%. Ten of the benchmark's 11 industry sectors produced positive returns. Information technology and financials made the strongest contributions to performance, followed by industrials and consumer discretionary. Real estate was the only detractor.
- All 11 markets in the index contributed positively to performance, led by France, the Netherlands and Germany.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

Performance is based on NAV with income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Global Small-Cap Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI World Small Cap Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of small-cap companies in developed countries.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Market sentiment was buoyant in the first part of 2021. The rollout of COVID-19 vaccines helped lift the outlook for the global economy, especially the sectors hardest-hit by restrictions and lockdowns. Governments and central banks in developed markets continued to provide extensive support through central bank asset purchases, fiscal stimulus packages and relief to workers through enhanced unemployment benefits and job retention programmes.
- The investment environment grew a little more challenging later in the period, however. COVID-19 variants emerged, pushing up the number of new cases even as vaccination rates increased. Supply disruptions and labour shortages in some sectors drove inflation higher across much of the globe. In response, the Bank of England raised its benchmark rate and the US Federal Reserve began tapering its bond purchases and pencilled in rate hikes in 2022. The European Central Bank announced that it would wind down pandemic crisis bond purchases.
- Although volatility picked up at times amid concerns about inflation and the outlook for monetary policy, many stock markets continued the rally that began in 2020. The United States and Europe outpaced the Asia-Pacific region and emerging markets.
- In this environment, global equities ended the year strongly higher overall. The fund's benchmark index returned 15.75% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2021.
- Results were positive in 10 of the benchmark's 11 sectors. Industrial and financial stocks contributed most to returns. Health care detracted.
- US stocks, which accounted for more than half the index, had double-digit returns and contributed the most to performance. Japanese stocks, the second-largest weighting in the index at about 10%, were the biggest detractors.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Global Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI World Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks of companies in developed countries.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Market sentiment was buoyant in the first part of 2021. The rollout of COVID-19 vaccines helped lift the outlook for the global economy, especially the sectors hardest-hit by restrictions and lockdowns. Governments and central banks in developed markets continued to provide extensive support through central bank asset purchases, fiscal stimulus packages and relief to workers through enhanced unemployment benefits and job retention programmes.
- The investment environment grew a little more challenging later in the period, however. COVID-19 variants emerged, pushing up the number of new cases even as vaccination rates increased. Supply disruptions and labour shortages in some sectors drove inflation higher across much of the globe. In response, the Bank of England raised its benchmark rate and the US Federal Reserve began tapering its bond purchases and pencilled in rate hikes in 2022. The European Central Bank announced that it would wind down pandemic crisis bond purchases.
- Although volatility picked up at times amid concerns about inflation and the outlook for monetary policy, many stock markets continued the rally that began in 2020. The United States and Europe outpaced the Asia-Pacific region and emerging markets.
- In this environment, global equities ended the year strongly higher overall. The fund's benchmark index returned 21.82% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2021.
- Results were positive in all 11 sectors. Information technology stocks contributed the most to the index return, followed by financials and health care. Utilities, real estate and materials added the least.
- US stocks, which accounted for about two-thirds of the index, had double-digit returns and bolstered performance the most, followed by Canada and the UK.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Japan Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the MSCI Japan Index, which emphasises stocks of companies located in Japan.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Market sentiment was buoyant in the first part of 2021. The rollout of COVID-19 vaccines helped lift the outlook for the global economy, especially the sectors hardest-hit by restrictions and lockdowns. Governments and central banks in developed markets continued to provide extensive support through central bank asset purchases, fiscal stimulus packages and relief to workers through enhanced unemployment benefits and job retention programmes.
- The investment environment grew a little more challenging later in the period, however. COVID-19 variants emerged, pushing up the number of new cases even as vaccination rates increased. Supply disruptions and labour shortages in some sectors drove inflation higher across much of the globe. In response, the Bank of Japan announced that it would wind down pandemic crisis bond purchases, as did the European Central Bank. The Bank of England raised its benchmark rate and the US Federal Reserve began tapering its bond purchases and pencilled in rate hikes in 2022.
- Although volatility picked up at times amid concerns about inflation and the outlook for monetary policy, many stock markets continued the rally that began in 2020. The United States and Europe outpaced the Asia-Pacific region and emerging markets.
- In this environment, Japanese equities ended the year higher overall. The fund's benchmark index returned 9.43% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2021.
- Results were positive in seven of the index's 11 sectors. Information technology, industrials and consumer discretionary contributed most to returns. Communication services and health care detracted most.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Pacific ex-Japan Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI Pacific ex-Japan Index, which is made up of common stocks of companies located in the Pacific region.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Market sentiment was buoyant in the first part of 2021. The rollout of COVID-19 vaccines helped lift the outlook for the global economy, especially the sectors hardest-hit by restrictions and lockdowns. Governments and central banks in developed markets continued to provide extensive support through central bank asset purchases, fiscal stimulus packages and relief to workers through enhanced unemployment benefits and job retention programmes.
- The investment environment grew a little more challenging later in the period, however. COVID-19 variants emerged, pushing up the number of new cases even as vaccination rates increased. Supply disruptions and labour shortages in some sectors drove inflation higher across much of the globe. In response, the Bank of England raised its benchmark rate and the US Federal Reserve began tapering its bond purchases and pencilled in rate hikes in 2022. The European Central Bank announced that it would wind down pandemic crisis bond purchases.
- Although volatility picked up at times amid concerns about inflation and the outlook for monetary policy, many stock markets continued the rally that began in 2020. The United States and Europe outpaced the Asia-Pacific region and emerging markets.
- Pacific markets excluding Japan finished the year higher overall. The fund's benchmark index returned 12.63% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2021, as all sectors in the index produced positive returns.
- Financials bolstered the index's return the most. Real estate, industrials and materials also made strong contributions.
- Australian stocks, which accounted for more than half the index, made the biggest contribution to performance. New Zealand detracted.

Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard SRI European Stock Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund aims to provide long-term growth of capital by seeking to achieve the performance of the FTSE Developed Europe Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks of large and mid-sized companies in developed countries in Europe.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Market sentiment was buoyant in the first part of 2021. COVID-19 vaccines were rolled out, which helped lift the outlook for the global economy, especially the sectors hardest-hit by restrictions and lockdowns. Governments and central banks in developed markets continued to provide extensive support through central bank asset purchases, fiscal stimulus packages and relief to workers through enhanced unemployment benefits and job retention programmes.
- The investment environment grew a little more challenging later in the period, however. COVID-19 variants emerged, pushing up the number of new cases even as vaccination rates increased. Supply disruptions and labour shortages in some sectors drove inflation higher across much of the globe. In response, the European Central Bank announced its intention to wind down its pandemic crisis bond purchases, the United Kingdom raised its benchmark rate and the US Federal Reserve began tapering its bond purchases and pencilled in rate hikes in 2022.
- Although volatility picked up at times amid concerns about inflation and the outlook for monetary policy, many stock markets continued the rally that began in 2020. The United States and Europe outpaced the Asia-Pacific region and emerging markets.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark returned 24.86% as all 11 index sectors produced positive returns.
- Financials and industrials made the strongest contributions to the index's performance, followed by health care and consumer discretionary.
- Among markets, the United Kingdom, France and Switzerland contributed most to performance.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

Performance is based on NAV with income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard U.S. 500 Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the S&P 500 Index, a widely recognised benchmark of US stock market performance that is dominated by the stocks of large US companies.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Market sentiment was buoyant in the first part of 2021. COVID-19 vaccines were rolled out, which helped lift the outlook for the global economy, especially the sectors hardest-hit by restrictions and lockdowns. Governments and central banks in developed markets continued to provide extensive support through central bank asset purchases, fiscal stimulus packages and relief to workers through enhanced unemployment benefits and job retention programmes.
- The investment environment grew a little more challenging later in the period, however. COVID-19 variants emerged, pushing up the number of new cases even as vaccination rates increased. Supply disruptions and labour shortages in some sectors drove inflation higher across much of the globe. In the United States, the annualised rate of inflation climbed from below the Federal Reserve's 2% target at the beginning of 2021 to levels not seen in decades by the end of the year. In response, monetary policy turned less accommodative, with the Fed starting to taper its bond purchases in November and pencilling in several rate hikes in 2022.
- Although volatility picked up at times amid concerns about inflation and the outlook for monetary policy, many stock markets continued the rally that began in 2020. The United States and Europe outpaced the Asia-Pacific region and emerging markets.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 28.16%. All 11 industry sectors recorded gains.
- Information technology stocks contributed most to the benchmark's return. Financials, health care and consumer discretionary also made strong contributions. Utilities and materials brought up the rear.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements. The fund is actively managed and seeks to invest as described in the prospectus. The following performance information shows how the fund's returns compare with those of the Russell 3000 Index, a market index that has investment characteristics similar to those of the fund.

- Market sentiment was buoyant in the first part of 2021. COVID-19 vaccines were rolled out, which helped lift the outlook for the global economy, especially the sectors hardest-hit by restrictions and lockdowns. Governments and central banks in developed markets continued to provide extensive support through central bank asset purchases, fiscal stimulus packages and relief to workers through enhanced unemployment benefits and job retention programmes.
- The investment environment grew a little more challenging later in the period, however. COVID-19 variants emerged, pushing up the number of new cases even as vaccination rates increased. Supply disruptions and labour shortages in some sectors drove inflation higher across much of the globe. In the United States, the annualised rate of inflation climbed from below the Federal Reserve's 2% target at the beginning of 2021 to levels not seen in decades by the end of the year. In response, monetary policy turned less accommodative, with the Fed starting to taper its bond purchases in November and pencilling in several rate hikes in 2022.
- Although volatility picked up at times amid concerns about inflation and the outlook for monetary policy, many stock markets continued the rally that began in 2020. The United States and Europe outpaced the Asia-Pacific region and emerging markets.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark returned 25.17%. All 11 of the index's sectors recorded positive results.
- Stock selection in the health care and information technology sectors detracted most from the fund's relative performance. Financial stocks provided a relative boost, as did consumer staples and utilities.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Vanguard 20+ Year Euro Treasury Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Euro Treasury 20+ Year Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of euro-denominated euro zone treasury securities with maturities of at least 20 years and a minimum credit rating of AA-.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Market sentiment was buoyant in the first part of 2021. COVID-19 vaccines were rolled out, which helped lift the outlook for the global economy, especially the sectors hardest-hit by restrictions and lockdowns. Governments and central banks in developed markets continued to provide extensive support through central bank asset purchases, fiscal stimulus packages and relief to workers through enhanced unemployment benefits and job retention programmes.
- The investment environment grew a little more challenging later in the period, however. COVID-19 variants emerged, pushing up the number of new cases even as vaccination rates increased. Supply disruptions and labour shortages in some sectors drove inflation higher across much of the globe. In response, the United Kingdom raised its benchmark rate, the US Federal Reserve began tapering its bond purchases and pencilled in rate hikes in 2022 and the European Central Bank announced its intention to wind down its pandemic crisis bond purchases.
- Fixed income securities struggled amid concerns about inflation and the outlook for monetary policy, which generally pushed yields higher and prices lower.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned -9.66% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2021.
- By country, Germany, the Netherlands and Finland held up better than Austria, Belgium and France.
- Bonds maturing in more than 30 years significantly underperformed those maturing in 20 to 30 years. From a credit-quality perspective, AAA-rated Treasury bonds held up better than those rate AA.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Emerging Markets Bond Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The Fund seeks to provide total return while generating a moderate level of income by investing primarily in bonds of issuers in emerging-market countries.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements. The fund is actively managed and seeks to invest as described in the prospectus. The following performance information shows how the fund's returns compare with those of the J.P. Morgan EMBI Global Diversified Index, a market index that has investment characteristics similar to those of the fund.

- Market sentiment was buoyant in the first part of 2021. COVID-19 vaccines were rolled out, which helped lift the outlook for the global economy, especially the sectors hardest-hit by restrictions and lockdowns. Governments and central banks in developed markets continued to provide extensive support through central bank asset purchases, fiscal stimulus packages and relief to workers through enhanced unemployment benefits and job retention programmes.
- The investment environment grew a little more challenging later in the period, however. COVID-19 variants emerged, pushing up the number of new cases even as vaccination rates increased. Supply disruptions and labour shortages in some sectors drove inflation higher across much of the globe. In response, the United Kingdom raised its benchmark rate, the US Federal Reserve began tapering its bond purchases and pencilled in rate hikes in 2022 and the European Central Bank announced its intention to wind down its pandemic crisis bond purchases.
- Fixed income securities struggled amid concerns about inflation and the outlook for monetary policy, which generally pushed yields higher and prices lower.
- The fund performed better than its benchmark index, which returned -1.80% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2021.
- Country and security selection, primarily in Ecuador, Ghana and Brazil, drove the outperformance. A modest overweighting of El Salvador and underweight positions in China and the United Arab Emirates dampened results.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Vanguard Euro Government Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Euro Government Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of euro-denominated euro zone treasury and government-related securities with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Market sentiment was buoyant in the first part of 2021. COVID-19 vaccines were rolled out, which helped lift the outlook for the global economy, especially the sectors hardest-hit by restrictions and lockdowns. Governments and central banks in developed markets continued to provide extensive support through central bank asset purchases, fiscal stimulus packages and relief to workers through enhanced unemployment benefits and job retention programmes.
- The investment environment grew a little more challenging later in the period, however. COVID-19 variants emerged, pushing up the number of new cases even as vaccination rates increased. Supply disruptions and labour shortages in some sectors drove inflation higher across much of the globe. In response, the United Kingdom raised its benchmark rate, the US Federal Reserve began tapering its bond purchases and pencilled in rate hikes in 2022 and the European Central Bank announced its intention to wind down its pandemic crisis bond purchases.
- Fixed income securities struggled amid concerns about inflation and the outlook for monetary policy, which generally pushed yields higher and prices lower.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark returned -3.39% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2021.
- Among the larger constituents in the index, Germany, Italy and Spain held up better than the index as a whole while Austria, Belgium and France were among the laggards.
- By maturity, shorter-dated bonds fared best. From a credit-quality perspective, results were mixed.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

Performance is based on NAV with income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Euro Investment Grade Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg EUR Non-Government Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index of euro-denominated, investment-grade fixed income securities, excluding euro zone treasury and government-related securities, with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Market sentiment was buoyant in the first part of 2021. COVID-19 vaccines were rolled out, which helped lift the outlook for the global economy, especially the sectors hardest-hit by restrictions and lockdowns. Governments and central banks in developed markets continued to provide extensive support through central bank asset purchases, fiscal stimulus packages and relief to workers through enhanced unemployment benefits and job retention programmes.
- The investment environment grew a little more challenging later in the period, however. COVID-19 variants emerged, pushing up the number of new cases even as vaccination rates increased. Supply disruptions and labour shortages in some sectors drove inflation higher across much of the globe. In response, the United Kingdom raised its benchmark rate, the US Federal Reserve began tapering its bond purchases and pencilled in rate hikes in 2022 and the European Central Bank announced its intention to wind down its pandemic crisis bond purchases.
- Fixed income securities struggled amid concerns about inflation and the outlook for monetary policy, which generally pushed yields higher and prices lower.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned -1.75% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2021.
- Corporate bonds, which accounted for more than half of the index, outperformed the index as a whole. Within corporates, bonds issued by financial institutions held up better than those issued by industrial companies and utilities. Noncorporate bonds and securitised debt underperformed.
- The United Kingdom, Spain and Italy were among the countries that held up better than the index as a whole, while supnationals were a significant detractor.
- Longer-dated bonds and higher-quality bonds weighed on performance.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

Performance is based on NAV with income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Eurozone Inflation-Linked Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Global Inflation-Linked: Eurozone – Euro CPI Index, a market-weighted index of euro-denominated inflation-linked government securities within the euro zone, designed to serve as a hedge against inflation in the euro zone region, with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Market sentiment was buoyant in the first part of 2021. COVID-19 vaccines were rolled out, which helped lift the outlook for the global economy, especially the sectors hardest-hit by restrictions and lockdowns. Governments and central banks in developed markets continued to provide extensive support through central bank asset purchases, fiscal stimulus packages and relief to workers through enhanced unemployment benefits and job retention programmes.
- The investment environment grew a little more challenging later in the period, however. COVID-19 variants emerged, pushing up the number of new cases even as vaccination rates increased. Supply disruptions and labour shortages in some sectors drove inflation higher across much of the globe. In response, the United Kingdom raised its benchmark rate, the US Federal Reserve began tapering its bond purchases and pencilled in rate hikes in 2022 and the European Central Bank announced its intention to wind down its pandemic crisis bond purchases.
- Nominal fixed income securities struggled amid concerns about inflation and the outlook for monetary policy, which generally pushed yields higher and prices lower.
- With headline inflation in the euro area rising during the year to a record high of 5% in December on an annualised basis, the fund's benchmark index returned 6.52% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2021.
- By country, Germany was the standout performer, returning more than 8%.
- By maturity, results were mixed. From a credit-quality perspective, bonds rated AAA produced the highest return.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Global Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC, and sub-managed by Vanguard Investments Australia Ltd.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Float Adjusted and Scaled Index, a market-weighted index of global government, government-related agency, corporate and securitised fixed income investments with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Market sentiment was buoyant in the first part of 2021. COVID-19 vaccines were rolled out, which helped lift the outlook for the global economy, especially the sectors hardest-hit by restrictions and lockdowns. Governments and central banks in developed markets continued to provide extensive support through central bank asset purchases, fiscal stimulus packages and relief to workers through enhanced unemployment benefits and job retention programmes.
- The investment environment grew a little more challenging later in the period, however. COVID-19 variants emerged, pushing up the number of new cases even as vaccination rates increased. Supply disruptions and labour shortages in some sectors drove inflation higher across much of the globe. In response, the United Kingdom raised its benchmark rate, the US Federal Reserve began tapering its bond purchases and pencilled in rate hikes in 2022 and the European Central Bank announced its intention to wind down its pandemic crisis bond purchases.
- Fixed income securities struggled amid concerns about inflation and the outlook for monetary policy, which generally pushed yields higher and prices lower.
- In this environment, the fund's hedged benchmark returned -1.77% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2021.
- By country, the United States, which has the largest weighting in the index, held up better than the index as a whole, as did Japan and Germany. Index heavyweights that were among the laggards included the United Kingdom, Australia and South Korea.
- By sector, Treasuries, which make up about half of the fund, lagged the returns of corporate bonds, noncorporate bonds and securitised debt.
- By maturity, shorter-dated bonds held up best. From a credit-quality perspective, results were mixed.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Performance is based on NAV with income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.
