What is this product?

Type

The information contained in this document and the methodologies for calculating risks, costs and potential returns are prescribed by law. The Product is an ordinary share in a closed-ended investment company, whose shares are listed on the London Stock Exchange.

Objectives

The Schiehallion Fund Limited ('the Company') is actively managed and invests in a diversified portfolio of private assets. The Company's investment objective is to generate capital growth for investors through making long- term minority investments in later stage private businesses that the Company considers to have transformational growth potential and to have the potential to become publicly traded. In making its initial investment in a business, the Company will seek to invest in private businesses which it considers have the potential to become admitted to trading on a public stock exchange. You should not expect an income from the Company. The Manager looks for companies believed to offer above average prospects for growth typically over a 5 year horizon. The Company does not seek to track an index. The majority of the portfolio will be held in companies not listed on a public market (measured at the time of purchase). The Company can borrow money to invest with the intention of increasing returns (sometimes known as gearing) but in a falling market losses may be magnified. The Company's assets are held through the Company's Depositary, which is The Bank of New York Mellon (International) Limited. To obtain further and other practical information, including financial statements, and regulatory documentation please see the Other Relevant Information section of this document.

Intended retail investor

The Fund is suitable for professional investors and knowledgeable retail investors (professionally advised or as part of a discretionary portfolio service) seeking a fund that aims to deliver capital growth with a long investment time horizon. The investor should be prepared to bear losses and have good knowledge and significant experience of investing in private equities. The Fund is aimed at non-retail distribution with access by retail investors subject to distribution restrictions. The Fund is not compatible for retail investors that do not meet certain conditions, investors with an investment horizon of less than 5 years or investors who require ready access to their investment. The Fund does not offer capital protection.

What are the risks and what could I get in return?

Risk Indicator

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets.

The risk indicator assumes you keep the product for a minimum of 5 years. The actual risk can vary significantly if you cash in at an early stage and you may get back less.

We have classified this product as 6 out of 7, which is the second-highest risk class.

You may not be able to sell your product easily and you may have to sell at a price that significantly impacts on how much you get back.

This classification only reflects historic share price volatility of the Company's shares. It excludes other risks inherent in the product and, therefore, does not show the full risk to the investor so even the lowest risk class can lose your money particularly during adverse market conditions.

The concentrated portfolio, exposure to private companies, emerging markets, foreign currencies, difficulty in trading and the ability of the Company to buy back its own shares may increase risk.

This product does not include any protection from future market performance so you could lose some or all of your investment.

Investment performance information

The Company is listed in the UK. The value of its shares and any income from those shares can fall as well as rise and investors may not get back the amount invested. The main factors likely to affect returns for the investors include (in no particular order): (a) investment strategy including portfolio concentration (b) nature of the underlying assets as the Company may also invest in companies not listed on a public market (c) broader economic and market conditions (d) use of gearing and (e) level and volatility of the discount/premium, which investors should review when considering the purchase of shares.

The Portfolio Manager will aspire to generate a net return for the Company of approximately three times invested capital over rolling 10 year periods, measured on the basis of NAV total return of the portfolio.

What could affect my return positively?

The Company aims to produce long term capital growth by investing in an actively managed concentrated global equity portfolio of private companies. The Company invests with a long-term perspective and has a strong preference for growth. The Company looks for significant upside in each stock it invests in, including those companies not listed on a public market. The Company's ability to invest in private companies provides investors with the opportunity to benefit from a broader range of growth businesses which would be much harder to access directly. Investment decisions are driven by rigorous, fundamental, bottom-up analysis. The Company believes that these investment decisions will ultimately lead to returns for long-term growth investors. The Company has the ability to use gearing to increase its investment exposure. Such leverage can present opportunities for increasing total returns.

What could affect my return negatively?

Risks of a negative return may be increased as the private company investments may be harder to sell. The Company invests in emerging markets where difficulties in dealing, settlement and custody could arise. The Company holds fewer investments than a typical investment company and the effect of this could lead to large movements in the share price. Gearing can increase losses. The Company is not currently geared but if it were and income and capital appreciation on investments acquired with borrowed funds were less than the costs of the leverage, the Company's net asset value would decrease. Gearing increases the investment exposure if the market moves adversely the loss to capital would be greater than if not leveraged.

There is no right of redemption or encashment attached to the shares and if the Company is wound up, following a default or otherwise, shareholders will be paid any surplus assets after meeting the Company's liabilities in proportion to their shareholdings. There is no fixed maturity date. Market conditions can change rapidly, for example through developments such as military conflict, changes in government policy, or for any other global factors like natural disasters or pandemics. This may lead to securities being difficult to trade and a widening of any discount particularly when there are severely adverse market conditions.

How long should I hold it and can I take money out early?

Recommended holding period: 5 years

The recommended holding period of 5 years has been selected. Equity investments should be seen as long-term investments however there is no minimum (or maximum) holding period for the shares. The shares can be sold when the markets on which they trade are open, in this instance the London Stock Exchange. At any time the value of your investment is based on the market value of the shares (the share price) multiplied by the number of shares you own. The actual risk can vary significantly if you cash in at an early stage and you may get back less. There are no exit fees charged but the person selling you the product may do so.
